Welcome to Roxbury's Auction no.109

FOREWORD

Welcome to Roxbury's Auction No. 109 and our final for the year 2021; a year that has been testing for everyone around the world. I would like to extend my thanks and appreciation to our team for their dedication and application to improving and growing the business through this time. With borders remaining closed and many restrictions still in place, this sale will be ONLINE only, as we all hope to return to the in-room format in the new year.

Since the March sale the team have focused on the consolidation of the Imperial Auctions brand into Roxbury's. This will see the inclusion of a specific PCGS decimal session in each major sale and from early 2022, the inclusion of smaller PCGS auctions between the major sales. We have seen enormous growth in PCGS graded decimals in recent years and this will be a first for any major Australian numismatic auction house.

We have several interesting consignments which have together, bought quite a compelling offering; in the stamp section we have the best selection of rare early Australian stamps that Roxbury's has ever seen, all fresh and new to the market, it is sure to get both collector's and the trade's interest. We also have a great trade token collection that will pique the interest of collectors, although the grades are average quality, there are some genuinely scarce pieces for the specialist collector.

Day one has on offer several important medal groups, including a cased WWII Distinguished Flying Cross and loose medals to a RAAF Flight Lieutenant tail-gunner from 463 Squadron RAAF, many photos and log-book showing 49 successful raids in Wellington and Lancaster bombers over Germany and Czechoslovakia; another WWII group to a Changi Prison/Thai-Burma railway casualty and his brother's army effects from Burma; also some WWI AIF trios and pairs of interest.

Another important session of the sale will be the Australian Pre Decimal coins with many key dates in superb condition. It will interesting to see how the market is travelling given a very quiet year for top tier early business strikes and PCGS population rarities. In the World coin section we have a large run of British trade dollars which have seen enormous growth in recent years. Purchased from Seaby's of London in the mid 1970's, this old Brisbane collection has not seen the light of day in nearly 50 years.

Overall it is a very attractive sale for collectors and the trade alike with a huge amount of material on offer. Unfortunately we will have to wait until the new year to see all our interstate customers, let's hope for some normality in 2022 and a return to the 'good old days' of 2019. Again I would like to thank our team for their hard work and support over the course of 2021 and to our loyal vendors, collectors and trade buyers, we thank you for your support and custom.

MILITARIA

Lot 701 New Zealand, Group, 1941 - 1945

$150 - $200

New Zealand Emergency Patrol Service, cotton armband and lapel badge, both rare.

Provenance: From the family of Captain Pawley, trawler captain and manager of Brown Barratt Fish Canning Plant, Picton, New Zealand; together with his war-time pocket watch and silver fob chain; pen & pencil; 1953/54 Royal Visit to NZ medals (2); 1951 British Empire Exhibition pocket watch and Vintage automobile hood ornament in the shape of a lion, (10 items).

The Emergency Patrol Service was formed from volunteers to assist the Naval Auxiliary Patrol Service with laying mines and patrol duty from 1941 to the end of the War. Brown Barratt lent their trawlers to the NAPS, laying mines in Cook Strait and the entrance to Wellington Harbour. In a remarkable episode, Captain Pawley encountered the German shore party from U-Boat U-862 onshore at Tory Channel in the Cook Strait, refilling fresh water from a stream, as the EPS were unarmed, they kept their distance.

U-862 had a remarkable voyage from Germany in 1944, to Singapore, sinking 5 ships and shooting down a RAF Catalina near Penang. She sailed down the west coast of Australia, around the southern coast of Tasmania and then north towards Sydney where she sank the U.S. Liberty ship Robert J. Walker on Christmas Day, 1944. She then travelled around New Zealand and entered the port of Napier at night undetected, where it is said that the captain sent sailors ashore at night to steal fresh milk from a farm cow.

U-862 was recalled to Singapore, sinking another US Liberty ship near Sydney on the way. She became Japanese submarine I-502 after Germany's surrender and was scuttled at the end of the War.

In 1940, the Soviet Union executed most of the Boy Scouts held at Ostashkov prison. The Scouts evolved into the paramilitary Szare Szeregi cooperating with the Polish Underground and the Krakow Army resistance. Older Scouts carried out sabotage, armed resistance, and assassinations. The Girl Guides formed auxiliary units working as nurses, liaisons and munition carriers. During Operation Tempest (the Polish resistance campaign) and especially during the Warsaw Uprising, the Scouts participated in the fighting, and the Szare Szeregi units were some of the most effective in combat.

Extract from J. Herington, 'Air War Over Europe 1944-1945', Australian War Memorial, Canberra, 1963, Page 310:

'Wing Commander Forbes of No. 463 reported that enemy fighters appeared to wait until the main force was called in to bomb before they dropped high-level flares which illuminated the whole area. Forbes was on his bombing run when his Lancaster was attacked by three Ju-88's, but good fire control and instructions for evasion given by Flight Lieutenant Winston (the squadron gunnery officer) shook off the fighters. Shortly afterwards two more Ju-88s attacked but these also were outmanoeuvred. During these clashes one fighter was seen going down in a shallow dive and it was claimed as possibly destroyed. Flying Officer Bennett was also on his bombing run when he saw an Me-110 taking up position to attack another Lancaster. He ordered his mid-upper gunner to open fire and the port main-plane of the fighter was seen to break away and the Me-110 spiralled downwards on fire'.

Born 9/05/1919 in Brisbane to father John and mother Ellen, captured Singapore 15/2/1942, unit 2/10 Field Regt of Artillery, rank Bombardier. Oak-framed hand-tinted photo of Wallace McMillan 8th Div. AIF, with his cap badge and silver plaques with battle honours

'Singapore, Siam, Malaya and Burma, and Ex-POW, Singapore'. His 18ct signet ring with 'WILL' barely visible. Also CWGC sheet showing death 31/12/1943 on Thailand to Burma Railway, buried Kanchanaburi War Cemetery. The movement of POWs northward from Changi POW Camp and other prison camps in Southeast Asia began in May 1942. The projected finish date was December 1943. With copy of Japanese POW records for Wallace showing place of capture. 2/10th Australian Field Regiment was formed July 1940, men across Queensland joined the regiment, including a group of lifesavers from Tugun. Transported to Malaya on the Queen Mary, disembarked the 2/10th at Malacca, in Johore, on 19 February 1942. The regiment first went into action on 21 January, when it was called upon to bring down artillery fire on Japanese troops along the Mersing-Endau Road, north of Lalang Hill. The Japanese force had cut off a platoon from the 2/20th Battalion but the regiment's fire allowed the platoon to escape. The 2/10th was in action from then on, firing on targets in the Mayang Estate and Lalang Hill. During the night of 26-27 January the regiment provided artillery support for the 22nd Brigade's successful ambush in the Nithsdale Estate. After the Nithsdale battle the brigade withdrew to Singapore Island, which took several days, one gun at a time, due to the enemy air activity. The last of the regiment's troops, the 20th Battery, crossed the causeway to Singapore just after 9 pm on 30 January. The causeway was demolished the next morning.

The main Japanese assault on Singapore began at 11 pm on 8 February. Crossing the Johore Strait in barges, by midday the next day the Japanese had broken through the 22nd Brigade. There had been continual heavy fighting and although it had been shelled and bombarded with air attack, the 20th and 60th Batteries fired up to 800 shells and sunk 30 sampans carrying Japanese troops. With the Japanese advancing, on 10 February both batteries were withdrawn to Singapore Harbour. By now, G Troop had ran out of ammunition for its howitzer and was also withdrawn. By 12 February Commonwealth troops had withdrawn to the city, around which they formed a defensive perimeter. Troops were withdrawn from Changi and the eastern beaches. What was left of the 8th Division was concentrated around Tanglin Barracks. The 2/10th remained in action, firing 2,100 rounds on Bukit Timah village. The next day the regiment moved to the Tanglin golf course, where it came under enemy artillery fire and air strikes. The regiment ceased firing at 10.30 pm on 14 February and the next day the garrison surrendered. For the next three-and-a-half years the men had to endure the brutality of being a prisoner of war of the Japanese. Initially imprisoned in the sprawling Changi prisoner of war camp, it was not long before members of the 2/10th were allocated to external work parties. The first parties were dispatched around Singapore and southern Malaya, but later 2/10th members found themselves bound for the camps along the Thailand-Burma Railway and to Borneo. Other prisoners were sent to Japan and Sumatra. Of the 834 officers and men of the regiment who became prisoners, 270 died.

Sold with another identical oak-framed hand-tinted photo of brother Trooper R. J. McMillan, QX.9461 (Russell John), B. Squad, 7th Div. AIF, silver plaques with battle honours 'Middle East, Cyprus, New Guinea, Palestine, Markham Valley (PNG) and Battle of Sanananda (PNG).

The 7th Division Cavalry Regiment was formed in April 1940, mainly with men who were from New South Wales and Queensland, as the Victorians and South Australians with the regiment were released to form the basis of the 8th Division Cavalry Regiment. The 7th carried out its initial armoured vehicle training at Cowra with Vickers light tanks and machine-gun carriers.

Destined for the Middle East, the regiment sailed from Sydney Harbour, on board the Queen Mary, on Boxing Day 1940 and arrived in Egypt at the start of February 1941, then moved to Palestine, soon to the Suez Canal, where it helped with the defences. The following month, the regiment was sent to Cyprus to support British troops who had been sent to the island. However, as Allied troops were preparing to defend Crete, as well as prepare for the invasion of Syria, few troops could be spared for Cyprus. The regiment's main job was to give the impression of being a far larger force, the size of an armoured brigade. Using Vickers light tanks, carriers, and trucks - Ford and Morris one-ton trucks with oversized tyres, for travelling over sand, called "Battle Buggies". A number of these "Battle Buggies" were armed with 2-pounder guns to act as anti-tank vehicles.

The regiment arrived at the port of Famagusta on 5 May and moved to Athoulassa, near Nicosia, Cyprus's capital, five days later. The unit remained on Cyprus until 16 August, when it was transferred to Syria as part of the garrison force.

At the start of 1942 the 6th and 7th Divisions returned to Australia, but as Australian troops had been fighting Japanese troops in Papua since July and, after months of hard fighting along the Kokoda Trail, they had pushed the Japanese back to their bases at Gona, Buna, and Sanananda. Casualties were heavy and in the middle of December the 7th was flown from Moresby to Poppendetta to reinforce the Australians.

On 18 December the regiment moved up to Huggins roadblock, and went on to take part in the bitter fighting along the Sanananda Track and village. The village was not captured and cleared until 21 January 1942, by which time only about fifty fit men remained with the regiment. Fifty-four men, including the commanding officer, Lieutenant Colonel Edgar Logan, had been killed, while another man had died of wounds, and 67 had been wounded. Three more had died from scrub typhus, while over 240 men were ill with malaria.

Also Russell's 1941 dated signalling case by PMG of Melbourne, with Morse-code style tapper, signalling lamp, battery and spare bulbs, superb condition, with khaki outer case and carry strap. Also his jungle water canteen with cork, his darkened Commonwealth cap and 3 collar badges and pair of dog-tags, and an enamelled NZ Kiwi sweetheart brooch and clipping relating to Russell's funeral in Brisbane.

Worthy of further research.

 From the RAM website: 'To celebrate this coin release and the anniversaries of the six AC/DC albums, the Mint is offering never-before-released production coin dies to fourteen lucky fans who purchase any of the AC/DC coins from the Mint, one of its authorised dealers or select music shops. The production coin dies on offer were used to strike the AC/DC coin – a rare and unique opportunity. To be eligible to win a production die, participants will also need to visit the Mint's Facebook page and post what the name of their AC/DC cover band would be and where they purchased the coin.'
 This production die was won by one the lucky winners, there are only 13 others in existence, a rare opportunity to win a piece of Australia's coin striking history.

(as Sear-7951). The later types of Ptolemaic Egypt all feature an obverse with the diademed head of their founding ancestor Ptolemy I Soter and his name and title on the reverse, ΒΑΣΙΛΕΩΣ ΠΤΟΛΕΜΑΙΟΥ. The feature of this tetradrachm that attributes it to Cleopatra VII is the palm frond that extends past the eagle's shoulder – this began on the Tetradrachms of her predecessor, Ptolemy XII Neos Dionysos, in his second reign, which would have been dated Regnal Years 26-30. As this coin is dated Regnal Year 1, it can only be attributed to Cleopatra VII.
