Canton cop plucks child from icy river

Kathy Arzadon left her 5-year-old son, Michael, alone for a few minutes Sunday afternoon when she stepped back into her apartment to finish ironing. When she returned her son was no where in sight and his baseball cap was floating in the Rouge River behind Tamarack Apartments.

Michael is still fighting for his life in the intensive care unit of Wayne County General Hospital where officials describe his condition as "greatly improved.

He was plucked out of the cold water by Canton Police Officer John MacDiarmid after a 12-minute search. McDiarmid administered artificial respiration to Michael on the banks of the river and on the trip to Wayne County General Hospital.

Mrs. Arzadon, of 40583 Tamarack Drive, Canton, described the trauma she went through Sunday and said she suspects foul play even though she

Hall is exempt on height limit

Canton Township will not be breaking its own zoning law by building a three story administration building, a Canton attorney says.

Last week township officials wondered if they would have a problem securing a zoning variation from one of two disputed zoning board of appeals in order to break ground on the hall site, at Canton Center and Proctor, before the April 20 deadline. If the deadline is not met, the township will lose $2.7 million in federal funds.

Current zoning law states buildings may not rise above two stories.

But Tuesday, Canton attorney Bert Burgoyne told the boad that the township is exempt from its own zoning ordinances when it builds structures that qualify as a "governmental function" and not a "proprietary func-

Burgoyne cited numerous court precedents and quoted from Canton's own zoning ordinance which states that 'essential services' would be permitted because of the ordinance intent to 'exempt such essential services from the application of this ordinance.

"Construction of governmental offices is an essential service of government within the terms of the Canton Township zoning ordinance," Burgoyne states.

AT THE MARCH 29 Canton board meeting, former supervisor Robert Greenstein offered to grant a zoning variation to permit construction of a three-story administration building but only if officials agreed to reinstate him and four other ousted members of the zoning board of appeals.

Trustee Brian Schwall thought Greenstein's suggestion smacked of "political blackmail.

If recall passes, Bundarin will run

By DARLENE STINSON

Peter Bundarin, legal counsel for a group seeking the recall of Canton Supervisor Harold Stein, this week admitted plans to run for the supervisor's seat if the recall drive is a suc-

Bundarin, Republican candidate who placed third in the supervisor's race in last fall's general election, reluctantly admitted his campaign plans after saying that talk of an election to replace Stein is premature.

The attorney is legal advisor to Peter Gabbert and other Canton residents, who are circulating recall-Stein petitions in the township.

To force a recall election, the group must collect 1,243 signatures of registered Canton voters on official recall petitions. According to Gabbert, the group had collected about 1,100 signatures by Tuesday.

gathered, the Wayne County Elections Commission will schedule a recall election within 60 days. Another election to replace Stein would be scheduled 60 days after the first election, if the majority of Canton residents vote to recall the supervisor.

According to Joe Martina, county director of elections, local chapters of the Democrat and Republican parties would nominate candidates. Stein could not run for the position under Michigan recall law, Martina said.

Bundarin said renewed hopes of winning the supervisor's post were not in the back of his mind when he agreed to offer legal advice to Gabbert's recall group.

"I work with homeowners all the time," he said, "and these people just came to me for help.

"I'd run again because of the commitment I have to the community.

Greenstein says he's not actively supporting the recall drive because it does not include Treasurer Anne Bradley, Trustee Eugene Daley or Trustee Brian Schwall, and insisted he has no plans to seek reelection at

"I have no plans at this time except to vote in favor of removing members of the board who have not done their jøb," Greenstein said. "I am not in any way considering things that don't exist at this time (like running in an election to replace Stein).

months, Stein said he is not worried about the recall drive. The supervisor feels he has done a good job in office

But Gabbert, a campaign worker for Bundarin, feels Stein is unqualified for the supervisor's job. "Stein's trying, but I don't think he has the expertise or the enthusiasm," said Gabbert, referring to Canton's mushrooming growth and other problems he feels must be overcome.

"Mr. Stein has said, 'Let's get the recall election over with," and 1 agree. Let's either get someone else in or let him do his job.

According to Gabbert, the recall committee is not limiting its petition drive to neighborhoods which supported Bundarin and Greenstein in last November's election. Stein supporters, as well as other residents, have

"I've had many people tell me they have mixed feelings about the recall, said Gabbert, "but they've signed the and is confident a recall election recall petitions anyway. One woman said she was a Stein backer, but signed the petition because she wanted to vote no in a recall election.

call election and supervisor election. The state recall statute does not provide for an interim chief adminis-

LAST TUESDAY the Canton board voted 5-2 to allow the attorney representing Windsor Park homeowners three weeks time to seek an additional legal opinion on the pending court case; an opinion which could conceivably convince the board to defend its prior position in court. year old night clerk at the Red Roof Inn in Plymouth Township. The sentence was handed down by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Theodore H. Bonn. With maximum 'good time," he could be eligible for parole in 12 years.

Williams was originally charged with first degree murder, but the charge was reduced and on March 14. he pled guilty to second degree murder. The sentencing date was delayed until April 6.

Wayne County Sheriff's detectives arrested Williams at Canton Town-

Feb. 4, the day of the murder. He was held in custody on bad check charges while officers investigated the case. Almost a week after his arrest, Williams confessed to the killing, and on Feb. 14 he was arraigned on a charge of first degree murder in Plymouth's 35th District Court.

He stood mute before Judge Dunbar Davis, and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf. During the preliminary examination, Williams was identified by a witness. Despite objections from his court-appointed attorney, Jay Kalish, his signed confession was admitted as evidence. Davis bound Williams over to circuit court to stand trial for first degree murder. However, by pleading guilty to the reduced charge, he waived his right to a jury trial.

AFTER THE SENTENCE WAS passed, Kalish said, "This case has been very upsetting to me, but I think the ends of justice have been served."

Arlene Woods and other residents of the Canton subdivision say the move will jeopardize their children's security at school and break off freindships with other Miller students.

Although Plymouth Park and Plymouth Landing subdivisions are geographically closer to Gallimore, Mrs. Whiteley said there are too many elementary children in Plymouth Park and too few in Plymouth Landing to fill the available

The shift in Miller and Gallimore attendance boundaries is necessitated by the mushrooming growth in areas immediately adjacent to Miller School, according to Mrs. Whiteley. New houses are under construction increased student population.

The boundary committee ultimately hopes to earmark the square mile around Miller on the east side of Sheldon as Miller's permanent attendance area, Mrs. Williams said.

Gallimore's ultimate attendance area, bounded by Joy, Ford Road, Sheldon and Canton Center Road, will include Prestige Heights, Plymouth Landing and Plymouth Park.

BUT MRS. WOODS and other Prestige Heights parents object to the boundary committee's recommendation to bus their children to Gallimore

'Believe me, Prestige Heights is feeling very used, very abused and very discriminated against," Mrs. Woods said. "Our children's wellbeing, security and friendships are at stake. We hope the school board does not automatically approve the boundary committee's suggestions.

In a Jetter to the school board and boundary committee, Mrs. Woods asked, "Why do the Prestige Heights children have to be bused down Sheldon Road to Gallimore?

"Why, when two years ago Prestige

Heights parents fought admirably and were instrumental in getting the millage passed? Why, when our children were made the guinea pigs on (Miller's) 45-15 (program) and have since adjusted to and defended the system?

Who pays legal defense for ousted zoning board?

Five ousted members of the Canton Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) say a one-week delay of a decision on whether the township has the responsibility to pay their legal defense is now "a moot point

Township board members voted 3-2 to table a decision on the legal-costs question posed by ousted ZBA member Robert Miller. The board will ask for a written opinion from attorney Bert Burgoyne.

Miller wants the township to pay legal costs of five ex-members of the ZBA who are fighting for reinstatement on the grounds that their removal was illegal

The five ousted ZBA officials are among nine persons named in lawsuit filed March 22 by "private citizen" Harold Stein to determine which one of two zoning boards is the legal one. Stein is Canton Township supervisor.

State Atty. General Frank Kelley said last month that the ousted proper," but the township's attorney, William Sempliner, believes they were appointed in violation of state law because Canton's ordinance was improper at the time of their appoint-

To avoid criticism, Stein said he will pay Sempliner's legal fees in the suit. Stein and Gary Sands, chairman of the second ZBA appointed Feb. 8 to replace the ZBA headed by Jim Donahue, filed the lawsuit.

Since Stein is plaintiff in the case and Trustee Gene Daley is a one of nine defendants, both men were allowed to abstain from voting on the ZBA litigation.

The four remaining members of the second ZBA are also listed as defendants in the suit.

DEFENDANTS in the case have 23 days from the time they were served lega! papers to respond. With the board's decision to wait until Tuesday to get a written legal opinion, Donahue and the other four ousted ZBA members say the decision will come

"As of next Monday it will be 20 days after the day I was served papers in this case," Donahue said. "I won't be able to file because I won't know what their decision will be. The case will be dismissed because of a lack of response by five of the parties in the suit. I've got to tell the court who my legal defense will be prior to the 20-day limit

If the case is dismissed, Donahue said he and the other four ousted ZBA members will probably start their own suit against Canton for "illegally removing us from the ZBA.

Donahue said he would have rather have seen the board vote not to defend the ousted ZBA, "than see them table the item and complicate this mess even further.

.If the board is considering paying the legal defense of members of the ousted ZBA, Stein said Tuesday that he would expect that the board also

School board informs faculty ratification a fruitless exercise

Plymouth-Canton school board members Monday sent a statement to all teachers stating that any attempts to ratify a contract at this stage would

The position statement on negotiations was signed by all trustees and members of the school board's negotiating team. The statement was sent to teachers in reaction to a call for a ratification meeting by the Plymouth

Education Association (PEA). The PEA called teachers together Wednesday for a general membership to ratify a "contract." The written contract is a collection of signed and verbal agreements worked out at the bargaining table.

The school board points out, though, that total agreement hasn't been reached and there is no valid contract to be ratified. The board statement began: "To insure a clear understanding of the board's position in negotiations, we would like to take this opportunity to clarify some unresolved issues. "We must clarify and state that, as of now, there is no agreement or even tentative agreement on a total package, and until there is, ratification by either party is not valid. Trustees pointed out the superintendent's work rules of Sept. 9 establish that salary and fringes of all teachers will be paid at the 1975-76 rate until a new contract is negotiated

THE BOARD added that it has shown a willingness to move from its position to a salary proposal well beyond its original concept. However, for this salary package to be fundable or valid, it is asked that five adjustments be made in the total package." That economic package offer includes: FIRST YEAR, 1976-77

•Salary schedule improvement, 312 per cent; pension contribution, 1.6 per cent; average cost of increments, 312

SECOND YEAR

· Cost of living adjustment, 4-6 per cent; pension contribution, 3.4 per cent; increments, 312 per cent; life insurance of $17,500; dental rider. THIRD YEAR

Salary improvement, three per cent; cost of living, 4-7 per cent; increment, 312 per cent; life insurance raised to $20,000; and long-term disability insurance.

The board pointed out that the salguage adjustments and successful millage." Derald McKinley, chief negotiator for the PEA, said the board is now placing conditions upon conditions when it now says the offer is contingent on passage of the renewal millage. That condition had never been mentioned before

The board also pointed to a document signed by both parties in which the sides agreed that: "We recognize that the ultimate acceptance of any and all tentative agreements is contingent upon the ratification of an entire agreement by both parties."

McKinley points out that the above document was signed March 20-six days after both sides signed the agreement on the economic package. McKinley said the document is nothing more than the definition of a tentative agreement and the only reason he signed it was to get facilitator Irvin Rozian out of the middle of a dispute between him and Norm Kee, chief board negotiator.

THE PACKAGE, sent to teachers from the board, included what the new salary steps would be for teachers in the PEA accepted the economic offer, with the five conditions. The board then offered these explanations of the conditions

HEALTH INSURANCE

'The board isn't asking to have health insurance capped, but merely asking that if costs continue to rise at the current rate that the board and the PEA share the responsibility for the costs above $100 per month, per full family subscriber, for the balance of the master agreement...We are assured that single or double subscribers will not reach the $100 maximum during the life of this contract....You should know that as much as one third of the increase in the cost of living formula can be attributed to the increase in health care costs, yet these costs have already been absorbed by the board. Remember, that the board isn't suggesting a cap on health insurance but rather a shared responsibility for future increases during the life of the master agreement.

McKinley argues that the board is attempting to get the concept of an insurance cap into the contract because its real impact will be in future contracts. "We won't negotiate problems now for future bargaining teams.

EXTENDED SCHOOL YEAR

It is the position of the board and its legal counsel that under the State of Michigan General School Laws the board has the right to manage and structure the school district to best meet the demands and needs of the district. Therefore, the board must have the right and responsibility to determine the number of schools to go sought, and will continue to seek, the counsel of the PEA and staff in the implementation and staffing of ESY

McKinley says this represents a change in one of the five conditions. The PEA had agreed to implementation of ESY at 12 schools in the next three years. One of the board's five conditions was to raise this number to 16. Now the board is changing its condition to eliminate the requirement that implementation of ESY must be mutually agreed upon with the

SAVE HARMLESS.

"Most contracts that commit to agency shop provisions have such a clause: The Association will save the Board harmless from any and all costs including witnesses and attorney fees or other incidental cost of prosecution or defense or any liability resulting from the prosecution or defense of any action claimed or otherwise to which the Board of Education may be liable by virtue of enforcing the provisions of this article.

'This clause merely protects the board from legal and dollar liability if it is to carry out the desire of the PEA to fire staff who will not pay the association service fees.

McKinley says the PEA has agreed that the costs should be shared 50-50 so each party has an equal interest in avoiding such litigation. Otherwise. if the costs are shared, the administration or board could encourage such lawsuits as a union-breaking tactic. It's been done in other school dis-

"Due to the basic inequities and concerns for morale, an adjustment should be made in the 'D' Schedule.

The board's position is: To place middle school representatives who have been on Schedule D to Schedule C •To continue all present counselors on Schedule D, but eliminate it for new hires. A long-term reduction of the special stipend for social workers, psychologists, and Type A teachers and resource persons The board added that another condition was that "All other tentative agreements and potential tentative agreements would be accepted as written or discussed, thus giving a total package to be ratified

OTHER COMMENTS to teachers

It is the feeling of the board that if teachers don't support election issues. it is counterproductive to your economic interests. This can best be seen by the fact that approximately 60 per cent of the budget goes to the direct economic benefit of teachers.

"All of the aforementioned issues including health. ESY, safe harmless, etc., have been on the table since

Schoolcraft board race may be chopped in half

By TIM RICHARD

Schoolcraft College trustees thought they would be conducting an election for four members June 13, increasing the board's size from eight to nine.

Instead, voters may be electing only two persons, reducing the board's size

The Michigan Senate has passed a bill to cut the college board's size, but the college's liberal trustees don't know whether to try getting the bill changed in the house of representatives to provide for nine members.

"I'M VERY unhappy," said Trustee Mark McQuesten, who blistered College President C. Nelson Grote for failing to tell the board of the senate's contemplated action last week so that trustees could fight for a nine-mem-

"I'm not going to roll over and play dead," said McQuesten, vowing to contact friendly lawmakers in the house. But the board failed to summon five votes needed to instruct board Chairman Paul Y. Kadish to journey to Lansing to testify against the senate bill.

Some weeks ago, the board decided to seek the change to nine members to give it an odd number and, in McQuesten's words, "to open up this board to (K-12) districts that are illrepresented," a reference to Clarenceville and Northville, which have no membership on the Schoolcraft board.

BUT WHEN college officials went to Lansing to seek amendatory legislation, a powerful senate subcommittee-Chairman Gary Corbin

The senators said that 27 community college districts in the state have seven members while only Schooleraft and Delta (Bay City) have different sized boards. Fulkerson won lawsuit but lost $6,000

Bills from their attorneys are all Canton officials and businessman Jim Fulkerson have to show for the lawsuit and counter lawsuit filed against one another over Fulkerson's non-conforming recreational vehicle storage

Wayne Circuit Judge Patrick J. Duggan Monday ended all the legal battles, when he dismissed Fulkerson's counter suit for $25,000 in damages against the township on grounds that a state immunity statute exempts townships from liability in this case.

In the counter suit, Fulkerson charged township officials with discriminatory application of Canton's zoning ordinance.

Canton officials dropped their suit against Fulkerson last month on the advice of attorney Dave Berry, who questioned the township's legal grounds for the suit.

The township had maintained in its suit that Fulkerson established his non-conforming business without proper approval. A courtroom decision against Fulkerson could have forced the businessman to shut down his vehicle storage business.

According to Berry, the township spent about $4,000 in legal fees on the case. Fulkerson said he spent about $6,000 to fight the township's suit and file his own case against the town-

THE BATTLE between Fulkerson and the township revolved around Fulkerson's right to store recreational vehicles on his commercially-zoned property-a non-conforming use under the township's zoning ordinance.

Fulkerson claimed that he received oral permission from former Supervisor Philip Dingeldey to operate the non-conforming business. According to Fulkerson. Dingeldey said he discussed the matter with township board members.

But Berry and former Supervisor Robert Greenstein, who instigated the lawsuit against Fulkerson, claimed the businessman did not receive proper approval from the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA).

Nevertheless, Berry advised the township to drop the suit last month for fears a courtroom judge would use the "Estoppel Principle" to decide the case. Under that principle, an action is deemed legal if the defendant relies on the word of a seemingly reliable authority and consequently takes action without any effort to cover up his deed.

Berry also questioned the benefits a favorable courtroom decision would bring to the township, since landscaping equipment is stored outside a fees to prove you're right." he mused. " building across from Fulkerson's property. A major reason for the township's lawsuit was to force Fulkerson to remove "unsheltered" equipment from his premises.

FULKERSON APPEARED upset Monday over Duggan's decision to dismiss his lawsuit against the township. The businessman had hoped to regain the $6,000 he spent to fight the township's-lawsuit and additional money in damages.

"Six thousand dollars in attorney case," Berry said.

"It seems it makes it bad for people" who have trouble with any branch of government. You have no recourse whatsoever.

According to Berry, Duggan dismissed Fulkerson's lawsuit because of a state immunity statute. Under the statute, chartered townships and other incorporated municipalities are exempt from liability for damages caused by their officials or employes.

"But that's not to say there was any wrongdoing on anyone's part in this ...

Frank Simmons, administrative assistant in the metropolitan office of the highway department, said residents can expect to see 2,000 feet of six-foot chain link fencing installed along the Canton Commons property

People living in the subsidized housing units complained that the present four-foot farm fence is easily scaled by children and in bad condition.

"We will put in a new fence," Simmons said. "We'll have to wait for the ground to thaw, so it will probably be installed in a couple months. But it has already been agreed upon.

"He told her to meet him at the Burger Chef. When she got there, he approached her and said he would take her to her son. He directed her to drive behind St. Peter Lutheran Church on Penniman and assaulted

However, Commire said, the woman escaped from the car and started running and screaming for help. Duke caught up with her once but was apparently frightened away by lights coming on in surrounding

"It was really lucky for us that we got him," commented Commire. "The woman was somewhat of an artist, and she drew a composite picture for us." Commire added that police also found a cigarette package with Duke's fingerprint on it in the car's

Anti-prison rally slated for Saturday grassroots opposition to plans for a maximum security state prison hear Plymouth will be stated at the Northville Township Hall at 10 a.m. Satur-

The outdoor rally, which sponsors hope will attract 5,000 people, is to be held on the Wayne County Child Development Center grounds adjacent to the Northville Township Hall at Five Mile and Sheldon roads.

It is the Child Developent Center, north of the southern border of Plymouth, where the state has proposed to establish a 600-inmate prison.

BLAKE NORTHROP, a spokesman for the Western Wayne County Residents Association (WWCRA) says: "It looks like we've struck out at the county level, and now state officials, including Gov. Milliken, seem intent on putting a prison in Northville. "Politicians haven't paid much attention to what our committee has been saying, so now it's time that the muscle of the people be felt. Only if we show a united front will politicians be persuaded to listen.

"People power is essential. Some 15,000 flyers invited citizens from throughout western Wayne County are being circulated. Concern that the prison is no longer "just talk but a very real likelihood" was expressed this past week by Mayor A.M. Allen of Northville who last week joined with U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) and Northville meeting with Gov. Milliken.

"I'm very worried," said Allen. The governor seemed to be saying that although he recognizes our concerns the needs of the state for more the prison plan.

A "Peoples' Rally" to dramatize prison facilities may be more important.

> WAYNE COUNTY Commissioner Mary Dumas (R-Livonia) states that county officials "seem to be interested in only how much money they can get for the Child Development Center.

"If the state comes up with the money, they'd like to sell it and use the money to get the county finances in order. They don't care if the center is used for a prison or whatever.

"Commissioner Royce Smith (D-Belleville) and I thought we had the votes lined up to oppose the prison, but the prospect of money and state pressure changed too many minds. It really upsets me.

Northville Township Supervisor Grier said he will ask the township board at its next meeting to appropriate $1,000 to be used by the WWCRA for a legal fight against the prison. Grier and others urged residents to make financial contributions by check to the Western Wayne County Residents Association, POB 49, Northville

Local governmental agencies taking an official stand against converting the Child Development Center to a prison include city and township of Plymouth, Plymouth-Canton Community School District, city and township of Northville, Northville Public Schools, and Schoolcraft College.

Western Wayne Oakland County Township Supervisor Wilson Grier in Board of Realtors, Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, Northville Chamber of Commerce, and the Novi Chamber of Commerce also have supported resolutions opposing

Burroughs settles strike on pension, retirement

After more than five weeks of bargaining. Burroughs striking members of Local 1313 are back on the job.

By a 2-1 margin Tuesday, the union rank and file voted to ratify the company's latest offer, which was hammered out in a marathon bargaining session over the weekend. They returned to work Tuesday at midnight.

'It's not the best package in the world," said Ralph Viola, union president, "but it's an improvement over

The strike was called at midnight Feb. 28 after three months of negotiations had failed. About 1,800 employees of plants in Plymouth, Wayne, and Detroit walked off the job. About 1,700 non-union employees continued on the job.

Poultry president

Adam McCully of McCully Egg Co., Plymouth, has been elected president of Michigan Allied Poultry Industries. Inc. at the group's annual meeting during Farmers' Week.

Other officers were Kenneth Yerrick of Owosso, first vice-president; Gill Eddy of Farmington, second vicepresident, and Dr. Howard C. Zindel of Michigan State University, secre-

The major stumbling block to a pact. Viola said had been the issue of pensions and rethrement benefits. The union was pushing for retirement with full benefits after 30 years of service. He said Burroughs wasn't willing to grant the demand.

SEVERAL TIMES DURING the strike, talks were broken off because negotiators could not get passed the retirement issue. However, last Friday bargaining was resumed, and on Monday the union had a new proposal to present to its members.

We sat down Sunday at noon and banged away until 2:30 a.m. Monday." Viola said. "They gave a lixle, and we gave a little.

The new three-year contract provides retirement for workers 58-years old who have 30 years of service. "It's not the 30-and-out we were shooting for," Viola commented, "but it does give some protection to our high seniority people. Anyway, we'll be back at the table again in three years.

Community pressure may force the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education to make changes in the modular scheduling system at Centennial Educational Park

Some board members said a number of parents blamed the controversial modular scheduling for the discipline and attendance problems at the Park and talked about ways of providing more structure for high school

The remarks were made at a board workshop Monday. Trustees also discussed possible changes in 45-15 scheduling and parents' concerns about attendance boundry adjustments.

Supt. John Hoben told the trustees a number of concerns were being expressed by parents across the district. Among these were: taxes, lack of a teacher contract settlement, attendance boundries, 45-15 scheduling, and modular scheduling.

The modular scheduling issue touched off a debate among the trustees, with some defending the system and others arguing for a return to a more traditional class arrangement

TRUSTEE RICHARD ARLEN said he couldn't understand the board's thinking in continuing a system that was designed to create problems. "I've even had a principal admit modular scheduling was no good-in private. But in public, he defends it to the hilt.

Lawton. "We are not against making changes, but it takes time, and changes have been made.

Trustee E.J. McClendon said many of the problems at the Park were related to a changing social climate and had nothing to do with modular scheduling. He added that 25 per cent more students finish high school today than did in 1950 with the traditional school Modular scheduling gives students too much freedom, argued Trustee Flossie Tonda. "Let kids be kids. Don't force them to grow up before they have to.

Hoben said one of the main reasons students did not finish college was because they couldn't handle the freedom wisely. He felt modular scheduling made students responsible for their own time. He added that 30 per cent of Plymouth-Canton students who go to college finish in four years. which is double the national average.

However, he proposed putting the ninth and 10th grades on a traditional schedule and only have juniors and seniors on modular scheduling. The concensus of the trustees was that such a change might be a good alternative but would need more exploration before any decision was made.

HOBEN ALSO said that some changes in the 45-15 tracking schedule might be needed to provide more flex-

When Miller School first began 45-The board was not standing behind 15, a different track started classes a bad system, said Trustee George every 15 days, However, Hoben said, it might be wise to consider altering this pattern when the other schools begin 45-15 in the fall.

He proposed starting three tracks at the same time, with the fourth track beginning three weeks later. The major advantages, would be to allow students more freedom to move from track to track. In addition, the change would provide a more uniform class-ending date. If the staggered tracking system was used throughout the district, students going from Pioneer Middle School to high school would only have a week off before starting classes

The trustees then turned their attention to the problem of establishing attendance boundries for the school vear. Hoben said he had received a lot of complaints from residents of Prestige Heights in Canton because of a plan to bus their children to Gallimore School. They are presently attending Miller.

"I don't know about you," he said, 'but I'm losing a lot of sleep over this, and there doesn't seem to be an easy solution.

The crux of the matter. Hoben said. was that no matter how the attendance lines were drawn, some parents would be angry over their children's school assignment.

Although the trustees agreed it was time to take a unified position on the issue, they felt it would be better to wait until the attendance boundry committee made its official recom-

The clans that gathered for the traditional opener were talking about Mark Fidrych. The Bird, of course, was caged in at Ford Hospital, far away from the maddening throng that always is on hand when the cry "Play Ball" rents the air at the old stadium which sits on the corner of Michigan and Trumbull

The Bird is a symbol of another of the freak accidents which have happened to the Tigers down through the years. Possibly no other team in the major leagues has suffered as many as the Tigers—and all of them were

One of the first The Stroller recalls happened in the training camp at Lakeland, Florida, in 1937. That one cost the Tigers the services of a young pitcher named Roxie Lawson who was being counted upon to round out the pitching staff.

The accident happened in the most unusual way and came while Mickey Cochrane, the manager, had the squad marching around the playing field in military fashion.

They were marching four abreast and were doing fine until Mickey called a halt

THOUGH COCHRANE shouted the command, evidently "Pinky" Higgins, him. Higgins was marching right behind Lawson and when all the others stopped on command "Pinky" took one more step-right on Lawson's ankle. His spikes cut into the bone and virtually ended the young pitcher's career. He lost his usual stride while favoring the injured ankle and never was able to reach his potential. He drifted away from the Tigers and seldom was heard from after that. One of the most damaging of the accidents, though, robbed the Tigers of Mickey Cochrane at a time when he was at his peak and had the Tigers going at a good clip in the pennant

It happened in Yankee Stadium one afternoon when "Black Mike" tried to duck a pitch. Instead of ducking the pitch, the ball hit him on the head. He fell to the ground and was carried away. It took quite a while for Mickey to recuperate from the stunning blow But it hastened the end of his long and distinguished career.

He tried hard to come back. But it wasn't in the stars for him to take his old position behind the plate. So he tucked the catchers mitt away and attempted to become a bench manager.

This was not a role for Mickey He was a great field leader-leading the Tigers to the pennant in 1934 and the World Series title in 1935. But on the bench he couldn't show the drive he possessed as an active player, and soon was forced to give up the reins

ONE OF the most celebrated of the

Hank was a great hitter and one season came within two homers of Babe Ruth's former record of 60 circuit

Greenberg's injury was the most freakish of freaks

He was guarding first base one afternoon and stretched out his arm to take a throw in an attempt to nab the runner Instead, as he went to make the tag, his glove flew in the air and Hank dropped his arm Diagnosis later proved that his wrist was broken and he was lost for the remainder of the season What's more, he never played first base again. When he returned to action in 1937 he was shifted to the outfield to make room for Rudy York, another long ball hitter, who took over first base.

Hank's career was cut short because of the injury and the fact he went into the service of his country in World War II But that afternoon when he collided with the runner at first base was the freak that cast a shadow over the rest of his baseball

So as "The Bird" sits in his room at Ford Hospital, he is just the newest member of The Freak Accident Club" that has played a prominent roll in the fate of the Tigers through

The Plymouth City Commission Monday night approved a tree planting and trimming program at an annual investment of about $13,000.

Although the policy was approved, the funds won't be voted upon until the commission gets around to final adoption of the 1977-78 operating budg-

The proposed budget includes $6,000 for tree trimming and another $7,500 for tree planting. The proposed budget doesn't include, however, the $6,000 that would be needed to replace dying trees in the downtown business dis-

THE TREE PLANTING program provides that the city will, on request, plant trees in residential areas in the city right-of-way between the curb and sidewalk

For a fee of $25, the city will arrange to have the tree planted if the homeowner agrees to maintain it. During the first two years, if the tree dies for lack of care it would be replaced only at the homeowner's expense. If the tree dies from any other cause during the first two years, it will be replaced at no additional cost to the

The city is now paying about $65 per tree to plant in residential areas.

A 1974 study shows that the city has about 2,250 trees and should have 900 more. To meet this goal over four years, the city hopes to spend $12,000 each year including residential partici-

THE TREE PROGRAM also calls for the city to spend $6,000 a year for five years for tree trimming to remove dead wood and provide clearance for electrical lines and traffic.

The city also will plant trees along major streets for a fee of $25 where it is unnecessary to remove a portion of the sidewalk, such as for the businesses along Ann Arbor Road.

The commission still must decide whether and how to replace some 25 trees in the downtown district, planted a few years ago, which are dying from a canker (Sycamore Anthra-

The city now has requests from residents to plant 55 trees. The 55 trees will be planted from using funds in the current budget. Any new requests for residential trees will be scheduled next fall and will involve payment of the $25 fee which takes effect July 1

He subsequently became a foreman at the Grey Iron Casting plant in Saginaw and a production manager at a metal casting plant in Tonawanda, N.Y.

He was appointed general superintendent of production at the Tonawanda plant in 1959 and assumed similar positions at the Massena, N.Y., aluminum die casting plant in 1960 and Saginaw Grey Iron Casting later

Johnson became plant manager of the Saginaw casting plant in 1964 and was named plant manager of the former Chevrolet (now GM assembly di-

Johnson was promoted to regional plant manager in 1970 and in 1973 was appointed to his most recent position as regional plant manager with responsibility for six plants, including the Livonia spring and bumper plant.

He is a graduate of the University of Michigan where he was a star football tackle in 1945 and 1947. He also completed advanced management training at Emory University in Georgia and served as a U.S. Navy officer in World War II.

Johnson, a resident of Plymouth for some time, is on the board of directors of the Canton-Northville-Plymouth YMCA. His wife Nancy also is active in community affairs, serving on the board of directors of the Plymouth Community Fund and Plymouth Salvation Army.

Are our teachers disposable goods?

It is unbelievable that our school district is making all these grandiose plans for the coming school year without a contract with their teachers.

The classroom is where all education takes place, not in the administration offices on Harvey Street nor in the school board meeting room. There is no way, legally, that our school board can institute their plan of 45-15 without a contract with their teach-

There is probably no segment of our society that is working today under the working conditions of your teachers. By state law these condtions can be set by the school board and teachers have no recourse except one-they can quit. Sad to say, many of your fine teachers are contemplating this move. If this happens who will suffer? Not the school board, not the administrators on Harvey Street, but our children. I don't think this is what the people of Plymouth-Canton want.

Our board is trying to play the role of "Big Brother," telling us what is good for us. They have forgotten the fact they are supposed to represent us, teachers, taxpayers and children, not dictate to us. They have continually ignored input from their staff of trained professionals and taxpayers of the community as to the upgrading of the education of our children.

Earlier, their excuse was no money We gave them that money in September. I have yet to see a published report accounting for the way these funds are being used for the purpose

True, more than 60 non-teaching positions have been created since September while classroom size has increased. If there is no money to hire more teachers to reduce class size, where does the money come from to add these non-teaching positions? Probably from the interest on the money they should be paying their teachers for a contrat settlement, and inadequate instructional supplies.

So much has been published by our school board about their offer of 30 per cent over a three-year period that this must be commented upon. They include the improvement of salary which takes place as a teacher grows in experience for the first 11 years of their teaching experience (increment). They have used the eighth to ninth step of the present salary schedule on which to base this. They

Pros would steal wood

About $2,500 worth of lumber was stolen from three new home construction sites in Plymouth Township last week, and Michigan State Police think the thefts are related.

All of the thefts took place in the Quail Hollow subdivision, and, so far, the thieves have shown a preference for plywood. Some $1,000 in 4x8 sheets was taken from a home on Tennyson Drive; another $1,000 in 4x8s was carted away from a house on Denise Court. A third heist from a house on Green Valley Road provided the crooks with another $500 in plywood.

"All of the thefts were pretty professaid Trooper David Gentry. 'I don't think they were done by individuals looking for wood for their own

"If I had to guess, I'd say that some small, fly-by-night construction outfit is working the area. They steal material and then work cheaply Enough wood was stolen to build several garages.

from our readel have failed to tell you, the public supporters of education, that 38 per cent of the staff doesn't receive this increase in salary. Your beginning teachers don't receive this nor do your teachers who have more than 12 years of experience in this district. This should tell you something as to the thinking of the board of education.

Do they really care about providing top level education for our children or are teachers providing a baby sitting service for the community? We need the experience of our teachers of long tenure. In the board's present offer their needs are being ignored.

The prime concern of our board over the past few years hasn't been the educational needs of our children but one of economic expediency. No one ever made an immediate dollarwith education. This has been the method by which our society has pulled itself out of the cave to modern technology. Education costs money. be it private or public. It isn't a profit making enterprise.

I think the most pressing issue of the moment isn't 45-15, millage, or the bond vote, but settling a fair contract with the people who teach our children in the classroom—your teachers Without them there is no education taking place.

Educator argues merit of modular

As a 20-year resident of Plymouth. a graduate of the Plymouth School District, and an educator, I am disturbed by current attitudes and developments concerning the quality of education in my hometown.

I refer specifically to certain members of the community, school board, and faculty who may disapprove of modular scheduling at Centennial Educational Park (CEP). Most of the "problems" that exist at CEP in areas such as attendance, basic skills, achievement and observable in-school behavior aren't unique among today's high schools. To discredit modular scheduling on the basis of any unsubstantiated claims of failure is a disservice to students.

Plymouth School District's tradition of producing successful and responsible individuals of society must be preserved. Historically this has been accomplished by encouraging students' maturing and independence in realizing their talents and potentials

The implementation of modular scheduling has been a giant step in the direction of maintaining this standard throughout the combined Plymouth-Canton school system. Students must meet the demands of a work schedule during high school and upon graduation. Modular scheduling allows students to take responsibility for their decisions to meet these adult commitments

The "problem" with modular scheduling is simply that it is different. Intitial contact with the system is a shock for parents, students and teachers Students, because of the staggered schedule of their school day are constantly coming and going, moving freely from task to task. This experience is similar to coping with one's first job or going to a community col-

Becoming a disciplined adult is a challenge that our rapidly changing society demands. This challenge doesn't exist in schools with traditional scheduling. Going to the same class at the same time and place, five times per week, easily lends itself to student boredom and teacher stagnation. Students become overdependent on a routine which precludes self-discipline. Teachers become overdependent on habitual presentation of lessons and many get into an "instructional rut." As a teacher, I have worked in a large school system where traditional scheduling and curriculum produced students with little self-discipline or knowledge of how to cope with their everyday lives. Conformity to a rigid. traditional scheduling system in Plymouth-Canton would eliminate the considerable advantages of a CEP education. I would be stating my case too simply if I didn't admit problems exist at CEP. It is apparent from reading the Observer articles and letters which discuss issues involving CEP, that some students have difficulty handling the freedom and responsibility. Perhaps this is because their contact with CEP is the first time they have been awarded any control over their environment. These students need the council of parents, teachers, and administrators to realize that the system is treating them as adults and that they must try to meet up to this responsibility.

Last fall, the faculty and administration planned to institute a program called STP (Student-Teacher Planning) to help students adjust more effectively. Because this program is new, a great deal of cooperation and extra initiative is needed on the part of the faculty and administration. These essential efforts have been hindered by the lack of a teacher con-

I am thankful for the education I received in Plymouth and am proud of Plymouth's distinction as a leader and innovator among Michigan school systems. I challenge Plymouth-Canton parents to investigate the reputation of the school district's educational standards. Any change could affect your child's chance to compete and succeed in society at large. Personallv. I hope that modualr scheduling is preserved, improved upon, and not eliminated by a few individuals who are unwilling to work hard to maintain Plymouth's record of educational excellence.

I have a daughter attending Salem High, who is doing very well to utilize it, but self-motivation starts when a child is very young and if the environment isn't in the home, how in the world do you expect the teachers in the high school to do the job, when in reality a parent is the one who is supposed to do the motivating of their children

I have never seen free, open sex, students high on alcohol or drugs, and it remains for me to see the filth and grime at the high schools. As far as the filty language between student and teacher-if this does exist. I think this has to be environmental also.

In my opinion, Plymouth has one of the finest, if not the best school system in the Detroit suburban area. Any one who has problems in this system with the opportunities that are offered, would have difficulty whether they were on modular or traditional

editorial opinion

When a charity knocks, ask to see identification

There always will be unscrupulous individuals attempting to gain personal profit by misrepresenting themselves as agents of a worthwhile charitable organization

As long as there are charitable groups soliciting funds door-to-door, the likelihood exists that persons will attempt fraud by falsely claiming to be collecting money for that organization

It's too bad because such tactics are damaging to the credibility of charitable groups in general. Organizations have enough trouble conducting *door-to-door drives without having their efforts weakened by such tactics.

A RECENT EXAMPLE of misrepresentation has occurred in the Plymouth-Canton community with persons going door-to-door collecting money. supposedly for the Easter Seal Society

The phony collectors claimed to be working for the Plymouth Youth Center as volunteers for the Wayne County Easter Seal Society

A spokesman for the society stresses that the society has made no arrangement with the vouth center for solicitation. The youth center also confirms that it has not authorized or asked anyone to collect funds for the Easter Seal Society. This particular misrepresentation is damaging not only to the society's efforts to solicit funds but also to the vouth center. Both agencies are being misrepresented to the public.

In addition to the problem of both agencies' names being misused, is the obvious harm done to residents who get ripped off.

RESIDENTS SHOULD be especially careful when solicitors come around to their homes. But, hopefully, this caution won't prevent us from giving to those charities which we otherwise would

The Wayne County Easter Seal Society is presently conducting its annual Neighbor-to-Neighbor fundraising drive door-to-door. The Society needs your support and would appreciate any financial contribution you make when a campaign worker comes to your door

To make sure the request is legitimate, ask the solicitor for identification. Each solicitor has a fundraising kit which includes identification from the society which legitimizes that person's right to collect funds. Ask for it before you give. If you have any questions, call the society at 722-3055 any weekday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

So support the Easter Seal Society and similar charities by giving what you can. But before you give, ask for ID. The charitable groups and their solicitors will appreciate your caution because they don't want you to get ripped off either.

The season of rebirth

Easter Week has come to mean a few days off school, a time when the family can travel to Florida where the temperature is mid-summery. For the merchant there is a boom in sales. To the contractor and real estate agent, there is renewed interest in new housing

Time was, however, when spring meant rebirth. To Christians the season marks the observance of Jesus' resurrection from the dead. To Jews it is the Passover, the time when the Red Sea waters divided and they passed to liberty in the promised land. In ancient France, it was the season for adventures for Robin des Bois, who we know as Robin Hood. This season used to be the start of the year until. for some strange reason, New Year's was shifted to the obscure month of January. Townships hold their annual meetings and start their fiscal years in this season, but other levels of government have shifted their budget openings to July, October and even December.

So as time goes on, the opening weeks of spring seem to have less and less symbolic significance to mankind. The kite flier and trout fisherman are ready for action, but other outdoors lovers won't be active until May. Baseball season is starting, with or without the consent of the fans, but the crowds won't be out for a few weeks yet.

Even though there's little greenery on trees this side of Kentucky, we can notice things that make us feel better. We office-bound personnel are able to leave work while it's still daylight, and the frequent balminess in the air makes us all feel better. The season of rebirth is as enjoyable as ever

Equal Rights shouldn't be political issue in Michigan

By now, the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution should have gone away as an issue, at least in Michigan where the legislature ratified it in 1975. Both the U.S. and state attorneys general have ruled that a constitutional amendment, once ratified, can't be rescinded. But scare stories keep ERA controversial any-

Here in suburbia, R. Robert Geake credited his

March state senate victory to anti-ERA feeling. And suburban Girl Scout leaders, protesting their national organization's and metropolitan council's endorsement of ERA, say their only quarrel is that they didn't get a chance to vote. although the truth is that it's mainly anti-ERA forces raising the ruckus.

THE PROPOSED 27th amendment to the Constitution states: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex." The rest of the text concerns implementation.

The key to what it all means lies in the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee report, which the courts are certain to consult before deciding ERA-re-

After stating that "sex should not be a factor in determining the legal rights of men or women, the judiciary report got to the heart of the need for ERA: Existing laws have failed to touch many areas of discrimination; they often have substantial exemptions; they are implemented too slowly.

Then it makes a point of interest to scouting, sororities and fraternities: "The amendment will affect only governmental action; the private actions and private relationships of men and women are

THE JUDICIARY report also neatly disposes of many anti-ERA scare stories

• Protective labor laws—"Many of these laws are not protective at all, but rather are restrictive. For example, laws limiting the hours a woman may work often have the effect of discriminating against her. Protective laws should protect both sexes.

 Public toilets and sleeping quarters—The right to privacy established by the U.S. Supreme Court would "permit separation of the sexes with respect to such places as public toilets, as well as sleeping quarters of public institutions.

· Military draft-Men and women would be treated equally. The same reasons for exempting men would apply to women. The fear that mothers would be drafted away from their children was branded "totally and completely un-

· Domestic relations-Laws in this field would have to be based on individual circumstances and needs, not on sex stereotypes.

 Homosexual "marriages"—Congressional de bate produced the opinion that IF a state permitted marriages between two males, it must likewise permit the marriage of two females.

So much for the scare stories about ERA

WHAT ERA WILL do is give women equality under the law. Underline those words "under the Existing laws, though numerous, fail to take care of such things as discrimination in employment, wages and credit.

Existing laws are piecemeal. Existing laws are implemented slowly. Existing laws cover limited areas. When state laws are at issue, a state legislature may repeal them.

ERA extends to ALL women . . . in all states . . . protecting all legal rights.

The area Girl Scout leaders, had they truly understood ERA, should be supporting the stand of their national and metropolitan leaders on ERA and settling their voting rights fuss quietly.

And Sen. Geake, though he may have found an anti-ERA stand was good for votes, does his district a disservice when he pretends Michigan's ratification of ERA can be changed. Geake should be educating his anti-ERA admirers rather than exploiting them.

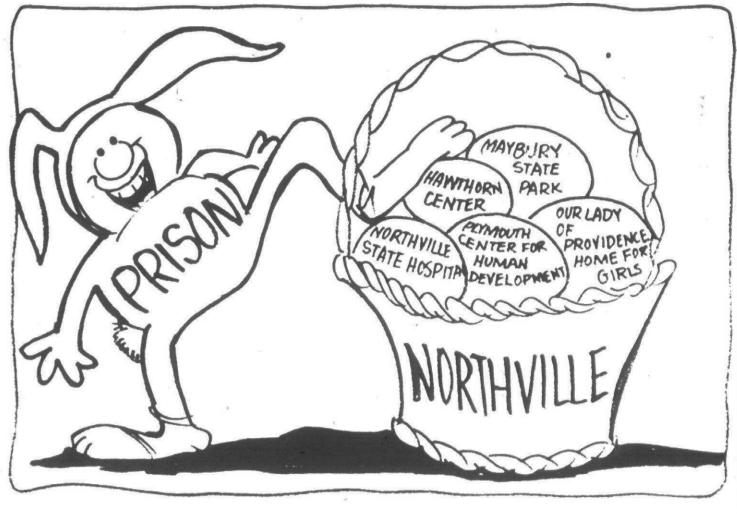

ERA represents legal equality-and responsibility-for women.

MICHIGAN PRESS ASSOCIATION SUBURBAN NEWSPAPERS OF AMERICA NATIONAL NEWSPAPER ASSOCIATION

One suburb fights being a social dumping ground

Time was when crime and its ravages on society were taboo topics for politicians.

Instead of ideas on how to get prompt and uniform punishment of convicted criminals, we got discourses on the sociological causes of crime. And instead of thoughts on how to stop plea bargaining in the courts, we got treatises about how putting criminals in jail would stunt their rehabili-

In short, time was when politicians appeared more interested in the rights of criminals than in the rights of society or the victims of crime.

Today this has all changed.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson has been making a lot of waves with his proposals to tighten up on what is plainly a sloppy parole system-it releases a lot of convicted criminals back into society before they are ready for it.

Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan has been getting much publicity with his proposals for mandatory minimum sentences for anyone convicted of a felony.

Michigan law now holds that if you are convicted of a crime committed while you have a gun on you, you'll get an extra flat two years in the slammer in addition to the regular sentence.

ALL OF THIS is very helpful to a public which is getting sick and tired of constantly living in fear of crime and criminals.

It poses one big problem. If we are going to have tougher laws dealing with parole and stricter sentences, we are going to have more people in prison than we had in the past. And if we are going to have more criminals in prison, we've got to have more prison space in which to house

Now, this is expensive, because prisons in Michigan are already jammed to the bars. Adding even more prisoners will require constructing or buying more cell space.

But we've got to do it. To argue that we ought to be giving criminals stiffer sentences and then not providing space to put them in is nothing less than irresponsible

WHICH IS WHY the furor now raging in the suburb of Northville Township presents a tough ques-

Some time ago, somebody proposed that the State of Michigan buy the former Wayne County Child Development Center, located in Northville Township, and convert it to a prison.

The idea has some merit. Wayne County would like to sell the property because it's expensive to maintain. The state evidently has the money to buy it. And the buildings there are already in existence and could be converted into prison space

Observation

by PHILIP H. POWER

There are also a number of negatives. The center was never intended for use as a prison, but rather as a campus for children with learning problems. It looks like a picturesque college campus. It certainly will not be easily converted into a medium-security prison.

Furthermore, more than one-third of the land in Northville Township is already off the tax rolls Northville State Hospital, Plymouth Center for Human Development, Hawthorn Center for disturbed children. Maybury Urban State Park, Our Lady of Providence Home for Girls, the women's division of the Detroit House of Correction. Hines Parkway and the Michigan State Police area post. district headquarters and crime lab.

The taxpaying citizens of Northville Township argue-persuasively, in my view-that their community is already overrun with non-revenue generating land.

People in the township also point out they have enough troubles with walk-aways from the state hospital and Dehoco without having to worry now about escapees from a medium-security prison.

ON BALANCE, I think the people in the North ville area are right. Converting the child devel opment center to a prison is overburdening a community already under enough strain.

But there is simply no doubt that the state needs more prison space-promptly.

One obvious idea is to convert Kincheloe Air Force Base, near Sault Ste. Marie, into a prison The Air Force announced last week it will close the facility, throwing the community, which is already hard hit by unemployment, into an uproar Part of the base could be turned quickly into a prison, and the jobs associated with it would help ease the economic shock produced by closing the people felt their rights had been violated and they rebelled. It was not that some other country, such as France, chided Great Britain that it was not treating the colonists fairly.

If the latter had happened, rather than the affected people making the move, it would clearly have been interference by one nation in another nation's business.

The American philosophy is democracy: Rule of the people, by the people and for the people. That means no kings or special privileges. They say that there are no more avid crusaders

There are times we have backed a dictator who was frustrating the will of the majority of his countrymen because we didn't like the political philosophy of that majority. Such was the case in Cuba with Batista.

No one likes to be reformed by someone else, particularly if they don't feel they're sinners; Our new national philosophy of standing up for human rights is going to get us into trouble if we force it on others.

First, we are defining human rights with our own definitions.

Our philosophy of government of, by, and for the people means that the majority of the public of an individual nation should decide what is right and what is wrong, not some other nation. Unless we are prepared to start holy wars to convert the world, the new national philosophy is straining relationships that could eventually lead us to war; This comes, ironically, at a time when the world has been working toward peace.

Reformers from other counties have no business interfering with how other peoples run their w governments.

Division of SUBURBAN COMMUNICATIONS CORPORATION CRAIG PIECHURA. Editor

From our readers-

I was rather disturbed when I read an article in the local newspapers about an effort to start a campaign to recall Canton Supervisor Harold Stein. I attend most of the township regular board meetings and I can't see where Stein has done anything wrong or anything that warrants a re-

First of all, as I see it, the supervisor alone cannot arbitrarily make any decisions which would affect the community—such as the police chief, growth control, sign ordinanceunless he has the support of the majority of the board. There are seven elected board members on the township board and nothing can be approved unless the majority of the board supports it.

So, on what grounds, may I ask, are Donahue, LaBell and Bundarin basing their charges for a recall'

In the same article I read where Mrs. LaBell stated that she can't see how Stein can serve the people without listening to them or hearing them

Anyone who has ever attended a Canton board meeting knows this statement is not true. There is a place on the agenda that gives anyone in attendance time to express his or her concerns as well as speak on other matters appearing on the agenda. I feel that the Canton board has a very liberal policy and there is no reason why a resident cannot be heard.

ANOTHER COMMENT by Mrs. La-Bell was that her concern lies with the welfare of the community. I have been informed that she is a newcomer here in Canton with less than two years as a resident, so I can't see how she could be such an expert on community affairs in such a short fime. Donahue is right when he stated that the majority of Canton residents would not support a recall Stein campaign. About the ZBA controversy. Donahue is right again. This (ZBA issue) is a piddly thing and of not much concern to the average taxpayer.

I must agree with Trustee Brian Schwall that this was "cronyism" when lame duck supervisor Robert Greenstein, after being beaten soundly by Stein in the primaries. came back and appointed himself and his cronies to the ZBA. I'm sure Donahue is well aware of the procedures used by newly-elected officials, may it be the president of the USA and on down the line: "To the victor belongs the spoils.

Usually, when a new official is elected to office, he makes his own appointments to the different communities and that is as it should be

ANOTHER CRITIC, Peter Bundarin, wasted taxpayers' money in a recount and now is wasting more taxpayers' money and time on a piddly recall which has no foundation. Bundarin could be a greater asset to the community if he tried to cooperate and work with the Canton administration instead of against it.

Smokler purchased the property from Michigan National Bank in April 1976. The residents are concerned that property values will decrease because homes are appraised by taking adjacent home values into consideration.

"WE HAD AN UNUSUAL experience after last week's rehearsal. said Wayne Dunlap, conductor of the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra.

He explained. "It was a rainy, windy day and Bill Beitner called me in Grand Rapids to say he would fly over and pick me up for rehearsal." The conductor commutes from Grand Rapids for Monday night rehearsals in Central Middle School. He said he was pleased not to be driving and admitted the flight to Plymouth was a little bumpy.

For young women in this area about to take that giant step to the altar, there's a party and a wealth of information in store April 11.

Welcome Wagon International, Inc. will present on the evening after Easter the first of a series of NearlyWed parties, designed to help the busy bride-to-be get everything together for the big day.

Planned for engaged women in the Livonia, Plymouth and Northville ares, the new series of parties will bring in representatives of area businesses that deal with weddings-bridal salons, photography studios, printing firms, bakeries and interior deco-

"We want it to be an enjoyable evening for the girls and their guests, and we'll have refreshments and prizes for them, but especially we want to offer them a service to make their next few months easier."

Canton is full of talented people. All one has to do to find them is to know where to look. On Monday nights at Geneva Presbyterian Church, a group of women known as Mad and Mellow can be found in rehearsal. The seven vocalists make up "Mellow" and their pianist is "Mad."

What began as a fun interest activity through the Canton Newcomers last September has turned into an almost professional sounding choral group. They work hard on their songs and take the group very seriously. They have many selections they harmonize andeach works on her own soloist offering.

Individualy they are:

Madeline Green, pianist for the group. The other women say they could not get along without her. When picking a name for themselves they had to have her's stand out from the rest, therefore she is known as "Mad." She loves playing for the girls because they have so much fun and it gives her a chance to play up-to-date pieces. She also is the pianist for the AAUW Chorus. Madeline and her husband Clay have one son, Steve.

Carmen Dellas is group coordinator. She makes the final decisions on what the group sings and what they forget. Listening very attentively she can tell if a song just dosn't sound right and is not worth the effort or time to improve it. She also knows when a piece sounds terrific. Carmen and her husband George and daughter Melanie are moving temporarily to Pennsylvania. She plans on making many trips back to Canton to perform with the group until she returns permanently in two years. The others will miss having her discipline and humor.

Pat Davidson is the group's organizer. She arranged for the use of the church where they rehearse and she is reponsible for arranging where they perform. The equipment such as mikes and sound systems are donated to the greoup for their use by Anderson Music Studio in Plymouth, where they also receive discounts on the many pieces of music they need. Pat collects the items Andersons in her van and delivers them. Pat sings soprano and one of her favorite solo seclections is "Send in the Clowns." Pat and husband Don have two children, Mike and Holly

Debra Druce calls herself a filler voice in the group. She is a balancer from the very high voices to the very low. She commented that she had joined the singing group for fun, not knowing they were planning on turning semi-professional. Her voice is a definite asset for the harmony. Debra and husband David have two children, Jeremy and Norman.

Darlene Schwalm is the newest member of the group. She is Debra's sister and the only one not from Canton. She lives in Livonia. Darlene is in her freshman year at Schoolcraft College. She sings harmony and is practicing to be the group's back-up pian-

Norma Huetteman is the more serious vocalist perferring fewer modern and more well known selections. She has a very strong voice and sings "Climb Every Mountain" with the vigor and strength that such a song needs. Norma and her husband Irv have four children ranging from ages 11 to 24.

Diane Cuper perfers country western music above others. She has a soprano voice and does a beaufiful job singing "Danny's Song." She is a real wit and keeps the others in constant laughter. She says she hopes no one will hear her knees knocking when she sings her solo. Diane and husband Jerry have two daughters, AnnJanette and Dana Becky Winnie is the musical arranger. She rewrites the music for each individual voice. Without her, the others do not know how they would get their selections right. She has had two years of formal singing lessons along with four years of flute lessons. Becky says her husband Dan picks up things about the music that she occasionally may miss.

TOGETHER these women make up "Mad and Mellow." They performed at the amateu r talent show held at Geneva last month. Last Christmas they sang for the Newcomers luncheon. They are now getting ready to do a more involved show for the Newcomers June luncheon at Win Schuler's in Ann Arbor

They all love to sing and get along together extremely well. They work very hard and are a great help to one another. A lot of laughs and jokes are batted back and forth during a practice session but also much affection and caring is displayed.

They would love to sing at the fall festival this year and are checking into the possibility. They are perfectionists when it comes to their singing. Anyone looking for entertainment for their club or organization would truly get a talented and enjoyable group of women if they would contact any member of "Mad and Mellow.

Civil War historian tracked down 'J.S.'

Civil War historian Abbott M. Gibney of Birmingham will be guest speaker at the April 14 meeting of the Plymouth Historical Society in the lower level of the Plymouth Historical Gibney, a free-lance advertising writer, is a member and past president of the Michigan Regimental Round Table, the Livingston County Historical Society, the Historical Society of Michigan.

His great-grandmother was responsible for awakening his first spark of interest in the Civil War. He was 12 years old when Grandma Tubbs of Howell gave him a Confederate $5 bill and an old history of the Civil War. The following Christmas, his mother gave him a book which reproduced Matthew Brady's famous Civil War photographs.

Gibney was hooked. Before he reached his teens he was destined to become one of the state's leading Civil War buffs.

He has written a number of magazine articles on various phases of the war and was particularly interested in the Michigan Cavalry Brigade.

THE JOURNAL of a Civil War soldier discovered in 1969 led Gibney on one of the most involved research projects of his career.

"I really didn't have time to do more than just look through it at first," said Gibney. "I put it on the shelf and it wasn't until a year later that I started reading it. The more I read, the more curious I was about ic. "It's not something you can stay with very long without it bothering your eyes.

Writer of the journal was simply "J.S." Gibney set out to unravel the mystery of his identity

"I assumed the writer's last name was Cole, because that was the name of the family who found the journal. But, there were references to 'my brother, Orville Green. It was further complicated because although the journal came from Livingston County, there were references to places in Washtenaw County.

"Having read the entire journal, I knew J.S. served in the the First Michigan Lancers which disbanded before it was mustered into federal service." He also knew his birthdate was March 3.

"I WENT TO the Burton Historical Collection in the main Detroit Public Library. In checking through the regimental roster of the 16th Michigan, I looked for any name with the initials J.S. and that birthdate. There was only one, Joseph Stanfield of Conway Town-

The journal begins in mid-November 1861 and ends in mid-Jume 1862.

'Stanfield, at 26, was somewhat older than the average soldier. He observed many things-the places he saw, the crops, the weather-and he wrote about them and his own feelings in great detail."

J.S. died in June 1962 at the Battle of Gaines Mill, Va. which also is called the battle of New Bridge and the Bettle of First Cold Harbor.

The Easter parade at the Plymouth Center for Human Development will include some colorful fashions made especially for children in wheelchairs. The dresses were sewn by the Modern Moms Study group of Livonia, an affiliate of Wayne County Extension Service. Looking over some of the Easter finery were Lillian Knapp of Plymouth and Margaret Schieta of Livonia.

Mother steals 'The Show-off'

By ETHEL SIMMONS

Mother knows best-well almost-in "The Show-Off" at Meadow Brook Theatre. New York actress Polly Rowles, starring as the mother who battles with her daughter's show-off suitor, wages delightful war.

Her down-to-earth practicality deflates the balloon of pretense that characterizes Aubrey Piper (Richard Jamieson). As the show-off, he came on awfully strong, positively braying. A little more restraint would have made the back-slapping railroad clerk more likeable and believable.

There's, no doubt Aubrey Piper couud charm the entire family (and audience), as well as the Fishers' impressionable daughter Amy, if he AUBREY'S CHARM barely surfaced, although as the plot bears out he does have some right to be smug.

The stage set, designed by Robert Joseph Mooney, shows the Fishers' living room and is a re-creation of a big. comfortable but homey place to hang your hat in Philadelphia, 1924

As Amy, who falls in love with the show-off. Patricia Harless went from a giggly girl in the first act to a serious married woman facing real problems in acts two and three. She handled the role nicely.

Sister Clara, portrayed by Cheryl Giannini, was alternately aloof, helpful and unhappy, adjusting to her familv's and her own fortune. Ms. Giannini managed to convey these moods effectively.

FRED THOMPSON as her husband. Frank Hyland, didn't have a really challenging part. But he was deft in playing the husband too busy with business and considerations other than his wife.

Travelers find ways to explore

As jet travel makes the world grow smaller and the beaten path grows more beaten every year, adventurous travelers must search further and harder to find new places to explore and new ways to

They need look no further than the 1977 Mountain Travel Catalog, an illustrated 64-page catalog which describes more than 70 international back-country outings.

Mountain Travel, a California firm which was a pioneer in the adventure travel market, has been finding ways to really get off the beaten path for almost 10 years. In 1977, they offer a full year's program of outings and expeditions to virroally every wild and romantic corner of the globe, ranging from river-running to camel caravans, from country walks to mountaineering expeditions.

Among the 70 outings for the year will be such experiences as cross the Sahara on a camel, guided by blue-veiled Touareg tribesmen; "bushwalking" in the mountains of Tasmania and New Zealand; traversing the northern jungles of India on an elephant safari; exploring the untraveled fjordwilderness of Patagonia, the southernmost tip of South America, by inflatable raft; volcano-climbing in the Ecuadorian and Bolivian Andres; or trekking on the Baltoro Glacier in Pakistan's breathtaking Karakoram Range.

Mineteen new adventures are planned for 1977, including a boating and backpacking expedition in the fjords of Greenland, a trans-Himalayan trek through the Buddhist mountain province of Ladakh in northern India, a "vagabond" trip through the countryside of Greece and Crete, a sailing adventure in Scotland's Heb- Travel, 1398 Solano Avenue, Alrides Islands, and a backpacking bandy, Calif. 94706. BY FAR the most popular place for Mountain Travel trips is the lofty Himalayan kingdom of Nepal, a fascinating melting pot of Hindu and Buddhist cultures set in the largest concentration of mountains in the world. Here, hundreds of jagged peaks rise 23,000 feet and higher into the brilliant sky and endless miles of serpentine trails criss-cross the pricturesque coun-

Twenty different treks are offered in this hiker's paradise in 1977, ranging from an eight-day "introductory" trek through the Sherpa villages in the foothills of the Jugal Himal to a rugged 35-day alpine trek on the high passes and glaciers of the Mount Everest area.

Who goes on Mountain Travel trips? Travelers, not tourists. People who seek high adventure in their journeys rather than luxury and pampering; people who would rather walk than ride a vehicle, who would rather participate than just observe, people who delight in sharing the unusual experiences of back-country travel with a few like-minded companions.

Mountain Travel likes to keep their group sizes small - usually averaging about 12 people (with a maximum of 20). Each trip is accompanied by an experienced professional leader - many are wellknown climbers, explorers, or naturalists, chosen for their knowledge of the local culture, language, and terrain, or for their mountaineering expertise.

Trips last from two to seven weeks; prices range from $800 to $3,275. For more information on any of the trips, write for a free copy of the 1977 Mountain Travel Catalog. Contact: Mountain

Beautiful ways with spring's flowers

By MARGARET MILLER

The flowers that bloom in the spring can be stuck in a bunch in any old vase, but some design experts who gathered here last week have far better ideas on what to do with them.

They showed some of their best creations to members of District One of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, meeting 400 strong in the Plymouth Hilton with the Livonia Garden Club as hostesses.

Members of the Pilgrim Garden Club of Plymouth attended the meeting. They were Jan Dersey, Sharon Rucinski, Diane Bodell, Nancy Chapman, Pat Robinson, Donna Sarrach, Darlene Finnegan, Cheryl Gibbons, Suzanne Coker and Sue Byerly

Flower arranging in its many forms, oriental, contemporary and traditional, gave the garden club women from all over the metropolitan area some tips on putting together attractive floral displays and also some striking examples.

It's only in the last century that anyone attempted to do anything more than stick a bunch of flowers in a handy container, pointed out Myrtle Palmer of Grosse Pointe, who did a handsome traditional centerpiece.

And Dorothy Trickey, a Bloomfield Hills resident and new District One president, mentioned that only since 1920 has flower arranging been considered an art form.

BUT AS AN art form it now has many variations, as those two women demonstrated, along with Edwina Syndyk of Dearborn Heights, Jan Dolan of Farmington Hills, Ann Gehrke of Birmingham and Lois Pollock of Or-

Japanese arrangements should have great appeal to those who do not want to invest heavily in expensive flowers, said Mrs. Syndyk.

"With knowledge of Ikebana, which means materials in water, you can pick a few branches and add a few flowers and put together a lively item for your home," she told the women.

What she put together was an arrangement of branches and pink roses in traditional Sieka, which has strict rules governing the proportionate of three main lines, the shin, the soe and the tai, and another in the less formal Moribana

Both, she said, involve learning basic patterns, "and then the arranger can have the joy of making variations to suit the materials and the taste of the individual.

A FEELING of informality was the key to the abstract arrangement offered by Lois Pollock and the collage by Ann Gehrke.

"Abstracts are a lot of fun-I call them tongue in cheek and you have to smile when you do them," said Mrs.

"But there is no reason an abstract should not be beautiful as well as thought-provoking.

Hers started with an orange and white tie-dyed sheet, "and the white suggested white material, so I used bamboo and sprayed it

She added fabricated flowers in deep orange, with foliage "from one of my dark green houseplants. Mrs. Gehrke titled her collage

'Tulips' because it highlighted pods that reminded her of tulips, and she added some of the spring blooms in

The pods, along with jute and snake-wood, are glued to plywood, she said, and the tulips can be put in for ac-

Creativity also was evident in Mrs. Gehrke's "Which Came First" capsule setting, which included a piece of material whimsically printed with chickens, a covering of chicken wire and flowers arranged in a chick feeder container.

JAN DOLAN showed a "stabile," defined as an arrangement designed to give the feeling of movement, as well as one that actually moved on a turn-

The former included copper tubing

on a block of wood and wisteria vine with a single protea, a Hawaiian bloom. Fantail willow in a stoneware container with two groups of daisies created the moving shadow as the latter arrangement turned slowly

Mrs. Palmer drew the most enthusiasm as she displayed a great mass of blooms in salmon pinks, yellows and white arranged for a centerpiece on a long table

"I've been arranging flowers for 49 years, she said, "and I still most enjoy the traditional design."

The silver container she described as "the most elegant thing in my house and it doesn't even belong to me-it was a retirement gift for my

She said she uses several thicknesses of wet paper towel to keep her flower-holder in place, and when working on a large, traditional arrangement, divides it roughly into quad-

"And you don't have to use a lot of baby's breath if you work with different sized flowers," she added.

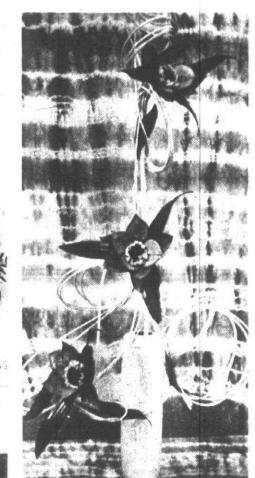

rants and fills each section similarly.

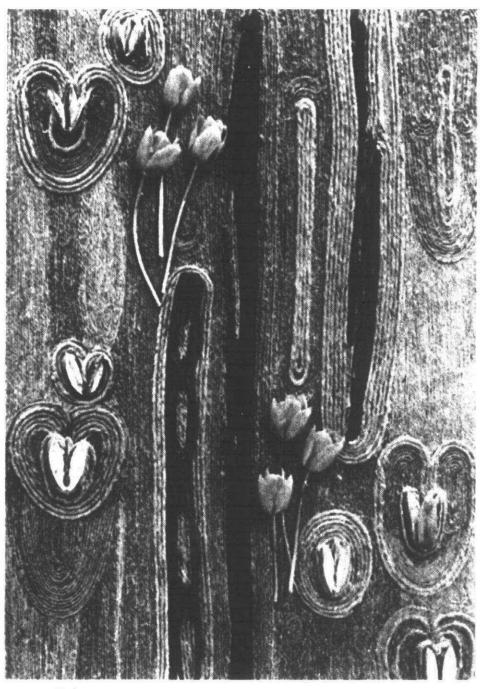

Tranquillity is the essence of an oriental arrangement with flowering branch and roses.

"Which Came First?" has both the chicken and the egg.

Observer's Eddie Edgar honored again

By LEONARD POGER

Eddie Edgar was at the scene of the biggest story of career Saturday. but he was too busy being honored to cover it himself

The 79-year-old Observer columnist was the center of attention for most of Saturday morning and early afternoon as Livonia city officials lauded him for his contributions to the community and athletics here and throughout Michigan

Highlighting the tribute to Edgar, a Livonia resident for 39 years, was the renaming of Ford Ice Rink as "Eddie Edgar Sports Arena" in a ceremony attended by numerous federal, state, city officials and sports dignitaries

Edgar, whose sports writing career has spanned more than a half-century, was also honored at a luncheon at the Idyl Wyld clubhouse, attended by an estimated 150 persons.

"YOU ARE A LEGEND in your own time-we love you," said speaker Philip H. Power, Observer Newspapers co-publisher at the arena ceremony, attended by an estimated 200 persons.

"The characteristics of a community are seen in the personalities who

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell said that "everything Edgar has done has been as a builder." citing his efforts leading to the establishment of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and the Livonia Post Office.

"He is one of the great people of this nation.

LIVONIA MAYOR Edward McNamara and City Council President Robert McCann also praised Edgar and presented him with framed resolutions for his civic contributions.

The mayor called Edgar, the state's oldest active newspaper writer, has been a prime mover in Livonia's development.

Brrrrr! Snow, wind delays season openers

Spring is supposed to be here, isn't

The baseball, tennis and softball seasons for the Plymouth Centennial Park teams were scheduled to open Tuesday afternoon, but whipping snow and cold winds prevented any debuts.

Will baseball bitterness end between schools?

Will the bitter competition end-once and for all-this season? I'm speaking of the relationship between the Plymoth Salem and Plymouth Canton baseball teams.

I certainly hope this is the season that both teams can compete in a healthy manner—for the first time.

Ever since Canton opened its varsity athletic program four years ago, there never has been any peace between both baseball teams.

The height of that competition came in the summer of 1975 when Canton was ranked first in the state by the Detroit News and Salem won the state championship.

Since that season, both they act, in what they fueding that occurs. And fort and the two proteams have won two consecutive league championships in their respective conferences. These two teams have worked hard to make the Plymouth-Canton community a highly respected baseball area. And yet, I still see bitterness among both teams—each trying to outdue the other in how possible to avoid comparing both schools and the athletic teams because of the close proximity of the buildings.

But why do comparisons have to be so bitter where baseball is concerned?

Salem and Canton just finished battling each other on the basketball court last month in a district semifinal game. And while a lot was said about both teams, most of the competition remained on the court during the game with healthy spirit among the squads.

The same should hold true for baseball-but it hasn't yet. All the competition should remain on the field, not off the field. Both teams should stop bickering. Words shouldn't be exchanged. Let the actions of both

STOP THE PRISON IN WESTERN WAYNE COUNTY

The proposed 600 inmate MAXIMUM SECURITY prison is no longer just talk. A decision is about to be made, and all indication — from the Governor on down to County Commissioners — suggests that many politicians are favoring establishment of a state prison here.

We have only one last chance to protect our community from this disruptive threat. Continued apathy and complacency have about sold Northville and Plymouth area to the whims of Detroit!

It's time to flex our united muscle. Elected officials can still be forced to listen if they know that the opposition is not insignificant. That's why it is vital that we demonstrate our real strength now. If we don't act now it will be too late.

To show politicians that we mean business a massive people rally will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 9 on the grounds of the Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon Road, between Five and Six Mile roads, where the prison is planned.

We are aware of the state's needs. But the state and county must recognize our problems as well.

More than one-third of all of Northville Township is already used up by institutions and properties operated by the State, County and municipalities. Of the township's entire 10,700 acres, 3,600 are committed to such facilities as:

1—Detroit House of Correction

2-Northville State Hospital

3—Plymouth Center for Human Development

4-Wayne County Child Development Center

5—Hawthorn Center

6-Our Lady of Providence

7—Maybury Urban State Park

8—Edward Hines Parkway

Escapees from the various institutions in Western Wayne County and in Northville Township in particular are already creating potentially dangerous problems. Last year, for example, 107 women and 143 male inmates escaped from the Detroit House of Correction. On top of that 271 mental patients, some of them criminally insane, walked away or escaped from Northville State Hospital.

No other community has assumed as large a burden of governmental institutions as has Northville.

Aside from the institutions located here, Northville School District is operating the largest educational program in Michigan for mentally retarded children. Northville volunteered to do this. No other community in the state came forward to offer to educate these youngsters — most of whom are not even from our community.

Not only would the prison adversely affect our residential community, its location right across the street for the state's own institution for mentally retarded children is a potentially dangerous situation. Parents of these children have bitterly protested the prison as well.

Your personal letters will count heavily. Write to the following:

 Representatives Russell Hellman*
Richard A. Young*
William L. Jowett*
Gary M. Owen

Letters to the representatives should be addressed:

*In the case of these legislators you should include a note of appreciation for their pledged opposition to a Northville prison.

The Honorable William G. Milliken Office of the Governor State Capitol Lansing, Michigan 48903 Dear Governor Milliken

Come to the "STOP the PRISON" RALLY

Saturday, April 9 — 10 a.m. — Northville Township Hall (Site of Wayne County Child Development Center—Sheldon Road near 5 Mile)

We Need Your Financial Help, Too!

Our organization — the Western Wayne County Residents Association — is both non-profit and very "non-professional". For most of us it's our first experience at fighting for our rights in the political arena. It's costing us some money, probably several the usand dollars. If you're on our side, please send a check made out to Western Wayne County Residents Association, Box 49, Northville, Michigan 48167. If we should receive more money than is needed (highly unlikely), we promise to donate it to a worthy charity. Thank You.

Salem, Canton play in same Mack league

Six area high school baseball coaches have announced they have formed a new Connie Mack League for the coming summer and they are looking for two more area teams to join the circuit.

"I think we have six top teams and we're looking for two more," said Bob Atkins. Redford Union coach and spokesman for the new loop, the Adray Connie Mack League.

Other teams and coaches, as the league now stands, are Redford Thurston, Emil Majeski: Plymouth Salem. Brian Gilles; Plymouth Canton, Fred Crissey: Southfield. Cal Fletcher: Northville, Bob Kucher; and RU.

National Connie Mack rules and regulations on residency and age (18 and under) will be adhered to in the new league. Atkins said.

Teams will play single games on Tuesdays and Thursdays and doubleheaders on Saturdays for a 28-game schedule.

The first half league champ will meet the second half titlist on three consecutive days after the season in a playoff to decide the overall cham-

Atkins said that teams currently alligned with any other Connie Mack League will not be permitted to enter the new circuit.

Area coaches interested in entering their teams in the new league were asked to contact Atkins at Redford Union, 535-2000, or Kugher at Northville. 349-3400.

Atkins said the league will go with six teams unless two others express interest within the next several days.
