The Canton Connection

PHONE FOUL-UPS that have been putting bees in the bonnets of callers trying to reach Canton Township offices during the last couple weeks are going to be shortlived, say Canton officials. Installation of a new telephone system resulted in one of the main access trunk lines going down and other problems preventing proper connections. Residents are asked to be patient and re-dial as necessary until the difficulty is corrected, hopefully this week.

RECENT RESIGNATIONS from the Canton Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors have created two vacancies. Stepping down are Andy Panda of Knight's Inn and Marilyn Eddy of Community Reproductions. Replacing them for the rest of the year are Dr. Michael Shaft of Shaft Chiropractic and Tim Ford of Modern Insurance.

"Sincere appreciation is felt for (Panda's and Eddy's) past endeavors, in both time and effort," said Chamber President Catherine Foege. "We wish to welcome Messrs. Shaft and Ford to the board and wish them success." Panda and Eddy, who will remain active members at a committee level, resigned due to increased work loads at their respective businesses

AN EXPECTED vacancy on the Canton Public Library Board has not yet been filled Persons interested in the term expiring in 1988 are asked to contact Library Director Deborah O'Connor at 397-0999 or to mail a letter indicating their interest and experience, and an application by Aug. 31 to the Canton Publi Library, 1150 S. Canton Center Road, Canton, 48188.

The Library Board is directly elected and responsible for the management of the Canton Public Library. The body is independent, and its powers and responsibilities parallel those of a school board.

Board members, who are not compensated for their service, must be Canton residents. Members attend monthly evening meetings and occasional special sessions. Board members also serve on special and standing Libary Board committees.

RESIDENTS AND members of the Canton Chamber of Commerce will be invited to monthly "miniseminars" beginning at noon Wednesday. "In an effort to provide more and varied information . . . at meetings held the first Wednesday of each month, guest speakers from all walks of business will present a topic and entertain questions," announced the Chamber board. An informal buffet lunch will be served, providing persons with the opportunity to get acquainted, exchange business cards and make

Upcoming topics include an update on workers' compensation reform, security for retailers and

The first witness at the preliminary exam was the child's mother, Sandra Hubbard, 23, of Canton Township. Hubbard said she left work at 6 p.m. July 24 and drove straight to a Butwell residence, where Mackey lived with her boyfriend, Rick Frederick, 26.

Trees' fate lies in court

Out on a limb

By Diane Gale

Trees in front of Virginia and Riley Tadlock's home, on Sheldon Road north of Palmer, are standing especially tall.

Last month, other trees lining the street were felled to make room for a Wayne County road paving project in Canton, but the Tadlocks saved their scenic view from a similar fate by filing a lawsuit against the county.

Notices declaring a court-ordered restraining order dress the trees and prevent Holloway Construction - the contractor hired for the paving project - from chopping them down Canton Township, paying for the bulk of the road-paving project, will be added to the suit, said John Pomann, Tadlocks' attorney

On July 26, Wayne County Circuit Judge Roland Olzark heard arguments by Pomann and John Blahnik who is representing Wayne County. The attorneys will have until Aug. 9 to present their arguments.

BLAHNIK SAID a state law says public highways are defined as being four rods across, which includes the trees in question. Since Sheldon Road is a highway the trees would be considered to be government property. Acknowledging this is one county argument, Blahnik said the county will also present other statements and cases. He said, however, an office

"And, we're still investigating the case," Blahnik added.

The Tadlocks argue that the trees are on land not previously used by the government, and therefore, the state law doesn't apply in this case, Pomann said

"The road is used as the road, and the Tadlocks can't claim they own that road, but the side of the road that the oak trees are on has never been entered or used by the government in any way that would put the Tadlocks on notice that they're claiming ownership of additional property other than the road," Pomann said.

A governmental body can't "pass a law that says your property is our property," Pomann said. The couple's home is acreage land and their title policy says the area where the trees are rooted "is their property," he added. Residents who have acreage property, and who are also affected by the tree cuttings would also be affected,

THE TADLOCKS' first choice is to keep the property as is, however, they would also agree to be paid for the loss of the trees and/or have new trees planted near the side of the new road, Pomann said.

"Those trees offer protection from road dust and noise, in addition to being aesthetically pleasing," he said. The attorney noted irony in Canton using "a big mature" tree as a trade-

Additional revenue sharing is vetoed

By M.B. Dillon Ward staff writer

Canton received a financial jolt from Gov. James Blanchard Tuesday when he vetoed a line item in a "budget supplemental" bill that would have given the township more than $450,000 in state-shared revenue.

Despite the funding loss, Canton Finance Director John Spencer predicts a "break-even" year for the township, thanks to unexpected revenues from other sources.

But Treasurer Gerald Brown says 'we're faced with a millage increase of some sort" to make ends meet in the coming fiscal year. Canton already had allocated the an-

Gunmen rob McDonald's

An armed man and an accomplice raided cash registers and safes at McDonald's restaurant in Canton last week. No one was reported injured and nothing was listed as damaged during

The men - described as being in their late teens or early twenties - entered the fast food restaurant at 10:50 p.m. July 30 and smashed a bottle on the counter to attract the employees' attention, according to Canton police detective Karen Paulun. They then jumped over the counter to raid the registers and safe.

AUGUST 5th to AUGUST 10th IS OUR

HEADACHE CLINIC

In most all cases there is no need to suffer with any type of headache (migraine, cluster, menstrual related, sinus, etc.)

This is your opportunity to eliminate the cause of your headaches. Dr. Mashike has helped hundreds who thought there was no help.

If you want your headaches corrected for good without having to take medication call for an examination.

Nine Day Headache For nine days straight I had a headache that wouldn't stop and nothing helped, not pills, hot packs, nothing Friends and relatives had gone to Dr. Mashike, and my daughter Dolores, took me in. I was examined, x-rays were taken, and adjustments started.

I didn't think anything would help because the pain was so bad. At first nothing happened, but slowly after serveral adjustments the headaches disappeared and within a month I felt much better. It's been three months now and the headaches haven't returned. If you have headaches, try chiropractic before pills get you down. I did and I'm better.

Both of Us Had Headaches My son David is 10 years old and has had severe headaches for 6 years. They sometimes made him sick to his stomach and put him out of commission.

My mother was going to Dr. Mashike and she thought he could help. David's upper neck was found to be out of place. After just a few adjustments the headaches were gone. A couple of weeks later David was playing soccer and he hit the ball with his head, the next day his headache was back. After an adjustment to put the vertebrae back in place, David's headache left again. (David's neck will be stronger in a few months, then he

When I saw David's results, I also started for my headaches and in one week they were gone. I have recommended this care to others because I generally feel better and don't have to take pills. Carol and David Honsinger

There will be no charge for your initial examination consultation, and spinal adjustment. Dr. Mashike will see you and discuss the results of your tests without charge. If Dr. Mashike feels he can help correct the cause of your headaches (which is usually the case) he will give a low force adjustment which is very non traumatic, also at no charge. X-rays if needed will be billed directly to your insurance company

LET US HELP

So many patients have stated that they wished they hadn't waited so long to come in because it was so wonderful to be without headaches.

Perfect Patio Entertaining

The barbecue has come a long way since its beginning in the Cambbean around 1010. At that time, Camb Indians taught people landing on their Island how to cook meat on lattices of green wood built over a fire. Today, barbecues are more popular than ever and with the warm summer weather. backyards all across the nation are alive with the sounds and run of outdoor get-togethers. Invite family and friends to enjoy the charm of an open-air cookout featuring genuine

Boned, rolled and fied lamb shoulder is perfect for outdoor barbecuing. One of the more economical lamb cuts, lamb shoulder is tender, juicy and flavorful. And, because the bone is removed, carving at the picnic table is easy. Baste the lamb shoulder with a convenient commercially prepared barbecue sauce might from the bottle or combine it with Worcestershire sauce and soy sauce for a lively taste sensation. Try expermenting and creating an original flavor by blending "store bought' sauces with a variety of herbs and spices. Develop a unique flavor taste by adding lemon juice, mustard, a little wine or some other personal touch to the bottled dressing. Most pourable dressings make excellent marinades because

When cooking lamb, use a meat thermometer to insure, perfect doneness. Cook lamb to an internal temperature of 140° F. for rare 150-153° F. for medium and 160° F. for welldone Nutritionally, lamb is also a smart choice. On the average, a three-ounce serving of lean lamb is only 176 calonies and is a good source of iron, the B-vitamins, zinc and protein.

Enhance this delicious outdoor meal with a crisp salad of assorted vegetables lightly tossed with buttermilk dressing and served chilled. For dessert, offer a luscious, easy-to-prepare strawberry cheesecake. Using a pre-packaged graham cracker ple crust, this simple cheesecake gets its special flavor from mayonnaise, a dressing invented some 200 years ago

When grilling, use proper equipment and follow a few smart safety tips for a safe and fun barbecue. Use long handled barbecue tools and wear barbecue mitts while cooking. Always use the kettle on a level surface and only outdoors. Kettle-type grills are a pleasure to use because they require little attention; they allow more time to be spent with guests and there is no need for a rotisserie.

For a flavorful lamb roast, use the indirect heat method. Place equal amounts of coals on each side of the lower grill with the drip pan in the middle. With the kettle top on securely, the heat rises and reflects off the surface, allowing the lamb roast to slowly cook from all sides and insures proper hot air circulation. For lamb steaks, chops and lamburgers, use a direct cooking method by grilling the meat directly over one layer of charcoal. For the distinctive flavor of smoked lamb, soak chunks of mesquite wood in water for one hour before cooking. When the charcoal has a thin gray coating of ash, place about 2-4 chunks of wood on the coals. Don't add too many wood chunks as only a few are needed to add a smoked flavor.

ZESTY BARBECUED LAMB SHOULDER

HOW TO PREPARE COVERED KETTLE FOR INDIRECT COOKING

- · Attach charcoal rails to first crosswire on outside edges of lower grill.
- Place equal amounts of charcoal briquets along each
- charcoal rail. · Open all vents.
- · Ignite briquets using starter of your choice.
- Leave cover off until coals are ash gray (about 30 minutes). · Center a drip pan (slightly larger than the roast) between
- the charcoal rails. · Place cooking grill in kettle; position roast in center
- directly above the drip pan. Cover kettle and consult recommended cooking time
- · Add required number of briquets to each side after every hour of cooking.

the movies

Mad Max returns in a tightly woven futuristic adventure

Thrills, spills and chills — that's Mel Gibson back as "Mad Max Bevond Thunderdome" - third in the series, this time in a world gone mad after nuclear holocaust.

Among the survivors are the primitive Children of the Crack in the Earth and the inhabitants of Bartertown, a sleazy collection of shanties built in an old strip mine

Bartertown is aptly named. It's the local market town, looking (and presumably smelling) like a medieval junk heap where men in traditional armor trade for any and all remnants of what was, until recently, modern technology

Bartertown is held together with baling wire and the willpower of Aunt Entity (Tina Turner) whose need to be somebody is indeed compelling. Turner plays it like an old-time gospel singer gone bad and provides a fair amount of pizzazz.

Bartertown's main energy source is methane gas generated from pig manure - and believe me, you don't want to be sentenced to work down there.

The methane works are run by Master Blaster, an unlikely duo Master (Angelo Rossitto) is a brainy midget whose technological knowledge gives him a good deal of power as he rides around on Blaster's (Paul Larsson) shoulders. With a bodyguard like Blaster and his way with pig manure, Master is indeed the master of AUNT ENTITY DOESN'T like that competition and is out to master Master. Her armored guards and two nifty assistant villains, the Collector (Frank Thring) and Ironbar (Angry Anderson), are not equal to the task. The Collector has an amiable Sydney Greenstreet villainy about him while Ironbar likes to fight and takes an incredible amount of punishment. In spite of them, Aunt Entity needs help.

However, as luck will have it, along comes Mad Max, just the man for the job. Max was minding his own business, driving a truck pulled by a four-camel hitch, when the Flying Jalopy, piloted by Jedidiah (Bruce Spence) and Jedidiah Jr. (Adam Cockburn) robbed Max of all his possessions.

Fortunately, Max's pet monkey flipped a few supplies off the - truck as Jedidiah Jr. drove off, leaving Max a nice long walk in the desert. The Jedidiahs are really quite charming thieves, a bit balmy and British Colonial of the old-school, but all right in the pinch.

Max chases them to Bartertown and that's when Aunt Entity makes her play for power. In the ensuing struggle most everything happens, including Max being saved from the Gulag by Savannah

Nix (Helen Buday) and the Children of the Crack in the Earth.

To all but the hardiest sci-fi and Road Warrior fans this may sound confusing and unpromising. True, there are a few spots where the dialogue is hard to decipher and a couple of points are

Such faults as the film has are minor and its imaginative predication of a post-apocalyptic world, equal parts primitive, medieval and technological, makes it thoughtful as well as entertaining.

THE SET DECORATIONS, costumes, mechanical equipment and weapons are well-designed to catch the flavor of this strange world. The natural settings selected, as well, complement the film's inventive conceptualization of the world after nuclear war.

Gibson tops it all off with his contrasting rather plain, dry heroics, which punctuate this fast-paced adventure story populated by a lot of stylish characters. It adds up to a pretty exciting trip to the

Tina Turner plays her first straight dramatic role as Aunty Entity, who rules Bartertown, a medieval bazaar in a city of the future.

Red grapes may make white wine of wine he had the previous evening at a local restaurant.

When asked what it was, who made it and so on, he could not recall the winery, whether it had come from France or California, or anything else. But, he assured me, he knew I would know what it was because it had the word "white" in the name but the wine was not at all white. It was almost pink, a salmon color. Surely I would know

The more perceptive among you now know that I do not choose my friends based on their knowledge of wine. I did my best with him in this situation.

But the point is clear. The names by which we call those wines that are neither red nor white are most varied. Ten years or so ago they were all called roses. It was quite simple in retrospect. And most of them were rather alike in most respects: sweet, heavy, lacking in acidity coming as they did from highsugar valley grapes with a touch of red wine blended in for color. They generally appealed most to the non-wine

TODAY, A BOTTLE of "pink" wine (using that term generically) can legal-ly carry any of several names (including pink). It can be, and is, as appropriate to call it a white, a blanc, a rose, a tell me about a most enjoyable bottle strictions on this), or whatever the winemaker wants to call it.

> Whatever the name selected, they all mean essentially the same thing and only the law governing the name is the law of the marketplace.

There are actually only two grapes, white and red/black. All the color in a grape is in the skin. White-skinned grapes produce a white wine, redskinned grapes produce a red wine, except when contact between the juice and the skin is prevented, disallowing the red from the skin to get into the juice. When this occurs, by chance or design, the juice from a red grape will be white or, depending on the amount of skin contact, varying shades of pink. A "white zinfandel," then, is an off-white wine made from a red grape and is probably what my friend drank. Practically none of those in the market are pure white, but could be. The touch of color they have is most appealing and they are, accordingly, sold in white

While the making of a white wine from red grapes is only a scant 15 years old in California (it was done to consume the surplus of red wine grapes planted in the early 1970s as the wine boom was developing), it is an old and venerable practice in the champagne

Richard Watson

There, the pinot noir, a black grape, is the principle ingredient in the making of most of France's champagnes and, note, these are usually devoid of skin pigmentation traces. The sparkling roses from France, very popular in the United States, derive their color from brief contact between pinot noir skins and the juice, giving just a hint of color but not adding any undesirable color to the brew.

IT IS USUALLY agreed that the world's greatest roses come from France, especially from the Tavel region. Your local wine merchant should be able to help you select one or more from his stock. Alternative sources in France are wines from the Loire and from the lesser regions of Burgundy. They can, as well, be most pleasant though they tend to lack the intense character that Tavel wines have.

In California, the presently popular practice is the abundant making of white zinfandel. At the latest count zinfandels released from California's 1984 crush alone. There is further a modest amount of "white," by whatever name, made from cabernet sauvignon and from pinot noir. The latter tends to produce the driest wine of the three red grape varietals, the cabernet the fullest. Again, your merchant can help you in your exploration.

From a marketing perspective it has been interesting to watch California wineries switch from use of the word "rose" to words like "blush," "blanc" or white." Two of the more conservative, Concannon and Charles Krug, converted only with the 1984 crush. Previous issues had been "rose."

The few wines today marketed as rose continue the tradition of being rather sweet and rich, lacking in acidity. They tend to be sold in jugs, the classier varietal issues have more exotic names and considerably higher price tags. Most are worth the extra money. By whatever name, these tend to be there have been more than 25 white light and most pleasant quaffing wines.

Livonia Adray earns trip to Pennsylvania

staff writer

Livonia Adray, which wrapped up the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL) playoff crown late Friday night with a 7-2 victory over Walter's Appliance at Ford Field, will be making its fourth straight appearance in Johnstown, Pa.

The Adray squad won't be there to commemorate the famous flood of 1889, but instead will be vying for a national championship in the prestigious All-American Amateur Baseball Association (AAABA) tournament, which begins Monday, Aug. 12.

"The team we had last year was more complacent because they had been there before," said veteran Adray manager Ron Hellier. "I think this team will have more intensity. They'll be up for the tournament."

Hellier has to feel confident about his pitching.

On Friday, right-hander Rick Rozman turned in a solid 81/3 inning performance before giving way to reliever Jeff Price in the ninth.

Rozman scattered six hits, walked four and fanned six to pick up the vic-

DePorter, Johnson and Michalik got the call when starters Deron White and Jeff Kaiser were rested after each had played in a Connie Mack double-header earlier in the day. League MVP Todd Krumm also missed the game because he had to report for football orientation at Michigan State.

I feel good about our bench, and they came through tonight," said Hellier after the three-hour, 20-minute game. "That was the key.

Adray found itself in the driver's seat for the start of Friday's third round of the double-elimination tournament at Ford Field.

On Wednesday, Adray hurler Mike Wilkins handed Walter's its first loss of the LCBL tourney, 7-2, tossing a twohitter to go along with 12 strikeouts.

In the first game on Wednesday, Redford Little Caesars ousted Garden City in eight innings, 13-3, behind three hits each from Mike Hodge, Mike Betz

And for the fifth time this season, Walter's lefty Doug Doyle, with relief help from Dan Nielson in the eighth and ninth, beat Caesars, 6-4.

Walter's scored all six runs after two were out, the big blow coming in the top of the eighth on Drew Baird's bases loaded single, scoring two runs.

But in the finale, Adray built a 5-1 lead after five innings against Walter's and never looked back.

"We had a good season and made it to the finals for the first time," said Walter's manager Mike Keller, whose team has qualified for an NABF tourney Thursday in Pontiac. "We hung in there after getting beat by Livonia the first time (Wednesday).

"And when Doyle was on the mound we always played good ball."

Hellier, meanwhile, indicated after the game that he would pick up Doyle for the tournament, giving him four solid starters to go along with Rozman,

"WINNING THIS (the playoffs) is really an accomplishment since we lost two of our top pitchers and our No. 1 shortstop early in the season," said Atkins, who is also the athletic director at Redford Union High School. "We were 4-1 against Sound during the regular season, and I was confident we had a chance to come back and beat them RE YOU enjoying your summer vacation?" he or she asks me innocently enough, but as a high school teacher I always respond cautiously. It's like "Are you still beating your wife?" To respond positively or negatively to either question accepts the premise that I am actually engaged in the activity.

Is one really on vacation when he is not receiving a pay check for two months? Am I on vacation when I am caring full time for children ages 4 and ? Was directing basketball camps for Farmington Hills Parks and Recreation part of my vacation? I stayed at a resort one weekend at Manistee, but when nine boy-crazy and pizza-craving teen-age girls travel with you does that still constitute "getting away from it all"?

Consequently, these thoughts of martyrdom faithfully bring a pained look to my face before I ever respond about my "vacation." But between you and me. I have enjoyed my vacation

IT'S BECAUSE I love summer basketball.

To some, summer basketball probably sounds like a contradiction of terms. Basketball is meant to be played in warm gyms on cold nights before rowdy crowds. Summer hoops are played in hot empty gyms on sticky nights. But I love it.

In my mind the camps I ran for parks and rec weren't summer basketball. The pay was great, the staff at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College is always friendly and professional. Assistants like Mary Rosowski, Lisa Mummert and Annette Ruggiero are so good they could virtually run the camp without me.

My afternoon group was as cooperative and as enthusiastic as any I have worked with. Who wouldn't enjoy working with such great kids as Jenny Hyslop from Holly, Stacy Swanderski from Farmington High and Ellen Austin from North

But the key word is work. The camps were fun and fulfilling, but they also included the hard work and responsibility of lecturing, demonstrating and

ON THE OTHER hand, the summer league Ken Butler runs at Walled Lake Central is vintage summer basketball. Every time I drive to work in the fall, winter and spring I cross Harrerty Road. And every time, I wish I were turning north. On 11 nights in June and July, 12 teams labor in obscurity at Walled Lake Central for an hour and a half.

Ken has structured the league for the kids. No one fouls out and the score is erased at the end of every quarter. The officiating is terrible because we coaches do most of it. But year after year Ken provides a thoroughly positive environment for girls summer basketball.

The coaches nurture their fledgling teams in the summer. It is certainly a different atmosphere than the "real" season. No one is surprised when my 1year-old, Andrea, joins our sideline huddles or when my son Christopher gallops up the sideline when the girls are playing.

The coaches give all their players equal time on the court. Though most mistakes get laughed off, the girls play hard.

Instead of a participation fee, Ken requires that the teams bring a full contingent of players each night. Though to my knowledge none of the coaches make participation mandatory, the girls who choose to play each evening have made a commitment to the league and their sport.

IS IT surprising that coaches like Ian Smith (Oxford) and Mike Green (West Bloomfield) are successful year in and year out in the fall season when their kids play so hard and with such enthusiasm in the summer?

The difference between Mercy kids playing Plymouth Salem kids this summer at Walled Lake and in the state Class A quarterfinals last fall was not the level of intensity or even the quality of play. The difference was that everyone played and both teams won.

It's amazing how things change when you wipe away the score every 10 minutes. Less strategy but more coaching in terms of teaching the game to young people who only want to get better.

And no coach has summer basketball in better Please turn to Page 3
