A passion for detail.

Whether you encounter BMW on a twisting B-road or on a polished wooden desk, in 1:1 or 1:87 scale – it will always be a thrilling sight.

What captures the attention is the amazing attention to detail, apparent even in the smallest scale models.

A love of detail is reflected in the months of painstaking development, where handcraftsmanship and a total of often more than 100 individual manufacturing operations result in a little masterpiece.

As you'll see through-out these pages, BMW Miniatures are more than simply scaled-down copies of the original. They are originals in their own right.

To pursue your passion for detail, please contact your local BMW dealer.

The finer the details, the more fascinating the model. Gently open the bonnet of a 1:43 miniature, and you'll find a lifelike reproduction of a real engine. Or carefully study the interior of a 1:12 model. The longer you look at it, the more it feels like you should just be able to get in, sit down and drive off. Each scale has its own attraction; below is a summary of the main points.

The models actually depicted on the following pages are always marked with a dot.

1:12 Opening doors, bonnets and boot lids characterise the 1:12 models. The interiors even feature carpeting and leather upholstery. Plastics and zinc die cast processes are used to reproduce minute vehicle elements. The result – a high level of detail and fascination that you can touch.

1:18 Models of this size offer a good look at the engine and chassis. Their interiors are of a high quality, with forms and colours that are true to life, sometimes down to the use of carpeting. The look is that of the original. Proud print details enhance the look and feel further – no wonder this is the classic scale for model cars.

1:24 This, the most traditional scale originated in America, but has long since conquered the world. Collectors appreciate the multitude of tiny details clustered together. And the filigree-like, zinc die cast body.

1:43 These miniatures are so small that even a large collection won't require much space. Their painstaking workmanship is what fascinates collectors, especially in Europe and Japan. The bonnet, which allows a look at the engine, demonstrates particularly well how much room for detail there is even in the smallest BMW Miniatures.

1:87 This model scale was first used in H0-size model railways. The finely detailed miniatures are made of plastic. Delicate engravings on the body, tiny print features and individually assembled steering wheels, mirrors and lights are a delight and surprise even the most experienced miniature collectors.

A BMW Miniature is like your favourite song. As time goes by, you discover more and more delightful details.

Discover BMW Lifestyle.

Can't get enough? Would like to see more? Just ask your local BMW Dealer about BMW Lifestyle products. Individual catalogues for BMW Bikes and Equipment, BMW Sauber F1 Team and a catalogue for the BMW Lifestyle range as a whole are available from your BMW Dealer.

The screenshot displays the BMW Lifestyle website interface. At the top, there is a navigation menu with links for Home, Collections, Products, and Specials. Below this, a secondary menu includes My profile, Cart, Downloads, Help & Service, and Search. A welcome message reads "Welcome to the BMW Online Shop". On the right side, there are logos for BMW Lifestyle, BMW Shop, and the BMW logo with the slogan "BMW Driving Pleasure". The main content area features a large background image of a cyclist on a dirt path. Overlaid on this image are several promotional banners: "BMW Bikes & Equipment" with a "More" link; "Exclusive preview of the BMW Sauber F1 Team Collection" with a "More" link and "Further topics" link; and "Miniatures Calendar" with a "More" link and "Further topics" link. At the bottom of the main content area, there is a search bar labeled "Name/Number:" with a "Search" button and a row of four small thumbnail images. The footer contains links for Site map, Terms and conditions, Legal notice, BMW.com, and Deutsch.
