About 25 years ago he located in Burgettstown as a jeweler and watchmaker, occupying a building on the site of the room now used by Emile Coulange as a barber shop. Later he purchased the property on Main street in which his shop and store is still located. During his quarter of a century of residence in the town he was looked upon with high esteem by neighbors and fellow business men.

In the past two or three years his health had become greatly impaired and he was confined to his home at long intervals. He had been about town two or three weeks ago, and it was not known he was in a condition of great danger up to a few days before his death.

Funeral services were held in the late home on Thursday afternoon by the Rev. R. E. Carman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. On Friday morning the body was taken to North East for interment. The only immediate family survivor is his widow, Mrs. Gerdena Katzenmyer.

Many expressions of sorrow at the passing of this venerable citizen are heard from people of the community among whom he lived so long. Up to the time he was overtaken by illness he was among the most progressive business men of the town.

Coroner: Woman killed in accident wasn't drunk

A Canton Township woman had consumed alcohol, but was not legally intoxicated at the time of her death, according to a report released Tuesday by Washington County Coroner S. Timothy Warco.

Jamie Lynn Lander's blood-alcohol level was .064 percent at the time of her death, according to a report released Tuesday by Washington County Coroner S. Timothy Warco.

There were no skid marks, and police have no way to determine Lander's speed, although they believe speed played a role in the accident. The speed limit in the area is 35 mph.

Although snow began to fall a few hours after the accident, the road was dry when Lander's car

Speed and alcohol may have factored into Cecil Twp. crash

BY TERRI T. JOHNSON
THE OBSERVER-REPORTER
tjohnson@observer-reporter.com

Speed may have been a factor in a one-car accident in Cecil Township early Tuesday that killed a Canton Township woman, but police said it will be almost impossible to determine how fast Jamie Lynn Lander was traveling because there are no skid marks.

"Apparently, she didn't hit the brakes," township police Chief John T. Pushak said Wednesday. "We are only able to calculate how far she was airborne."

The speed limit in the area of the accident is 35 mph.

Lander, 21, of Jefferson Avenue, Washington, was pronounced dead at 1:27 a.m. Tuesday after her car struck a tree at 12:15 a.m. along Route 50, about 500 feet west of Cowden Road. The tree is about 75 feet from the road.

Lander, who was alone in the car, died of multiple injuries.

Alcohol may also have played a role in Lander's death.

"We're waiting for the coroner to return his report. There may have been alcohol involved because the officers did smell an odor of alcohol," Pushak said. "Whether it came from her or the car, we'll have to wait for the toxicology report from the coroner."

Lander, a 1997 graduate of Burgettstown High School and a former resident of Midway, worked as a beautician in Robinson Township and was employed at a car wash in Moon Township.

Police do not know where Lander was traveling to, or where she had been before the accident.

She was wearing a seat belt. The car's air bags did not deploy.

"There was no front-end collision to activate the air bags," Pushak said.

The current issue of the Ohio Edison Magazine pays a fine tribute to a former employe, William W. Lane, also a former Burgettstown resident, who died on October 20, 1939.

Speaking of Mr. Lane's sudden death, this magazine said:

"The death of W. W. "Woody" Lane, Substation Maintenance Department on October 20 came as a saddening shock to members of the Akron Division's Ohio Edison family. Woody came to our company on October 13, 1920, as a substation operator. His qualifications as an all around good fellow soon won him many friends and as the years drifted by he endeared himself in the hearts of all those with whom he was associated.

As evidence of the high regard in which Woody was held by his fellow employes he had been recently elected vice-president of the Employees Mutual Benefit Association. Previously he had been a Board Member of that organization on several occasions.

He was an ardent sportsman, having been an outstanding player on the department's softball team for several seasons, and he was also one of the high average bowlers in the company league. He loved to fish, too, and each year as vacation time rolled around he could be found making preparations for his family to spend a few days at one of the numerous lakes scattered throughout Michigan.

Woody was only 38 years old—just in the prime of life when death intervened. He was born in Worksop, Nottingham County, England, and came to America in 1911. In 1923 he married Inez Foutts of East Liverpool, O. Besides his wife he is survived by one daughter, Janet and one brother, George W. of the Substation Department.

Death of Dr. H. B. Lazier.

LAZIER—Dr. Henry Baird Lazier died at his residence on High street, in Morgantown, on Thursday, May 11th, 1899, at about the hour of one o'clock A. M.

His ailment was what is termed Bright's disease, and his death was not unexpected to his friends.

Dr. Lazier was born January 26th 1831, and was consequently in the sixty-ninth year of his age. He was born, reared and lived in Morgantown, and was widely known as a physician and druggist. He was educated in the old Monongalia Academy and Jefferson Medical College, of Philadelphia, graduating from the Medical College in 1858. He practiced his profession from the time of his graduation until the breaking out of the Civil War, when he raised Company E, Seventh West Virginia Infantry, of which company he was made captain. While commanding a wing of his regiment at the battle of Antietam he was shot through the leg, inflicting an ugly wound. He was so severely wounded that he had to be carried from the field and the deep scars were on his body to the day of his death. He resigned his captaincy in February 1863, but was shortly afterward commissioned an Assistant Surgeon, in which capacity he served until the close of the war. At the close of the war he returned to Morgantown and then began his career as a druggist and pharmacist in which he was eminently successful for many years, and from which business he retired about two years ago on account of failing health.

During the long period that he was engaged in the drug business Dr. Lazier took high rank. He was careful, skillful and in every respect a competent druggist. His large clientage had the utmost confidence in his integrity and business ability.

In business circles he was regarded as honorable and upright. He was a man of kind heart and generous disposition and was exceptionally kind to the poor and needy, and was greatly beloved by a wide circle of friends.

In 1897, Dr. Lazier married Mary Agnes Moreland who preceded him to the grave about three years. Mrs. Lazier was a most estimable lady and their home was for many years one of the brightest in Morgantown. Two children survive. Dr. A. M. Lazier who succeeded his father for a short time in the drug business, and Henry B. Jr. who is unmarried and was living with his father at the time of his death.

The funeral will take place from his late residence on Friday, at 2 o'clock p. m. Interment private.

Meets With a Serious Accident

James Leeper, Jr., son of Rev. J. L. Leeper, D. D., met with an accident on Saturday evening, January 30, which at first was thought to be fatal. He and his father had been out through New Jersey in an automobile during the week, and arriving in New York City that evening, drove their machine to 1700 Broadway. Dr. Leeper got out the car to push the button and call freight elevator down to take the car up to second floor, where it was kept, and young Mr. Leeper ran the car slowly forward into the building to get off the sidewalk, but he failed to stop the car when he reached the gate into elevator, and crashed through the gate. He and the car plunged down the elevator shaft, a distance of 30 feet. When they reached him he was wedged under the car, and when he was extricated he was unconscious. He was rushed to the Presbyterian hospital, where the X-ray was put on him and it was found that his skull was uninjured, though his right leg was broken in two places, the knee-pan broken in seven pieces and the thigh bone broken. Latest word states that he is doing as well as could be expected and the doctors believe he will recover. He is a nephew of Joseph Leeper and Mrs. Agnes Shillito, of Burgettstown, and J. H. McLarn, of Emsworth. The father, Rev. Dr. J. L. Leeper, spent his boyhood days at Frankfort Springs.

Wm. Patterson Logan died at his home in Bryn Mawr, Philadelphia, Wednesday, February 13, 1901, after having been confined to his home for two years. Although the deceased had been ill for a long period, the Philadelphia Inquirer says his death came as a surprise to his many friends. Mr. Logan was born in Cecil township, Washington county, 72 years ago, and was the son of Samuel Logan, whose home was on the Pittsburg pike, three miles from Canonsburg. Samuel Logan, father of the subject of this sketch, died many years ago. Mrs. James Paxton, a resident of Wheeling, W. Va., is a sister of W. P. Logan. Forty-nine years ago he and Mary P. Clark, a daughter of Abner Clark, Ten Mile, and a sister of Mrs. Stockdale, of 247 East Wheeling street, were united in marriage and shortly thereafter removed to Ft. Dodge, Ia., where they resided for two and a half years. At the end of that time they came back to Pennsylvania and located in Pittsburg, where they resided until about 1880, when they took up their residence in the Philadelphia suburb. About the beginning of the civil war Mr. Logan engaged in the oil business and accumulated a fortune as a producer and exporter of petroleum. He served for several years as president of the Royal Gas Co., and was associated with prominent Philadelphia capitalists in many other enterprises. While living in Washington county deceased attended the Hill church, near Canonsburg, and at the time of his death was an elder in the Walnut Street Presbyterian church, Philadelphia. Besides his wife he leaves one daughter, the wife of Dr. Alexander W. MacCoy, of Philadelphia. J. V. Johnson, of East Wheeling street, is a distant relative of the Logan family.

Burgettstown man dies at 76

By Jason Togyer

for The Record-Enterprise

Though he spent parts of just four seasons in the major leagues,

Cincinnati Reds' fans still sent letters to Eddie (Mongoose) Lukon, said his granddaughter, Shelly.

"He got them pretty often," said Ms. Lukon of her grandfather, who died Nov. 7, 1996, at the age of 76. "He was pretty proud of (his days in baseball), and we were proud of him."

Lukon, whose full name was Edward P. Lukon, was born Aug. 5, 1920, in Cherry Valley, was the son of the late Joseph and Mary Delprato Lukon.

His first sports successes came at the old Union High School in Burgettstown, where he lettered in baseball, football and basketball.

Ms. Lukon said the trophies with his name on them were still on display when she attended Burgettstown High School 50 years later.

Upon graduation, Lukon was signed by the Valdosta, Ga., minor league team, where he spent the 1939 season before moving onto Knoxville, Tenn., and Columbus, Ohio, both Cincinnati Reds farm clubs.

In 1941, he was called up to the big leagues for part of the season.

That was also the year he married his wife, Mary Ellen Goldbach on Valentine's Day. Mrs. Lukon was happy with her role as a baseball wife, said their son, Edward.

"She loved it," said Lukon. "She got to travel. They were from Burgettstown, so neither one of them had ever travelled."

In 1943, Lukon was drafted into the U.S. Army as an infantryman, and served in the Battle of the Bulge before being discharged in 1945.

He resumed his career with the Reds, playing with the major league team in 1946 and 1947 before being traded to the Chicago Cubs in 1948.

His granddaughter said

Lukon's best season was 1946 when he played in 102 games, hit 12 home runs and had a .250 average in 312 at-bats.

"I think he really would have gone on to become something (had he continued in baseball)," said Shelly Lukon. "He had these powerful arms, like Popeye, and a really good attitude."

But in 1948, while playing for the Cubs' farm team in Los Angeles, Lukon got word that his father was sick, and he returned to Cherry Valley to take over the family business, Lukon Meats.

He operated the business until his retirement in 1990.

"I guess that's just the way he was raised, with family values," Ms. Lukon said. "I think, between his wife and (having played) baseball, he was a pretty happy guy."

And he never lost his love for sports, whether teaching his granddaughters to play softball or showing his sons where he had hit a home run over a light standard at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh.

"He'd take me in these dressing rooms, and a lot of the guys he had played with were managers ... or umpires by then," said Ed Lukon. "Once I shook hands with Stan Musial. I told everybody I'd never wash my hand again."

Lukon was inducted into the Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame in 1988.

He was a member of St. Ann's Roman Catholic Church in Bulger.

In addition, he belonged to American Legion Post 698 in Burgettstown and the Veterans of Foreign Wars post in Bulger.

He was preceded in death by a brother, John.

In addition to his wife and son, he is survived by a daughter, Janet Quiroz of San Diego, Calif.; another son, Phillip G. of Cherry Valley; 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Friends were received Nov. 8 in the Hayden-Taucher Funeral Home, Burgettstown.

A blessing service was held Nov. 9 in the funeral home, the Rev. Philip Farrell officiating. Interment was in Our Lady of Lourdes Cemetery, Burgettstown.
