

Self-apportionment by commissioners ruled invalid by appellate court decision

The Tuscola County Reapportionment Commission will convene soon to determine what if any changes should be made in the apportionment of districts for the election of members of the county Board of Commissioners.

The plan adopted by the commissioners at their Jan. 25 meeting was ruled invalid when a state court of appeals decision Wednesday, Jan. 26, determined that commissioners do not have a decennially recurring option to self apportion.

The reapportionment commission has until Mar. 6 to adopt a plan setting the geographical boundaries for districts in the county.

The plan commissioners approved showed no changes from the original plan adopted in 1968 following a state order to reapportion on a one man-one vote basis.

County Clerk Elsie Hicks, whose duty it is to convene the commission, said she has no idea if the commission will want to change the plan or adopt the same one the commissioners approved.

Presently there are seven districts, although the reapportionment commission can provide for any number between 5 and 15. The districts must be as nearly as possible equal in population to adhere to the one man-one vote ruling.

The population of Tuscola county has increased from 48,285 to 48,603 according to the last census, but the distribution has remained just about the same, although there was a slight increase in Arbia township in the southwest corner of the county.

No changes were made in the districts, however, because the commissioners did not want to split any townships.

Prosecutor Leo Maki received a letter Thursday informing him of the opinion. The judicial interpretation came after Thomas Kizer Jr., prosecutor of Livingston county, appealed a circuit court ruling on his suit against that county's board of commissioners challenging its authority to apportion its own districts.

The state court held it was the intent of the law to provide commissioners with one opportunity at self apportionment. Now districts in all 83 counties will have to be decided by the statutory commission.

The court ruling reversed a December 1970 opinion of the attorney general which allowed counties under 75,000 population to be reapportioned by their board of commissioners. Before the change in 1968 in conformance with the original statute, Public Act, No. 261 of 1966, the county board consisted of 24 supervisors, one from each township and one from the city of Vassar.

The reapportionment commission by law consists of the county clerk, county treasurer, Arthur Willits, prosecuting attorney, and chairman of the two political parties whose candidates for secretary of state received the highest number of votes during the prior election. The chairman of the county Democratic party is Mike Hills. Because prosecutor Maki is also chairman of the Republican party, vice-chairman Peggy J. Marker has been asked to sit on the commission as a representative of the Republican party.

Editor's Corner

WAYNE DILLON, left, displays the Outstanding Young Educator Award he received from Skip Pranger, right, at a Cass City Jaycees banquet held at St. Pancratius Church Wednesday night, Jan. 26. Dillon, industrial arts teacher, was chosen from nominations made by each of the three Cass City school principals.

The Distinguished Service Award was not made due to lack of nominations from service clubs.

It is not surprising that when the bureaucrats took charge of building a new stadium for Detroit's professional sports teams that the final solution appears to be one that defies reason.

No sane businessman would condone the two stadium approach for a fleeting moment if the money involved came from company coffers.

Not when it's easy to look around to other major league cities with just one new complex that are losing money.

But after all, it's not the owners' money that will go down the drain—if either or both stadiums fail to make the grade.

I could never understand why rich men like William Ford (Lions) or John Fetzer (Tigers) should require someone else to erect a building for them to make money in anyway.

But the way of the rich man has always been an enigma to me, anyway. Right now we are considering two stadiums with revenue bonds issued by governmental units.

That's 2, sir, right at the same time that the Detroit schools are facing the closing of evening gym classes at city schools because there is no money.

At the same time that the State makes special concessions with money to keep Detroit from sinking and the city officials are saying that it's too little and too late.

At the same time that the city workers are threatening around-the-clock demonstrations to protest lay-offs of their members.

I could go on, but you get the picture.

If the two-stadium plan is finally realized millions will have been spent for something for which there is no legitimate need.

That's big city stuff, you say, and it's lucky we don't have it to put up with here.

Well, we've never shelled out for two buildings where one would be enough (or too many) but we have a building that we'd be better off without. . . It's the former Elkland Township Hall, now known as the Cultural Center.

Now that the new town hall has been erected its sole purpose is to house meetings and we really don't need it.

The meetings held there could be shifted to one of our five schools or other buildings.

As a community we do have money invested in it and there's always a hesitancy about cutting loose something that has cost money and has proved beneficial. The situation today is not the way it was during Cass City's Centennial.

The village now tends the building with the township because no one could figure out just what to do with it.

Perhaps it makes sense to wreck the building and turn the area into a parking lot. The village-township arrangement is on a yearly basis and after this first year the village should take a hard look at the building use in relation to its benefit to the taxpayers.

If its use is limited taxpayers just can't afford to let it stand there in the heart of the business section just so that the town can boast that it has a Cultural Center.

Detroit doesn't need two sports centers and Cass City doesn't need two town halls.

2 Deford men hospitalized after falling asleep at wheel of cars

Two Deford men were hospitalized Saturday with injuries sustained in two separate accidents, and a Vassar man became the county's second traffic fatality this year.

Henry August LaJoie of 1741 S. Kingston Road, Deford, was listed in fair condition Tuesday afternoon at Hills and Dales Hospital, Cass City, where he was taken after the car he was driving hit a tree about 2:45 a. m. Jan. 29.

He told Tuscola county sheriff's deputies he fell asleep at the wheel while driving on Deckerville Rd., just east of Kingston Road.

Herbert Edward Yax, 32, of Burman Road, Deford, was released Tuesday afternoon from Caro Community Hospital where he was treated for injuries sustained when he fell asleep while driving south on M-24, 1/2 mile north of M-46. The accident occurred at 12:26 a. m.

John Frederick Rupprecht, 25, of 5655 W. Sanilac, Vassar, became the second traffic fatality in Tuscola county this year, when he apparently lost control of his car while driving east on M-46 and slid into a guard rail, which went through the car.

A witness told police the car was traveling in excess of 100 miles an hour before the skid. The car came to rest after striking a telephone pole.

Numerous other minor accidents resulted in no injuries. Terry Lee Barrows, 19, of 3443 Pine St., Kingston, struck a buck deer Saturday about 6:35 p. m. while traveling west on M-46.

In a similar accident later the same evening at 10:20 p. m. Robert Dale McAlpine, 29, of 5245 Cedar Run Road, Cass City, struck a buck deer that jumped in front of his car when he was going east on M-46.

A car driven by Victoria Flores, 49, of 7095 McAlpine Road, Owendale, slid on ice and struck the rear of a vehicle driven by Connie McNaughton, 23, of 4416 Woodland, Cass City, when the McNaughton vehicle was stopped on Weaver St. at Main about 12:05 p. m. Saturday.

A car operated by William Gerard Izydorek, of 4152 Sherman St., Cass City, struck the parked vehicle of Phillip William Olsow, of 6620 Houghton, Cass City, in the parking lot of Croft-Clara Lumber on Main Street. The 4:30 p. m. collision Friday caused minor damage to both vehicles.

A car belonging to Stephen Papp, Pringle Road, Decker, was hit by an unidentified vehicle Saturday about 6:45 p. m. when parked on Garfield Street, causing minor damage to the left front fender.

HENRY LAJOIE of Deford is listed in fair condition in Hills and Dales Hospital after he fell asleep and drove into a tree on Deckerville Road early Saturday morning. Damage to the vehicle was extensive.

Arroyo visits homeland after 19 years

The Luis Arroyo family of rural Cass City recently spent three weeks on the small Caribbean island of Puerto Rico visiting Arroyo's homeland which he hadn't seen since coming to the states in 1953.

The three hectic weeks were spent in family reunion for Luis and family introductions for his wife, Lila, and five children: Gloria, 16, Laurie, 14, Becky, 13, Luis, 9, and Linda, 8.

Not a rich family, the Arroyos were thinking about a trip for a couple of years. After saving money for a year, they were able to accumulate the necessary $1300. To fly from Detroit would have cost another $600 so they left their home on Elmwood Road Christmas morning and drove to Miami, Fla., and flew from there to Puerto Rico.

This was the first year that Arroyo was given a week off with pay from the foundry in Vassar where he works, so he decided to add two more weeks to the vacation.

They were greeted with hugs and kisses at the airport, when Arroyo's father saw his American grandchildren for the first time. The last family gathering was in 1964 when Arroyo's mother and a sister were in Georgia.

The youngest boy in a family of eight children, Arroyo came to the United States at the age of 18 when a friend sent for him to work on a farm near Deford. Employment opportunities in Puerto Rico, then as now, were very limited.

The changes of almost 20 years were revealed in the manner of dress and in the attitude of the people, but some aspects remained changeless.

The sugar cane business has decreased markedly and now dairy farming is popular, Arroyo said. Industry is mostly small, such as shoe and clothing manufacture. The only electric company is state owned and operated, and the state is one of the largest employers.

Arroyo explained that all the houses are different now. When he was being raised by his grandparents on a farm, all the homes were wooden. Now they are cement blocks with open windows.

"Everybody wore short dresses, even the older women," said Mrs. Arroyo. Her husband expressed disdain about the litter thrown on the streets. It wasn't like that when he left, he said.

When he came to the states, Arroyo said he knew practically no English. Now, many signs on the island are printed in both Spanish and English, reflecting the American influence that has continued to flavor the country since it became a commonwealth under the states in 1952.

Arroyo said he missed his home country at first, but not anymore.

"I don't even like it myself too much," he commented, explaining that he thought the country was getting too modern but the people still were living in the old way.

As a visitor his wife was disappointed. "I was completely disillusioned," she said.

"I've never seen so many kids, men and women standing around."

But the people are still friendly and spend a great deal of their time standing around talking, just like they always have, or playing favorite pastimes of baseball or dominoes.

One of the reasons the family went now was so the kids could all go. In spite of the modern concluded on page 14

LUIS ARROYO recently spent three weeks in his homeland of Puerto Rico which he hadn't seen since 1953. Accompanying him were his family. From left are Becky, 13, Linda, 8, Laurie, 14, Gloria, 16, Mrs. Arroyo, Luis, 9, and Arroyo.

Bulen seeks $840,000 damages

Horace M. Bulen has filed an $840,000 damage suit against the Tuscola County Road Commission for injuries he received in an accident Nov. 3, 1970.

Horace M. Bulen

Bulen, widely known for his many bicycle excursions around the Cass City community, was approaching Cass City from the south on Cemetery Road, just north of the Cass River bridge.

According to the suit filed Tuesday in Tuscola County Circuit Court, Bulen claims that the road commission failed to maintain the road and the shoulder of the road, causing the accident.

He claims that the road commission knew of the washout, said to be about five feet wide and deep and extending to slightly off paved portion of the roadway.

The suit also claims that the condition existed for at least 30 days and that the road commission failed to correct it after it had knowledge of the alleged defect.

The suit says that the county improperly constructed the bridge because of inadequate drainage and was negligent because it failed to place a warning sign about the dangerous condition.

Bulen suffered serious injury in the accident. He is paralyzed from the shoulders down except for "minimal use of arms and hands". Bulen, 64, has been continually hospitalized since the accident. He is now taking physical therapy at a Chicago hospital. Clinton House, Cass City, is representing Bulen.

Mr. and Mrs. David P. Van Allen

The Rev. William G. Wacke solemnized the wedding vows of Miss Judith Ann Gulliver and David Paul VanAllen at Faith Evangelical Lutheran Church, Saginaw, Saturday, Jan. 15.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne A. Gulliver of Saginaw and Mr. and Mrs. William L. VanAllen of Cass City.

The bride chose a floor length white sata peau gown styled with an Empire bodice, mandarin neckline, long puff sleeves, A-line skirt and detachable chapel train. Panels of Venice lace enhanced the gown and train. A mantilla with Venice lace veil completed her ensemble.

She carried a shower cascade of white miniature roses, stephanotis and a cattleya orchid with pearls entwined in her bouquet.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Terry L. McNier of Freeland, cousin of the bride. Bridesmaids were Misses Jane Kotenko of Saginaw, Gail Duncan of Utica, Cynthia Thornton of Miles and Mrs. Michael Touzeau of Capac.

The attendants wore identical floor length dresses with a printed purple silk A-line skirt, lavender chiffon Empire bodice, long puff sleeves and victorian neckline with white Venice lace enhancing the bodice.

They wore headpieces of lavender heather and miniature pink carnations, and carried matching brides bouquets.

The flower girl was Miss Carol Hartwick of Cass City, niece of the groom. She wore a floor length dress of lavender chiffon with long puff sleeves. Her headpiece was identical to the bridesmaids'. She carried a white wicker basket with a shower of lavender heather and miniature pink carnations entwined with pearls. Michael Touzeau of Capac, fraternity brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsman were David Cereska of North Muskegon, Gary Magdalene of Harper Woods, Terry L. McNier of Freeland, cousin of the bride, Robert Myers of Livonia, Kent McNier of Merrill, cousin of the bride, and James VanAllen of Cass City, nephew of the groom.

Soloist Miss Connie Moore of Dearborn, sorority sister of the bride, sang One Heart, One Heart; The Lord's Prayer and Ave Maria.

The couple greeted 400 guests at the K of C Hall in Saginaw following the evening ceremony. They honeymooned in Northern Michigan and will make their home in Aschaffenburg, Germany, where VanAllen is stationed with the U. S. Army.

Living a double life is like burning a candle at both ends.

Here's snow up your sleeves

BY JIM FITZGERALD

I can say 1 good thing about snowmobiles: I've never been run over by one.

I drove a snowmobile once. I ran it into a mailbox, a federal offense, and there have been strange clicks on my phone ever since.

Right now, my favorite county is in a terrible tizzy over new laws which limit where Joe Outdoorsman can drive his snowmobile. He must keep off the roads and right-of-ways. If Joe wants to rip his machine through your backyard at 3 a. m., he'd better live next door. Otherwise, he must haul his snowmobile into your neighborhood on a trailer. This takes the phantom-fun out of snowmobiling for Joe who likes to roar in and roar out before you can grab your shotgun. Joe makes a beautiful target while strapping his machine back in the trailer. This unfair law is similar to requiring robbers to check their tire pressure before making their getaway from in front of the bank.

Whenever I suggest an audit of snowmobilers' marbles, I am accused of being more Jill than Jim. My rugged friends say I'm a homebound sissy who doesn't appreciate the bracing beauty of snow and cold air. They usually tell me this in some bar outside of which they parked their snowmobiles 9 hours earlier.

I deny this slander, hearkening back to my boyhood to prove there is nothing wrong with my spirit of adventure. My buddies and I used to hook cars in the winter. We used to hide behind trees on Ontario St. When a car slowed at a corner, we would dash out and grab hold of the back bumper. We'd crouch low and use our feet as skis. We'd slide behind those cars as far and as fast as they'd take us. The trick was to somehow survive when you suddenly hit a bare hunk of pavement. You either shifted your rump quickly onto the bumper, or you fell forward and suddenly had a 2nd mouth, this one above your eyes. I lost a lot of skin that way. My shoes didn't last long, either.

But that was when I was working hard to be A Real Boy, as required by Saturday Evening Post covers. There was nothing I hated worse than snow up my sleeves but I didn't dare admit it. The leader of our gang was my lousy big sister and if I didn't follow the leader through every blizzard she would enroll me in a convent.

It was nice to grow up and be able to admit that winter is for looking at through Thermopane, or for leaving via Delta. Snow and ice are horrible things and adults who touch them on purpose are badly in need of psychiatric help. That's why I'm stunned to see grown men sob because they can't ram through snowbanks in motorized sleds.

I mean, everyone of these guys owns a handtop with a heater. Admittedly, a snowmobile will take you places where a Chevrolet won't go. But why go there? Why risk barbed wire, buried stumps and landowners' wrath simply to enter a tavern through the kitchen door?

"The scenery is beautiful and it's great for family togetherness," explained 1 friend who has $10,500 invested in 4 snowmobiles and $500 invested in 4 matching snowsuits, each with 25 zippers that can't be worked by frozen fingers.

Oh well. To each his own. There's no way I'm ever going to understand a grown man who likes to play in the snow with kids. As for scenery, my friend recently ran his snowmobile into a parked car and broke his collarbone. If he can't see a parked car, how can he see scenery?

Onward and upward, thermostatically controlled.

DISCUSSING PROBLEMS of St. Pancratius parish are members of the parish council and Bishop Francis F. Reh, center, and Fr. William Beitz, left.

Bishop visits Catholic church in Cass City

Bishop Francis F. Reh, Saginaw diocesan pastor, conducted the Sunday morning Mass at St. Pancratius Church as part of his special effort to visit all parishes in the diocese.

Following the Mass, the Bishop visited with members of the parish in the fellowship hall where a light breakfast was served.

Later Bishop Reh met with parish council members and wives for a brunch when activities of the council were reviewed.

With the bishop was Fr. William Beitz, secretary, and head of the diocesan liturgical commission.

Parish council members attending were: Bob Hiru, president; Ken Maharg, vice-president; Ed Bergman, administering chairman; Larry Davis, education chairman; Edward Hahn, parish activities chairman; Mrs. Nina Davis, worship chairman; Miss Patricia Smentek, youth representative and Laverne Rutkoski, christian service chairman. Mrs. Dan Erla, council secretary, was unable to attend.

An optimist is a guy who thinks graft in politics will cease when his candidate is elected.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

It's true that last year the Chamber of Commerce was thinking about the present fire hall site as a location for a village park when new quarters are ready.

It's not true that the Chamber is suggesting this location today. Chamber officials say that they want a park site developed but have abandoned the endorsement of the fire hall site. We have no definite proposal at this time, officials say.

Non-snowmobilers will be happy to hear that engine manufacturers are giving top priority on ways to muffle the noise that the machines make as they grind over the country-side at speeds upwards from 50 miles per hour.

This bit of advance intelligence comes from Walbro Corporation which is waiting in the wings to design carburetors that will work with whatever changes in engine specifications that snowmobile producers come up with.

Cass City's first official home wrestling match in history was to have been held Wednesday against Capac. In its first year at the school it appears popular. One reason probably is that there is no penalty for weighing 100 pounds or standing 5 feet tall.

Life in Cass City is changing. For 50 years or so one of the favorite pastimes of village youth has been sliding down "Landon's Hill" on the southwest edge of the village.

Now Guy's dead and the property is sold and the free use of private property has been discontinued. Replacing the sleds is a large sign "beware of the dog".

Changes like this are inevitable as the community grows and the people change. Inevitable, but sad.

Library lists 60 new books

Over sixty books were chosen Tuesday from the Saginaw Area Book Pool for use at the Rawson Memorial Library during the next six months. Among them are "The Hardhats Bedtime Story" by Al Capp, Ralph Nader's study group report on nursing homes, "Old age: The Last Segregation", "Any Woman Can" by David Reuben, "The Heart of Our Cities" by Victor Green and "Lieutenant Calley, His Own Story".

Other titles are "Astrology for the Aquarian Age", "The Twins Who Found Each Other", "Voyage to Atlantis", "Chilton's Auto Repair Manual", "Gardening with Ease", "How to Work with Concrete and Masonry", "Strictly for Secretaries", "The Art of Flower Arrangement", "The Complete Book of Interior Decorating", "Handyman's Home Manual", "The World of Opera", "American Ballads and Folk Songs", and "The Picture History of World War II".

Also included are a number of new novels and children's books.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Elkland township is inching along in its quest to provide new housing for the Elkland Township Fire Department. Supervisor Ed Goding told the Rotary Club that the biggest stumbling block in the drive for a new building is the desire of the board to provide the housing without going to the people for a bond issue and resultant increase in taxes. There will be no Title I money available for a summer reading program this year, but a summer course in reading and modern math will be offered with parents and the school sharing the cost.

The Tuscola County Board of Supervisors voted to ask county taxpayers for a 1.5 increase in county taxes for two years. The farm owned by William S. Nicol, who lives northeast of Cass City on an Uby route, was officially designated a centennial farm by the Michigan Historical Commission. The school board has hired the Thomas law firm of Flint to advise it on contract interpretation in negotiations with the MEA teachers' union.

TEN YEARS AGO

A lack of exercise was pointed up by two Cass City High School girls as the factor missed by most because the school had no girls' physical education program this year.

Elkland township firemen re-elected all fire department officers. Re-elected were Al Avery, chief; Ray Fleenor, assistant chief; Harold Guinther, first captain, and Nelson "Moose" Willy, second captain. The cost of running the village is expected to jump again in 1962 as trustees approved a budget calling for total expenditures of $122,156.66 as compared to last year's budget of $119,250.48.

Cass City visitors and residents will no longer have to strain their eyes to find out what street they're on. All of the village's estimated 300 signs are in the process of being painted.

Elkland township firemen prevented flames from destroying a small building on the Virgel Peters farm northeast of Cass City after an oil stove burned a hole through the building floor.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Cass City is to be the host to the Scouting organizations of Tuscola county for a court of honor, preceded by a pot-luck dinner in the high school gym.

School bus drivers, milk haulers and rural letter carriers have been hampered by drifted roads the past week and a number of farmers on side roads were isolated for one, two or more days because of weather conditions.

Clarence V. Howell, 1906 graduate of Cass City High School, by means of his "Reconciliation Trips" in New York City, wages a unique war against racial, national and religious prejudice in the nation's metropolis. A most interesting story regarding the activities of this former Gageton lad appears in the Reader's Digest.

Tuscola county beef cattle feeders will exhibit fat steers at Michigan State College at East Lansing. They include Harrison Stine, Don Koepfgen, Keith Little and Bill Zinnecker of Cass City.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A great amount of talent was displayed as the various events in the junior high minstrel show were presented in the auditorium to high school students, parents and friends.

Edward Mark and G. A. Striffler were business callers in Lansing. Mr. Mark remained in that city for the week to attend a school of instruction for farm implement mechanics.

The most active ice skater here in point of years is Chris Schwaderer, Past 83 years of age, he showed the younger folks that four soles plus need be no hindrance in enjoying that sport. He spent a half hour the other day in skating on the gravel pit pond across from his residence.

Mrs. S. Supernols, pastor of the Cass City Nazarene Church, who spent 15 years in missionary work in China, told of her work at the monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher association at Owendale.

Rev. and Mrs. Burgess, Clark Churchill and Donald and Gerald Hicks were at Lapeer and gave several selections, vocal and instrumental, over the Lapeer broadcasting station.

Seek exhibits of rural artists

Michigan State University Farmers Week will feature a Rural Art exhibit again this year. Last year over 3,000 people visited the three-day show.

This fifth annual exhibition will bring work in oils, acrylics, water colors, pencil, pen and charcoal from amateur artists residing in Michigan's rural areas.

Exhibit dates are Mar. 21, 22 and 23. All work entered in the exhibition must be original and have been completed within the last three years.

Interested local artists may contact their County Cooperative Extension Service Office for a registration label and other details. Registration must be mailed by Monday, Feb. 14.

The exhibit is an attraction to the general public as well as an opportunity for the amateur painter to exhibit her work and compare quality with other artists in her category, according to Thumb Extension Home Economist Ann Ross.

Stay tuned . . .

By Kit McMillion

I recently took another step into the world of middle class America and one more step out of my once stolidly endured college poverty.

I bought a television set. After returning to the viewing audience following an absence of about 5 years, I almost feel like I'm experiencing something totally new, even though I come from the boob tube fed generation. I don't even remember when television was new. I only remember sitting about three feet away and listening to my mother scold me because of the radiation and how I was going to ruin my eyesight.

She may have had something there because I'm about half blind without my ever-present spectacles.

I remember those early years of fantastically wonderful children's shows, including all my favorite cowboy heroes and cartoon comedies, and the Saturday marathons when my siblings and I woke with the crack of the CBS eye or the flag of America, and stayed glued in front of the set while my mom cleaned the living room by shifting our wee bodies from chair to sofa to floor.

Now I still get up on Saturday mornings and clean my own living room, and I'm truly amazed at the wretched programming. Makes me feel glad I grew up when I did.

One of the good children's shows I've gotten to see for the first time is Sesame Street. Now that is a really neat show.

The rest of the programming hasn't changed much, though. There are the same rotten commercials that insult a dog's intellectual faculties and the same dull, stupid situation family affairs that no one seems to identify with but still watch and groan about how stupid the shows are.

There isn't anything wrong with that kind of programming, since all one has to do is turn the set off, but it seems a real waste of the potential of that mass media when the beautiful aspects of the arts and music and the vast amount to be learned about the world and what is happening on it and to it, are neglected or shoved to a time when one isn't apt to tune in.

After not seeing evening newscasts for many months, I found it amazing how much more imminent the destruction of the world seemed when the tense urgent faces of anxious newscasters tell me more bodies were starving in Bengal Desh or more persons were blown apart in the ever-expanding Indochina war.

Philathea class meets at Ewalds'

Eighteen persons attended the Baptist Philathea class party Saturday night at the Bill Ewald home. The scheduled sleigh ride was cancelled because of too much ice.

Bill Ewald, president, presided over the business meeting, during which arrangements were made for future class activities. The group plans to attend the ice show at the Saginaw Civic Center Feb. 26. A progressive dinner is planned March 18, with Mrs. Harold Rayl and Mrs. Dick Shaw in charge of arrangements.

Devotions were given by Harold Rayl. Games were played and refreshments were served.

Management

program Feb. 19

By William Bortel

The "Agriculture in Action" program for the Thumb area was finalized during the week. We believe this will be an outstanding spectacular which will be staged Saturday, Feb. 19.

A real live-wire program, it's full of ideas on how a modern day farmer can compete in face of higher costs, more regulations and increased competition. The activity will be held at the Cass City High School starting at 9:30 a. m. and conclude at 3:00 p. m. Many agribusinesses from the Thumb area will be sponsoring the activity with a complimentary lunch and door prizes.

Bud Guest will be the featured speaker at noon visiting on "The Sunny Side of the Street". Bud will continue to keep the group laughing with his humorous talk.

Some of the special topics which will be covered during the day are: Good Use of Credit -- Not Abuse of Credit; Farm Business Organization - Proprietorship - Partnership - Corporation; Estate Planning, and many other management tools which you will find of interest today. The new talking computer, Synthia, will be illustrated as another feature of the day. All farmers and agribusiness people are invited. Everyone is invited; however, they must have one of the free tickets to attend. Tickets will be made available through the Extension offices at Caro, Sandusky and Bad Axe.

Tips for better calf group pens

When calves are six to eight weeks old, they can be transferred into group pens. Michigan State University dairy scientists say these pens need not be heated, but should be protected from cold wind, properly ventilated and dry.

Here are some tips as guidelines, states Bill Bortel, Tuscola County Extension Director. Allow 25 to 30 square feet per animal and 18 inches of feeder space.

Group calves according to age or size for best results and easier management.

Plan for minimum hand labor. All manure can be moved by machine if pen partitions are hinged to swing out of the way when the tractor loader is used.

When feeding silage provide access to the regular silage bunk to make use of mechanical feeding.

Install a concrete alley along at least one side of the pen to allow the use of a cart to carry baled hay, grain and bedding.

Free stalls can be used for young stock, and these sizes are suggested:

Age	Size
2 to 4 months	2' x 4'
4 to 8 months	2'6" x 5'
8 to 14 months	3' x 5'6"
14 to 20 months	3'6" x 6'6"

Make free stall partitions high enough so the animal cannot get his head over the partition and turn around (3 feet to 4 feet, depending on the size of the animal).

Baptists hold SS conference

The first Sunday School workers conference of the year was held Monday night at the Baptist church, with 25 present. Superintendent Ferris Ware was in charge.

Stan Guinther showed a film strip on "The Importance of Teaching" and Pastor Lloyd Streeter gave a talk on visitation and personal witnessing. Personnel from the junior department were featured and illustrated some of the techniques used in their individual classes. Junior Superintendent Mrs. Stan Guinther introduced the teachers from the junior department: Mrs. George Fisher Sr., Bill Ewald, Miss Kathy Hillaker, Lee Taylor and George Fisher Jr.

It was announced that the annual teacher appreciation banquet will be held Feb. 15 at the Crossroads Restaurant. The attendance goal for 1972 for the Sunday School is an average of 232, 10 per cent above last year's average. Other aims for the year were presented and discussed.

After the general session, the various departments met to discuss plans and problems. Refreshments were served following the conference.

BETTER HEALTH

Fugues forget flight

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

What is a fugue? A fugue is a running-away from home and responsibility, often when the person has a difficult problem to face. Although the person may seem to be normal afterward, he or she claims to have no remembrance of what occurred during the period of fugue. Incidentally fugue comes from the Latin word FUGA, which means fleeing or flight.

To show what can happen, I remember a college girl who suddenly borrowed money from her roommate, got into a taxi cab, and disappeared. For 14 hours, no one knew where she was. Later she came to me, much frightened by the experience, and told me that she had "come to" in a cab on the way to an airport. She said that she had absolutely no memory of the previous hours, although she could remember having several meals somewhere. She had no idea of where she planned to go, but when she got to the airport, she phoned her family and asked them to come and get her.

A friend of mine once told me of his eccentric father who one day was sent by his wife to the corner grocery store with a $5 bill to get a quart of milk, a pound of butter and a loaf of bread. His wife warned him to bring back all of the change. The man disappeared for six months, but curiously, when he returned home, with absolutely no memory of where he had been or what he had been doing, he brought the bottle of milk, the pound of butter, the loaf of bread -- and the change. Like most of these people, he had wandered away without even bothering to take an extra shirt, which indicated that he had not planned to go.

In such cases, I always suggest that the person go to a laboratory where he can have an electroencephalogram made (a record of the tiny electric currents constantly running through the brain), to see if he may have a DYSRHYTHMIA, or irregular brain-wave pattern indicating a mild form of epilepsy. I have found that a number of people who have had a fugue do have a dysrhythmic EEG. This suggests that although they may never have had a seizure, or perhaps had only a few "fever convulsions" in childhood, their brain was not entirely normal.

If I can talk with the person, I may find that he or she suffers from a number of other curious symptoms. A man may tell me of spells of irritability and irascibility, or trouble with premature ejaculation in sexual encounters, or spells of sleep-walking or terrible nightmares. A woman may tell me of periods of abdominal pain for which no organic cause could be found, or of panicky spells when she trembled all over and perspired heavily. She may sometimes feel giddy or dizzy and her heart may race and pound, or she may sometimes cry hysterically without knowing why.

All of these symptoms may be what the great neurologist, Dr. Stanley Cobb of Harvard, once called "sensory fits" -- they are obviously not convulsions, but may be the equivalents of convulsions and indicate that the symptoms are coming out of a brain that is not entirely normal. I have seen hundreds of such patients, and will soon have a book published about them.

Often, when I give such a patient an anticonvulsive drug such as diphenhydantoin, these symptoms go away, and the person feels immensely better.

EAR PIERCING BY A FRIEND IS RISKY

Now that it is again fashionable for girls -- and even some boys -- to have their ears pierced, I am constantly reading warnings such as the one in Today's Health, a fine journal for lay persons published by the AMA. The article says that ear piercing can be dangerous when it is performed by an untrained person who doesn't know how to keep infection out of the wound.

A survey of 73 randomly chosen nursing students with pierced ears showed that almost half of them had experienced one or more unpleasant complications, such as excessive bleeding, inflammation, infection or irritation due to the metal of the earrings. Some two-thirds had had their ears pierced by a friend, and only one-third had gone to a physician.

One problem that an untrained person may not take into consideration is whether the person wanting the little operation has the type of skin that tends to form keloids, or overgrowths of tissue, in any wound. If so, the ears should not be pierced.

Many women would like to have their varicose veins removed for cosmetic reasons but wonder whether it is wise to do so. In his booklet "Varicose Veins" Dr. Alvarez tells you why the veins enlarge, what the dangers are, and when treatment is advisable. You may have his booklet by sending 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Volunteers build communities

Mrs. Margaret Ross - Extension Agent

Not long ago a group of eager volunteers bought an old store building in Elkton, began soliciting funds and workers to build a community center. Today the building is beautiful, busy and beloved by all. And it is currently expanding to include more space (upstairs) for additional community activities.

Recently a group of volunteers in Port Austin decided they'd like to have a fun-type winter event that would bring people into the area, get people together and take advantage of the winter sports activities. Many people cooperated to make their winter carnival a successful community and area-wide event.

Fund drives for community service projects are the work of volunteers. Many hospitals are built this way. We often hear of the volunteer activities connected with the Deckerville hospital.

Volunteers got the churches in Bad Axe to cooperate on mutual concerns through an Inter-Faith Council. Their work includes a telephone service for shut-ins, transportation services and calls on newcomers.

Help-Line, a place where people in the Caro area can dial for help, is a tremendous program run by volunteers.

4-H leaders and scout leaders have always been volunteers helping youth.

The wheels of community service would soon halt if it were not for the volunteer. Have you been a volunteer lately?

Toy making scientific

By Dan Marlowe

Did you ever wonder how the dazzling array of toys and games that reaches store shelves before each Christmas comes into being?

As you might imagine in this day and age, the real Santa's workshop is not populated by charming little elves, but by engineers, industrial designers, and market researchers.

These are the professionals mainly responsible for giving birth to the toys that find their way under the nation's Christmas trees each year.

The toy business is big business—$3.6 million a year at retail—and very few toys reach the market by accident. Inspiration for today's toys comes largely from three sources: free-lance professional inventors, internal industrial engineers, and company product planners.

A spokesman for Ideal Toy Co. explains the system. "Inventors with proven track records make presentations regularly. Often they come in with just a germ of an idea or a product in the earliest formative state which triggers our imagination.

"At the same time, each of our divisions—toys, games, and dolls—has a staff of creative people whose job is to spot trends and come up with ideas for new playthings. They throw away hundreds of ideas for each one that eventually makes it.

"Product planners approach the situation from the other end of the pipeline. They spot a void in the market and try to develop a product to fill the hole."

Some of the most fascinating experimentation at Ideal takes place in a secluded and unidentified building at the end of a dead end street a few blocks from company headquarters on Long Island. That's the section for the advanced engineering department which works on mechanical concepts, not products. Nothing happens overnight, an example being the current Class A Racing—cars sets without batteries, slots, or wires.

In the fall of 1969 the company's planners decided to enter the market with "a new and better product." A team of engineers, market researchers, and product managers developed a list of negatives for the category. It was decided cars and tracks shouldn't need electricity, batteries, or slots, should permit passing but stay on the track easily to avoid frustrating younger children, and should give participants an opportunity to compete with each other by being physically involved in each race.

The advanced engineering department then developed a new drive mechanism which provided a great deal of energy in a small space utilizing a simple wind-up technique. The industrial design department designed the cars, pit stops, and track, and the manufacturing department translated all ideas into something that could be tooled and manufactured.

The project started in early Fall 1969, went to advanced engineering in November, and the final product went for initial production in June, 1970. It was presented to the trades in February, 1971, for delivery to the nation's toy stores last fall.

The current rumor around Ideal is that Santa will make his deliveries next December 25th from a Class A Racing set.

Lautner new engineer at Walbro Corp.

Hugh G. Lautner has joined Walbro Corporation's carburetor division as project engineer. His appointment was announced by L. E. Althaver, executive vice-president, and became effective Jan. 1.

Lautner joins Walbro with 14 years of experience in design, development and testing of recreational vehicles and related products.

Hugh G. Lautner

He was Chief Engineer at Fox Corporation, Jonesville, Wisconsin, until his new appointment. Major products developed at Fox during his term as head of the Engineering Department include minibikes, snowmobiles, and a dune buggy. He became a research engineer at Outboard Marine Corporation, Milwaukee, in 1958 and was appointed test supervisor in 1967, with responsibility for all snowmobile testing.

His responsibilities at Walbro Corporation will permit him to apply his know-how to chain saw and lawn/garden equipment carburetors as well as snowmobile units. Walbro small carburetors, for example, are found on one out of every two chain saws produced in the world today.

Lautner is a graduate of Michigan Technological University and holds a Bachelor of Science Degree. He lives in Cass City with his wife, Jane, and four children.

Letters to Editor

Hazardous school ice conditions

Mr. John Haire, Editor
Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Mi. 48726

It should be brought to all parents attention the hazardous ice condition at the Cass City Elementary and Intermediate school and the dangers of the students having to walk on this not only to enter and leave buses but to go to lunch. Students have fallen and injured themselves yet nothing is being done to eliminate this unsafe and very dangerous condition. Wednesday the ice was so severe one of the women bus drivers needed assistance to get in the bus without falling.

All driveways, walkways and sidewalks should be cleared of ice not only for the students safety but teachers and bus drivers as well. If there is no money to pay for salt or whatever it takes to keep them clean then we should ask why? The state requires our children to attend school then shouldn't we require and demand their safety in doing so?

Don't "weed" students too soon—Magel

123 Atlanta
Salina, Kn.

Dear Mr. Haire,

Enjoyed your article in the Editor's Column of Jan. 13, since I had been discussing, with many European women, the educational differences here and abroad.

I agree with you in context but disagree in their system of testing students between 8-11 years of age to "weed" out non college persons.

I'm sure the men and women who, after having been out of school for several years, decided to get a college education or the "late bloomer" who at 16 decides to go to college, are very happy to have the opportunity to pursue their education.

Fortunately in our system we have a second chance for college.

Sincerely
Helen Magel

AROUND THE FARM

Hedging seminars set

By Don R. Kebler

To buy or sell future contracts without a supply of the commodity under your control is speculation. If one has, for instance, his own corn and buys and sells futures, this is hedging.

Hedging can be profitable and less risky than speculation in the futures market. Either way both can be risky if one lacks the proper information and practice to play the Futures Market.

With this in mind and the big interest in Futures, hedging and contracting, the County Extension Office is scheduling a three-day Hedging Workshop. This workshop is designed to meet the needs of last year's workshop participants and anyone who has never before been acquainted with Hedging and Futures contracting. Actually, this workshop will be a detailed refresher course plus a new educational experience for new participants.

Each session from 9:00 a. m. through 3:30 p. m. will be held in the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building at Caro. There will be a $7.50 dinner cost per person for the three sessions. The dates are Feb. 29 and Mar. 7 and 14. Reservations and inquiries are now being taken at the Extension Office.

Another first time announcement of a program of considerable importance is the Feb. 11 Animal Waste Control meeting.

There is no need to remind our livestock and poultry producers of the accelerated build-up of public reaction to better ecology and air, land and water pollution abatement. Fact and fiction is evident in remarks, statements and public opinions. Right or wrong every individual, farm or non-farm business will come under observation sooner than we think.

As a whole Tuscola County Agriculture is faring in real good shape as far as being guilty of rightful criticism. The farm operators want to keep this favorable public impression and will endeavor to keep their guard against losing their status.

However, to accomplish this early, proper education and information advantageous to all is needed. With this in mind the County ASC, SCS, Health Department, Michigan Department of Agriculture, Dairy Division, and Extension Service representatives have combined resources for this first Animal Waste Control meeting.

The purpose of this meeting is to assist livestock and poultry producers to better understand and identify present or potential water and air pollution problems. Also to review good everyday housekeeping practices to eliminate or prevent potential water and air pollution problems. Lastly, to acquaint these operators with the necessary procedures and agencies to contact to abate or prevent these problems.

Individual case problems will not be analyzed at this 1:00 to 3:30 p. m. meeting at the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building on Feb. 11. But those who attend will go home with the building blocks necessary to keep them ahead of any critical livestock and poultry ecological problems.

Former resident dies in Flint

Final rites were held at 1 p. m. Wednesday for Floyd L. Hiller, 53, of 820 N. East Ave., Jackson, from the Benjamin and Whipple Funeral Home, Flint. The Rev. Robert Stockwell officiated.

Committal services and burial followed at 3:30 in Elkland cemetery. Hiller died Jan. 30 at McLaren General Hospital, Flint. He was born to Jacob and Laura Hiller Jan. 21, 1919, in Cass City. He moved to Jackson 23 years ago, where he was employed as a guard at Southern Michigan Prison.

He was a World War II veteran and a member of the Richard F. Smith Post 29 of the American Legion.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Frank (Irene) Karner of Clio, 3 aunts, an uncle, 4 nieces, a nephew and several cousins.

Knocked down the walls and started over

Remodeled farm house modern dwelling

Accompanying the movement of city dwellers to the country to escape the noise and confusion of populated areas is an associated trend involving the transformation of old farm homes into city residences.

After toying with the idea of remodeling a farm house for several years, the Rodney Kruegers bought an old home on Phillips Road, two miles south and west of Cass City, and began work last July.

The major construction work was done by carpenters, but Rodney and his wife, Colleen, did the interior finishing and painting.

"When we saw the house, we decided we could make it do what we wanted to," said Mrs. Krueger. "We gutted it and started all over."

Besides reconstructing the interior, they added a family room to the north with a master bedroom and an additional bath for the kids upstairs.

The 70-year-old farm home was in need of some repairs when they bought it, but was basically a sound structure in good condition. Colleen explained that the inside was decorated with light-colored pret floral wall paper, linoleum or tile flooring, and while a nice home, it wasn't adequate for their needs.

"There was no water in the main part of the house, just one set of faucets in a small room off the kitchen. Heat was provided by a coal hot-air stove. The remodeling work included rewiring, new plumbing and a new heating system.

Watching their ideas grow was one of the rewarding parts of redecorating their home.

"It was a lot of fun walking into the old house and imagining the walls out," explained Colleen.

"The walls were all knocked out by some high school boys who dearly earned their pay," she chuckled.

Following the destruction of the inside walls, the carpenters arrived in July to reconstruct the interior according to the Kruegers' specifications.

Rodney designed the interior but the only plans that were put on paper were for the addition. The rest of the work was told to the carpenters verbally.

"That's why I just about collapsed the first week. All I could do was stand around and tell them what to do," he related.

His visualized plans for the addition were only one foot off from the final blueprint.

The scheme included knocking out the enclosed stairwell to make it open into the living room, raising part of the living room floor about 6 inches and creating an entrance to the living room from the widened front door by adding a railing across the front to form a foyer.

What is now the living room and foyer was previously a small living room and a dining room with a dividing wall and arched doorway connecting the two.

Off white paint and gold shag carpeting, gold curtains and chairs of red print, green and blue upholstery emphasized the new modern appearance.

Adjoining the living room is a dining area and a modern kitchen off that. The space once occupied a bedroom and a small kitchen. Again modern color and design and carpeting transformed the rooms into a contemporary home with no traces of its former farm connection other than the view of fields out the side French doors.

The family moved into the home the third week in September, while the carpenters were still hammering. The premature entrance was the result of fatigue of living with their three children in a 20-foot camping trailer for 2 1/2 months.

The Kruegers explained the reasons they moved to the country, besides wanting to remake their own home.

"Basically, we thought it might be nice to bring our children up in the country," said Colleen.

They have a daughter, Chris, 13, and two sons, Scott, 10, and Kevin, 9.

She cited the nearby woods and river on their 80 acres plus the location on a small hill as desirable features. And there is room for snowmobiling and horseback riding. After 14 years in town she said they found the country quieter and more pleasant with elbow room, privacy and an unblocked view.

She laughed as she related that earlier she had vowed she'd never go back to the country after being raised on a farm.

Her husband explained that he liked the country for the same reasons and because there was room for him to do things, like raise a small herd of cattle and enlarge his workshop.

Decorating and finishing up a home is no new thing for the Kruegers, Colleen explained. They did even more work on the home they built on Hospital Drive where they lived in town.

There they put up the wall siding, strung almost all of the electric wiring, which included electric heat, laid the tile, nailed the subflooring, finished off the basement entirely, did all the painting and the refinishing of the cupboards and woodwork.

"I think we're just do-it-ourselves," she said.

Their energy wouldn't let them wait around, either.

"As soon as the dry wall was up, we started to put seal coating on it right away," Colleen told.

They painted all the inside walls, and Colleen finished all the inside woodwork, including many closet doors, shelves and doorways.

"The minute they got it up, I started antiquing," she said.

The stair railing was the hardest to stain, she related, because of the numerous round spools.

"I'm not finished yet," she said. "I ran out of steam after the holidays."

But the task posed few problems for Mrs. Krueger, who has been refinishing antique furniture for a number of years and uses them in her home.

Her husband built many of the extras on the interior, including the shelves in the family room, where he installed a fold-down type desk that fits into the shelves and is able to hide the numerous papers of a desk when not in use. He is also going to build similar desks into the walls of the boys' bedrooms upstairs.

The exterior of the house was altered, too. The bricks, which the Kruegers were told came from the old Cass City brick yard, had to be knocked off because they were crumbling. Aluminum siding went up in their place. A front porch was also added, although there are no stairs yet.

Landscaping and yard work will have to wait, although grass will be planted this spring. Extensive grading was done around the house due to poor drainage, and grass will have to be sown in the front yard where corn was grown in years when farm crops were planted right up to the house.

Colleen said they also hoped to use some of the bricks removed from the sides to build a patio off the dining room French windows.

Watching their ideas grow and materialize and doing it themselves was part of the fun.

"There's a lot of us in that house," Colleen said.

MR. AND MRS. RODNEY KRUEGER worked together to transform an old farm house on Phillips Road into a modern residential dwelling. He drew up the plans and she did most of the interior decorating.

Following the destruction of the inside walls, the carpenters arrived in July to reconstruct the interior according to the Kruegers' specifications. Rodney designed the interior but the only plans that were put on paper were for the addition. The rest of the work was told to the carpenters verbally.

Adjoining the living room is a dining area and a modern kitchen off that. The space once occupied a bedroom and a small kitchen. Again modern color and design and carpeting transformed the rooms into a contemporary home with no traces of its former farm connection other than the view of fields out the side French doors.

THE OPEN, carpeted stairwell was completely closed off from the living room before they knocked out walls and remodeled.

MRS. KRUEGER shows the fold-up desk her husband built into the family room bookshelf.

Her husband built many of the extras on the interior, including the shelves in the family room, where he installed a fold-down type desk that fits into the shelves and is able to hide the numerous papers of a desk when not in use. He is also going to build similar desks into the walls of the boys' bedrooms upstairs.

The "Reese 44" ex-teachers were given two weeks Monday to file a brief with the Tuscola County Circuit Court explaining their motion to name the individual members of the Reese Board of Education as defendants in their suit against the board and the Reese High School superintendent.

Richard R. Kaake of Shabbona Road, Decker, was found not guilty Tuesday of issuing an insufficient funds check in Cass City May 12, 1971, in an amount of $80.

The Tuscola County Circuit Court jury deliberated about 30 minutes before arriving at the verdict at 2:35 p. m. The trial began Tuesday morning.

Two Vassar men stood mute to a charge of sale of marijuana Monday before Judge Norman Baguley. Pleas of innocent were entered for Mark Ziegler and Robert Lugo. The pair were arrested Dec. 23 on warrants issued after they allegedly made a sale to a Bridgeport State Police trooper Oct. 11, 1971. Lugo's bond was reduced from $2500 to $800 and Ziegler is free on $5000 bond.

THIS REFINISHED antique table harmonizes with the wood closet panels Mrs. Krueger stained. The house has much stained wood throughout.

aspects, the Spanish heritage of the island is still highly visible.

The family traveled a lot over the hilly, rutted roads visiting relatives and seeing historical sites. Although the island is only 105 miles long and 35 miles wide, they spent a lot of time on the curvy roads traveling at speeds of 20 to 30 miles an hour.

They visited the governor's palace, which was built in the early 1500's by Ponce de Leon, the first governor, who conquered the island for Spain. They also walked along the old fortress walls and forts that still line the sea coast.

The youngsters also took part in the holiday festival celebrated Jan. 6 instead of Christmas. The custom is to put cut grass under the child's bed for the camels of the three wisemen who are supposed to come and leave gifts in return. The day is also marked with a traditional roast pig dinner and family celebration, said Arroyo.

The conflict of old and new didn't bother the kids who seemed to have no trouble communicating via hand signals, related their mother.

Mrs. Arroyo found little problem with the language barrier, either.

"You just don't talk to anybody," she quipped.

Drive carefully on the highways—safety is no accident.

Reese teachers told to explain motion

The "Reese 44" ex-teachers were given two weeks Monday to file a brief with the Tuscola County Circuit Court explaining their motion to name the individual members of the Reese Board of Education as defendants in their suit against the board and the Reese High School superintendent.

The suit was filed following the dismissal of the 44 teachers after the Reese Teachers Education Association struck and refused to return to work in 1971 after 10 months of contract negotiations failed to yield a settlement.

The teachers were fired and 44 new ones hired in their place.

Mar. 10 has been set for oral arguments involving the motion in the landmark case.

Catholic church amplifier stolen

An amplifier valued at $150 was reported stolen Sunday from the St. Michael's Catholic Church at Wilnot. The amplifier was in the church following Mass Saturday night, but was missing the next morning. Tuscola county sheriff's department is investigating.

"EQUAL OPPORTUNITY BUILDER OF THE THUMB"

Hawks edged by Caro; clawed by Eagles

CASS CITY was successful in snagging this rebound Tuesday night. It was one of the few bright spots for the Hawks against Frankenmuth. In the foreground is Kip Hopper. Randy Wright is number 40.

When the Cass City Red Hawks have been good this season, most times they have not been quite good enough to win, and when they have been bad, they have lost one-sided decisions.

Tuesday the club experienced the worst of its bad nights at Frankenmuth and lost a one-sided decision to the Eagles, 82-61.

The set-back was discouraging to Hawk fans because it followed two games in a row in which the club showed a better brand of basketball.

The Hawks were narrowly defeated by Freeland and Caro in these games. Teams generally conceded to be stronger than Frankenmuth.

The loss dropped Cass City into the Thumb B Conference cellar.

Frankenmuth went into an early lead and was never behind throughout the game. The handwriting was on the wall in the first four minutes of the second quarter when the Hawks failed to score a single point.

On three successive trips down the floor in the span Cass City lost the ball through turnovers. The ball handling was sloppy and the shooting was stone cold.

Despite the long drought in the second quarter, Cass City fans still had hopes at the intermission.

That's because the club had pulled itself together in the last four minutes before the half to cut a 15-point deficit to 8. Frankenmuth's lead was cut to 38-30.

But hopes soon died in the third quarter. Cass City's play was poor and Frankenmuth came alive with a 33-point salvo to tuck the game away.

In the quarter, the Hawk defense collapsed and the Eagles were able to penetrate for many easy unhindered lay-ups.

At the end of three quarters, Cass City trailed by 20, 63-43.

The Eagles continued to add to their margin and when Coach Fred Hurlburt cleared his bench Cass City was behind, 76-53. Paul Bliss led the scoring for Cass City with 18. Frankenmuth's scoring was well divided with five players in double figures.

JV GAME

In the preliminary, the Hawk JV went behind by about 10 points in the first half and was never able to close the gap in a 65-57 decision.

The JV quintet would narrow the margin a few points only to see the Eagles claw back to up the lead again and stave off every Cass City rally.

CARO GAME

For the second time this season the Cass City Red Hawks bowed to Caro but the game played Friday at Cass City was a different game than the first encounter between the two schools.

In the first game, Cass City was soundly beaten, trailing by as much as 30 points at one time during the game. Last week the Hawks took Caro into overtime before losing, 81-76.

Tiger fans could point to the absence of Mark DeNoyelles as one reason for the decline in effectiveness of their team. And there was little doubt that the lanky center was missed under the boards, especially when Randy Dunham was forced to sit out a quarter because of four personal fouls.

At the same time, Hawks fans have little doubt that the team is better today than it was early in the season when the first game was played.

They point to the improvement of Cass City's sophomores, Dave Hillaker and Scott Hartel, and the addition of Nick Gibas, another sophomore, to the starting line-up as reason for improving play.

The addition of Gibas and the steady improvement of Randy Wright and Kip Hopper has given Coach Fred Hurlburt his strongest bench since the season opened.

It was apparent from the opening whistle that this was a game that Cass City wanted to win. Paul Bliss played one of the finest games of his career in his battle with Kirk Sutherland.

Bliss controlled the offense and consistently beat Sutherland one-on-one as he netted 24 points on 10 buckets and four free throws.

Fred Harbec netted 11 points and helped Cass City in the valuable rebound department. The Hawks have switched to a zone defense and it suited Tim Bates perfectly. Bates led all scorers with 30 points, many of them on short pops from around the foul circle.

Caro went into the lead in the first quarter, 21-19, and at the half had forged in front 39-34.

With Dunham on the bench in the third period, Cass City rallied to outscore the visitors 21-15 and take a two-point lead going into the final quarter. The frenzied last quarter was nip and tuck with first one team then the other forging ahead. With two minutes to go, the Hawks had a chance to salt away the decision only to miss crucial free throws that might have won it all.

When the regulation game ended, the Hawks were lamped with two regulars on the bench with fouls and the Tigers took command with a 6-1 extra period edge and the victory.

Cass City showed balanced scoring with Scott Hartel hitting for 12, Gibas for 8 and Dave Hillaker netting 19.

Sutherland scored 17 for Caro. Dunham added 15 and Dave Holder, 8.

JV GAME

In the preliminary, Cass City's Junior Varsity lost a close game to the Tigers' JV, 77-65.

Second row: Randy Brown, Ken Novak, Dave Lautner, Tim Coryell, Craig Guernsey.

Third row: Coach Paul Clabuesch, Andy Auten, Tim Knoblet, Dave Reed, Rick Erla, Henry Cooklin, Athletic Director Bob Stickle.

THE FINGER

When the chips are down, it's a man's everyday conduct that expresses his true character.

TIP TO MOTORISTS

A little less speed and a little more courtesy would solve most of our traffic problems.

SHOOTING OVER THE outstretched hands of Randy Dunham is Paul Bliss who had probably the finest night of his three-year varsity career against Caro Friday.

EVEN FOR HEAVYWEIGHT wrestler Dave Reed tugging a section of a $3,000 wrestling mat is hard work. The mat is 42-foot square and comes in three sections.

For meets there is a giant center ring of regulation size. For practice there are five smaller rings so that 10 boys can practice simultaneously. The rings are on the reverse side of the mat so that the regulation circle can remain "new" for meet competition.

Honor students at CMU announced

A number of area students were among the approximately 3100 Central Michigan University students at Mount Pleasant named to the academic honors list for the 1971 fall semester ending Dec. 18.

To be eligible a student must have a cumulative grade average of "B" or better for his entire student career.

Those named to the straight "A" list are: Richard Lorenzen, senior; Sally Geiger, sophomore; Gall Hoffman, senior; and Kathy Mark, senior, all of Cass City; Louann Parker, sophomore, of Gageton; James Parrott, senior, of Kingston; and Carol Kreger, junior, of Snover.

7 rolls of cable wire stolen

Seven 320-foot rolls of rubber-covered copper cable valued at $2100 was reported stolen Wednesday, Jan. 26, from the shoulder of the Bay City-Forestville Road, three miles east of Gageton.

A Shell Oil Company crew was using the wire to take seismographic readings. State police from the Bad Axe post were told it was found missing when the crew returned from lunch. Investigation continues.

THE 4S FORMULA HAS PROVED A SUCCESS

Schneeberger's policy makers years ago devised a formula consisting of a combination of saving, service and selection. It has produced the most desired result an appliance dealer could ever hope for customer satisfaction.

Saving, the ingredient, is a direct result of Schneeberger's own purchasing methods. The firm buys by the truck load, maintains its own gigantic warehouse facilities and is a member of the National Appliance, Radio, TV Dealers Assn.

This cost-consciousness is totally consumer-oriented. Schneeberger's knows, when dealers don't buy right, they can't sell right. It's just that simple. And over a few short years thousands of Schneeberger's repeat customers have derived the benefit of the basic fact of business.

The second ingredient, service, is to Schneeberger's a natural partner of saving. Let's face it, many mechanical products don't always function perfectly throughout their entire lifetime. As long as men make machines, these machines will require occasional maintenance to keep them running correctly.

Schneeberger's is acutely aware of this obligation and has geared its staff, through long hours of training, to stand solidly behind every piece of merchandise it sells.

By doing its own maintenance and repairs on its own merchandise Schneeberger's saves the customer money in the long run. The company believes that the customer is entitled to more than just merchandise for this money, he has the right to enjoy the advantage of superior service after the item leaves the store.

Compared to Schneeberger's gigantic warehouse inventories, no other dealer in the Thumb can stack up - thus providing the third ingredient, selection.

People don't buy refrigerators or television sets or dishwashers as casually as they would purchase a salt shaker or a pound of sugar. They want to see the biggest possible array of models, series, shapes, colors and styles. Most dealers only offer the buyer a limited sample of the total market. Every model of such top brands, including General Electric, R.C.A., Magnavox, Whirlpool, Hardwick is here for the customer's close inspection. Schneeberger's sells only first quality products, no private or off brands.

And because of this broad selection range, the customer is assured of finding the Schneeberger's formula has paid off! The expanding company and its huge roster of happy customers attest to that fact!

Firm Develops Talent, Too!

As the largest television and appliance and furniture dealer in the Thumb Schneeberger's is also one of the Thumb's foremost talent developers. "We take as much pride in our people," says a Schneeberger executive, "as we do in our merchandise."

They are so firmly committed to using every modern instructional technique, including visual aids, tape recordings, books, pamphlets, actual work on merchandise, to ensure that employees from executives to salesmen to repairmen, are constantly aware of the latest developments in the electronics and appliance field.

While their service seminars and programs help arm their own personnel for their work, the increasing of people's technical abilities also helps to make Schneeberger's employees more successful individuals.

Training is Never ending

Keeping its people abreast of the latest techniques, tools and innovations in maintaining, servicing and repairing any part of any piece of merchandise they sell is a fact of life at Schneeberger's.

WHY IS SCHNEEBERGER'S THE LARGEST INDEPENDENT TV AND APPLIANCE DEALER IN THE THUMB

Saving . . . Service . . . Selection . . .

Buying by the truck load, a huge direct to consumer warehouse, plus the fact that we are the largest dealer, enable us to pass volume saving on to you.

What happens "after the sale" has always been important to us. We have our own service department handling over 100 calls per week. Not only do we offer prompt, guaranteed service in your home, but we have a technician on duty for carry-in service on portable TV's. Even if you are not now a customer of Schneeberger's, we will service your TV or appliance.

RCA CORPORATION BACKS THESE 100% SOLID STATE COLOR TV'S FOR 1 YEAR WITH THESE BASIC WARRANTY PROVISIONS

RCA's symbol of Purchaser Satisfaction

If anything goes wrong with your new set within one year from the day you buy it, and it's RCA's fault, RCA will pay your service agency to fix it—both parts and labor. You can use any service agent in which you have confidence—you don't have to pick from some special authorized list. Just present your warranty registration card to the service technician and RCA pays the repair bill. If your set is a portable, you take it in for service. For larger sets, your service technician will come to your home. If your picture tube becomes defective within two years it will be exchanged for a rollable rebuil tube; in the first year RCA pays installation, in the second year you do. In short, the warranty covers every set defect. It doesn't cover installation, antenna systems, adjustment of customer controls or foreign use.

Power-cord lock secures plug in outlet, prevents cord from being accidentally pulled out.

Leveling legs are easy to adjust, compensate for uneven floors.

"Live-coil" spring insulation is designed to "grip" both cabinet and liner to prevent cold leaks.

Tite-Seal* construction protects against air leaks that could affect interior temperature and food preservation.

"Floating-quiet" rotary compressor is precision built for long life, dependable operation.

Positive-action key lock helps protect food supply from pilfering or unauthorized use. Two keys included.

Full-range temperature control lets you select the temperature you desire.

MILLION-MAGNET* door seals in cold, eliminates troublesome old-fashioned latches.

4 REASONS YOU SHOULD BE GOIN' TO SCHNEEBERGER'S WHIRLPOOL APPLIANCE

1. SERVICE . . .

What happens "after the sale" has always been important to us. We have our own service department to install and service your Whirlpool appliances. And even if you are not now a customer of Schneeberger's we will service your TV or appliance.

Whirlpool automatic washer and dryer

- Perfect for apartments, homes, mobile homes
- 2 speed, 4 cycle washer connects to most any sink faucet
- 3 cycle dryer plugs into any adequately wired 120-V. household outlet
- Special cool-down care for no-iron Permanent Press fabrics (subject to local codes)

Both models feature easy-roll casters. Dryer also includes leveling legs for use when unit is on stack rack.

Hang this versatile dryer on a wall.

Stack units to conserve floor space! Dryer fits on sturdy rack while washer can stand on floor beneath. Merely pull washer forward to lift lid and load. Convenient rack height allows easy access into dryer drum.
