CRYSTAL RIVER — Forget about the slow-speed debate in King's Bay.

It's a ruse, Bob Mercer and friends say, designed to draw attention away from the real threat proposed by the King's Bay rule:

Total government control of the waterways, property and even a child's ability to swim in the same vicinity as a wandering manatee.

"Did you buy your house to live in a highly restricted area with limited use of this water?" Mercer asked in an email to surrounding property owners. "You guess what this will do to your property values!

Mercer, who lives on a Paradise Point canal leading toward Three Sisters Springs, is part of a group of people who believe the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Serv ice plans a rule to appease manatee enthusiasts at the expense of waterfront property owners and boaters.

CRYSTAL RIVER — The winter manatee-protection season starts Tuesday with old rules in place and an uncertainty about new ones.

Workers with the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service will be installing buoys and markers Monday to set aside manatee sanctuaries in King's Bay and area springs, giving the creatures their undisturbed gathering spots as the winter chill drives them from the Gulf of Mexico to the warmer inland waters.

Ironically, as federal officials prepare to release a final manatee-protection rule for King's Bay, the season starts with neither the final in December, would make the entire King's Bay a manatee refuge to prevent the "taking" of manatees. A "taking" is defined as a death or anything that drives manatees from their natural habitat.

rule,

A refuge is not the same as a sanctuary. A sanctuary is roped off and prohibits anyone from entering; they are designed to give manatees a place to rest and stay warm during cold winter months.

Federal officials say creating a refuge in King's Bay is necessary to protect the species. The most talked-about part of the rule would require year-round slow speed in the bay, eliminating a state-enforced 35 mph summer sport zone around Buzzard Island.

Mercer and a former neighbor, Mac Williams, say talk about the speed zones keeps the focus on boat collisions with manatees. Though they say statistics show boat collisions are rare, the speed zone debate gives the public an impression that the problem is worse than it is.

"They claim it's about the manatee. It's not," Williams wrote in an email to the Chronicle. "It's about the radical environmentalists manipulating the USF&WS for several years to enhance their viewing pleasure and the monopoly of 'pay-to-swim' dive boats, and kayaks, at the expense of every other form of tourist visitor in a motorized boat."

Agency: We're still working on rule

Mercer, Williams and Crystal River Mayor Jim Farley say a deeper look at the rule shows a much broader control over King's Bay activity.

Team checks health of manatees

A.B. SIDIBE Staff Writer

CRYSTAL RIVER — Thursday was a reunion of sorts for some members of a research team who would occasionally stop by King's Bay to capture and assess the well being of manatees.

Through scar-pattern identification, and by chance, the group caught a giant mother cow they had met and photographed some three decades earlier.

"It was huge. Perhaps the biggest manatee I have ever seen. It had to have weighed anywhere between 1,600 pounds to 1,800 pounds," said Michael Lusk, manager of the Crystal River National Wildlife Refuge.

The girthed manatee and her calf were two of five manatees captured, examined and released into the wild Thursday by a team of about 100 volunteer students, researchers and veterinarians. The team also captured and released three manatees Wednesday.

Powerboat racer dies at competition

An offshore powerboat racer has died after being critically injured in an accident at the Key West World Championship, the third racer killed during the boating competition. Joey Gratton, 59, of Sarasota, died Saturday morning at the Ryder Trauma Center in Miami from injuries sustained Friday, said Super Boat International spokesman Roderick Cox. Gratton's racing partner Stephen Page, of Fort Myers, was released from the hospital Saturday. About 200 people gathered at a memorial for Gratton Saturday afternoon, including Page, who still had green bandages wrapped around one arm. Although the competition has claimed three lives, race officials said they will continue with Sunday's scheduled races.

INVERNESS — It's Casey Stephens' thinking that making recycling more convenient will lead more people to think twice about throwing recyclables away. And now with the county offering single-stream recycling, it has become even easier.

"And we want to get the word out." said Stephens. director of Citrus County Division of Solid Waste Management.

Stephens, along with Keep Citrus Beautiful, Citrus 20/20 and F.D.S. Disposal, took their message to residents Saturday for Citrus County Recycles Day at Walmart in Inverness. Juanita Simpkins, an cling in the county more F.D.S. customer who lives in than two years ago, and its Inverness, said she came up to the Walmart to ask about recycling aerosol cans. To her surprise, she found out makes recycling easier for they are recyclable.

Simpkins' venture into re-newspapers and slowly grew as she found out about single-stream recycling. Now, she said, after finishing sorting through her household waste, she finds she has very little trash to throw away. "We really need to start com.

recycling everything," she said. "I think it's great. It used to bother me it went to the landfill.'

Rick Pixton, also of Inverness, also expressed awe at just how many everyday items can be recycled.

"It surprises me on how it can save on garbage," he said

The county began singlestream recycling in October, and Stephens has been working hard to promote its 12 neighborhood drop-off sites.

He admits it has become hard for some customers to make the adjustment of not having to separate their recyclables anymore, but overall, people are excited about the change.

"It's been a change, but a change for the better," he said

Ultimately, Stephens said he hopes more and more people will embrace recycling, which, in the long run, will save space in the landfill and make it last longer.

"Every little bit helps," he said.

Campaign to stop bike, walker deaths

A new Florida Department of Transportation website is trying to reduce the high number of bicyclist and pedestrian fatalities in the Tampa Bay area.

The St. Petersburg Times reported the state used $125,000 to hire an advertising firm, which created a campaign and a website.

SeeTheBlindSpots.com features safety tips for bicyclists and pedestrians, crash data and images that use trains, tanks and elephants to represent how much damage cars can do to pedestrians.

The goal is to reduce pedestrian deaths in the Tampa Bay region by 20 percent in three years.

Florida leads the nation in bicycling and pedestrian fatalities. And the Tampa Bay area is one of the worst in Florida. In 2009, the region averaged seven pedestrian and bicvclist fatalities a month.

But Dusty had his own plans in mind as he missed jumps and ran off course to check out a photographer who was snapping his picture in the middle of the action.

The gracious duo from Beverly Hills didn't place, but Anderson said the whole point of the K-9 Karnival is for dogs to get out and have a good time.

"Oh, I love it. It's fun, and it's fun for the dogs," he said.

There was a whole lot of tail wagging going on Saturday at Liberty Park in Inverness during the third annual K-9 Karnival.

A number of people attended the dog-friendly event with their lovable companions in tow. Dog owners had the opportunity to participate in many different events such as agility heats. musical chairs, a K-9 race and the K-Karnival Pageant, which featured an adorable adoption parade for dogs needing good homes.

Admission to the event was free, but it was encouraged to bring a non-perishable pet food product as a donation to the Meals on Wheels pet program.

Delighting in his second-place win in the agility contest, Max Cox, 12, played around with his purebred boxer named Ellie Mae. Cox has had the dog for about four years; he said his family got the dog from another family who didn't want her.

He described their relationship as close.

"She's very important to me," he said as he gave her a gentle pat on the head. "She's always there for me.'

Across the field under a tent, Dawn Locke, a volunteer with Adopt A Rescued Pet Inc., held in her arms a sweet Cavalier King Charles spaniel named Sally.

Sally needs a home, Locke explained. Though she has a few health problems, Locke said she would love to see Sally find a nice place to live.

Having a presence at the K-9 Karnival definitely generated a lot of inquires, Locke said, and only time will tell if any of them will turn into adoptions. But the most important part, she said, was raising awareness about ple to bring "cold noses into their group and encouraging peo-

Animal hoarders strike plea deal

Dunnellon pair led to other hoarders

JEFF BRYAN Riverland News

Penelope and Gina Walker kept more than 50 animals locked in cages for the better part of several weeks as the mother and daughter made their way to Florida from Arkansas in search of a better life for both themselves and their animals.

In February, the Walkers didn't get far when local law enforcement officials discovered the two vehicles the women were driving were packed full of 50 animals covered in feces and malnourished. Marion County Animal Control officers removed 37 live and at least 12 dead animals from the vehicles.

Altogether, a total of two donkeys, six goats and seven dogs were removed from the van and a total of 19 dogs, two cats and one bird were taken from the RV. The live animals were mostly kept in crates; officers found the deceased animals in bags, coolers, boxes and crates, said Elaine DeIorio, Marion County spokeswoman. The crates had layers of animal waste, with one crate weighing in at 92 pounds.

Each woman was charged with 37 counts of animal cruelty with the bond set at $74,000 each. Each charge is felony thirddegree, Police Chief Joanne Black said, and how much time, if any, they would serve would be determined by a judge, who sets criteria for sentencing.

The two women struck a plea deal with the state attorney's office Oct. 27.

The results: adjudicated guilty, one year in jail in which they have already served 255 days, five years' probation, both must go through a mental health evaluation and successful follow-up treatment, the women are not allowed to own or care for any animals, allow for random animal inspection, and they are not to maintain employment or volunteer for any facility that cares for astated about this news."

animals. They are also required to pay a $500 fine and court costs.

Each woman, as part of the deal. will serve five years' probation. As part of the deal with the state, they must serve it in Marion County.

"It was a negotiation between the state and defense counselors," said Brad Robinson, state attorney. "That's what we came up with.'

The Walkers also provided key information. which led Polk County authorities to an animal hoarding case in Lakeland. There, more than 200 dogs were found by sheriff's officials.

Black was not pleased with the outcome. "I'm actually disappointed," she said. "It's not the first time this has been done. The ones that suffer are the animals. They're going to start hoarding again; they feel like they can care for them, and then they can't."

"This is not their first time hoarding; they tipped us off on the Lakeland home. They were the ones that knew about (the place); (animal hoarding) isn't new to them.

The state was granted custody for the Walkers' most recent group of animals after they were seized in February and put up for adoption in April.

"(The animals) got the care they needed, I'm sure they have a better life," Black said. "I think a lot of people are pretty much dev-

The show's director, Jude Gerard Prest, said he could not give the exact date when the show on whooping cranes is scheduled to air, but he estimated sometime in January or February 2012.

Through a program called Operation Migration, endangered whooping cranes make a yearly journey from Wisconsin to Florida, with the goal of landing in the Chassahowitzka National Wildlife Refuge.

An ultralight aircraft leads them through seven states: Wisconsin, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Georgia before they settle for the winter in the preserve.

Their flight is completely dependent on the weather, which ultimately determines how long the 1,285mile journey will take.

According to operation migration.org, as of Thursday, the birds' journey stalled in Livingston City, Ill., where they have been sitting for the past six days, Bay activity.

Farley, in fact, said he considers the proposed rule as the government's attempt to "seize" the bay.

"You can call this a rule all you want, but it's really legislation," he said.

Mercer and Williams say the rule would:

■ Restrict fishing lines and anchor lines to "manatee approved," although they're not sure what that means. The website that Mercer, Williams and car dealer Jewel Lamb created, savecrystalriver. com, says boats will not be allowed to anchor unless the line is encased in a PVC pipe.

Chuck Underwood, spokesman for the wildlife agency's office in Jacksonville, acknowledged that the proposed rule includes language about fishing and anchor lines that is being "misinterpreted" and will be addressed in the final rule.

"One could read that section and think, 'we can't go fishing without these fancy lines.' That's not accurate," Underwood said.

"Anchor lines is another one. We acknowledge up front the proposed rule had some sections that are not clear. That's why the proposed rule is out there.

manatees.' Residential docks and their use Chuck Underwood will be taken over by the federal government, they say. Williams said if the bay and canals are part a manatee refuge, permits from the federal wildlife agency will be required for simple dock repair.

Underwood said that isn't necessarily so. He said the agency will not stand in the way of dock repair that is properly permitted from other regulatory agencies.

Swimmers could be fined if they get within 10 feet of a manatee. While that is not part of the rule, Williams and Mercer base that concern on a 2009 recommendation from the Marine Mammal mwright@chronicleonline.com.

'Their whole intent is to cut down the number of swimmers," Williams said.

Underwood said the agency has no plans to incorporate the 10-foot rule. He said the agency takes recommendations of the Marine Mammal Commission seriously, but any kind of buffer rule would be difficult to enforce.

Underwood said he knows the proposed rule is causing much debate in the community and that some people fear the worst. "Manatees are one of those species that, when we propose something, it brings out strong emotions on both sides," he said. "I haven't found too many people who say, 'I hate manatees.' Most people want us to do the right thing, but they also want to use the resources."

Williams thinks the proposed rule is unnecessary.

"Why does it take a refuge expansion to eliminate the harassment of an animal?" he asked. "It's all an excuse to take control of the bay.

DEP explains impaired water body restoration plan

JIM HUNTER Correspondent

State officials came to Citrus County recently to explain the state water quality assessment program and showed why 22 locations in the county's coastal rivers and springs will be added to the state's impaired water quality list.

Because data shows Citrus has many areas in its coastal springs and rivers considered to have impaired water quality, some residents had asked Florida Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) to come explain its program.

DEP uses a five-year cycle to assess water quality in designated geographic groups (Citrus is in the Springs Coast group) and then creates a list of bodies of water, often part of a body of water such as a spring or other area of a larger body of water, that fail to meet state standards for the use of the waters.

DEP has five classes of use, two pertaining to coastal surface water in Citrus: Class II, Shellfish Propagation or Harvesting; and Class III: Recreation, Propagation and Maintenance of a Health, Well-Balances Population of Fish and Wildlife. Class III includes swimming.

This coastal region's group assessment, which includes Spring, Tarpon Springs, Cres-

The next phase of the assessment process is to set and adopt what is called Total Maximum Daily Loads (TMDLs) for the impaired water bodies. These are the maximum of a given pollutant that a surface water can absorb and still meet the water quality standards that protect human health and aquatic life.

Finally, working with all the stakeholders in that area including permitted polluters (for example, a power plant or a sewer plant), resource users and local governments, DEP creates a Basin Management Action Plan for the water bodies on the list to get them back below its TMDL — in other words, to restore them.

If that doesn't happen, stakeholders, such as agricultural, industrial and business interests as well as government entities can be found out of compliance when per-In the Chassahowitzka mits are reviewed. DEP

Florence McPhee, 94

CRYSTAL RIVER

Florence Linnea McPhee, 94, died peacefully surrounded by her family on November 6, 2011, at Cypress Cove Care Center in Crystal River.

She was born March 29, 1917, on the family wheat Dunblane, farm near Saskatchewan, Canada, to William and Helena Tuomi, emigrated from who Finland.

Finnish was her first language. She learned English in order to attend school. Trixie, her trusted horse, pulled her by buggy the three miles to school in all types of weather. She graduated from St. Paul's Hospital School of Nursing, Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, in 1942 and became a Registered Nurse of the Province of Ontario in 1945.

She married James E. McPhee on November 16. 1942, in Saskatoon. They relocated to California, where she was known as a society woman of Palos Verdes.

Sword stolen from Lincoln's Tomb

SPRINGFIELD, III. -Thieves have nabbed a 3foot-long copper sword atop Lincoln's Tomb in what is believed to be the first theft at the site in more than a century.

An employee noticed last week that the sword was cut from a statue of a Civil War artillery officer, the (Springfield) State Journal-Register reported Saturday. Officials think the sword was stolen sometime between September and early November.

Nothing had been stolen from the Springfield site, which is the final resting place of Abraham Lincoln, since the sword on the same statue was taken more than 100 years ago, said Dave Blanchette, a spokesman for the Illinois Historic Preservation Agency. Then, the sword was bronze.

Arab League votes to suspend Syria

CAIRO — In a surprisingly sharp move, the Arab League voted Saturday to suspend Syria over the country's bloody crackdown on an eight-month uprising and stepped up calls on the army to stop killing civilians.

The decision was a humiliating blow to a regime that prides itself as a bastion of Arab nationalism, but it was unlikely to immediately end a wave of violence that the U.N. estimates has killed more than 3,500 people since mid-March.

"Syria is a dear country for all of us, and it pains us to make this decision," Qatar's Foreign Minister Hamad bin Jassim told reporters.

"We hope there will be a brave move from Syria to stop the violence and begin a real dialogue toward real reform."

Rep. Ron Paul of Texas just as quickly disagreed with the idea that a president would order an attack. He said if America's security is threatened, the president must ask Congress for a formal declaration of war before taking military action.

The question was the first in a 90-minute debate devoted to defense and foreign policy, an event that brought eight would-be commanders in chief together on a debate stage for the second time in less than a week.

Obama sees economic power of Asia-Pacific region

Associated Press

HONOLULU — Placing high hopes on the economic power of Pacific Rim nations, President Barack Obama on Saturday declared the Asia-Pacific region the heart of explosive growth for years to come. For businesses, he said, "this is where the action's going to be."

Obama was in Hawaii courting Asian powers as he sought to improve the beleaguered American jobs outlook. His move comes as his administration has poured attention and capital into deepening relations with Asia as a source of trade, jobs and security ties.

"There is no region in the world that we consider more vital than the Asia-Pacific region," he told chief executives gathered for a regional economic summit.

For the U.S., Obama's outreach also reflects worries about Europe's economic troubles and the need for the United States to tap the enormous base of potential consumers in the emerging nations of Asia.

Underscoring the region's importance to the U.S., Obama on Saturday, as expected, announced the broad outlines of an agreement to create a transpacific trade zone encompassing the United States and eight other nations. He said details must still be worked out, but said the goal was to

On a day of heavy diplomacy, the president also was looking to contain deepening worries over Iran amid a fresh U.N. atomic agency report that Iran is working secretly on a nuclear weapon.

On the sidelines of an Asia-Pacific economic summit, Obama met with Japanese Prime Minister Yoshihiko Noda and was to meet with Chinese President Hu Jintao and Russian President Dmitry Medvedev. The timing of the meetings with the Russian and Chinese leaders was particularly significant as Obama seeks to increase world pressure on Iran.

Obama chose to host the event in his home state of Hawaii to illustrate his ties and economic commitment to the Pacific region, although security threats may well dominate his private meetings.

"The United States is a Pacific power and we're here to stay," Obama said.

He called the transpacific trade zone agreement a model for the Asia-Pacific region and for other trade pacts. Seated with the leaders of the eight other nations, Obama said the trade zone would increase U.S. exports and help create jobs, a top priority.

He said the U.S. is committed to shaping the future security and prosperity of what he called the "fastest growing region in the world.

The eight countries joining the U.S. in the zone would be Australia, Brunei, Chile, Malaysia, New Zealand, Peru, Singapore and Vietnam. A central topic for Obama and Noda will be Japan's interest in joining the trade bloc.

In a sign of potential tension with China, Mike Froman, a deputy national security adviser who focuses on international economic matters, shrugged off complaints from China that it had not been invited to join the trade bloc.

color to a higher-grade, salt-glazed stoneware that served more utilitarian purposes, as well as being much more decorative, beautiful and collectable.

The expansion of transportation, primarily the emerging railroad system, helped establish Seagrove as a pottery town. However, the industrial revolution, the development of modern food preparation methods and wars were devastating to the industry.

With the advanced materials and techniques, the potters have become more unified in their promotion of the craft.

Enticed by cultural changes and newer ceramic materials, collecting fine pottery has created an industry within the industry. By the late 1920s Seagrove pottery was well known from the galleries of New York to Miami and the West Coast.

Small towns across the country have, in the past century, systemically lost younger family members, many of whom have gone off to school and gravitated toward the excitement and opportunities of larger cities — the trend continues today. This has been one of the major challenges to the continuity of the art/craft of pottery making. Nevertheless, Seagrove is the largest community of potters, with the longest continual history of pottery making, in the United States.

The North Carolina Pottery Center is an unusual and interesting destination. There you will enjoy a grand exhibit of pottery spanning the centuries, from the earliest utilitarian vessels to the modern, more expensive and highly collectible pieces on display.

We had heard of the cordiality of the potters, so we prepared picnic lunches for the two days we would spend in the area. The North Carolina Pottery Center, as our luck would have it, has an area for picnics that is covered, and another under the trees — shady, but not covered, so we took advantage of the covered area because it was raining that day.

Picnicking in the rain was quite enjoyable!

Because most of the potteries are familv operated, visitors receive a warm welcome to their studios and workshops, and the fall season, when the weather is cooling, is the perfect time to visit. It doesn't get any better than the week before Thanksgiving when the Seagrove Pottery Festival is in full swing.

Members of the Sturgeon Base of the United States Submarine Veterans will present this year's Massing of the Colors ceremony at 3 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 13, at Cornerstone Baptist Church, Highland Avenue, Inverness.

This year the ceremony honors "America's Military Aviators." It is an opportunity to show respect to the country's aviators for their sacrifices and the symbols of our nation.

Active duty military units, veterans' organizations and all other patriotic organizations are welcome to participate by providing a color bearer to carry their unit/organizational flag, along with their American flag, during the ceremony. Participants should be at the church by 2:15 to 2:30 p.m. for instruction and lineup. The actual ceremony will only take about an hour. The public is invited.

For more information, call Billy Wein at (352) 726-5926 or Jack Townsend at (352) 637-5376.

The Massing of the Colors is a patriotic ceremony and tribute to the dead of all wars. Its purpose is to re-dedicate faith in the colors of the United States and to support those colors, as well as the servicemen and women those colors represent.

Before the 20th century, military colors were carried covered except for ceremonies or when the enemy was in sight. A unit's colors provided battlefield recognition to friend and foe. The flags always represented the soul and reputation of a unit.

Each unit had two flags: their national colors and a unit flag. To ensure that the men knew the flag of their own unit, both flags were frequently paraded before them during reviews and other ceremonies. From this practice developed modern color guards.

The relationship of the exile to an island homeland can be experienced in the language Caribbean writers use, McCallum said. It's a layered language that's U.S. or U.K. readers may lump all Caribbean writers together as having one voice, but the arts community in the islands isn't as unified, said Brenda Flanagan, a Trinidadian fiction writer who teaches Caribbean literature at Davidson College in North Carolina.

Citrus County soldier welcomed home

Special to the Chronicle

Operation Welcome Home (OWH), Citrus County's volunteer organization devoted to welcoming and honoring every local military veteran returning from the war on terrorism, welcomed home Army Sgt. Kenny Smith on Oct. 26 at VFW Post 7122, Floral City.

Smith recently returned from his second combat tour in Afghanistan as a mortar squad leader in 1-21 Infantry Battalion of the 25th Infantry Division during a one-year duty assignment. Air Force Chief Master Sgt. (retired) John Stewart, OWH secretary, presented Smith a certificate proclaiming him to be a true Citrus County hero. Barbara and citizen of Citrus County."

Mills, OWH president, presented him a basketful of gift certificates from local businesses and veterans' organizations.

Other presentations were made by Rolling Thunder, The Marine Corps League and VFW Post 7122. Additionally, a special certificate was presented to Smith's wife, Jolene, for her outstanding support of and devotion to her husband during his service to America.

"I would like to personally thank VFW Post 7122 and all those who attended our ceremony," said Stewart. "The patriotic hosting by Post 7122 was very professional and it made me darn proud to be an American, a veteran

OWH needs support from local residents, veterans' organizations and businesses for donations of gift cards and cash. It will allow the organization to continue the program honoring Citrus County heroes. OWH anticipates that because of the projected increase this winter of troops returning from the drawdown in Iraq, more support is needed today to prepare for those events. Additionally, attendance at OWH activities is encouraged whether you have served in the military or not.

ear Annie: Recently, my sister, first child. She and her husband will allow friend of mine politely declined to do an unreasonable favor. Rather than accept no for an answer, Linda tried to manipulate other people into strong-arming him into changing his mind. When that didn't work, she caused a scene and stormed

While such behavior is typical for her, this particular event happened at the rehearsal dinner the night before her son's wedding. Linda is so narcissistic that she needs to trump everyone else. If you don't go along with her, retaliation is swift and heartless. My punishment was her telling me she would no longer participate in her share of care-giving for our mother, who is in poor health and suffering from dementia. That was the last straw for me, and I ended whatever relationship we had.

Linda has no friends (no surprise there), and her husband, while a fine man, does not possess many social graces himself. So here is my dilemma. My wife, friends and therapist tell me that terminating the relationship was the healthiest thing to do. In the back of my mind, however, I wonder what are the responsibilities of a good brother. I don't want to enable unhealthy behavior, but I wouldn't abandon Linda if she were mentally ill and couldn't help herself. She has tried therapy several times over the years, but quits just as she is beginning to show signs of possessing kindness and empathy.

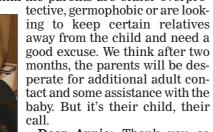

Linda was never much of a sister to me, and frankly, it's peaceful with her out of my life. I just have this niggling feeling that a brother's love should be unconditional. Is this an unrealistic notion, or is it a call to be a bigger person? — Uncertain Brother

Dear Brother: Unconditional love does not mean you have to put up with rotten treatment. It means you still love Linda, in spite of her shortcomings, and if she truly needs you, you will be there. But it does sound as if she has some mental health issues, and we hope she will someday be willing to address them.

I am the director of pharmacy at a rural hospital, and we accept medications on a daily basis. However, current laws prevent anyone except law enforcement from accepting controlled substances, so those drugs have to be returned to the patient. It's disappointing that I can dispense controlled substances, but can't take them back. I think those laws need to be changed. Wouldn't the DEA rather have those drugs in the hands of pharmacists than see them sold on the streets to our children?

LECANTO — Chloe Benoist is going right back where she belongs.

Once again, Citrus High School's Tim Wenger is also headed to the state meet. This is his fourth run for the glory.

The Crystal River High School girls took fourth in their regional and are going as a team.

The Lecanto High School junior cross country runner finished 15th at the Class 3A Region 3 Cross Country Meet Saturday at Lecanto. Next Saturday, Benoist will run at the Class 3A state meet for the sixth time. She qualified three times at Seven Rivers Christian School. She was in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades there. more and junior years.

Benoist missed summer running due to a broken arm. She has worked hard to overcome that disadvantage.

"It was pretty difficult," said Benoist of the race. "The cold didn't bother me."

Benoist was the only Lecanto High runner to qualify for the regional. The top 15 individuals and top six teams qualify for the state meet, which will be Nov. 19 at Little Everglades Ranch near Dade City. "We have one more week of practice," Lecanto girls coach Dan Epstein said. "She's (Benoist) going to the big race again. She was not too bad for this course. She kind of died here on the track. It was close. Her goal was to finish somewhere in the top 15. She lost four people on the

Tamposi and Sisk shine at Class 2A swim meet

Larry Bugg Correspondent

Most athletes are just happy to make it to the state meet.

Saturday, Lecanto High's Jake Tamposi and Kylie Sisk both put their hearts into their events and came up with strong performances at the Class 2A Swim Meet at the Orlando YMCA swimming pool.

Tamposi, a senior, was fourth in the 100 breaststroke with a best-ever 59.18. He also had a personal record in the 200 freestyle, placing ninth with a 1:43.9.

This marked the end of Tamposi's remarkable high school career. He swam three times at state and was the third Tamposi brother to compete at state.

Sisk took 19th in diving at the state meet. The point total was not available.

Sisk, a junior, has only been diving for a little over a year and was also on the volleyball team.

"I felt really accomplished," she said. "It was nerve-wracking. I tried my best and I just had fun with it. I also do volleyball, so it's challenging to do both. I did have to swim in two 50

- STATE COLLEGE, Pa. apping the worst week in school history, No. 12 Penn State couldn't overcome a 17-point deficit and was stopped short on a 4th-and-1 late in a 17-14 loss Saturday to No. 19 Nebraska. The outcome was secondary losing in its first game of the post-Joe Paterno era. The winningest major college football coach ever was fired Wednesday.

Rex Burkhead ran for 121 yards and a touchdown for Nebraska (8-2, 4-2) before the Nittany Lions scored 14 points on two second-half touchdown runs by Stephfon Green. But a key drive ended when Silas Redd was stopped on the fourth down with 1:49 left at the Penn State 38.

"It was really fun. I want to go back next year."

Lecanto High coach Matt Bouthillier was happy with both athletes' efforts.

"It was a pretty amazing day," the coach said. "Jake has prepared all season for today. From the moment he showed up, he was ready. Every time he got in the water, it was the best he ever swum. Tonight, he swam his best time ever.

"He was at the top of his game. He was a very dedicated student-athlete.

"Jake swam a 1:43.54 freestyle this morning. This evening, he had a 1:43.39. He was a district champion in that event.

"In the morning, he swims a 58.69 in the breaststroke. In the evening, he swims a 58:18 to get fourth. He was 1/100th of a second behind third place. It was an amazing race. The 100 breaststroke was the best race of the night."

Hornish Jr. captures first NASCAR win

Associated Press

AVONDALE, Ariz. — Sam Hornish Jr. raced to his first NASCAR victory and Ricky Stenhouse Jr. took a big step toward the Nationwide Series season title when Elliott Sadler was taken out late at Phoenix International Raceway on Saturday.

Hornish, a former Indy-Car star, passed Stenhouse on a restart midway through the 200-mile race and stayed up front on several restarts to claim his first win in 141 career starts between the Sprint Cup and Nationwide Series.

Stenhouse finished fifth after Sadler, the only driver with a chance to catch him, was knocked out with 25 laps left on a bump from behind by Jason Leffler. Sadler's crash gives Stenhouse a nearly insurmountable 41-point lead heading into the season finale at Homestead next weekend.

Brad Keselowski was second and Carl Edwards third.

Hornish was one of the most accomplished American open-wheel drivers in history, winning three Indy-Car Series championships and the 2006 Indianapolis 500. He switched to NASCAR full time in 2008, but has had a checkered career in stock cars, his best year coming in 2009, when he had a pair of top-5 finishes.

Duke demolishes Presbyterian 96-55; Krzyzewski ties Bob Knight

Associated Press

DURHAM, N.C. — Mike Krzyzewski tied Bob Knight atop the Division I men's career wins list with his 902nd victory in No. 6 Duke's 96-55 rout against Presbyterian on Saturday.

Ryan Kelly scored 17 points for the Blue Devils (2-0), who shot 61 percent and used a huge first-half run to deliver another milestone victory to their Hall of Fame coach.

Coach K improved to 902-284 during his 37th season as a college coach at Army and Duke. He can pass Knight — his coach and mentor — on Tuesday night against Michigan State at Madison Square Garden.

Krzyzewski continued his steady climb up the wins list by matching Knight – for whom he played point guard at Army in the 1960s. The Cameron Crazies chanted "902" as the final seconds ticked away, then chanted his name after the horn. Krzyzewski briefly huddled with the Blue Devils on the court, then hustled into the locker room as the song "Celebration" blared from the speakers.

seven as Orange coach Jim Boeheim emptied his bench in the first meeting between the schools since Syracuse's 80-63 victory four years ago. Chris Gaston and Bryan

Smith led Fordham with 13 points apiece. Branden Frazier had nine points, three steals and three assists.

Syracuse put the game out of reach with a 15-5 spurt in the second. Joseph hit a 3 from the left wing, Fair converted a miss by Joseph, and Waiters' steal and fast-break dunk capped the run and made it 51-28 with 12:49 left.

No. 15 Wisconsin 85. Kennesaw State 31

MADISON, Wis. - Ben Brust and Josh Gasser scored 14 points apiece, and Wisconsin hit 15 3-pointers.

Ryan Evans had 13 points for the Badgers, who made seven of their first 10 attempts from beyond the arc. Jared Berggren and preseason All-American Jordan Taylor finished with 11 apiece.

Mike Bruesewitz hit consecutive 3-pointers to cap a 16-0 run for the Badgers (1-0), who grabbed control after Spencer Dixon banked in a 3 on Kennesaw's first possession. The Badgers built a 41-8 halftime lead while holding the Owls (0-1) to just 13 percent (3 of 23) shooting from the field.

14, and Adaora Elonu had 11 points and eight rebounds to lead defending national champion Texas A&M to an opening 83-58 win over Lamar on Saturday night.

White, Carter and Elonu are the three of 10 returning players from last year's 33-5 team that won the program's first NCAA title.

The No. 6 Aggies shot 47.5 percent from the field (29 of 61), outrebounded their smaller opponents 42-35 and generated 34 points off 28 Lamar turnovers.

Kalis Loyd scored 20 to lead the Lady Cardinals (1-1), who shot 35 percent from the field (20 of 57) and went 1-for-9 from 3-point range.

St. Bonaventure 64, No. 25 St John's 58

NEW YORK — Megan Van Tatenhove scored 16 points and Jessica Jenkins added 14 to rally the Bonnies to their first victory over a ranked team since they beat No. 21 Michigan at home in 2008.

It was their first road win over a Top 25 team.

St. Bonaventure trailed by 13 late in the first half before cutting its deficit to 34-29 at the break.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The South Florida Bulls finally got to sing their fight song. Thank you, B.J. Daniels.

Daniels ran for 117 yards and a touchdown, skipped away from Syracuse's defensive pressure at every turn, and the Bulls celebrated a Big East victory, beating Syracuse 37-17 on Friday night.

After four straight conference losses, South Florida (5-4, 1-4 Big East) finally had snapped the program's longest losing streak.

"Coming out with a win, the tradition for us is to go into the locker room and sing the fight song — we haven't done that in a while," Daniels said. "It was real exciting to get the opportunity to do that."

players had, he said.

Most Penn State fans heeded calls for a "blueout," wearing the school's familiar dark blue in support of victims of child sexual abuse. Fans formed the outline of a blue ribbon in the student section.

'We are ... Penn State," roared the crowd through the afternoon, the signature State College cheer.

But this school's identity has forever changed.

"I think today it just made the healing process start to begin," interim coach Tom Bradley said.

"It was a tough game. There were a lot of emotions going on," said line-backer Nate Stupar, who had a team-high 13 tackles. "I used the emotions to fuel the fire."

Paterno started as an assistant in 1950, then took over as head coach in 1966. It was Penn State's first game without Paterno on staff since Nov. 19, 1949, a 19-0 loss at Pittsburgh.

But in many respects, it was like any other fall Saturday in Happy Valley. Massive 6-foot-5 defensive tackle Devon Still hit ball carriers with typical ferocity and the Nittany Lions played another close, lowscoring game — as they have all year.

Penn State's first play from scrimmage was a fullback run up the middle — a Paterno favorite. The offense struggled again.

Just not that Paterno.

Paterno's son, quarterback coach Jay Paterno, moved down from his usual spot in the press box to relay plays from the sideline — a job once held by assistant coach Mike McQueary.

"We've had better weeks in our lives, obviously," Jay Paterno said. "I think about a week ago, where we were sitting, the world's kind of turned upside down, but I think our kids were resilient."

By the second half, fans seemed most concerned about whether the Nittany Lions could get back into the game.

The Corhuskers built a 17-0 lead, with Burkhead gashing Penn State's staunch D on 25 carries. He motored 14 yards into the end zone with 8:51 left in the third quarter for a 17-0 lead.

Then came the secondhalf push from Green on Senior Day — his last game at Beaver Stadium.

The senior scored from 5 yards with 5:07 in the third quarter, then added a 6-yard run at 5:42 of the fourth to get Penn State within three. Green finished with 71 yards on 17 carries.

But the offense faltered on two late drives, including the fourth-and-1 stop of Redd. Out of timeouts with 49 seconds left, the Nittany Lions got the ball back but could get no farther than their own 46 before time expired.

The fans cheered anyway, and greeted the Nittany Lions with one more chorus of "We are ... Penn State."

game at 7-3 on Jacory Harris' 2-yard throw to tight end Clive Walford in the second quarter before Florida State scored 20 unanswered points to build its lead to 23-7 early in the fourth quarter on Hopkins' third field goal. Miami's lead came on Jacory Harris' 2-yard TD pass to Clive Walford, but Florida State quickly regained the lead at 10-7 when Rodney Smith beat two Miami defenders in the end zone to grab a 21-yard throw from Manuel with 4:42 left in the half.

Reid's 83-yard punt return with 51 seconds left in the second quarter gave the Seminoles a 17-7 lead. Reid, who led the nation in punt returns two years ago as a freshman, fielded Dalton Botts' punt on one bounce and raced straight up the middle of the field untouched to the end zone. He finished his day's work with 106 yards

Seven Rivers recovers from early mistakes to win 55-38

TAYLOR PROVOST Correspondent

The Seven Rivers Warriors football team ground out a 55-38 victory over the Bishop McLaughlin Catholic Hurricanes Friday night in Brooksville's Ernie Wever Park to advance to the conference championship against Landmark Christian next Saturday in Winter Haven.

'This was one of those games where it's a shame there's a winner," Warriors head coach Paul Roher told both teams after the game. "It was a good battle.'

Seven Rivers scored early in the game to bring up a brief 14-0 lead with a a rush and a 60-yard interand an 18-yard pass by senior quarterback Josh Gaskin on the next drive after a Hurricane three-and-out. But the Hurricanes quickly caught up, scoring their own back-to-back TDs, one on a 24-yard pass by quarterback R.J. Perciavalle to senior Evan Barhonovich, the other a 5-yard rush by senior Jor-49 yards rushing and 1 touchdown reception.

The Warriors had 7 score 21 points off a pass, by junior John Iwaniec head into halftime with a inggame and four TDs, in-35-28 lead.

Gaskin had two fumbles Downey to senior Trey in the game, both recovered by Bishop McLaughlin, but also intercepted a had 128 passing yards overall.

"Basically at halftime we told everyone to stop being dum-dums," Roher said. "We were their offense; every break they got we gave them. But they redan Betancourt, who had ally wanted this, especially the seniors."

The Warriors played more than twice the Hurmuch cleaner in the secpenalties totaling 60 yards ond half, drawing only two in the second quarter penalties and scoring alone, but still managed to three more rushing touchdowns

Setback for Woods Down Under

Associated Press

SYDNEY — Tiger Woods keeps referring to the "process" as he tries to work his way back toward the top of golf.

Despite a setback Saturday at the Australian Open, it looks like progress.

With a one-shot lead going into the third round - his first time atop any leaderboard in nearly a year — Woods trudged off the 18th green at The Lakes with a 3-over 75 and found himself six shots behind John Senden.

He started the day posing over a short iron that was headed right for the flag, only for the ball to take one hop forward and trickle off the steep bank to the left of the green that set up the first of three straight bogeys. By the end of his round, he was staring down putts and looking perplexed when they turned away from the cup.

Since his last win two years ago at the Australian Masters, Woods now has been in front three times.

And all three times, he failed to break par.

Disappointed?

Well, 75s are never exciting," Woods said.

Even so, his third round at the Australian Open didn't feature wild shots that have hurt him before. such as the last time he had the lead. That was the final round of the Chevron World Challenge last December, when he blew a playoff to Graeme McDowell.

Before that, he was tied for the opening round lead at Ridgewood with Vaughn Taylor at The Barclays last year, then saw his round fall apart with a series of shaky putts.

Woods opened with three straight bogeys Saturday narrowly missing the green at No. 1, going long with a strong breeze at his back on No. 2 and hitting a poor four-shot lead and lost in a pitch from just short of the in six birdies for his 63. green at No. 3.

The only big damage on 204 and will be in the final birthday Saturday with a 68 his day came from one bad group with Day, who had to tee shot and failing to take settle for a 68. advantage of the par 5s.

The cheers kept coming from the group ahead of Woods — first for Jason Day, about being in the moment, who knocked in a 40-foot birdie putt on the ninth time and doing the best you really bad," Day said. "I green to take the lead, then can with your mental work for Senden, who holed out and routine. Have fun and for eagle with a wedge on enjoy it, rather that make it the sixth hole and poured

Senden was at 12-under

"I'd be lying if I said I wouldn't be nervous," Senden said. "I think it's playing golf shots one at a stressful. That's all I can hope for.'

Day celebrated his 24th my list tomorrow."

and will play in the final group with Senden with a chance to win his national championship in his first time home to Australia in nearly five years.

"I really want to win one, grew up watching the Australian Open and it has always been on my long-term goal list. I'm in a good position to hopefully check it off

Singapore Open play was suspended just as the third round began at about noon because of the threat of lightning. The rain continued throughout the afternoon, meaning no more play was possible, and officials shortened the tournament to three rounds.

Matthew leads Lorena Ochoa Invitational

Associated Press

GUADALAJARA, Mexico -Catriona Matthew shot her second straight 4-under 68 on Saturday to take a three-stroke lead after the third round of the Lorena Ochoa Invitational.

who won the 2009 Women's British Open for the last of her three LPGA Tour titles, had an 11under 205 total at Guadalajara Country Club.

"I think I'm putting the ball better this year, being more consistent," Matthew said. "I haven't made the mistakes that I have made in the last couple of years. More bad shots the last years. This year in general I've been more consistent and pitching the ball better, so makes it easier when you're on the fairway.

She played the first 52 holes without a bogey before dropping a stroke on No. 17.

'I've hit a lot of fairways and a lot of greens and it makes it quite firm, you never know what it's easy," Matthew said. "I haven't missed a lot of greens, and don't have the pressure to get up and keep it up for another day."

Norway's Suzann Pettersen (71) was second, and defending champion I.K. Kim (70) was another stroke back along with Anna Nordqvist (73)

"I'm delighted to be in the Matthew, the 42-year-old Scot lead," Matthew said. "I would rather be three shots in the lead rather than three behind. I.K., Suzann and Anna all back there, all capable of coming up from behind, so I'm going to have to go out there tomorrow and shoot something in the 60s, I think.'

Last year, Kim closed with a 64 to beat Pettersen by three strokes.

"Is this a course where you can shoot a low round and come from behind, I.K.?" Pettersen joked with Kim, who also was in the interview room. "Yeah, it is. It is. I witnessed it last year so, no, I mean, obviously if you get going, try to take advantage of so many par 5s. There are tough holes coming up, and with the greens going to be, but you have to put a good number together tomorrow." Hall of Famer Juli Inkster, tied make a difference.'

down then, so hopefully I can for the lead after the first two rounds in the 36-player event, was 5 under after a 75. The 51year-old Inkster is trying to become the oldest winner in LPGA Tour history.

Top-ranked Yani Tseng was 26th at 3 over after a 74.

Tseng is coming off victories in the LPGA Tour's Taiwan Championship and Ladies European Tour's Suzhou Taihu Ladies in China. The Taiwanese star has seven LPGA Tour wins this season, and four other worldwide wins.

The tee on the par-518th hole was moved up 40 yards Saturday, cutting the hole from 521 yards to 481.

Federer, Tsonga advance to final of Paris Masters

Associated Press

PARIS — Roger Federer played a masterful match against Tomas Berdych to set up a Paris Masters final against Jo-Wilfried Tsonga, who saved three match points against American John Isner on Saturday.

Federer used his strong serve and did not face a break point in cruising past Berdych 6-4, 6-3.

Tsonga edged the unseeded Isner 3-6, 7-6 (1), 7-6 (3) in a gritty contest lasting nearly three hours, a contrast to Federer's 80-minute victory.

The 16-time Grand Slam champion broke the fifth-seeded Berdych's serve at the start of each set to take control.

Tsonga and Federer will meet for the sixth time this year, and first since the U.S. Open quarterfinals when Federer prevailed. Federer leads 5-3 overall.

"I have no particular problem playing against him. I'm not afraid of him," Federer said. "I would be afraid of him in the first round, but (not) in the final, when I feel good."

Tsonga won his only Masters title in Paris three years ago, and aims for his eighth career title.

"If I manage to beat (Federer) in front of my fans, it will be an even bigger win," Tsonga said.

DALLAS — As the Dallas Museum of Art prepares to open an exhibit of Jean Paul Gaultier's sometimes outrageous, always head-turning fashion designs, the city's well-heeled residents are mobilizing.

Dallas is one of just three North American cities — along with Montreal and San Francisco — hosting the exhibit of works by the French designer. And while Dallas is not a fashion industry center like New York, Paris or Milan, designers and retailers know very well that some of their most devoted and fashionconscious clientele can be found in Texas — both in Dallas and farther south in Houston.

He writes in his new book, "My Friend Michael: An Ordinary Friendship with an Extraordinary Man," that Jackson started the first of two anniversary shows in 2001 an hour late as a result of being drugged up in his dressing room.

Cascio became a friend of Jackson's after his father introduced him to the singer; Cascio's father worked at the Hemslev Palace in Manhattan, managing the hotel's towers and suites, where Jackson stayed. Following that, a 5-year-old Cascio and his younger brother Eddie, spent time with Jackson at his Neverland Ranch.

He says Jackson was first introduced to Demerol in 1984 when he burned his head during a Pepsi commercial shoot, and Cascio writes that he first noticed Jackson using the medicine on his "Dangerous" tour.

Perry, Cain, manage crises with humor, defiance

LAURIE KELLMAN Associated Press

- WASHINGTON ick Perry and Herman Cain have chosen far dif-• ferent weapons in their race to recover first and best from the crises that have rocked their presidential campaigns. Humor is Perry's choice. For Cain, defiance.

The assignment for both men: Fit the response to the predicament, with no margin for error.

Perry rushed to the talk circuit in a bid to persuade Republican voters not to take his forgetful Wednesday night debate "oops" so seriously.

"I don't know what you're talking about — I think things went Cain, the former CEO of Godfathers Pizza, has opted for defiance, firmly denying all allegations as he pushes his insurgent campaign toward the Jan. 3 Iowa caucuses.

"Over the last couple of weeks, I've been through hell," Cain told his supporters in Kalamazoo, Mich. "But here's the good news: It didn't kill me or slow me down one bit.'

Private polling suggests the harassment controversy has taken a bite out of Cain's oncesolid lead in Iowa. And a new nationwide CBS News poll out Friday indicates he has lost support among women.

The CBS News poll, conducted Nov. 6-10 during the span of both crises, suggests a threeway the for the nomination beformer tween Cain, Massachusetts Gov. Mitt Romney and a resurgent Newt Gingrich among GOP primary voters. The other candidates are doing what they can to manage their rivals' crises, too. Romney's technique? Raise his profile in Iowa, stay on message — and let advocates in Congress and elsewhere make an argument that particularly resonates now.

perpetual news cycle against the best strategists and communicators around. And it offers a hint of how the hopefuls might, as president, make snap judgments on sober matters in the White House.

"The crisis creates, really, a stage," said Daniel Diermeier, a professor and expert on reputation management at Northwestern University. "All eyes are on the leader, and how they conduct themselves leaves a very long and profound impression on the audience.'

Perry's stumble was hard to watch, an awkward 54 seconds he has since noted felt like hours.

'The third agency of government I would do away with the Education, the Commerce. And let's see. I can't. The third one, I can't, Perry said. Oops. The response in cyberspace was swift and brutal, many saying the slow-motion flub suggests Perry isn't, after all, ready for national politics. The candidate made a beeline for the press room to own up and vow to press on: "I'm glad I had my boots on because I really stepped in it tonight.'

ments from the National Restaurant Association where those two worked and Cain was president - are a question of he-said, shesaid. They are wavering on whether to have a news conference, according to the lawyer for Karen Kraushaar, one of them.

So Cain could have little to lose by sticking to his denials and moving on.

His combative new lawyer, Lin Wood, could pave the way to stability for a candidate who has struggled with consistency as he responded to the breaking story harassment allegations. of Wood, based in Atlanta, has represented the family of Jon Benet Ramsey and the man wrongly accused of being the Atlanta Olympic park bomber. And he's warning any other women who might come forward with allegations against Cain that they would be aggressively scrutinized. At the same time, the Cain camp seems to be making efforts to shore up support among women, including rolling out the endorsement of a prominent Republican female state lawmaker in his home state of Georgia. Renee Unterman. The CBS News poll said Cain's support among Republican women has dropped since late October, from 28 percent then to 15 percent now. He's getting more aggressive getting his campaign message out. Cain is airing his first television ad in Iowa and preparing to sign a lease on a new campaign office in Atlanta that will serve as a hub for volunteers. Facing voters for the first time since the allegations emerged nearly two weeks ago, Cain met with friendly tea party groups in Michigan. "How you beat Obama? Beat him with a Cain!" he told one supporter at a crowded diner in Ypsilanti, near Detroit. The crowd cheered.

TaxWatch numbers shed light on Citrus County

Guess what? According to an analysis just released Florida by TaxWatch, the criticism is off-base.

In a report just released, TaxWatch stated Citrus County spends far less on public safety per capita than most every other county in Florida. Citrus residents paid $236.75 per person for law enforcement, while the state average is $579.83 per person.

well," the Texas governor joked the next evening on David Letterman's "Late Show." "I wanted to help take the heat off my buddy Herman Cain.

He certainly did, at least for a day, with the stunning 54-second brain freeze in which Perry tried and failed to recall a third Cabinet agency he would abolish.

Cain, a week-and-a-half into denying at least four sexual harassment accusations, finally was able to talk about something else. Facing serious allegations, he hasn't been laughing about any of it — with the brief exception of his reaction Thursday to a question about Anita Hill, who had accused Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas of sexual harassment during Thomas' confirmation hearing.

"Is she going to endorse me?" Cain replies on camera, bursting out laughing.

By Friday, he was back to explaining himself.

"He said it in a humorous way, I gave back a humorous response," Cain said on Fred Dicker's radio show in Albany, N.Y. "It was no way intended to be an insult to Anita Hill or anybody else."

"He won't embarrass you," Rep. Jason Chaffetz, a Romney supporter, tells Republican lawmakers still on the fence.

Other candidates are trying to make a similar point.

'We can't have any surprises with our candidate," Rep. Michele Bachmann says, in a Web ad released by Gingrich's new political action committee. As she speaks, an image of Cain shatters.

Crisis management is a distinct presidential fitness test, watched intently by influential politicos looking to support a campaign that might succeed. It can be a key indicator of who's best suited to compete for the voters' trust and enthusiasm in a Post-gaffe, Perry has labored to show he's in on the joke and climbing the presidential campaign learning curve.

"Write us to let us know what federal agency you would most like to forget," the Perry team invited supporters, directing them to a website addressed "forgetmenot.'

The humor tactic is risky, though, because the jokes only change the subject from more weighty underlying concerns.

"The basic question is about competence. The humor doesn't address it," Diermeier said. "It's still out there.'

As the media spotlight turned to Perry, Cain pressed on toward Iowa. The accusations against Cain by four women — two of whom received financial settle-

Of course everybody wants clear, blue water in the bay — that's a nobrainer. But is it even possible, and is everyone willing to do what must be done? Can King's Bay be all things to all people?

To act — and spend — wisely requires careful thought, planning and knowledge. Here are some important questions that require rigorous review (no new studies required):

Concerning Nutrients: Is King's Bay, relatively, a high- or low-nutrient system? Are the nutrients in King's Bay mostly organic or inorganic? Is the source of the nutrients What were the results of previous ■ Concerning plants and replanting: Just like on dry ground, certain plants need certain environmental conditions to grow and thrive. What are those conditions for native plants? And in particular, what are those conditions for any plant being considered for planting?

■ Concerning algae: Is lyngbya an exotic? Are algae invasive or opportunistic? Why is there less algae in the ditches connected to King's Bay than the bay itself?

Concerning management: King's Bay has been managed for more than 40 years. What has worked and what has not? What is and has been the primary principle for management of King's Bay?

results of previous dredging efforts? What was the result of the extensive, multi-year effort (grubbing) to get rid of lyngbya and muck?

Concerning muck: What is the origin of the muck? Why is it where it is? Will it come back? What is resuspension and how does it happen?

■ Concerning sea-level rise and saltwater intrusion: Subsidence. drought and sea-level rise are changing our coastlines and waterways. What is changing and what changes can we expect in the future? How do these changes impact repeat. King's Bay?

Concerning exotics: Why do exotics occur more often than not in disturbed environments? Are there situations where exotics can be beneficial?

Concerning adaptive manage-

Any good business plan will include the results of extensive research before implementation. Hopes, dreams and beliefs are wonderful things, sometimes. But we need more than that to go forward — if that is really what we want.

Choose wisely, educate yourself, require apolitical answers. Or, like the shampoo bottle says: spend and

Writers, reporters, coins, corn

ere's a random bunch of stuff for contemplation: Letters

■ Elections are still months away, yet anti-candidate letters have already begun to flow into the Chronicle. While it's too early to encourage readers to send endorsement letters, it's the Chronicle's longtime practice to not publish letters critical of candidates. Letters of support, yes — when elections draw near. Anti-candidate letters — no.

Related to the above item, office-holders seeking re-election (or not) can be taken to task by letterwriters for specific policies, practices or decisions. The current political climate has scuttled the incumbentadvantage theory, but those who hold public office can and should expect public scrutiny. Letterwriting critics, however, should exercise good taste and stick with specifics.

As always, please keep letters to 350 words, with thank-you letters being an exception when wanting to list people, agencies, businesses - or whatever entity - deserving of recognition.

a compound of political pandering and moral exhibitionism, was whooped through the Senate, aka the "world's greatest deliberative body," by unanimous consent; the House, joining the stampede, passed it by a voice vote. So Xavier Alvarez outside the commercial realm." now hopes the Supreme Court But Alvarez defamed no one, and will save him from punishment for lying. And his is not the only case arising from government supervising speech that is demonstrably, or arguably, inaccurate.

The Stolen Valor Act allows fines and imprisonment for anyone who falsely claims to have been awarded any military decoration or medal authorseverest sentences for claiming the highest honors. Alvarez, having won a seat on a California water district board of directors, introduced himself to other members by saying: "I'm a retired Marine of 25 years. I retired in the year 2001. Back in 1987, I was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor. I got wounded many times by the same guy." All this was rubbish.

Leaving aside the question of how exactly Alvarez's shabby behavior stole any hero's valor, the constitutional question remains: Is the Stolen Valor Act compatible with the First Amendment, which the Supreme Court has held does not protect only truthful speech? The 9th Circuit Court of Appeals says no. And the Supreme Court has held that "constitutional protection does not turn upon the truth, popularity or social utility of the ideas and beliefs which are offered."

Given that some false statements are constitutionally protected, which kinds are not? they are made with a culpable state of mind and if they injure another person. When Justice Elena Kagan was a law professor, she noted "the near absolute protection given to false but nondefamatory statements of fact > it is unclear how his fabrications about himself caused America's armed forces reputational harm. Furthermore, his lies did not fit any of the other four traditional categories of unprotected speech — obfraud, scenity, incitement and speech integral to criminal conduct.

Another problemized by Congress, with the atic case is percolating in Ohio, where the government can fine or imprison candidates or other participants in the political process who violate the state's "false statement" law, which says: No person shall "make a false statement concerning the voting record of a candidate or public official" or "disseminate a false statement concerning a candidate, either knowing the same to be false or with reckless disregard of whether it was false or not," if the statement is intended to influence an election.

Former Rep. Steve Driehaus, a Cincinnati Democrat who considers himself pro-life, says he lost his 2010 re-election bid because the pro-life Susan B. Anthony List, through its political action committee, ran ads saying falsely, Driehaus insists — that when he voted for Barack Obama's health care legislation he voted for taxpayer funding of abortion. Ohio's law had a chilling effect on political speech when a billboard company, aware of Driehaus' complaints, refused he Stolen Valor Act of 2005, Defamatory statements are not, if the SBA List's business. The SBA List did, however, run radio ads against Driehaus.

> A judge has ruled that his suit against the SBA List, charging "substantial economic and reputational harm" due to defamation, can go to trial. The SBA List is challenging the constitutionality of the false statement law.

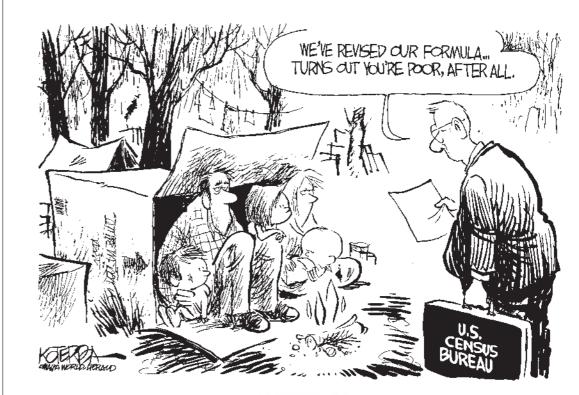

> Until the eve of the House vote on the health care legislation, Driehaus and about a dozen other pro-life Democrats vowed to oppose the health care bill unless abortion language was changed. It was not, so the president, trying to provide cover for those Democrats, agreed to issue an executive order purportedly limiting funding of abortions under the legislation.

> But the president of Planned Parenthood, the nation's largest abortion provider, contentedly dismissed the order as merely "a symbolic gesture." The National Right to Life Committee, the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops and other pro-life forces grimly agreed.

> Now, suppose Driehaus and the right-to-life groups are equally sincere in their opposite interpretations of what the health care law permits or requires regarding public funding of abortion. Should an Ohio government panel composed of political appointees be empowered to determine that the SBA List's contention was intentionally or recklessly false?

> For weeks before the election, voters heard Driehaus' dispute with the SBA List, then voted against him. Isn't that how political arguments should be settled? Or did voters, to the extent that they expressed support for the SBA List's interpretation of the facts of the health care law, somehow violate the false statement law?

Thank you, Chronicle, for that beautiful interview, the article that you had on the Commentary on Sunday's paper (Nov. 6). That was magnificent, but how about putting — I see you've got Obama and Mitt Romney and all that, Rick Perry — but put a big Ron Paul article with his picture on the front page of the Chronicle a couple of times. Try a little bit of that. I mean after all, we have to abolish the Fed-

Deposit law

This is a response to your inquiry. A bottle bill is also known as a container deposit law.

The refund provides a monetary incentive to return the container for recycling. A bottle bill creates new business and jobs, reduces waste and litter. Currently, someone is making a fortune from collecting recyclable products for free, then selling them. I lived for many years in a state that had a bottle bill and I was an avid recycler. It was nice to get a reward for my efforts. Most of the beverage containers you purchase in Florida have the refund printed on the product. Enter "bottle bill" on your computer for detailed information.

Styrofoam disposal

I just wanted to say the county's new recycling program is great. We recycle almost 100 percent of all the trash in our house. I would like to find out how to get rid of Styrofoam, though. Is there anyone (who) needs Styrofoam or does anyone locally recycle Styrofoam?

I am responding to the Oct. 16 column by Maureen Arrigale (of the Nature Coast 9/12 Group) and Edna Mattos (of the Citrus County Tea Party Patriots).

The 9/12 Project is a national organization founded by Glenn Beck, a bizarre right-wing entertainer.

The Republican billionaire Koch brothers are credited for launching the tea party protest idea. They seek to dismantle unions and to promote private school vouchers using public taxes.

The title, "American history is not propaganda," seems misleading — unless the intent is to piggyback one's personal beliefs onto, say, the Bible, or in this case, the U.S. Constitution.

Would Arrigale and Mattos support an Islamic group seeking to provide the same pamphlet, except with the back page listing independent and suggested reading chosen by the Islamic group? Other groups?

They refer to Eye On U.S. Education (EUSE). EUSE is a rightwing group that states "we want our children to be taught about our republic, our history, our Constitution, our values and our beliefs." Whose opinions/values and whose religious beliefs?

On the issue of public education, do these two ladies consider themselves more qualified

They also took the opportunity to inject their personal interpretation on the subject of social justice. They say "It is a founding principle of various forms of socialism, communism ... and income and property redistribution." Sounds like Glenn Beck.

Social justice means equal opportunities for each of us. Those equal opportunities exist because of the laws prohibiting discrimination on the bases of race, religion, age, gender and sexual orientation. Who doesn't benefit from social justice?

I am writing in response to the Rev. Dacciaio's letter in the Nov. 6 Chronicle.

Yes, there may be some people parking in the handicapped spaces who are not handicapped. However, you are assuming everyone who is handicapped has a visible handicap. My husband has a visible handicap. He has a problem walking.

Many handicaps are not visible. Some people have heart problems. My dad had emphysema. He could only walk a short distance. You might look at him and say he wasn't handicapped, yet he certainly was. He also used the electric cart in the store.

It is unfair to lump all handicapped people into only those that you can see.

Don't bet on tax fixes that the current tax code heeled supporters. The code • at 67,204 pages — has become too complex, inefficient and costly. The IRS estimates Americans spend over 6 billion hours complying with tax requirements at a cost to them of over $280 billion.

Economic activities that are not reported amount to well over $1 trillion annually. These untaxed activities cost the average taxpayer an additional $2,500 in annual taxes to make up the losses.

Most Democrats would simplify the code by removing tax breaks for industries and groups they don't like or that don't support their causes. They would raise taxes on families earning more than $250,000 annually. Democrats would are being held back from voting shield their largest political base — the 49 percent who pay no income taxes - and continue entitlement payouts with few changes.

Republicans favor reducing taxes on the 50 percent who pay federal income taxes their main political base. They would eliminate most loopholes and reduce tax rates for even the very wealthy, a group that typically supports Democrats. Republicans propose cut- a profit margin. Added to those ting across the board.

empowers Congress to distort capital markets by favoring tax (consumption tax) of 23 persome industries (think green) while punishing others. It enables them to assist crony capitalists like the CEO of General Electric to compete in global markets. The code enables Congress to help union supporters by taxing imports. Taxpayers (the 50 percent) are beginning to "get it."

Across the country they are voting down tax hikes, no matter purposes. their They are demanding of Congress "no new taxes." They are beginning to realize the huge burden our current tax code places upon economic activity and how it limits job creation. But they for a better tax code by their own misunderstandings of the consumption tax proposed by Fair Tax supporters and Hermann Cain's 9-9-9 tax plan.

What is not understood is the ers the price of all goods and chase is the sum of the cost of materials, the cost of labor and entitlement spending costs are the sales taxes paid by the manufacturer when the ublicly, politicians agree creating tax breaks for well- an item priced at $100 might well drop to $80 or less.

> Collecting a national sales cent on that item when it is first sold might return the price to $100. Even so, consumers would have more money to spend because they would not be paying income or payroll taxes, if the Fair Tax plan were adopted. Under Cain's 9-9-9 plan, they would pay much less in personal taxes and the national sales tax would be less as well, at only 9 percent. True tax reform that removes > all the loopholes and special provisions while eliminating the costs of tax compliance equates to putting $1 trillion back into the private economy. The Flat Tax with three tax rates and very few deductions goes halfway toward that goal. The Fair Tax — eliminating all income taxes and deductions in favor of a national consumption tax — would be an economic bonanza. Neither will become law anytime soon. Politicians will fight to the death to keep from losing their power to tax your earnings and control your economic decisions.

The people involved in this survey are long-term, local citizens who many of you may know. Every one of those involved in this operation is a hunter, woodsman and outdoorsman.

I have hunted my property for the past 30 years, and Hugh "Sonny' Arnold has been a lifelong hunter.

The King Road (Tarmac) mining operation will have an effect on the survival of this endangered animal and all wild game in that region. One only has to look at South Florida to see what this form of industrialization accomplishes. Is that what you really want?

If not, then we need your help. If anyone has a right to complain about the costs of law enforcement, the folks in Collier County do. They pay $978.22 per person each year.

The sheriff also provides law-enforcement services in Inverness and Crystal River and does it at a cost of $236 per person, which is 50 percent lower than the average city pays per person for public safety.

The TaxWatch report actually painted a pretty healthy picture of Citrus better than the state aver-

Interestingly, that Citrus spends too much higher tax rate in Citrus County doesn't impact many people. Convention in Orlando a couple of weeks ago. Co-interviewer-and-a-lot-more Neale and I plowed through more than 100 resumés and selected about 20 young journalists to talk to.

Those we interviewed were in their junior or senior year of college and interested in careers in the news business. It was refreshing to see young people walking around with T-shirts saying "News Geek," and talking about issues of local to global significance.

After concluding our interviews, we reflected on how those we spoke with were a pretty exceptional lot. They dressed well, spoke well and have a lot to offer the world.

The world should never be without news geeks.

Guests included Florida House Speaker Dean Cannon, U.S. Senate candidates Craig Miller and Mike McCalister, Senate President Mike Haridopolos, Gov. Rick Scott, state House Democratic Leader Ron Saunders and state Senate Leader Nan Rich.

Generally speaking, discussions of the 2012 legislative session and why we need new blood in the U.S. Senate were somewhat humdrum in nature. However, when Col. McCalister mentioned his concerns that communism could be on the rebound in the former Soviet Union and should, in his opinion, be of concern at the domestic level, the news folks got really excited. Question after question zeroed in on communism.

When McCalister suggested there were other issues he'd like to address, news guy said. McCalister conceded that point, elaborated on his concerns, but any issues for discussion prise when I got home, above and beyond communism were left in the dust.

During Gov. Scott's presentation, he made a comment that didn't spark broad interest, but it got a lot of airplay on a TV station.

When asked if he had any thoughts about the St. Petersburg Times' announcement it will be changing its name to the Tampa Bay Times, Gov. Scott said something like (and this is not a direct quote): If St. Pete is in the Tampa Bay area, it seems like they're expanding their footprint for marketing reasons. (Again, that's my very loose recol- initial reaction. lection - I did not write down what he said.)

She took one look at it and said, "What is that?!" I told her the whole parking lot story, which didn't seem to interest her. She had great reservations about taking the coin, showed it to another cashier, then mumbled, "I hope I don't get in trouble for this.'

Fortunately, the coffee machine at work is as happy to accept the $1 coins as the parking machine was happy to accept my $20 bill.

I would like to thank the man in the blue van for giving me $100 yesterday (Nov. 2) in a parking lot in Hernando, and God bless him.

U.S. diverse

It should be noted once and for all, the United States is not a Christian nation. It is a nation of Christians, Jews, Muslims, Hindus and even agnostics and atheists. That's what makes this country so great. We have a choice. But you cannot say that we are particularly a nation of one denomination. We are not. We are all equal. It's time people realized that. We are not a Christian nation. The founding fathers did not set up our country in that manner. If you recall, the Constitution says separation of church and state.

Bike paths a good idea

The proposed bicycle paths through Sugarmill Woods are a fantastic idea. Finally, it gives the thousands of Sugarmill Woods residents the opportunity to ride through the community without fear of being hit by cars. And it gives us the opportunity to get out and exercise and also for our families to enjoy the benefits of Citrus County by getting out and partaking in family exercise.

No response from Rubio

In the last two months, I have sent Marco Rubio, our Florida senator, three emails. And now you get a stamped return that says, "I'll answer your email in the near future." Well, it's been two months and I haven't heard a word from him. They don't care what we think. And if you don't believe me, sit down and try to send Marco Rubio an email and see what happens.

Country needs help

According to the newspapers and the media today, one out of 15 Americans are in poverty. Obama is over in France telling other countries how to run their country. Hillary Clinton's running around giving checks out like it's going out of style, and actors, politicians are helping other countries. When are we going to help our country?

Teach children tolerance

When children make mean, nasty comments about other religions, it is learned behavior from their parents at home. If you can't teach your children tolerance, maybe you should move to China where all religion is oppressed.

Country in shambles

I'm calling in reference to your coverage of the Oakland protesters. You tucked it away way on A14, on the very bottom, a small article. That should be on the front page. This president has encouraged these people, starting in New York, to demonstrate. OK? He is a community organizer. His main goal is to defeat this country one way or another. This country's in shambles and I don't think he'll be happy until we see it burn up right in front of our faces. Why don't you tell the news like it is? Put it up there and show everybody what kind of president we have. Do a little investigation on his character.

Corporate Congress

Corporate America owns the United States Congress. Two examples: 1. The government operates A and B of Medicare with administrative costs at 6 percent. The insurance industry is allowed 14 percent to operate plan D. The difference of 8 percent amounts to $52 billion per year, costing taxpayers $520 billion over a 10year period. Plan C is even worse. Note so many ads on TV now showing exercise programs, increasing your Social Security returns ad nauseam. 2. We have 52,000 troops in Germany. Roughly, this number has been in Germany since World War II. Think of all the contracts involved.

Want bottle caps?

Does anyone know of an organization that takes plastic bottle caps? I was told there is one, but I don't know the source. Would love to know about it.

Manatees too important

I, like so many others, was dismayed when the feds (proposed) to make all of King's Bay a manatee (refuge), because this does not protect the manatees who swim in the river to and from the Gulf. Therefore, to provide proper adequate protection, Crystal River should also be declared part of the sanctuary. But we can't stop there. The manatees swim in the Gulf. Therefore, the entire Gulf should also be part of the manatee sanctuary. After all, manatees are more important than people. Don't you agree?

Take drug test

As a Dade County firefighter for 30 years, I'll have to say I saw a lot of people in the ghettos on drugs that were on welfare — a lot of them. As a matter of fact, the younger people, most of them. And yet it's unconstitutional for them to take a drug test to get free money. And by the way, those 30 years I had to take a drug test to work.

Leave Cain alone

I think people should get off of Herman Cain's back. It's all politics. He's innocent until he's proven guilty and I doubt if anybody will ever come forward. Look what ex-President Clinton did in the White House.

Rotarians help Youth Exchange students

Special to the Chronicle

Local bankers George and Joe Brannen have risen to the occasion to help a Rotary Youth Exchange (RYE) student from The Netherlands, Jessica Kamsteeg, realize one of her dreams while attending Citrus High School for a year under the International Rotary's exchange program.

Jessica is being sponsored locally by the Rotary Club of Inverness under a program that brings 75 foreign students from 32 countries to attend high schools sponsored by local Rotary Clubs in all areas of Florida, while 75 Florida students attend high school in the countries the foreign students came from while being sponsored by Rotary Clubs in those countries.

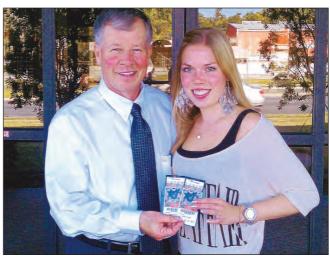

It all started when Jessica expressed to a Rotarian in Dade City, where she was doing a presentation about her country to the local Rotary Club, that she hoped to be able to attend a college football game while she was here.

CULTURAL EXCHANGE

- Anyone interested in providing positive learning experiences to student ambassadors should call Rotary District 6950 Rotary Youth Exchange Chairman Doug Lobel at (352) 400-0540.
- Background checks and other criteria must be met by RYE guidelines in order to interact with the students.

The Dade City Rotarian contacted one of her friends, George Brannen of Brannen Bank, knowing he was an avid Gator supporter and had tickets for all of their games and asked if he could help with the request.

Then George's brother Joe Brannen who is a member and past president of Rotary Club of Inverness — heard the same ness Rotary Club and spoke to her after the meeting to tell her how much he

Good debt

EAR BRUCE: Concerning your recent advice that "credit is a tool and it must be used properly," I am curious about your opinion about living debtfree.

There is currently a very popular radio host who advocates paying off all debt as quickly as possible. I agree that creditdebt card should definitely be paid off, but what about a mortgage and loans taken responsibly for cars or home repairs? — T.P., via email

DEAR T.P.: I know the guy you're talking about, and I certainly have respect for him, but I do not share his point of view with regard to debt.

There is good debt and bad debt. Going out and borrowing money you will have a difficult time paying back for frivolous activities, cars, trips, etc., that you can't afford is a bad idea.

On the other hand, how many people would ever own a home if they couldn't pay it off in the form of a mortgage? How many people could afford an automobile without debt?

If you're going to enter the business world, it's almost impossible to run a small to medium-size business without access to capital. I think he and I would agree that it's irresponsible to take on some debt, like your credit card example.

Cooking with iPads and other tablet computers is on the rise. But what if a slip of the saute pan leaves that $500 gadget Wi-Fried?

Enter the growing market of wraps, stands and shields designed to make sure that floury hands and splattering pans don't turn into a recipe for techno disaster.

One solution is disposable, clear covers, such as Clever Wraps. You slide your device inside and, voila, grease, water and other undesirables stay out.

Clever Wraps cofounder Karen McElaney says the idea began with a desire to protect gear from kids, not cooks. She and her business partner had active teens who were apt to drop their phones and other handheld devices in snow, surf, etc.

They tried putting the gadgets in clear plastic bags, but that didn't work well, since

We've said this before, but it bears repeating: hiring a veteran makes good business sense. Steve Spires, the Local Veterans Employment Representative (LVER) in our Inverness center, won't just give you a couple reasons to hire a vet, he'll provide an entire wish list of top employee traits: Veterans not only What I can't fathom is a scenario have demonstrated leadership and teamwork skills, they have the remys and Janes complete their ac- proven ability to learn new skills tive military service and return and concepts quickly. Additionally, private sector employers are eligible for a Work Opportunity Tax Credit, which is currently up to $2,400 for every eligible unemployed veteran hired. The credit is double for veterans with service-related disabilities.

"The WOTC is an incentive for veteran hiring, it is a benefit to the employer," Steve explains. "Frankly, a lot of employers don't know about it and don't claim it and it's easy, it's online.'

joins OwnAmerica Exit Realty Corp., the international real estate brokerage franchise, and its local affiliate, Exit Realty Leaders announced that it has joined OwnAmerica, a national network of trained and certified Residential Investment Specialists. The affiliation allows Exit Realty Leaders to provide educational programs and analysis tools to real estate investors during one of the biggest real estate investment booms in history. Using the Investor Center on Exit Realty Leaders' website www.exitrealtyleaders.com, real estate investors can learn how to best capitalize on the struggling housing market by learning how to choose markets on the upswing, find properties at undermarket values, and build a real estate portfolio for long term wealth creation. The Investor Center guides new real estate investors down the right path and streamlines the process for more seasoned investors.

"The residential investor is the most motivated and active segment of the market today,' said Gene Wade. "We teamed up with OwnAmerica because we see a clear need to represent the investment value of the homes in our area. The Investor Center provides the resources to help today's investors profit by building a real estate portfolio for the long haul."

OwnAmerica and the Investor Center were created by Greg Rand, a 20-year real estate industry veteran and author of the book Crash Boom! to prevent investors from getting burned.

"We've seen too many people giving bad advice about 'getting rich quick' in real estate. It truth, real estate is a longterm wealth building asset. It works when you do it right. We want to show our clients how to do it right," said Rand, CEO of OwnAmerica and host of WABC Radio's Rand on Real Estate.

"We see the next 10 years as an incredible opportunity for Exit to build our international footprint by being the smartest real estate company in the hemisphere," said Tami Bonnell, president of the U.S. organization for Exit Realty, "The way we will accomplish this is by rapidly training and certifying our existing organization on how to represent housing as an asset class, using it to recruit more professionals to our team, and dominate the investor market in the process. Then we will educate one million consumers on the Art of Real Estate Investing."

To learn more about the Investor Center, contact Gene Wade at genewade1@ yahoo.com or visit the company's website at www.exit realtyleaders.com to experience the training course and analysis tools. Exit Realty operates a real estate brokerage franchise organization in the United States and Canada, with more than 25,000 affiliates sales associates.

Jacobson honored for 15 years

TLC Rehab Inc. acknowledges Lee Jacobson, MPT, for his 15 years of excellent service with the company and the Citrus County community. Jacobson is a physical therapist in TLC's Dunnellon Clinic. He has been practicing since 1993, when he graduated from Loma Linda University with his Master's Degree in physical therapy. After moving to Florida, Jacobson began working for TLC Rehab Inc. in November 1996. He is a member of his professional association, and has been active locally on Ocala's sub-district chair, at the state level as an assembly representative of the northern district and nationally as a House of Delegate. Jacobson is an active leader for TLC Rehab and volunteers locally with Habitat for Humanity.

With 20 years experience treating in orthopedics, geriatrics and neurological disorders, incontinence, balance, vestibular, feet, headaches and sports rehab, Jacobson is well versed. He is also trained in manual therapy of the joints and muscles. His goal in treating patients is to help the healing process along and the return of his patients to function, with education and training.

lence powered by superior sales and marketing" announces its latest partnership with Timberline Golf Club just 30 miles south of Birmingham, Ala, Designed by U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, the semiprivate golf club is the centerpiece of the Timberline Residential Community set between Birmingham and Montgomery.

"Timberline Golf Club is the ideal relationship for our management approach. Our principles are in-line with the club's goals and from our previous experiences, that's a formula for success. Our Hybrid Management approach will help us simultaneously grow revenue, improve efficiencies, and enhance the guest and member experience," said LGM president and CEO Bob Devitz.

Pate's ultimate creation is a par-71 playing 6,745 from the tips carved from Alabama hardwoods for which the club was named. Timberline is fun to play, it's meticulously manicured and rolls gently up and down a beautiful landscape. The golf club's hub is its brand new clubhouse with bar, grill, dining room, two conference rooms and well-appointed locker rooms.

"After meeting with Mr. Devitz, we were extremely confident in him and his teams' ability to increase our revenue through a thorough, planned quarterly approach, deliver appropriate operating margins, and improve the overall club experience for our members and guests. We were also impressed with the promptness in which they operated. They literally had actions taking place within the first two hours," said Timberline Golf Club general manager Joe Kruse.

The Centers earns Gold Seal

OCALA — "Behind every Gold Seal is an organization dedicated to Quality" - The Joint Commission.

The Centers has once again earned The Joint Commission's Gold Seal of Approval for accreditation by demonstrating compliance with The Joint Commission's state-of-the-art national standards for quality and safety in behavioral health care.

The Centers underwent a rigorous on-site survey conducted by a Joint Commission expert surveyor. She expressed on numerous occasions how impressed she was with the agency, the care provided, and the staff. Upon completion she stated that in all her years with The Joint Commission, she would consider The Centers to be one of the top two facilities in the country she has surveved.

"The recent renewal of the Joint Commission Accreditation serves to provide indisputable evidence of the commitment, dedication and excellence that the staff of The Centers offers to the communities of Marion and Citrus counties," said Clinical Director Diane Daniels. "Such commitment ensures that every consumer receives the highest quality treatment in a benevolent environment that promotes growth and healing. It is a standard we have set for ourselves and will continue."

The Centers, a private, nonprofit behavioral health care organization, has been serving Marion and Citrus counties for more than 39 years. With four locations in Marion County and three in Citrus County, it is one of the top 10 employers supporting more than 560 trained professionals. Housing a 57bed acute care facility (Children and Adult Crisis Stabilization Units and Adult Psychiatric Hospital), 50-bed adult and 15bed adolescent residential substance abuse treatment facilities, The Centers is saving lives every day.

In partnership with Kids Central Inc., The Centers also provides case management and crisis response services for children and families in Circuit 5. Furthermore, through its partnerships with local schools, law enforcement and children's services, The Centers provides vital community outreach, prevention, and intervention programs for thousands more. In fact, one out of every fifteen individuals in our community directly benefits from The Centers services every year. "Our goal is to help people become as independent as possible, but also to serve as a continual means of support, every step of the way, and throughout one's entire life," said CEO Russell Rasco, retiring Nov. 14 after 33 years with The Centers.

Plantation on Crystal River

Guest rooms and public spaces at the Plantation on Cry stal River are currently undergoing a $3 million facelift. The majority of guest room renovation, which began in July, is scheduled for completion at the end of December 2011, while the restaurant and lobby will be completed by Jan.15, 2012.

Most of the accommodations, including 196 guest rooms and eight junior suites, are being updated, while the restaurant and the lobby will receive a complete renovation. The hotel will be closed to guests Dec. 4 to 22 and reopen Dec. 23.

CITRUS COUNTY (FL) CHRONICLE

The new rooms will convey a sophisticated Old Florida feel, with new curtains and sheers, fresh upholstered chairs, new Sealy mattresses, bedding and wall colors. The color palette throughout the rooms will include crisp whites, deep blues and bright greens reflective of the surrounding Nature Coast. Flat-screen TVs, new refrigerators, classic wicker chairs and new sofa sleepers in the junior suites will also be added, while existing furniture will be updated and re-purposed with a more upscale look.

Bringing the beautiful colors of the Crystal River indoors, the refurbished lobby area will feature updated lighting, and furniture in muted blues and greens, along with splashes of warm yellows and oranges. The winding wooden staircase - a favorite for guest photo opportunities — will remain intact. The new contemporary lobby bar will feature a "grab and go" coffee bar, and will blend nicely with similar colors, complemented by black and white artwork showcasing the scenic river. The resort's dining room will take on a more casual feel, with an airy ambiance highlighted by new chairs, booths, carpet, artwork and stained concrete floors.

The Palm Room, a 2,304square foot meeting space above the lobby area, has also received new carpet, lighting. tile, new windows and a fresh coat of paint.

On site, the Plantation features a full-service family-oriented dive and tour operation marina, 12,000 square feet of meeting and event space, 18hole golf course, 9-hole executive course, Aveda spa, delectable dining and inviting accommodations. Guests have the unique opportunity to swim with the manatees, rent a pontoon or Jon boat, relax by the riverfront pool, enjoy a game of croquet on the manicured lawn, or hire a guided fishing charter. With more than 1,600 feet of seawall, overnight guests can tie up their boats at any of more than 80 spaces. A golf school and scuba certification classes are also available to guests of the hotel.

It is the intent of the Board that the special assessments heretofore described shall be collected in the same manner as ad valorem taxes and that failure to pay any in-stallment payment of principal or interest when due shall result in tax certificates being issued and ultimately, the owner of the benefited property would lose title to said property at a tax deed sale if not redeemed prior to such a sale

All objections to the Board adopting the proposed resolution and the method of collecting special assessments shall be in writing and filed with the Clerk of the Board prior to 4:30 p.m. on December 5, 2011. Objections not received by said time and date shall be considered waived.

If a person decides to appeal any decision made by the Board of County Commis-sioners with respect to any matter considered at this public hearing, they will need to ensure that a verbatim record of the proceedings is made which record shall in-clude the testimony and evidence upon which the appeal is to be based.

Any person requiring reasonable accommodation at this meeting because of a disability or physical impairment should contact the County Administrator's Office, 110 North Apopka Avenue, Inverness, Florida 34450, (352) 341-6560, at least two days before the meeting. Over time, as moisture levels dropped, the wood cells would move closer together and the wood would begin to shrink. Before the exterior brick was installed, the casement windows were attached on the exterior to the wall's studs. As the wood shrinks, it pulls the window's sill down and against the bricks, which do not shrink. Using rainwater: Our family cuts down on water consumption and saves on our water and electricity bills by using rainwater. We have a green two-gallon bin we use in the house to store compostables before putting them in the backyard composter. It gets grimy fast. We put it under the drain from the eaves and scrub it with a toilet brush, then toss the water on our lawn as an organic fertilizer. I never let a good rainstorm go to waste. - Dave P. Canada

George Foreman grill tip: I've always used my grill a lot but I disliked cleaning it, fearful that the nonstick coating might come off. Now I use aluminum foil, folding it in half and putting the meat (or whatever I want to cook) inside. After I finish cooking I just throw away the foil. I buy the nonstick foil for fish but one could also use cooking spray. The foil eliminates any mess to clean up and it saves time when I have company because I wrap the food in foil ahead of time, ready to place on the grill. — Pam, email

Color at home: I've been coloring my own hair since a grocery clerk told me he gave me the "senior citizen discount" because my hair had gone completely gray (I was 40 at the time). A hairdresser friend gave me some tips:

Pick a color only a few shades off from your natural color. If you're gray, go a few shades lighter and choose a color with "ash" in the title, such as "ash blonde." It hides missed spots better if you're doing it yourself and won't be so obvious once it starts to fade. Avoid red, which fades quickly.

■ Buy a permanent color the first time, but use a "28-wash" formula between colorings to keep your color fresh without turning your hair into wicked-witch broom-straws. The semipermanent dyes deposit color with less of a stripping effect on your hair.

■ Read the directions carefully and follow them diligently. Use a timer.

■ Buy a quality conditioner for color-treated hair. Work in a small amount and let it sit while you lather the rest of your body, then rinse the conditioner out last.

■ Wear an old button-down shirt when you color. It's nearly impossible to pull a T-shirt over your head without ruining it. If you don't have a "color cape," cut a neck and arm holes into a large garbage bag to protect your clothes.

I have long hair and used to spend $180 every three months to get it touched up. Now I spend $7 every six weeks. Does it look as great as the salon color? No. But it looks good enough that people often compliment my hair. — Anna, email

Dear Sara: Can cooked rice be frozen? — Kelly H., New York

Dear Kelly: Yes, you can freeze rice. I let cooked rice cool, then I package it in freezer storage bags. I flatten the bag (leaving rice in a layer about 3/4inch thick) and squeeze out any air. To reheat, I use my microwave, or a fry pan if I am making fried rice.

Dear Sara: Any ideas for homemade pumpkin puree, other than pumpkin bread? - Marion J., Ohio

Dear Marion: Pumpkin puree can be used in spaghetti sauce, chili, mashed potatoes, muffins, applesauce, oatmeal, waffles, cakes, cookies, pudding, pumpkin butter or pancakes, to name a few. On a similar note, be sure to use cheesecloth to drain your fresh pumpkin puree before using it in some recipes. It's more watery than solid packed pumpkin from the can.

vear and raising your water bill with unnecessary water and sewer charges? I painlessly cut my household water usage by approximately 53,000 gallons per year with a total investment of a little more than $100.

Efficient indoor water usage is estimated at 45 gallons per person per day (or 1,350 gallons per person per month). New, water-saving fixtures help to painlessly cut water waste and your water bill. You are essentially "flushing money down the toilet" if your indoor water use is more — but fixing these "water hogs" was simthan 1,350 gallons per month for a house- ple. hold of one, more than 2,700 gallons per month for a household of two, and so on.

The Energy Policy Act of 1992 established water conservation standards for toilets, showerheads, and kitchen and bathroom faucets manufactured after Jan. 1, 1994. Fixtures produced prior to these standards may use more than twice as much water as newer fixtures.

One of the first things I did when I moved into my 1972 Beverly Hills home was to check the efficiency of the faucets and showerhead using a water flow bag. As I suspected, almost everything in the house was original and therefore, wasting a lot of water

The simplest upgrade was screwing aerators onto the bathroom and kitchen

PRIORITIZE: "Concentrate on the public areas: the living/family room. dining room and bathrooms. Prioritize what has to be done — replenishing toilet paper in the bathroom — versus what would be nice to do — dusting the picture frames," said Deanne Marie. creator of "Smart Solutions for Busy People" books and blog. Marie suggests taking a timer with you from room to room (use the one on your cell phone if you don't have a kitchen timer) and setting it for 15 minutes in each room as a way of forcing yourself to "focus on the necessities." Even if you've only got one hour, you'll be amazed at how much you can get done in four rooms using that technique.

HIDE CLUTTER: Marie calls it the "Hail Mary" pass of housecleaning: Cover up the mess when you can't get rid of it!

The Maids, a national cleaning franchise, advises simply piling your miscellaneous countertop clutter in a laundry basket and sticking it in the closet. No time to do the dishes before company arrives? The Maids' solution is to stack them on a cookie sheet for temporary storage in the oven (cold, of course).

Another tip: Shut the doors to rooms and closets your guests need not see.

LOOK AROUND: Chervl Najafi of CherylStyle.com, a home entertaining expert, recommends trying to see your house the way your guests will, to make sure you haven't overlooked anything.

Take the "sit test," Najafi says: "If you're hosting a party in the formal living room, make sure you sit down and survey the room. You'll see things from a different vantage point. Like those dust bunnies in the corner!"

She also advises taking a look as you walk in the door. What will your guests see as they stand there waiting for the door to open? Broken umbrella? Garden clogs? Spider webs? Junk mail? Deal with it.

Think about the big picture. What large pieces of furniture will people notice as they enter a room? Plumping sofa pillows and making beds will appearance than wiping down the refrigerator shelves.

BATHROOM: If there's one room where bad housekeeping can really gross your guests out, it's the bathroom. Fortunately, the must-dos are relatively easy to accomplish, and may even be best left to last-minute so nobody in your family can make a mess before guests arrive.

Giving the toilet bowl a scrub with a brush, as unpleasant as it is, must be tops on your list. You're also going to have to wipe down the seat and rim. (Disposable Clorox wipes are great for this purpose.)

And while you can always shut the shower door or curtains to hide tub scum, there really is something nice about a gleaming sink and countertop. Fortunately toothpaste and soap residue are easily sponged away.

As with other rooms, clearing bathroom clutter goes a long way to making the place look like something out of a hotel room instead of something out of a bus station. Other quick fixes with a big payoff: Wipe mirrors with a spray glass cleaner, break out a new bottle of liquid soap, stockpile the extra toilet paper in an obvious place and empty the trash. Clear away icky towels (maybe even put away the throw rug) and put out clean hand towels. Or if vou're a germaphobe who won't feel guilty about adding to the landfill, invest in a stack of disposable paper guest towels and put the garbage can nearby so it's obvious where to throw them.

OUTERWEAR: Give a thought to where your guests will unload coats, boots, umbrellas and bags. Is your hallway closet big enough? Can you set up a foldable coat rack or do you have a set of hooks on the wall? Most people don't mind leaving jackets on a bed; just make sure the bed is made and the room is easy to find for folks who may not be familiar with your home.

But what about that pesky kitchen floor? Personally, I don't feel like my house is ready for company unless I've at least tried to get the kitchen floor clean, even though I've vet to get it to pass the Swiffer test. The Swiffer, in my experience, never lies, and no matter how much floor-scrubbing I do, whether with rags on hands and knees, or with a brand-new mop, a final wipe with the Swiffer always seems to come up dirty.

There is another way to think about your floors, however, when preparing for the arrival of guests.

"No matter how bad your floors look before a party, they will look worse afterward, so don't sweat it," advised Marie. "You'll have to vacuum or spot clean and mop after the guests leave, so why stress yourself out?

Clear waters, subtle beauty

PAULA D'ONOFRIO/Special to the Chronicle

Rainbow Springs State Park, just north of Dunnellon, offers many beautiful settings which lend themselves to quiet contemplation.

Effective use of landscaping principles gives Rainbow Springs State Park a feeling of serenity

PAULA D'ONOFRIO Special to the Chronicle

Rainbow Springs State Park, just North of Dunnellon, is a fantastic, multipurpose destination for anyone living in Citrus County. It's just up the road and the entrance fee is a mere $2. Among the reasons for visiting the park: Kayaking and swimming in the azure spring water, picnicking on the lawn and walking through the gardens. Rainbow Springs is a state park, so alcohol is not allowed — but dogs are.

As a garden designer, when I visit the park I marvel at the layout of the gardens and the use of plants which are both suited to our area and to the quiet shade watching over them.

I appreciate the way in which the landscaper used curved pathways throughout the park. In your own garden, if you are considering installing a path, remember that being unable to see around a corner creates intrigue and a desire to discover the unseen. At Rainbow Springs, the unseen turns out to be a glorious waterfall, flanked by gingers, palms, cycads and ferns. The effect is spectacular, and it makes you feel as if you've been transported to a truly tropical jungle.

The landscaper managed to create this look by using the right plants in the right places and, importantly, in the right quantities. I remember what my yard looked like before I understood the principle of "massing." So strong was my desire to have at least one of every plant I laid eyes on that my flower beds were both jarring and messy. It's important to recognize the scale of the outdoors and to plant accordingly.

PAULA D'ONOFRIO/Special to the Chronicle

The crystal-clear waters of Rainbow Springs are perfect for swimming or kayaking, both of which are available at the park.

Unless you are installing a specimen plant, it's best to mass plants, always using three or more of the same species (and color) together to really create a strong statement. Research the mature size the plant is expected to grow to and space accordingly, in staggered rows. On installation, it's helpful to apply some pre-emergent weed killer, and then mulch over the top of it. These practices will help to cut down the percentage of weed seeds that germinate among your new shrubs. Pre-emergent isn't always available at the big box stores, so try Ace Hardware, U-Kill'em or John Deere Landscapes. Consult with the staff as to which brand best suits your needs and then apply per the label's instructions. Remember, the label is the law!

Some of the plants you will see around the waterfalls include Needle Palm (Rhapidophyllum hystrix), Lady Palm (Rhapis excelsa), Chinese Fan Palm (Livistona chinensis), Sago Palm (Cycas revoluta), Elephant Ear (Colocasia spp), Philodendron (Philodendron selloun), Anise (Illicium), Pine Cone Ginger (Zingiber zerumbet), Impatiens, American Beautyberry (Calicarpa americana) and Umbrella Sedge (Cyperus alternifolius).

I love Lady Palm, which fully embodies its name. The fronds float delicately above narrow trunks, which grow in a clump. Lady Palm reaches heights of 6 to 10 feet, depending on growing conditions. It can be tender in our area, but does well at Rainbow Springs because of the cozy winter environment provided by a dense tree canopy and the warmth coming

As long as both toilets are pany, the performance and water-savings difference two-piece toilets should be about the same.

So, why should you go with one or the other? Well, basically, it gets down Ed Del Grande to budget, family use and installation. Here's a quick breakdown: PLUMBER

■ Budget: Two-piece toilets usually mean less

■ Family use: In houses with children, a one-piece toilet is easier to keep clean for the simple reason that there's no space between the tank

■ Installation: If you're working made from the same com- alone, a two-piece toilet can be easier to install, since the toilet is in two smaller components, which are easbetween one-piece and ier to move than one large unit.

On a recent morning at New York's WABC-TV, during a "Live! With Regis and Kelly' commercial break, Regis Philbin obliges a rather statuesque audience member by going over to her and having their picture taken.

Still seated on the set, cohost Kelly Ripa playfully chides him for not minding that request too much. And Philbin shouts back to her, with his patented mock exasperation, "Can't a guy have a little fun before he goes?"
