Special ballot Tuesday

School voters to elect 4 board members

Four hotly contested vacancies on the Wayne-Westland Board of Education are expected to draw only an average amount of voters to the polls Tuesday.

That's the projection of Loraine Rulo, school district elections clerk. So far, half of the 406 absentee ballots sent out by the clerks' office have been returned, she said. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

There are an estimated 50,000 registered in the district. About 15 percent of those voted in the Sept. 14 recall election.

Running to fill two unexpired terms of six months each are Glenn Anderson, Mathew McCusker and Sharon Scott.

Candidates for two 18-month terms are Joseph Arbini, Kathy Chorbagian, William LeDuc, Raymond Robichaud, Phyllis Runion, Kathryn Shaw and Dorothy Stockwell.

The four vacancies are the result of the recall election 10 weeks ago. The effort was waged in opposition to the extension of the contract with the teachers union. That agreement gave the teachers raises, which when adjusted to the inflation rate, could have amounted to a maximum of 9 percent. Opponents said the raises were too high in light of the area's economic crisis.

The recall targets, Mary Arbour, Mildred Batterson, Kenneth Marshall and Donald Rusnock, waged a door-todoor campaign to try to win voter approval.

THE CAMPAIGN centered on the board's approval 14 months ago of the teachers' contract extension and raises. Recall leaders said the district could

They also attempted to have the not afford such raises considering the state of the economy.

> After the four trustees were recalled, Gov. Milliken appointed four citizens to serve on the board temporarily until an election could be held. None of the four are candidates in this election.

Westland school board lays off teachers

By Louise Okrutsky staff writer

In an emotion-charged session, the Wayne-Westland Board of Education countered teacher rejection of a concession package by ordering the administration to adopt a teacher lay-off procedure.

Administrators indicated the procedure would be halted if the teachers union agrees to concessions proposed by the school district.

The administration listed a 19-point plan to balance the district's $62.1 mil-

Secondary teachers will handle six instead of five classes. Excess teachers will be laid off according to seniority levels.

"There will be extreme bumping. It's fair under the contract and we will follow it to the best of our ability," said Bill Taylor, assistant superintendent of employee relations.

"I won't say that principals won't be able to recognize their staffs next semester but they could change as much as 40-50 percent," Taylor said.

Although administrators assured parents that teachers would be reassigned to grades or courses in which they are certified, parents doubted the ability of some instructors to make the transition.

the teachers in junior high are fantastic," Taylor said Tuesday afternoon. "But some teachers (transferred to junior high from elementary) are fantastic. They're skills oriented."

Cuts in elementary music programs and teacher layoffs provoked anxious and angry comments from the audience. Parents and students said they were worried that cuts in elementary music would downgrade the quality of high-school bands.

Mothers of elementary school children interested in music were concerned that the students would be denied the classes.

High-school music students called out the names of favorite instructors to see if they'd be affected by the lay-offs. Other cuts were suggested but most-were dismission by the school board.

SUGGESTIONS RANGED from not buying new textbooks to eliminating the hot lunch program. The latter was considered this summer by the board.

'We're not talking abut what's ideal. We're talking about a serious problem," said Taylor defending the cuts.

A three-man panel made up of one representative from the union and the administration and one impartial arbitrator decides if the layoffs are necessary after hearing testimony from the two sides. If the panel decides in the administration's favor, teachers will received 30 days notice before being laid off.

While the impartial panel member hasn't been selected the other two have been named as Gary Matche for the administrtion and Lou Diaz for the WWEA.

Although-talks between the union and district are scheduled for this week, administrators already have begun the task of rescheduling teachers on the basis of seniority, according to Taylor.

While the union has agreed to the concessions involving lower pay increases, changes in medical insurance and alterations in the way the teachers' sick bank is kept, the two sides are hung up on the duration of the deal, The teachers would like to see a package lasting between 11/2 and 2 years while the administration insists upon a one

Man stabbed in bar parking lot

A Westland man is recovering from two knife wounds after being stabbed in the parking lot of the Gangster lounge on Telegraph just north of Joy early Sunday morning.

The victim, Daniel S. Lesinski, 43, of Canyon Street was listed in stable condition, according to a nurse (a) Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

Redford police have obtained a warrant charging Ronald F. Quint, 33, of Detroit, with assault with intent to commit murder, a felony that carries a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Quint was arrested by two Michigan State Police troopers near Flat Rock about an hour after the stabbing, said police detective Sgt. John Crete.

. The troopers stopped Quint for a traffic violation, and he told the officers that he was wanted for murder in Redford, Crete said. The detective and stabbed Lesinski in the chest and speculated that Quint did not know Lesinski's condition at the time.

AT ARRAIGNMENT in Redford's 17th District Court, Quint stood mute and Judge John Dillon entered an innocent plea on his behalf. Dillon scheduled a preliminary examination for Tuesday.

Dillon set a$10,000 cash bond. Quint is being held in the Wayne County Jall in lieu of bond.

Lesinski and his date, a 31-year-old . Detroit woman, were leaving the Gangster lounge around closing time and had just reached his car when he was confronted by a man, witnesses told police.

The man asked Lesinski if his name was Danny, and after Lesinski replied affirmatively, the man pulled a knife the abdomen, according to Crete.

THE DETECTIVE said Lesinski's date was Quint's former girlfriend. After the attack, the assailant fled,

Murder trial to open today

By Bill Casper staff writer

2A(W)

The key question in the trial of Kenneth W. Simonds is whether Simonds was legally sane at the time that 25-year-old pharmacist Elise Rouhier was stabbed to death in a Redford Township drug store last March 17.

Simonds, a 1978 Livonia Franklin High School graduate, is on trial in Wayne County Circuit, Court for first degree murder in Rouhier's death.

A security guard for Revco drug stores, Simonds, according to police, went on a rampage in a Revco store at W. Chicago and Telegraph and attacked Rouhier, a Ypsilanti resident, and 19-year-old sales clerk Anne Ceane of Wayne with a knife and safety razor.

Rouhier, who was four months pregnant at the time, died early on March 18 following emergency surgery at Garden City Osteopathic Hospital.

Ceane, who fought off her assailant until he fled as help arrived, was stabbed once in the chest. She also suffered a broken nose and jaw and cuts to her hands.

Simond's much-delayed trial begins today in Circuit Court before Judge Theodore Bohn and is expected to last three weeks. The prosecution has listed 39 possible witnesses while the defense has listed 16 possible witnesses. Ceane is expected to be the key prosecution witness. THE DEFENDANT is being represented by one of the area's top criminal defense attorneys, Neil Fink. Fink, who declined to comment on the case, is expected to argue that Simonds was not aware of his actions at the time of the attack on the two women and was not guilty by reason of insanity.

Herbert Roberts, assistant Wayne County prosecutor, said Fink filed notification in Circuit Court informing the prosecution that he would be using the defense of insanity.

"There will be no denial on the part of the defense that the attack occurred," said Roberts. "He (Simonds) is claiming he cannot recall the attack, that he had a disassociative reaction and became someone else and the other person committed the attack.

"The defense effort to convince the jury of Simonds' contention versus our efforts to refute his claim is what this case is all about."

According to Roberts, the jury will have three possible findings: 1) guilty, 2) guilty but mentally ill, 3) not guilty by reason of insanity. A finding of guilty will mean an automatic sentence of life in prison. Not guilty by reason of insanity will mean that the defandant would be mandated to a mental hospital until such a time that he was determined to be legally sane. A finding of guilty but mentally ill means the defendant would be sentenced to life imprisonment with the order that he undergo psychiatric treatment available in the prison. Dr. Emanual Tanay, a well-known psychiatrist who has testified in scores of cirminal cases, is expected to testify for the defense.

ROBERTS SAID he will present evidence that indicates Simonds was aware of what he was doing during the attack on the two women.

Simonds was assigned to several area stores as a security guard and theft investigator at the time.

On the night of the attack, Rouhier and Ceane were alone in the store. Just after the 9 p.m. closing time, Simonds arrived and was let in by the women.

Moment laters, he attacked both women using a knife and a safety razor, Ceane told police.

Simonds was arrested by Redford police at Wayne County General Hospital in Westland within hours. He was charged with first degree murder and assault with intent to commit murder.

Simonds' first attorney, Patrick McDonald of Redford, described Simonds as being in a trance or catatonic state, unable to answer any questions from the judge or from McDonald at district court arraignment in March.

Simonds was examined at the state forensic center in Ypsilanti and found by doctors to be mentally competent to stand trial.

Roberts said osvciatric evaluations as to whether Simonds was aware of his actions on the night of the attack cannot be made public until entered as evidence during the trial.

However, Roberts gave the opinion that "insanity as a defense seldom works." Today's trial has been postponed twice while Simonds changed his legal representation from McDonald to Fink and underwent additional psychiatric testing.

School board candidates on ballot special Tuesday

William LeDuc Jr.

On the campaign literature of board candidate William LeDuc, an adult holds the hand of a child.

"That symbol speaks for the whole campaign. It represents the custodianship adults have for kids, especially when it comes to education," said LeDuc, 37, of 38650 Maes in Westland.

"LeDuc said he is running for the school board to ensure a quality education for his two children as well as others in the district. He said that to him, quality education is reflected in class size, curriculum content, support, staff and administration.

"The principal issue is to remind the board, administration, staff, parents and students that the principal task is to prepare children to become a meaningful part of the world," LeDuc said.

There are no easy answers to problems faced by the school district, but LeDuc believes he brings good listening skills, "a sense of courage," experience in administration and "none of the entangling political alliances or debts to be paid. As such I bring objectivity and freshness of approach to the board."

WHILE LeDUC knows that its "painful to the community" to have to close schools. LeDuc went to a one-room schoolhouse and admits it was hard for him when it closed.

"In the face of declining enrollment, we have to be open to the possibility of closing schools but not presume it as a finality," he said, adding that the board ought to provide the schools with the adequate resources to celebrate the osing rather than conidering it an "elongated funeral." Although he isn't advocating the union position, LeDuc said he is concerned with keeping class sizes as small as possible. While parents may see this as "self-serving" negotiable issue by the teachers, LeDuc said he considers it one of the "very professional things teachers have striven for" in determining at what point a teacher loses effectiveness in a classroom. To cope with a deficit in the district's budget this year, LeDuc suggests that the board look at postponing all expenses possible, administrative staffing, class offerings, combining jobs and transportation of students. One thing that LeDuc said he is really interested in is finding a new funding base for education. LeDuc said he favors a combination of property tax and some other form of tax such as sales tax to "maintain local control of schools."

Raymond Robichaud

Concern over high increases in taxes, quality of education and representation for the people prompted Rev. Raymond Robichaud, 30, to run for the Wayne-Westland school board.

"I'm sensitive to the needs of the people. I'm not just a business person." said Robichaud, of 4918 Walker, Wayne.

Robichaud said he is concerned about candidates who, and they get into politics, "forget about people."

The candidate called for unity among factions in the district. He said that he wanted to be totally independent so he wasn't seeking the endorsement of any particular group.

"I want the right to give prayerful consideration to every issue brought before the board," he said.

ROBICHAUD said he would listen to suggestions from teachers about how to streamline the district's administration. There are 15 executive secretaries who are non-union and unneeded, he said

He said the superintendent has "done a fantastic job," but adds that the administration is top heavy. Robichaud said its more important to have "workers" than administrators.

"Yes they'll have to work harder (after cuts are made), but I believe they'll get through it," he said.

Robichaud criticized the district for having the board meeting-room so

Phyllis Runion

Although the school district is a "big business," it's made up of 17,000 individual students, everyone of which count, according to Phyllis Runion, 39, a candidate for the school board.

"It's so easy for the board and the administration to forget that makeup," said Runion, of 1610 S. Walton in Westland. Runion, who said she has missed only one meeting in the last 11/2 years, said that her activism has shown that she has the time and effort to be a good board member. Runion added that she has already put a lot of time into trying to find things out from the administration.

"You can't work for a change if you don't know how things are now," she said, explaining her interest in the district.

While everyone else is saying that the big issues are declining enrollment and taxes, Runion said the real issue is the "decline of educational standards taht caused problems here. She said she would like to see the district change its priorities to stress the priority of educating students in grades kindergarten through 12.

DECLINING enrollment is something that ought to be accepted, she said.

"It was predicted 10 years ago. Instead of building new buildings, the board should have planned on reduced enrollment and income. It should have been ready for it," she said.

"To me, reduced enrollment means less schools, teachers supplies and payroll " she continued. "We've never got. ten the benefit of it. We closed five schools and enver got a reductions in taxes the recall because she believed that "something had to happen.

When it comes of the deficit, Runion said she isn't sure what should be done. She said that the board "could have and should have known" that the budget was in trouble.

She added that budget cuts ought to start with programs outside the kindergarten-through-12th grade program. "I don't see why cuts should affect that group of students," she said. The only real way to solve the financial problem is to start with spending, she continued. "I don't know of one tax that I think is fair. A shift won't solve the problem," she said. "The best thing to do isto make sure that spending is cut or kept to reasonable limits.

Currently working as a PBX operator, Runion is a certified paraprofessional. She has been active in scouting, was a volunteer library aide, worked with the Bucket Brigade and was a member of Madison PTA.

Kathryn Shaw

Making her second bid for a seat on the Wayne-Westland school board is Kathryn Shaw, 36, of 514 N. Hanlon, Westland,

"When the community came alive with involvement in 1979, the board didn't realize what its real responsibilities were," said Shaw who had first run for office at that time.

One campaign issue — accountability - was at the end of her list of reasons for running at that time but has

A special election will be held Tuesday to fill four seats on the Wayne-Westland school board. There are two six-month unexpired terms and two 18-month terms to be filled. Five of the 10 candidates were profiled in last Monday's Westland Observer. The remaining five have their backgrounds and views in today's edition.

She said that the area of contract negotiations is critical and that the district needs "safeguards built into the current system." She favors the hiring of a professional negotiator from outside the district and the inclusion of a board member on the negotiating team so that "surprises can be averted."

IT WILL BE about eight more years before declining enrollment becomes a severe problem in the district, Shaw believes.

"We've got to talk about the next phase. I agree that a couple of schools have to be closed. The worst effect of declining enrollment is the impact it has on state funding for the district," she said.

Although the building-utilization committee "worked a long time" on its recommendations to close Washington and Tinkham schools. Shaw believes that there are other considerations, like school-attendance boundaries, which must be considered before a decision is reached.

Shaw said that she wants to see more positive suggestions from the administration on how parents can best help in the education process, and she believes that the board "must expose itself to the community frequently enough to have a sense of the pulse of the community.

Shaw said she isn't using her position with the Blanchard team as an issue in the campaign.

"People are aware I'm on the team. I don't want to overpower people," she said. "I want to let them make the judgement as to whether the combination would be good for the school district."

Shaw works on the personnel section of the transition team, but before the election, she worked in the issues section.

A 1964 graduate of Wayne Memorial High and the mother of three, Shaw is a member of the Wayne-Westland Library Board, Stottlemyer PTA, Westland Figure Skating Boosters, Michigan Women in Public Administration and the American Management Association.

She is on a one-year leave of absence from her job as business manager for the Private Industry Corporation in Livonia. She is a junior at Wayne State University, majoring in business administration.

"There isn't the communication we need between the schools and the homeowners," she said. Stockwell believs that there must be an "open-minded relationship" between the board and the community.

(W)3A

"We have to get down to being able to afford our schools," Stockwell said, adding that the district should rely eventually on local taxation to finance education and "get away from the state" funding.

Stockwell thinks that the district should learn "not to live beyond our means."

SHE DESCRIBED the district as a big business and said that cuts should be made so that everyone is affected somewhat, not just those on the bottom. Stockwell believes that the districts curriculum and programs ought to be looked at, with emphasis on the basics of reading and writing.

"It will take a heap of looking, doing and digging," she said.

One area she firmly supports is vocational education because of the economy.

"We need career preparation for kids who don't know where they'll go," she said.

Stockwell believes that teachers will have to take concessions.

"Being hard times, we all have to work together," she said. "Concessions would show good faith between teachers and the community. Teachers aren't the only ones hurting from cuts. No one likes to say they have to give up their salary."

Stockwell said she worked on the recall of four school-board members because she "never saw big business settle a contract 10 months before it was up. That's hard to swallow."

DECLINING ENROLLMENT means that schools will have to be closed because of the cost of operating half-empty buildings, but she questions why money was used to renovate the school when the board knew it would have to close.

Stockwell said she has her 25 years of business experience, reputation for being a hard worker and knowledge of the district's accounting procedures to offer the district.

She also stressed the need for longrange planning in the distric

Since Michigan is a tourist state, LeDuc believes that sales taxes will be paid partially by out-of-state people, providing some property relief for residents rather than a tax shift.

LeDUC BELIEVES that teachers must be both supported and held accountable in the education process. He sees the board as a policy-making body that holds the administration accountable but also has trust in it.

Although LeDuc didn't support the recall, he said there are people working for him who did.

A minister at Kirk of Our Savior in Westland, LeDuc said the decision to run was his and that he keeps his campaign out of the pulpit.

Holder of a bachelor's degree from Alma College and ministerial degrees from San Francisco Theological Seminary, LeDuc has served in the Wayne-Westland Ministerial Association. He is on the board of Youth Living Centers in Westland, Interim House (for spouse abuse) in Detroit, and on the citizens' advisory committee of Northville Residential Training Center. He also is a member of the Kiwanis Club and Comprehensive Youth Services of Mt. Clemens.

"I've encouraged a lot of people to start going to meetings," he said. He said he won't allow the board to drop the policy issue on busing of students. "Their policy is in yiolation of state policy and discriminates against children from 7-12 grades," he said. "There's no way they can justify it."

"There are committed and dedicated teachers in Wayne-Westland schools," Robichaud said. "When the administration talked about teacher lay-offs, teachers had already heard about it and that's not good."

He said he believes that teachers will cooperate in accepting concessions if they are "dedicated and committed to the education of children.

"A QUALITY education can be maintained if teachers and parents are given input on program cuts. Then there will be more harmony and unity in the district," he said.

Robichaud said he doesn't believe there was adequate representation on the building-utilization comittee from all areas in the district. He also disputes the administration's projections of future enrollment.

"There are more older people dying than young people. We will always have young people in school," he said.

He said the district shouldn't be run just as a business and suggested that "when people realize they are being heard by the board, then they'll be happy."

Robichaud said that the state has to realize that it needs to have a significant role in education. Drug abuse education is needed in the schools, he said.

Robichaud recently was laid off from his work with the Detroit Rescue Mission Ministries and is seeking employment elsewhere in the ministry. He has attended varies Bible institutes and programs and was ordained in 1978.

"I'm for closing schools if it will save us dollars.'

She said that the decision ought to be made on the basis of the school's capacity, the number enrolled, proximity of other schools and cost effectiveness.

"I've been told that the board represents everyone. I'm not sure that's true," said Runion. "I think that the last recourse in the school district is to go to the school board for help with a problem."

Runion was critical of the board because "anytime a parent asks a question, it's always the administration that answers. The board isn't informed enough. They ought to be able to answer some things for themselves.

"How cna they vote wisely if they haven't studied the issue?" she queried. "That's how other board members got in such trouble. I don't think they were crooked or stupid. They just didn't do their homework.

One thing Runion would like to see happen in the district is for the administration to "be a little more open with the public." That, she said, would help to bridge a communications gap.

RUNION SAID she worked hard on now moved to the top, she said.

"It's more important both financially and structurally," she said, adding that the problems the school district has are the "price we've paid over the last three to four years as a result of not paying attention or solving concerns (back then)."

Shaw faults the board for not "mandating management accountability. There needs to be a clear line between an elected body and the staff it hires to implement decisions.

AS A MEMBER of the transition team of Governor-elect James Blanchard, Shaw said she knows that Blanchard will "make every attempt to continue to provide state aid to kindergarten through 12th grade districts." But she also cautions that it will be impossible to find more money from either the state or local taxpayers.

"When wages consume 90 percent of the budget, the answer is in the employees. If we really want to keep K-12 intact, we have got to have concessions," she said.

The recall, in which four board members were removed, was successful not out of dissatisfaction with teachers, but because of the "method by which the whole contract was handled" by the board, according to Shaw.

Dorothy Stockwell, 51, of 547 N. Byfield, Westland, believes that lack of faith in the school system and the district's financial problems are the key issues in this campaign.

6 are sought for tax refund

Six Westland persons have federal income tax refunds coming if they can be located, the Internal Revenue Service said.

All are due refunds from their 1981 federal income tax returns.

They are Jacqueline S. Curry, Jerald D. Lincoln, Donna V. West, Ronesa R. White, and Raymond and Viola E. Atkinson.

Charles A. Parks, IRS district director for Michigan, said these were among 1,073 refund checks worth more than $412,000 returned by the Postal Service as undeliverable in Michigan. The refund checks range in amount from $1 to $10,800 and average almost $400, Parks said.

It is believed most of these taxpayers moved or changed their last names during the year and failed to notify the Postal Service or IRS.

Taxpayers should call the IRS at 800-482-0670 to claim their refund.

Lucas trusts his reorganization advisors

By Suzie Rollins Singer staff writer

William Lucas has so much trust in the people who advise him that he's letting them unveil the county reorganization plan without pre-screening it. And he says he will wholeheartedly accept it, if it's "reasonable."

The Wayne County executive-elect is making the plan public because he doesn't want the new 15-member Board of Commissioners to be surprised when it meets for the first time Jan. 4.

"I want the reorganization plan in place so it can be introduced on the first working day of the new (board of commissioners) session," Lucas told suburban news representatives last week.

, The plan, drafted by a group of lawyers, accountants and other professionals, will be presented at 2:30 p.m. Dec. Cushman, retired vice-president of really improve Wayne County govern-15 in Wayne State University's McGregor Center.

LUCAS SAID he doesn't intend to dissect the proposal before it's presented.

"Any plan presented will be accepted as long as it is reasonable. As long as the philosophy of it agrees with mine, it will be the kind of document we want to follow," Lucas said.

Lucas, who has been sheriff since 1969, was elected Wayne County's first executive Nov. 2 under the first county home-rule charter in Michigan, That charter calls for him to draft a reorganization plan in his first 90 days in office subject to review by the Board of Commissioners.

Shortly after winning 76 percent of the vote, Lucas appointed the commission to advise him on a reorganization group effort and working for Lucas beplan. The team is chaired by Edward L. cause he now has "the opportunity to American Motors Corp.

The 57-member reorganization team has been studying Wayne County government. It works in eight committees on such topics as criminal justice, data processing, purchasing and personnel. All members volunteer their time.

"WE ASKED the staff to answer two questions," said Cushman:

"First, what's the best way to reorganize Wayne County government?

"Second, what recommendations would they make to change the county charter and state law?"

Cushman said the committee will work closely with Lucas during the first 90 days. Thereafter it will meet annually to exchange ideas, unless Lucas requests more frequent meetings.

Cushman said he's excited about the ment.

"I'm 68. Time is precious. If you're going to devote it to something, you want it to be worthwhile. "Wayne County government is the least responsive government around, and it didn't happen overnight," Cushman said.

TO KEEP government responsive, Lucas has proposed giving raises to six elected officials. Although he has taken quite a bit of criticism about the move, he defends the idea, saying "good government costs money."

"People are always complaining about the high salaries of county employees. There's not a single department in Wayne County - except the Road Commission - where department heads earn more than the employees," Lucas said.

'We're talking about $10,000 raises which includes $5,000 for cost of living. so that makes it less than a $5,000 raise for the six elected officials," he said.

Noting that salaries of county work- the Democratic county executive priers have been a political issue, Lucas said, "No one ever complained of the high salaries of elected officials." Prosecutor William Cahalan is paid $53,490; Sheriff Lucas and Clerk James Killeen, $45,130, and most other elected department heads, $40,950.

Thursday, December 2, 1982 O&E

Added Cushman: "These jobs, some of them, are as complicated as jobs in industry that pay $100,000 to $300,000 a year."

DENNIS NYSTROM, head of his transistion team, said Lucas is running into some roadblocks in his attempt to consolidate control in the executive office in much the way a mayor runs a city

"I find it startling that more groups are becoming fractionalized and trying to form a new organization. It seems so inappropriate now," Nystrom said.

Nystrom's reference apparently was to a suburban coalition of 13 Wayne County suburbs led by Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara, Lucas' foe in mary election.

McNAMARA SAID the coalition intends to bid for $6 million in federal job training funds which would be funneled directly to the suburban organization rather than through the county government as it has gone in the past.

Lucas said he would try to "avoid confontrations" but wouldn't say with whom

Later in the week, he told reporters that McNamara is trying to take power away from the county executive's office.

McNamara said the coalition is only trying to ensure that suburban communities get a fair share of job training money.

Lucas has asked county officials not to negotiate union contracts and employees not to form unions until he is inaugurated Jan. 3. At that time, when his county reorganization plan is intact, he said he can determine how much can be spent on salaries.

County union chief hits Lucas

The head of a county employees union expressed "shock and outrage" at County Executive-elect William Lucas' proposal to raise salaries of elected officials $10,000 a year.

"It is beyond all logic, reason and decency to try to increase the salaries of the elected county politicians." said James Glass, president of Michigan AFSCME Council 25.

'Thousands of loyal county employees have been holding the line, have no contract in place, have had no raises in pay, and have seen their work force dwindle to near half of what it was."

to the county Compensation Commission shortly after asking other county officials not to negotiate ' new contracts until he takes office Jan. 3.

LUCAS LAST WEEK proposed the pay increases

"Our membership has sacrificed financially for years," said Glass. "We have had layoffs, loss and transfer of departments and jobs. We have suffered from the effects of bad management and political lechery and greed," Glass said.

"County commissioners have gotten big raises, judges have gotten raises and perks."

$66.8 million long-term County deficit report 'sobering'

By Suzie Rollins Singer staff writer

A financial audit of Wayne County reveals a $66.8 million long-term deficit and an approximate $29 million deficit for 1982-83.

Al Koch, managing partner at Ernst & Whinney, CPA, Tuesday presented the audit for the fiscal year ending Nov. 30 to the Wayne County Board of Auditors.

County Executive-elect William Lucas called the report "sobering."

The 25-page document outlines every category in the county's $700 million budget and sets up the books on a modified accrual basis.

"In the past the county has kept records on a cash basis, which means it only recorded inflow and outflow of cash," Koch explained. "This method (modified accrual) looks at all debts and receipts," he said.

KOCH NOTED that the audit didn't include financial statements for Wayne County General Hospital or the drain commission

Those two agencies were not shown as separate accounts, but rather lumped into the general fund. Koch said that practice would be discontinued now that the county will be audited using generally accepted accounting principles. Ernst & Whinney has been contracted to conduct the county's 1982 audit.

'The audit also excluded budgets for roads, airports, parks and public works which will take office Jan. 1. because those departments are audited by others," Koch said.

Constantine Stathos, county director of budget and finance, said Wayne never used the modified accrual basis because it was never required.

THE COUNTY BOARD of Auditors said the report meets the audit requirements of the U.S. Federal Revenue Sharing Act for 1980-82. It also provides a transitional accounting and auditing basis as the new Wayne County Charter becomes effective Jan. 1.

In January 1979, the Michigan Department of Treasury attempted to perform a financial audit as required by state law, but it was terminated in August 1979 because of alleged "inauditability" of county financial records, the auditors reported.

"We have demonstrated that the county is auditable," Koch said.

COMMISSIONER Kay Beard, D-Inkster, attended the meeting and said she was not sufprised by the auditor's find-

"I do think it's important for the general public to realize that the actual deficit is not as bad as it appears because much of the deficit is long term. We actually only have a $20 million deficit that we must deal with in 82-83.

"The $66 million is long term because of the change in the accounting methods," said Beard, who was elected to the reduced, 15-member board

Commissioner Mary Dumas, R-Livonia, agreed with Beard but added that she wished the county's physical buildings could be counted as assets.

"I'm disappointed that governmental accounting can't count assets like brick and mortar of buildings, because we probably have assets that exceed our liabilities," she said.

"If Wayne County were to go bankrupt tomorrow and we could sell those buildings, we'd be able to cover our

Open Mon., Thurs. & Fri. 'Til 9 P.M.,

Livonia

costs," added Dumas, who also will serve on the new Board of Commissioners

LUCAS, WHO becomes Wayne County's first executive Jan. 1, called the report "sobering."

"After hearing the report, I realize how much work needs to be done. We need a great deal of cooperation between department heads and labor leaders to wipe out the deficit. I never imagined the (long-term) deficit would be so large," he added.

Mercy to tell students about nursing

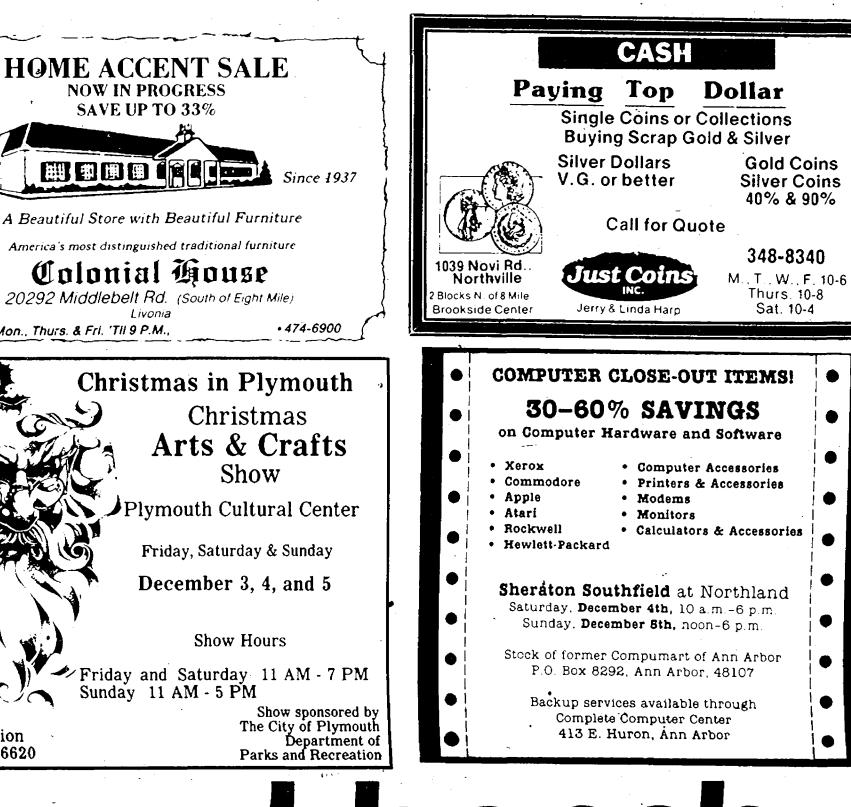

Mercy College of Detroit will sponsor career and program information sessions about nursing and medical technology in December. Both sessions are open to high-school students and their parents at no charge.

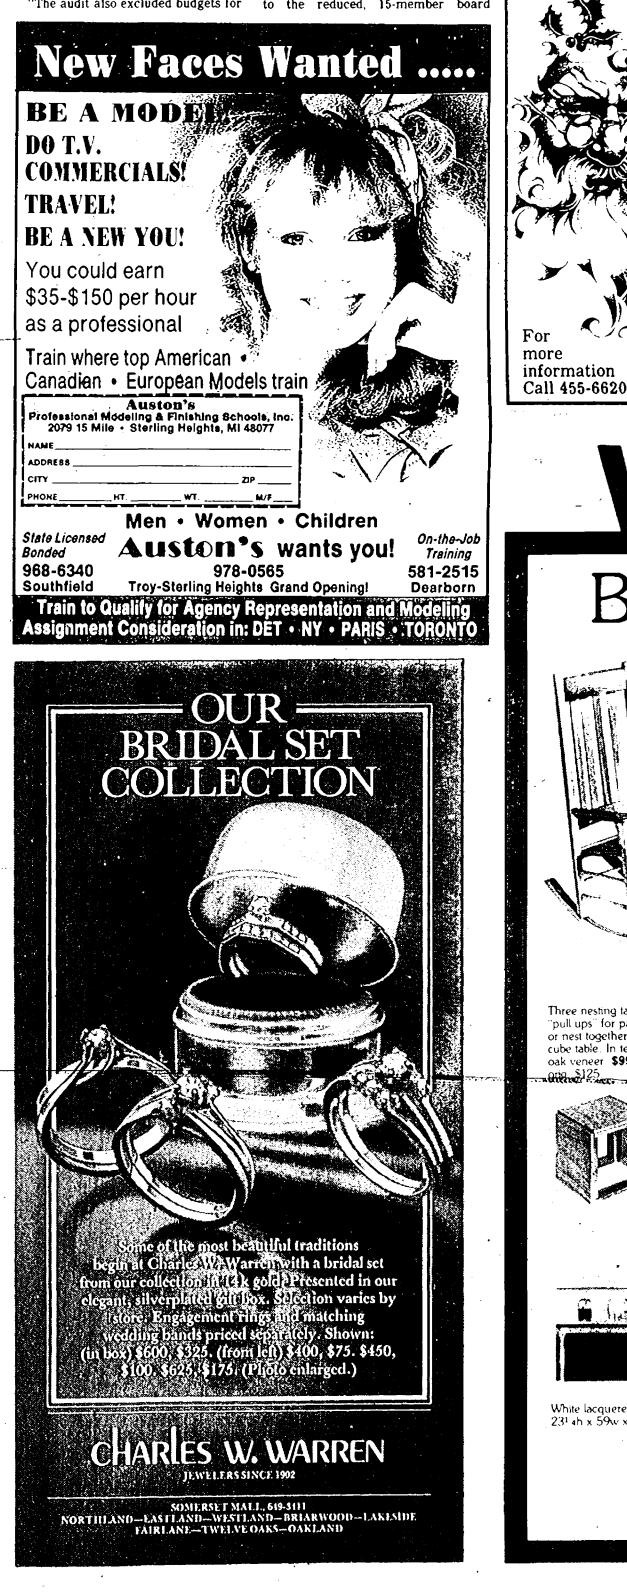

The college is at 8200 W. Outer Drive at the Southfield Freeway, south of Seven Mile in Detroit.

The nursing career session will be Tuesday, Dec. 7 from 1:30-3 p.m. in the Mercy Conference Center. The program will feature general information about Mercy's nursing curriculum, career opportunities, admission requirements and tours of the campus.

Nursing students, faculty members and nursing graduates will be on hand to answer questions.

The medical technology open house will be Tuesday, Dec. 14 from 3-5 p.m. in the Mercy Conference Center. A short audio/visual presentation will explain Mercy's medical technology.

CHAIRPERSONS: WE OFFER our services to church groups and clubs for lectures and films on subjects as estate planning...

Inflation-protected funeral pre-planning...funeral procedures and costs-

By Tim Richard staff writer

Facing a Dec. 9 strike deadline, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra management wants for a mediator to help it reach contract agreement with its 100 union musicians.

"We have asked our attorney to seek the assistance of a state or federal mediator." said Oles Lobanov, executive vice president and managing director of the DSO, minutes after the musicians announced a strike deadline of 2 p.m. next Thursday.

The Michigan Employment Relations Commission late Tuesday assigned Edward Phillips to the case.

Major issues, both sides agreed, are pay scales, pensions and the musicians' current right to be involved in selection of a music director.

As of Tuesday, the bargaining teams hadn't met in about a week. Both sides expressed willingness to continue talks. The musicians, members of Local 5 of the Detroit Federation of Musicians, have been working since Sept. 19 on a week-to-week extension of the previous 18-month contract.

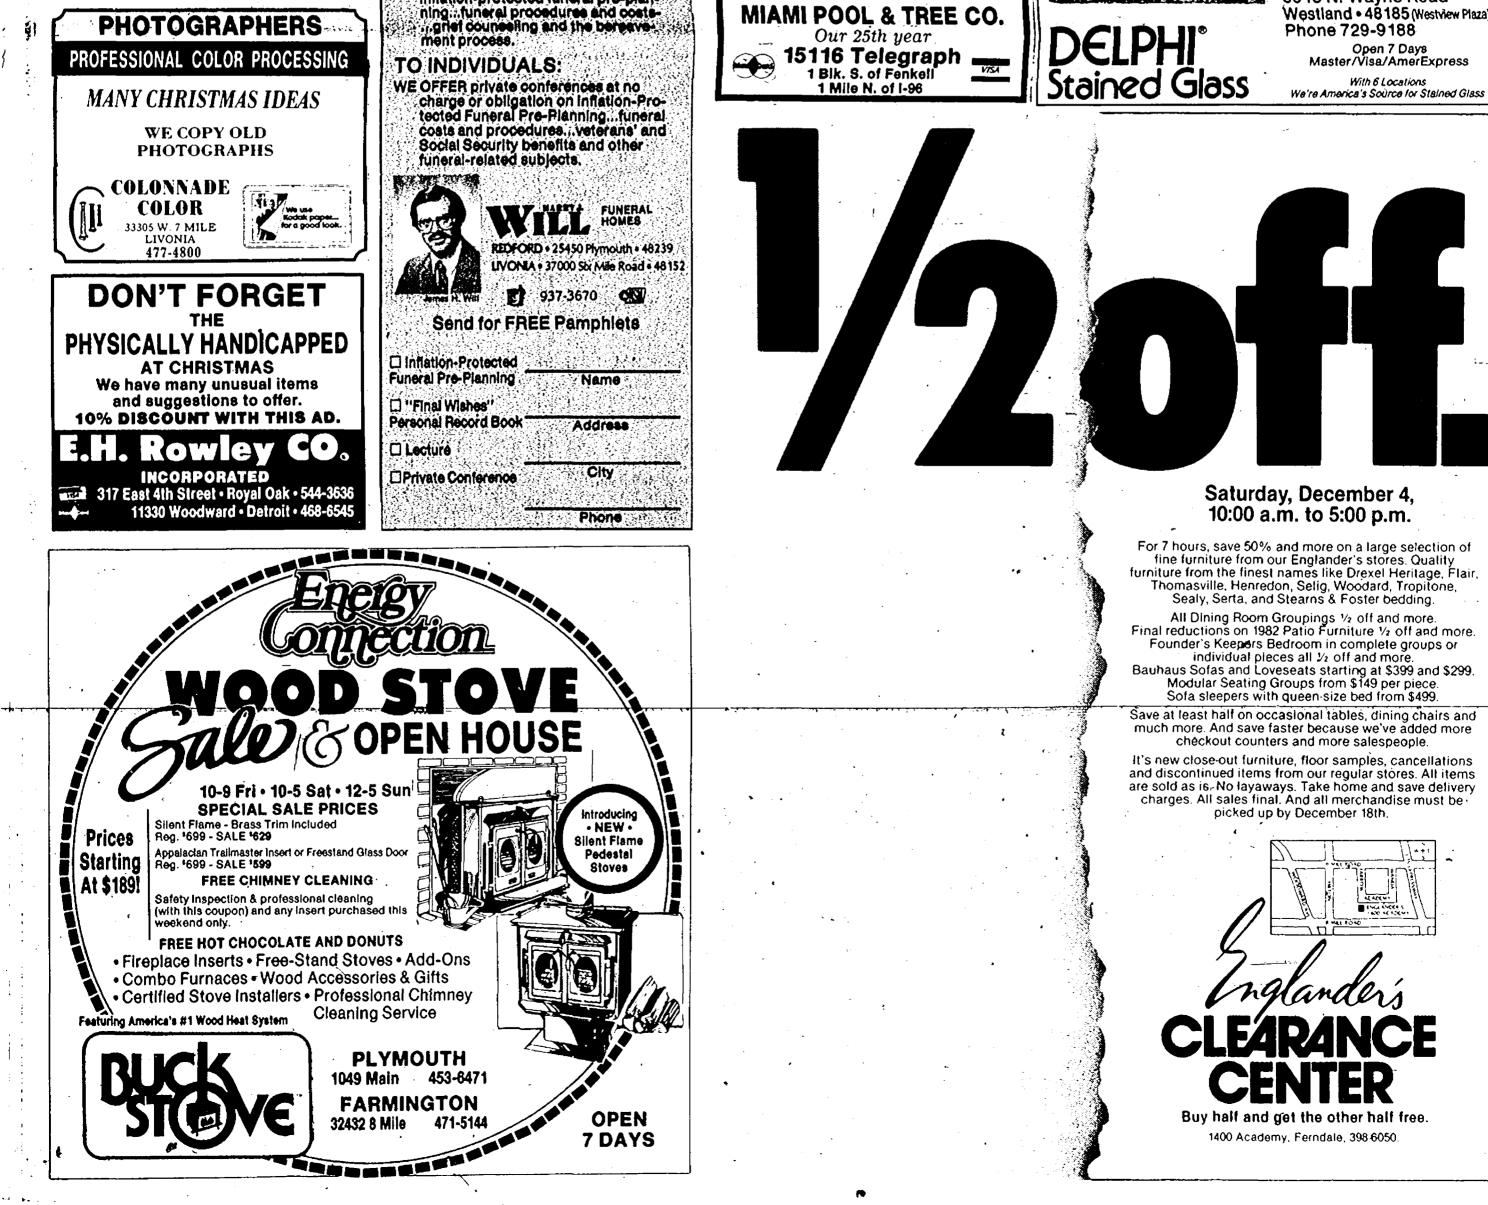

MUSICIANS' SPOKESMAN Douglas Cornelson. a clarinetist, said DSO is "the only American orchestra" where musicians have a contractual right to approve a list of "artistically acceptable conductors," although management and the board of directors retain final power to hire the person.

"This provision our management now wants to remove from the contract," he said. "Our belief is that this process, as it stands, is as close as we can get to an actual guarantee of the continuation of our orchestra's traditionally high artistic and musical standards."

The DSO is seeking a permanent replacement for Antal Dorati, who resigned as music director in 1981 and holds the title of "conductor laureate." Gary Bertini, DSO's most frequent conductor, has the title of "music advisor."

LOBANOV DECLINED to state management's view on the hiring procedure because "I don't want to negotiate in the press." He said the provision is contained in a "temporary memo of understanding."

Business and industry representatives routinely ask Schoolcraft College personnel to design highly technical courses and programs so their employees can take them and be brought up to date.

"There are so many rapid changes taking place (in industry) with regards to technology," said Stuart Baker, Schoolcraft's coordinator of business and industry programs.

"Community colleges are flexible and can adopt to those needs, which is why we thought it was our role to host a conference.'

SO 54 PERSONS from 10 community colleges businesses and trade associations recently attended a one-day workshop at Schoolcraft designed for members of the Southeastern Michigan League of Community Colleges. Title was the "Community College's Role in Economic Redevelopment.'

Community colleges are responsible for being a resource and training ground for businesses and institutions which are expanding, Baker said.

"Employees need to be upgraded to learn high tenchology, and it's our job to supply them with the skills," he added.

Conference attendees also learned which federal and state grants are presently available for vocational education training as well as how such community groups as chambers of commerce can interact with colleges.

A SYNOPSIS of the conference will be published in the Economic Development Network News.

The EDN, Baker explained, represents a group of community colleges and businesses interested in sharing resources to train and retrain employees.

"There is a lot of coordination between business. industry and college programs. The high tech thrust is here to stay, and companies have requested courses in data processing and microprocessing," Baker said

"We work with corporations and their employees and contract education. We try to determine all the costs ahead of time and offer the courses on site at the company location."

Junior Miss girls enjoy the pageantry

Wayne-Westland's 16th annual Junior Miss program is over but for many the excitement is still there.

Sponsored by Wayne-Westland Junior Miss Inc., this year's program saw 20 candidates vie for the title of 1983 Junior Miss.

For Denise Marie Bixler, a 17-year-old senior at John Glenn High School who now wears the crown, there is a busy year ahead.

She will represent Wayne-Westland in various civic events and will represent the cities in the state pageant to be held in Marshall in January.

She was awarded a $500 cash scholarship from Wayne-Westland Junior Miss Inc., a $100 cash scholarship from Westland Mayor Charles Pickering. a $200 cash scholarship from Westland senior citizens along with other prizes.

First runner-up Laura Turbeville of Wayne Memorial High won $250 in scholarships.

Second runner-up Susan Smiley, also of Wayne Memorial, will get $150 in cash scholarships. She also won the Spirit of Junior Miss award.

Heading this year's program was Tony Rosati who, with his wife, Carol, have been involved in the program for 10 years.

Fleet is older Used car prices set new record

The nation's retail, used-car sales last year slipped 5.1 percent to 17.7 million units from 1980's record 18.7 million units. But inflation pushed total purchase prices to an all-time high of $74.72 billion, a 5.5 percent advance from the prior year.

The annual estimate by Hertz Corp. still puts U.S. sales of second-hand autos ahead of new-car volume by more than two-to-one since 1981's new car total was just 8.4 million units.

"The data shows a fundamental change in the auto buying and driving habits of American motorists," Hertz reported. 'Buyers of both used and new cars are purchasing smaller units with fewer options, keeping them longer and driving them less, primarily because they cannot afford — or choose not to spend — the money to buy as often or drive as far as in past years." The new figures are based on a nationwide poll of used-car buyers by Hertz, which sells used vehicles from its lease-rental fleets and regularly reports on used-vehicle sales.

THE AVERAGE purchase price for second-hand units sold in 1982 hit a record $4,773, some 13 percent above the 1981 average of $4,218 and 33 percent more than 1979's price tag.

The price hikes came despite the fact that 1982's average used car sold was 4.25 years old, almost 16 percent older than the 1981 average of 3.67 years and 49 percent older than the 2.86 years in 1979, the lease-rental company's report said.

This year's typical used car purchased had run 43,711 miles, 17 percent more than last year and 51 percent above the 1979 average, according to the polls. Statistics on used units are not issued by industry or government.

The new Hertz poll shows 31 percent of used-car buyers have never bought a new car — up from 23 percent in 1979. And 75 percent give "low price" as the reason for buying second-hand, against 65 percent three years ago.

While used-car buyers averaged 2.2 cars owned now per family and had bought 2.1 new cars during the past 10 years, 75 percent of the buyers said the car they now consider the primary auto in the family was purchased used rather than new.

MOTORISTS purchasing used cars in 1982 now intend to keep these units 3.78 years, but in 1979 planned to keep them only three years.

Today, used-car owners plan to drive only 12,300 miles a year, against plans to drive 12,900 annual miles in 1979, Hertz reported.

Actual ownership has been longer than drivers intended, and distance driven has been less, the report points out.

In 1979, used car buyers said they had kept their previous new car 3.23 years and had driven it 11,396 miles a year. This year, they said they had kept their old used auto 4.2 years and had driven it just 10,479 miles a year before trading or scrapping it.

The Hertz figures show used-car purchase prices last year averaged 47 percent less than the average new car sales price of $7,967. On a model-formodel basis, purchase prices range from 23 percent to 85 percent less than new-car outlays, depending on the used car's age and mileage.

Used-car ownership and operating costs for similar driving and use periods averaged 42 percent less than newcar expenses. A typical compact model purchased when it was 4 years old and driven another four years at 10,000 miles a year cost 23.6 cents a mile, against 44.6 cents for a new compact driven the same distance, a 48 percent saving.

Westland school voters offered clear choices

HE CAMPAIGN leading up to the special election Dec. 7 to fill four seats on the Wayne-Westland school board has been an exciting one made so by all the new faces in the running and by renewed community interest in the school system. Considering that this is the fifth election faced by voters this year, maintaining interest is a real accomplishment to be proud of.

Most candidates have shown themselves to be aware of the issues — maintaining quality education, financing the schools, enrollment and the need for improved relations among factions in the district.

The community owes a big thank you for the interest and courtesy with which the candidates are conducting the campaign. And the best way to show the hopeful contenders how much you care is to turn out and vote come Dec. 7. After all, it was the voting public which recalled four board members from office. Now it's up to the same group to fill the resulting vacancies.

This is the proper time to select a board member that you'll be comfortable with.

HAVING SAID all that, let's take a look at who will best fill the vacancies. There are two sixmonth unexpired terms and two 18-month terms to be filled.

Glenn Anderson will be a difficult man to beat for a six-month term. His political campaign appears to be well organized, and he is familiar with the issues.

But most importantly, Anderson is determined to get on with the education of our young folks, leaving behind the acrimonious relationships which have virtually halted effective operation of the district.

We hope that Anderson will become the mediating influence he pledges himself to be. Joining him in the quest for a six-month term are Mathew McCusker and Sharon Scott. Both contenders give the impression of being neophytes in dealing with issues in the district. Both also promise to work well with other board members and act to ease the division on the board. Either one would make an acceptable board member for a six-month period.

TOPPING THE list of seven contenders for the 18-month term is the Rev. William LeDuc. The expression, trite but apt, which best describes LeDuc is the one that talks about making lemonade out of a lemon. Besides his study of the issues, LeDuc is remarkable for his attitude.

The district needs a clear thinker who won't take guff yet knows how to conduct himself with dignity. LeDuc reminds one of former board member Stephen Kelly whose moderating influence and new ideas have been sorely missed.

LeDuc holds the potential for being a leading force on the board.

As with the six-month term, there are two good choices for filling the fourth board opening: Kathryn Shaw and Kathleen Chorbagian.

Shaw is thoughtful, will examine issues carefully, can disagree without being disagreeable and does have connections with the new governor-elect's administration.

Chorbagian unfortunately comes across at times like a cheerleader for the district, but the lady has paid her dues with an arm's length list of community service. She knows well the district and its problems, but she has the confidence the district needs that they can be solved.

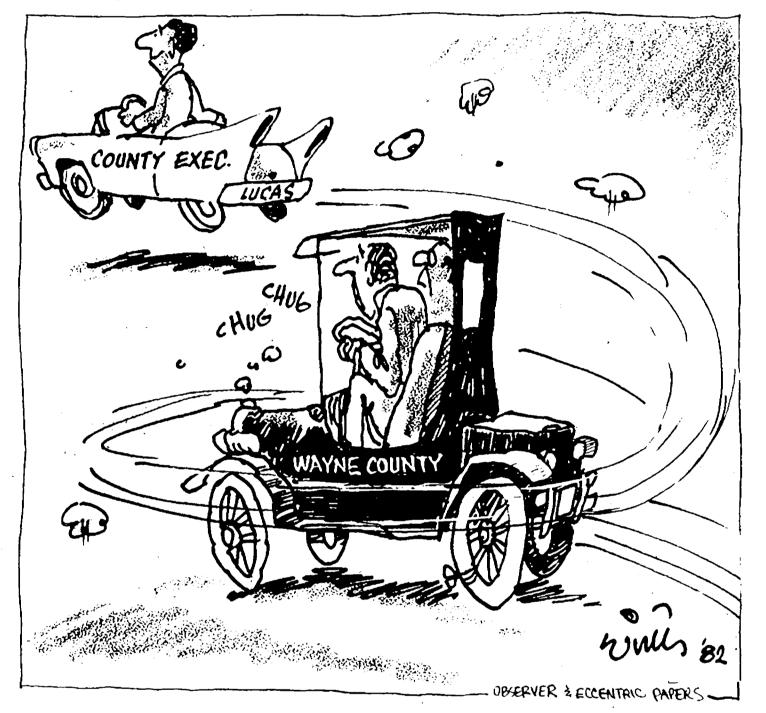

Voters, the choices are yours to make. Be sure to take advantage of that right. It's also your responsibility.

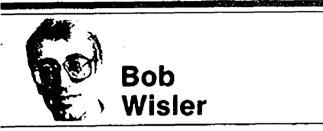

Lucas, team exude much sincerity

INCERITY. 1950s STYLE, radiates from Wayne County Executive-elect William Lucas and his transition team. Over lunch last week, they gave the impression they are sincere in wanting to straighten out the crony-laden, deficit-plagued county government that has soaked up so much state, federal and local money. And you

'He's going first class!'

Karoub rules 3rd branch in Lansing

URING A RECENT disagreement between Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara and state Rep. Jack Kirksey over who should have been doing what to save the city of Livonia's share of race track revenue, McNamara complained that neither Kirksey nor state Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, had informed him Gov. William Milliken had vetoed a race track ap-want them to succeed.

Lucas and press secretary. Bill Johnson invite questions and press contact. Lucas says he is seeking advice from the able Oakland County Executive Dan Murphy and his staff, who pioneered the county executive form of government in Michigan (though not with a home-rule charter).

Lucas has appointed a task force (50-some men and four women) to advise him on reorganization. The elaborate committee structure covers such items as criminal justice, data processing, finance, personnel, public works, and purchasing. To Lucas' credit, he will let this first-class group report publicly Dec. 15, even before his own staff has time to weed out possibly unacceptable ideas. One only wishes the report had been made before the Nov. 2 election.

Lucas' Jan. 3 inauguration will begin with Mass and a prayer breakfast. His priest brother and nun sister will be in town for the ceremony. That is a [Sincere beginning.

SOME BOTHERSOME points linger, however.

After asking unionized county employees to preparc for concessions, Lucas went before the Compensation Commission to ask a $70,000-plus salary for himself and $10,000 raises for other elected county administrators. His timing couldn't have been worse. And even if the idea is justifiable, couldn't the clerk or prosecutor have been persuaded to make the public presentation?

His closest advisers remain Jamiel Akhtar, a former union leader in the sheriff's department, and Dennis Nystrom, who was first the union's and then Lucas' lawyer in the long, unsuccessful court fights to save jobs in that department when other county departments were taking layoffs.

, Inicas asked for — and amazingly received — $188,000 from the lame-duck Board of Commissioners for transition expenses, some of dubious value. (Nystrom assured us, in all sincerity, that a lot of the money wouldn't be used. Let's hope he is correct.)

YET FOR ALL their sincerity, one must search in vain for a fresh, specific idea from Lucas or the transition team. Their talk about "streamlined," "accountable" and "procedures" never progresses beyond generalities.

With 76 percent of the vote, Lucas believes he has earned public confidence, inviting all to "look at my record."

What record? Was he ever a leader in the Sheriffs Association or the Michigan Association of Counties? Didn't Lucas as sheriff overspend his budget by $460,000 in 1968-9, by $1 million in 1972-3, by $1.3 million in 1974-5, by $3.4 million in 1977-8 and by $5.4 million in 1980-1, and have to request "supplemental" appropriations each of those years?

Didn't the man who last week talked about "avoiding confrontations" and decreasing tensions between Detroit and the suburbs accept the support of a "Black Slate" this year?

Didn't the man who says he will curb the management "union" in the discredited Road Commission also serve on an examination panel for the sonin-law of Road Commission Chairman Mike Berry? And didn't that panel score the candidate for assistant airport superintendent 100 percent based on "personal qualifications," an oral test and "experience"?

IN THE POP songs of the 1950s, to win the girl you didn't need a good job, money, character or a passionate heart. All you needed was sincerity.

If sincerity can straighten out the embarrassment that is Wayne County government, Lucas and his team should do fine.

It developed character When players ran the game

S THE COLLEGE football season moves to its conclusion with the holiday bowl games, two big questions still persist. Is there too much emphasis on winning?

Is the present game really developing character and leadership?

Let's look at the first question and take the case of the University of Michigan, which is being frowned upon because it lost its final game to Ohio State and yet kept its right to appear in the prestigious Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

True, the Wolverines didn't look good against the Ohio State Buckeyes — but they won eight conference games in a row and had the best percentage record. So why should the Ohio defeat cast a smudge on the entire season?

THEN THERE is the case of Michigan State, where coach Muddy Waters was fired because he had a losing season.

. True, the team's record was poor, but the critics failed to consider the type of talent the coaches had on their squad.

Most of the criticism came from the old grads who want a winner at any cost. You see them in the stands, wringing their hands when things go wrong.

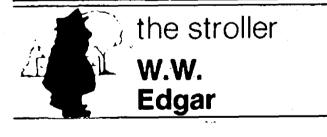

The Stroller well remembers the year that Michigan missed on four tries from the one-yard line and lost the Ohio game in Columbus and the bid to go to the Rose Bowl. The hooting and hollering from the Michigan stands was terrific. No credit was given to Ohio for stopping four successive charges.

This is a simple case of too much emphasis on winning.

THEN THERE is the present practice of coaches' sending in plays to the quarterback.

How much leadership is being built into the life of the players when they must look toward the bench on every play?

At Michigan, for instance, it is said that Steven Smith is one of the best quarterbacks to come along in a while. Then why does he look to the bench, or even take time out to visit the bench, for every order?

Not long ago there was a time when the game was in the players' hands. Once the game started, they were on their own, and the quarterback handled the offense with lessons taken from the coach's book of plays.

Once in a while, the coach, through a set of signals, would send a message to the quarterback, but it wasn't regular practice.

The chief of this style was "Greasy" Neale at West Virginia. On game days, he always wore a yellow cap and light tan shoes. All during the game, he would twist the peak of his cap or lift his leg in a kicking motion. There was no rule that covered a coach's wearing apparel.

When The Stroller sees these plays being sent in from the bench, he often wonders what will happen to these players when they get into trouble out in the business world. There will be no one to turn to — and they'll be in real trouble.

THE STROLLER often is reminded of another day when he was covering the University of Detroit games and Gus Dorais was the coach.

In the final game of the season, the Titans were trailing by three points and had the ball deep in enemy territory. They could have tried a gametying field goal, but quarterback Cliff Marsh called a trick play. It backfired, and the Titans lost.

"Why did you call a play like that?" Dorais asked him later in the locker room.

"We didn't want to wind up in a tie. We wanted to win." Marsh answered.

"OK," Dorais said. "It's your game, if that's the way you felt."

Football would be better off if it turned back to the days when the players ran the game. They'd develop character and leadership. propriations bill.

McNamara had to find out, he said, from lobbyist James Karoub, whose firm is retained by Livonia to represent its interests in Lansing at $22,000 per year. Karoub more than earns the money by helping secure passage of the yearly appropriations bill, which allocates money to cities with race tracks more than $600,000 a year to Livonia.

McNamara's lament may have been somewhat of one-upmanship move in a minor skirmish with Kirksey, because nobody in state government or local government should be surprised that Karoub is the firstest with the mostest.

KAROUB, 53, is a former Highland Park politician and Jaycee young man of the year (1964) who served two terms in the state Legislature (1962-63, 1967-68) before being knocked out in a 1968 Democratic primary, which pitted him against six Poles.

Most defeated politicians pack up their troubles and go back home, but Karoub was never known for giving up easily.

Of the myriad of lobbyists who have tried to influence state legislators, including a few dozen former legislators, Karoub stands head and shoulders above the rest. This is true even though Karoub makes Jim Blanchard look tall.

However short and slight he is, Karoub is always intense. He is even fierce and intimidating when he wants to be, which is most of the time, particularly when he has his mind set on securing passage of certain legislation or blocking passage of other legislation.

Karoub's lobbying firm has the biggest stable of clients in Lansing including Blue Cross and several associations related to racing. Most recently he was given credit for engineering the re-election of Sen. William D. Faust, D-Westland, as Senate majority leader over the UAW's darling. Gary Corbin, D-Clio.

Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, gave this reason for voting for Corbin and against Faust: "If it's true, and I think it is, that one of 'em's the UAW's stooge and the other one is Jimmy Karoub's stooge, then it's a matter of whose stooge you prefer. I prefer the UAW's stooge."

FOR MANY YEARS, Karoub's most important ally in the Legislature was Sen. Bill Huffman, D-Madison Heights, who was long-time vice chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee and, for a number of reasons, almost ran the committee.

Huffman (who retired this year to become a lobbyist with none other than James Karoub) could get just about anything he wanted out of other legislators because of the committee control over appro-. priations. As he used to say, "Sooner or later, they all come to me."

If all this gives you an indication that there is something wrong with state Legislature, so be it.

THE FACT is that at present there are essentially three branches of government involved in lawmaking: 1) the executive, 2) the Legislature and 3) the lobbyists and pressure groups — with Karoub at the apex.

The hidden branch of government is able to exert political influence far beyond what is reasonable simply because it makes the bulk of political contributions to legislative election campaigns.

One thing the Michigan Legislature could do with its time during the next legislative year is to determine a better method of financing election campaigns — the possibility of public financing should be considered.

Portrait can be a visual biography of a person

A good portrait should try to tell something about the subject. A photograph of someone is, in a sense, a visual biography.

In fact, some of the best portraits are not mere likenesses, but are interpretations of the subject's charac-

How do you go about getting good, meaningful portraits?

LET'S START by talking about lenses.

The best focal length lenses to use are those between 85mm and 200mm. Any lens shorter than 85mm will necessitate your shooting at an intimidatingly close distance and will also result in distortion of the face.

This means you shouldn't use your normal 50 mm less for portraits unless you have a 2-X telextender which converts it into an acceptable 100 mm lens. Any lens larger than 200 mm will "flatten" the image and the face won't appear normal in the finished portrait.

YOUR FILM should be medium to fast.

Be prepared to take lots of pictures. Facial expressions are constantly changing, and each subtle shift should be captured on film. Often, an entire roll of film will produce only two or three good shots.

For correct exposure, move in close and take your reading directly off the skin. This way, an extremely light or dark background won't influence the meter.

Before starting to shoot, build rapport between you and your subject. The whole setting must be relaxed. How best to do this? By lots of conversation and being relaxed yourself. Talk constantly and your subject will forget you are a photographer.

Above all, don't force him or her into a pose. Your aim should be to relax the subject and make him feel like a valuable part of the creative process of getting a meaningful image on film.

LIGHTING is of utmost importance. The best guideline is to keep it simple.

I prefer natural window light or a single photo-hood at a 45-degree angle to the side and 45-degree angle above the subject.

To fill in the side of the face opposite the light source, use a white or aluminum covered poster as a reflector.

If you desire, an extra light above and behind the subject will dramatically accentuate the hair.

Be sure that there's a sparkle in the eyes that is caused by the reflection of the light source. This is called a "catch light" and is crucial in giving "life" to a portrait.

Because the eyes are the most important facial feature, always focus sharply on them.

WATCH YOUR backgrounds, too. A plain wall or piece of poster board will serve as an ideal interior background.

Outdoors, you may have to use a wide aperture to reduce depth-of-field and blur out what could be a distracting background.

Here are some more hints to help you take better portraits:

• Composition - Faces naturally go up and down so in most cases, shoot with a vertical format.

• Wrinkles — Use a soft-focus filter to minimize on a woman, but not on a man where wrinkles can add character.

• Noses — Shoot at an angle with wide-nosed subject and head-on with long-nosed subject.

• Glasses — Carefully check the viewfinder for unwanted reflections: adjust the lighting if necessary.

So learn to say "watch the birdle" by following the easy guidelines presented in this column. If you do, your portraits

Suellen Feinberg's face has a natural, expressive appearance. In making this home portrait, Monte Nagler used an 85mm lens, a single main light, a

Tuition up 37 percent

UM-D asks 24 percent fund boost

The University of Michigan-Dearborn will ask the state of Michigan for an increase of $2.4 million in operating funds and $3.8 million in capital construction funds for the 1983-84 fiscal year.

The request was approved by the UM Board of Regents and will be forwarded to the state for review.

In the operating funding request, UM-D will ask for a 24-percent increase in 1983-84. The campus is scheduled to receive $10.1 million in state appropriations in 1982-83.

"UM-DEARBORN accepts fully its partnership with the state of Michigan for providing quality higher education," Chancellor William A. Jenkins told regents.

"Evidence of this acceptance is found in the extraordinary exigency measures taken by the campus during the period of the state's financial difficulties when resources were reduced," he added.

Student tuition has been increased by 37 percent in the past two years, with students now paying 46 percent of the cost of their education.

In addition, the UM-D chancellor noted that the campus has reduced its base budget by $1 million, including the elimination of 44 faculty and staff positions.

Economies have also been effected in campus services, energy savings and reducing the number of hours of certain campus buildings.

"AFTER TWO VERY gruelling years of down-sizing, slimming-down, contracting, squeezing, penny-pinching, haggling over expenditures, competing for resources, hoping for relief which did not appear, looking for succor which was never given, the campus turns to its partner, the state of Michigan, and requests that a new set of concepts be promulgated," said Jenkins.

The chancellor outlined to regents the basic elements of the request, including:

• A modest, planned program expansion in high technology.

• Movement in the direction of adequate faculty and staff salaries.

• Advances rather than retreats from materials, equipment and services essential to effective teaching and research.

• Strengthening "the heart" of the campus, the library.

• More nearly normal support for operating three not-so-new structures. The request includes $215,000 for high technology programs, termed by the chancellor as "critical" in aiding the state in revitalizing its industrial base.

Funding would provide the campus with needed resources for two programs: a manufacturing engineering program (currently funded in part on Ford Motor Co. Fund gift money), and improving the campus's production/operations management program. The latter program was designed with the advice of industrial representatives to enhance performance in the operation and control of production systems in manufacturing.

A TOTAL OF $180,000 is requested to effect a long-range recovery program for the library's book and periodical budget. Over the past three years this budget, said Jenkins, has been reduced 83 percent. "It would be impossible to maintain a strong or even adequate library under these conditions for a longer time," he added. UM-D is also seeking $407,000 from the state to fund the operating costs of three buildings, all constructed within the last four years. The state has appropriated a portion of an initial request of $537,000 for maintenance and utilities of these facilities.

A total of $1,225,000 is earmarked for a faculty and staff salary and benefit program which Jenkins termed "crucial in maintaining quality."

The USAD chief executive officer pointed out to regents that an American Association of University Professors study of faculty salaries for institutions of comparable size and complexity placed UM-D ninth among its peer schools.

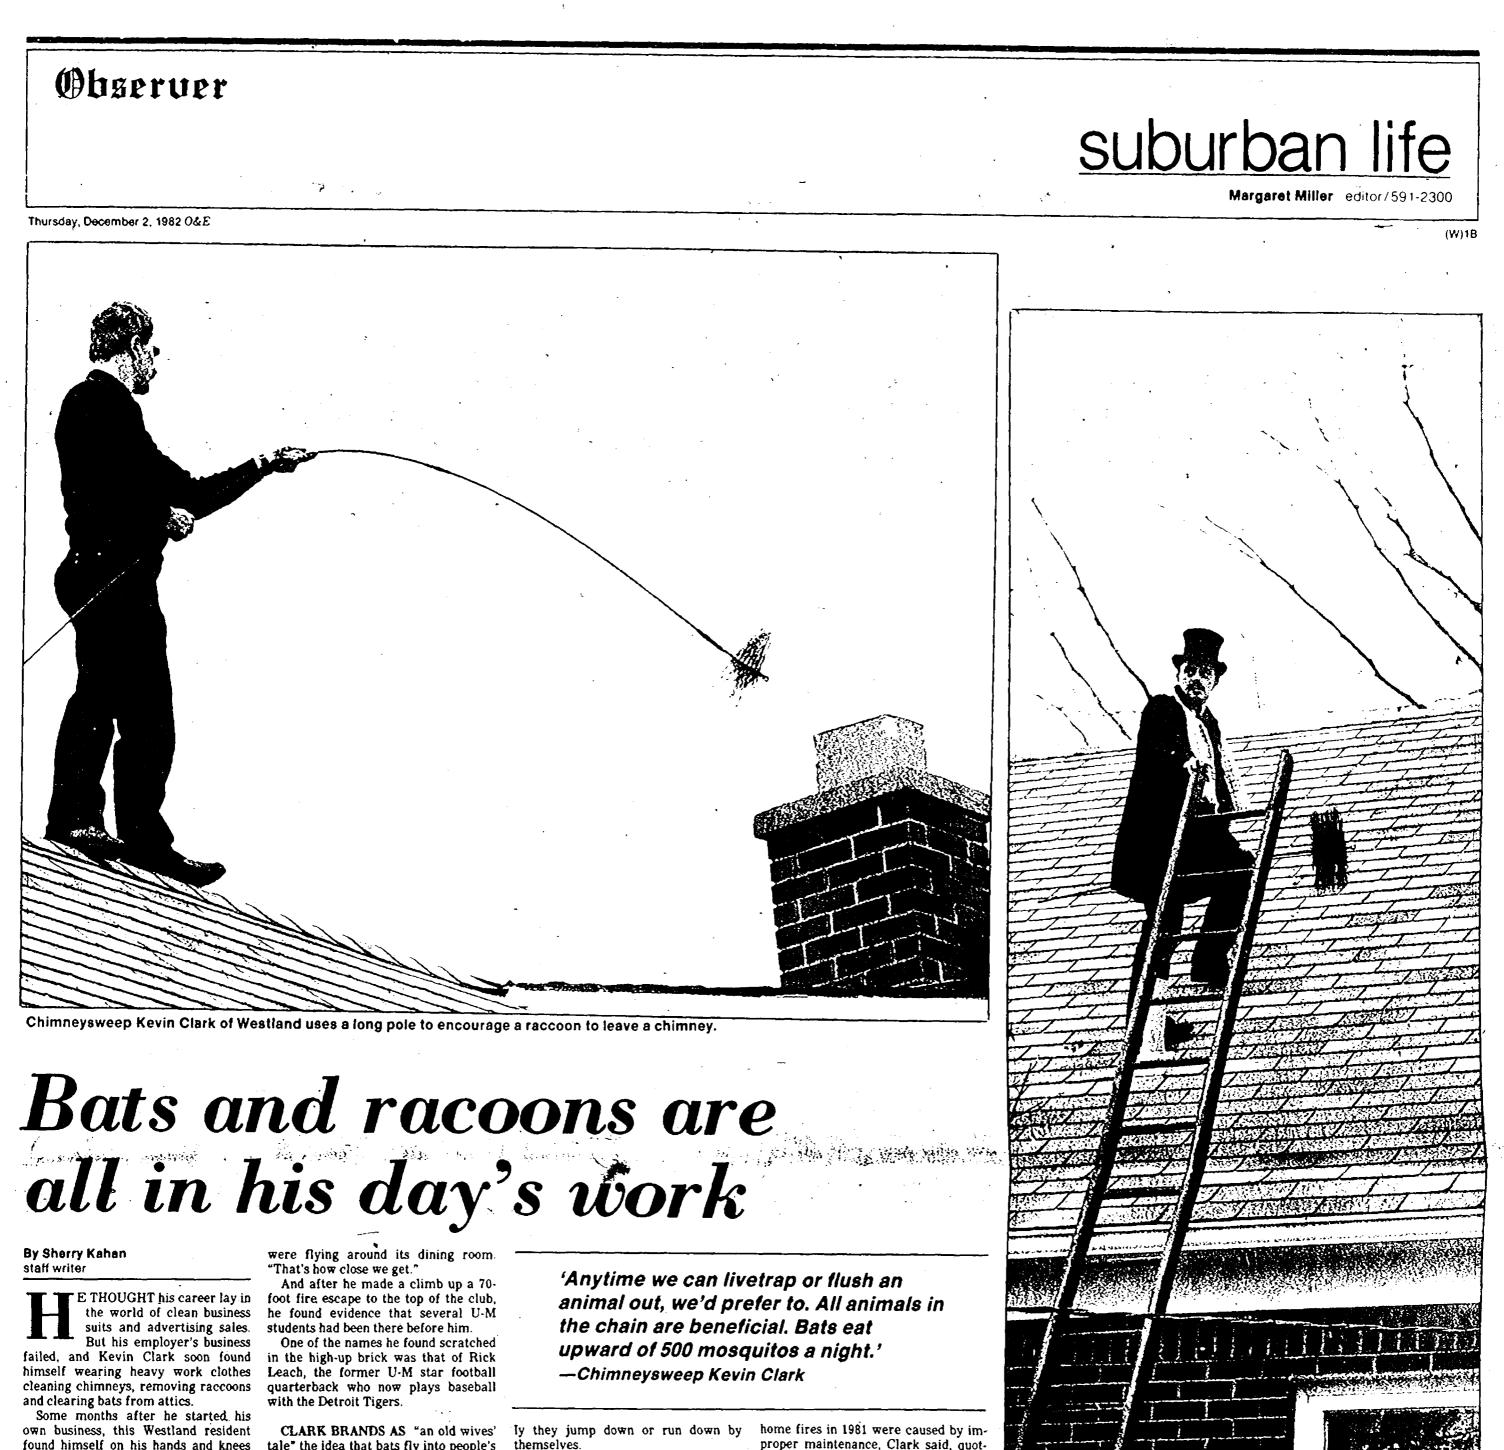

"We recognize that this salary imbalance cannot be redressed in one year. The funds requested in this document are meant to be the first step," he said. The final $420,000 of the operating request is scheduled for meeting utility rate increases and general, non-salary inflationary costs.

found himself on his hands and knees crawling around a hot summer attic in thick protective clothing and gloves. He was looking for bat droppings which, like pigeon droppings, can carry disease. He was there to seal up the entry way for the flying rodents. "Most of the time I don't see the bats," said Clark. "But I hear them. They have a high-pitched squeal. A bat can squeeze through a hole smaller than a dime.

"They have only one central bone from head to tail. Everything else is flexible cartilege which can be squeezed through small openings. It is incredible how small a space rodents like bats and mice can go through."

SINCE HE CREATED his new career a little over a year ago, Clark has had to bone-up on animal knowledge such as this. Knowing a thing or two about wildlife can help prevent injuries in his line of work.

When he turned to work as a chimney sweep, he didn't anticipate how involved with nature's creatures he would have to become. He started with equipment loaned by his father, Jack Clark, who lives in the Traverse City area and works as a sweep as a second job.

Kevin knew a thing or two about sweeping chimneys because he helped his father while he was growing up.

But raccoons sometimes nest in chimneys, and one thing had a way of leading to another. Today Clark does a lot more than sweep those chimneys. He repairs and rebuilds them, and he removes a lot of unwanted animals. He employs three people to help him.

While he was in the overheated attic, Clark was looking for a brown stain on the wall or roof. As bats squeeze through they leave a greasy substance from their skin around the hole.

"I actually had a bat fly out of a hole and brush against my hand," sald Clark, who recently rid the University of Michigan Law Club of the bats that tale" the idea that bats fly into people's hair.

"Out of dealing with about 500 bats this year, only one ever tried to dive bomb us," he said. He also knows they can see in the daylight, having watched them leave a house and fly into a nearby tree when the sun was out.

"Anytime we can live-trap or flush an animal out, we'd prefer to," Clark said. "All animals in the chain are beneficial. Bats eat upward of 500 mosquitoes a night."

He said that when he brings out baby raccoons from attics, he places them in a box on the chimney.

"Everytime we've done it the mother has come back for them," he said.

Clark, who gets referrals from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources as well as the Southfield police and South Oakland Animal Control, said he has found more bats in Plymouth and Novi than in other areas. He thinks that is because those two communities are closer to the countryside.

"Raccoons are especially prevalent in Farmington Hills, Birmingham and West Bloomfield," he said.

"They tend to stay near creeks because they like to eat frogs."

The raccoon remover smashed a few illusions about those supposedly clean animals, which always wash their apples in a stream.

"Raccoons are extremely dirty and rabid," he said. "They foul their own nest. A lot of their germs come from digging in garbage cans."

To counter this Clark suggested that homeowners pour a cup of ammonia in the bag before fastening it.

"RACCOONS ARE extremely fierce when cornered. They will even tear up large dogs unless the dog is specifically trained to fight raccoons," he said.

"I don't corner them. Sometimes I sneak up and try to push them off the roof so I can screen the chimney. Most-

"I've heard tell they can jump 50 feet and hit the ground running. They are extremely tough animals. I had only one stand up and challenge me. He stood up on his hind legs and snarled. After about 15 seconds he turned and jumped."

Raccoons can crawl through a space the size of a hot dog bun. "Their fur "makes them look bigger than they are," said Clark. "The record raccoon was about 62 pounds."

Clark's wife Linda, joining in the talk of chasing bats, raccoons and occasionally skunks, said she was very nervous at first about the fact that her husband's work took him to rooftops, the insides of chimneys and to close encounters with animals.

"But after six or seven months when he had no accidents, I stopped worrying," she said. She still has an occasional moment of panic when circumstances have kept him from calling in on schedule.

AS A CHIMNEY SWEEP Clark's, most important tool is his respirator, which filters out the soot that would otherwise clog his lungs.

Also essential to his business is his costume, elegant top hat and tails. The clothes keep a tradition dating back to the last century.

"In the old days chimney sweeps didn't have much self-esteem," said their modern-day counterpart.

"They decided to copy the outfit the funeral directors wore. In effect they were saying 'you look down-on us so we'll come to your house in top hat and tails."

Clark points to state statistics that support the importance of cleaning chimneys, particularly the removal of creosote, an unburned gas that condenses as a shiny black deposit.

"Deposits build up and when they receive a spark they catch on fire," he satd.

Seventy-three percent of Michigan's proper maintenance, Clark said, quoting statistics from the State Police Fire Marshal division. The damage of these fires was listed at $11.5 million, up from $8,345,000 from the previous Clark's Chimney Service can be reached at 595-3065.

In top hat and tails, Clark gets set for a cleanup job that may involve animals as well as creosole.

Clark learned the chimney sweeping business from his father, and now he's passing on some tips to his son Nicholas.

Vanderburg-Leonard

Suzanne Marie Leonard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Leonard of Livonia, became the bride of Kevin Walter Vanderburg in a ceremony in St. Aidan Catholic Church with the Rev. Alex Brunett officiating.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Vanderburg, also of Livonia.

The bride wore a princess style chiffon and lace gown with accents of seed pearls. Pearls also trimmed the juliet cap that held her waist-length illusion veil, and she carried a cascade of fern, ivy, white sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Michele Weber was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Karen Smeveck, Marlene Goldstein, Gina Ross, Diahanne Crilly and Katle Bowby.

They wore blue taffeta dresses with off-the-shoulder necklines and carried bouquets of bown fern, white carnations, wheat and baby's breath.

Assisting the bridegroom were Tim Crilly as best man and groomsmen Ron Curl, Bob Stanley, Bob Gardner, David Dancha, Pete Gerbenski and Richard Leonard.

The couple received 300 guests at a reception at Corsi's Hall and went to the Pocono Mountains for their honeymoon. They are living in Livonia.

Fuller-Kotchevar

St. Bernardine of Siena Catholic Church of Westland was the setting for the wedding of Jean Louise Kotchevar and Scott Michael Fuller.

The bride is the daughter of Albin and Rose Kotchevar of Sandra Lane, Westland. Leo and Melina Fuller of Olson Street, Livonia, are the bridegroom's parents.

The Rev. Richard McGarry officiated, and a reception was held after the ceremony in Mitch Housey's Compton Village Motor Inn.

The bride wore a white empire gown with sheer bishop sleeves and lace bodice. A matching lace headpiece held her veil, and she carried pink and white long-stemmed roses with baby's breath.

Rose Ann McHugh, matron of honor for her sister, and bridesmaids Christine Blocher, Linda Burniac and Laura Fuller, wore full-skirted dresses in primrose pink with lace bodices. They carried pink roses, three for the honor attendant and one each for the bridesmaids.

Assisting the bridegroom were Richard Wieczorek as best man and Michael McHugh, Don Burniac and Don Pare as ushers.

After an Orlando honeymoon, the couple will live in Livonia. The bride graduated from Ladywood High School and Central Michigan University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Franklin High School. Both are mployed by the Livonia school district.

Completed dental service

I'm parting company this month with a gentleman I've known most of my life.

....

He's the one who knows part of me better than anyone else - he's my dentist, and for close to 50 years he has been keeping in good repair a set of choppers that never did amount to much.

My brother and I met Dr. Thomas Thompson when we were small youngsters and he was fresh from dental school. He located in an office not far from our home, and our parents decided that taking us to him beat trekking downtown to their dentist. Thus began a long relationship.

WE'VE DONE some reminiscing during my recent checkups. One of the incidents he remembers best from the early days of his practice was the time my brother, then about 4, needed a couple of baby teeth yanked. My mother amazed the young dentist by offering to hold the gas mask while he did the job.

Over the years we have kept up with each other's lives between probings, drillings and spittings.

While I was growing up and going to high school and camp and college, I heard about the childhood exploits of his two daughters.

Later we talked about his daughters' schooling and marriages and my four daughters arriving on the scene.

And our conversations have still gone on as my kids reached adulthood and college and marriage.

Dr. Thompson also was on hand at the funeral home when my mother died, and he never fails to inquire about my father and step-mother, also his patients for a bunch of years.

And recently we've been comparing notes on retirement plans. Now working part-time, he's winding up his practice because his doctor has warned him an ailing hip won't take the constant standing a dentist must do.

ON MY LATEST visit to the office he's been sharing with another dentist, Thompson hauled out some of his old records. The date was 1936, and we both think we go back farther than that. But this ruled sheet was interesting. There was my long-ago self, complete with the telephone number I had been trying to remember. Northlawn 1139.

Dr. Thompson has been putting fillings on my fillings for years now, and on this final fixing up he replaced a gold inlay that had become loose.

When he set it in, it fit perfectly. No need for any grinding down to make the bite just right.

I commented on that fact as I thanked him for half a century of fine work. His answer was characteristic.

"Too bad we have to quit," he said, "just when I'm starting to get good."

Not all forest fires are bad. Sopme are a decessary part of the natural process that prunes and cleans the forest periodically. In some areas, a lack of forest fires - the result of effective fire prevention programs - has actually inhibited the natural reseeding of certain pine trees whose seed cones need the heat of the fires to spring open, National Geographic reports.

Connecticut villages

Find history and tradition in quiet settings

If you like to start thinking ahead about vacations, why not think about the possibility of a motor trip through the rolling hills and peaceful countryside and villages of Connecticut.

A state rich in history and tradition, Connecticut boasts a number of familiar attractions and some not so well-known.

Consider three villages in the northeastern part of the state near the Massachusetts and Rhode Island borders - Woodstock, Pomfret and Brooklyn.

They lie along a 12-mile stretch of road and all three still boast architectural monuments from the days when the first settlers arrived.

The 1771 Malbone Episcopal Church in Brooklyn, for example, is an astonishingly wellpreserved survivor from the Colonial period.

INSPIRATION wasn't lacking when Louis Comfort Tiffany designed stained glass windows for another Episcopal church in Brooklyn. The windows of Trinity Church glow like amethysts and opals in the morning light, the result of a secret method of glassmaking that Tiffany originated and one, unfortunately, which died with him.

The famed designer's family lived in the area for over two centuries and his father, before establishing the prestigious Tiffany's jewelry store in New York, was a prominent mill owner

Textile mills played an important role in the life of the village during the middle and late 19th century. With millhands flocking to Brooklyn, housing had to be found for new arrivals. The mills themselves provided apartment-like enclaves for their workers. A recently restored example of one of these is Quebec Square in East Brooklyn. The comfortable one-and-a-halfstory brick and marble building attests to the still line the back roads. fine craftmanship of the Yankee stonemasons and proves that all 19th century workers did not live in squalor.

Vanderbilts and Astors, whose cottages rose on the dunes of Newport, Rhode Island, 25 years later.

LOCKWOOD HIRED a small army to build the mansion - American and European architects, painters and decoraters, stonecutters and woodcarvers brought from Italy and housed on the property. Stonecutters received $1 a day, woodcarvers, 50 cents.

The most extravagant materials were used - inlaid woods and marbles decorated almost every surface; frescoes glowed on walls and ceilings; nymphs, satyrs and cupids cavorted on newel posts and mantel pieces.

When completed in 1868 at a cost of nearly $2,000,009, the mansion also boasted such modern amenities as a hot air furnace, hot and cold running water and 14 full baths.

A chidren's theater was tucked away under the eaves while in the basement a wine cellar and two bowling alleys nestled under vaulted ceilngs.

To keep the mansion in operation, Lockwood had 20 house sevants, 40 gardeners and assorted coachmen, grooms and stableboys.

In 1832, the New York Sun said, "It is, perhaps, the most perfect and most elegant mansion in America.'

Incredibly, less than 90 years later, this pararazed. After the death of the last owner, the town of Norwalk purchased the property. For years the first-floor high-ceilinged rooms, the cupolas and lavish rooms capture the craftsmanship and exuberance of a bygone era.

After his death in 1872, his widow advertised the mansion for sale and it was eventually sold to a Charles Mathews whose family retained ownership until 1938.

One of the recently completed restorations is th sunny conservatory off the paneled library. Light filters through panes of glass etched with pale blue fleurs-de-lis and masses of bright blossoms seem to mirror the cerulean, rose and gold frescoed ceiling of the adjoining room. Two floor of the structure are open to the public and last year more than 10,000 visitors toured the spacious rooms.

Sumatra has wealth of wonders

National Geographic-Society

Tigers, elephants, leopards, rhinos, and orangutans live in the vast rain forest of Sumatra. So does the world's largest flower - the 36-inch-wide rafflesia which can be detected by its scent more than 75 feet away. It smells like a dead rat.

Sumatra has the largest oil and gas fields in Southeast Asia and is a barely tapped storehouse of gold, copper, tin, bauxite, coal, quartz, molybdenum and other minerals.

It produces 23 percent of the world's rubber, 10 percent of its tin, and vast quantities of coffee, tea, pepper, palm oil and sisal.

THE WESTERNMOST of Indonesia's 3,000 habitable is lands, Sumatra is about the size of California. Its improbable natural phenomena include 29 volcanoes, 13 of them active, as well as a 1,000-mile-long tidal swamp and mountain range.

When the volcanic isle of Krakatoa blew itself to bits in 1883, the explosion was 18 times more violent than the May 1980 eruption of Mount St. Helens. The resulting tsunami, or sea wave, killed 36,000 people in Sumatra and Java.

Since 1927 a smoldering black cone has emerged where Krakatoa once stood in the Sunda Strait at Sumatra's southern tip. Sumatrans call it Anak Krakatau, "son of Krakatoa."

Besides volcanic ash, more than 100 inches of rain falls on Sumatra yearly. Harvey Arden, who travelled the island from its southern tip near Java to its northernmost point, Banda Aceh, reports: "In the rainy season . . . the skies flush down such torrents that the roads dissolve. Mudholes ingest vehicles up to the headlights."

In north central Sumatra, Arden stopped at Lake Toba, carved out by an ancient volcano. In the center of Toba lies Samosir, an island within an island and home to the Toba Bataks. Bataks live in ancestral houses - sometimes eight families to a dwelling under thatch roofs topped with decorated saddleshaped peaks.

Formerly cannibals, they are peaceful, industrious and lovers of music. Christianized by German Lutherans in the 1860s, Bataks are a minority in an 80 percent Moslem population.

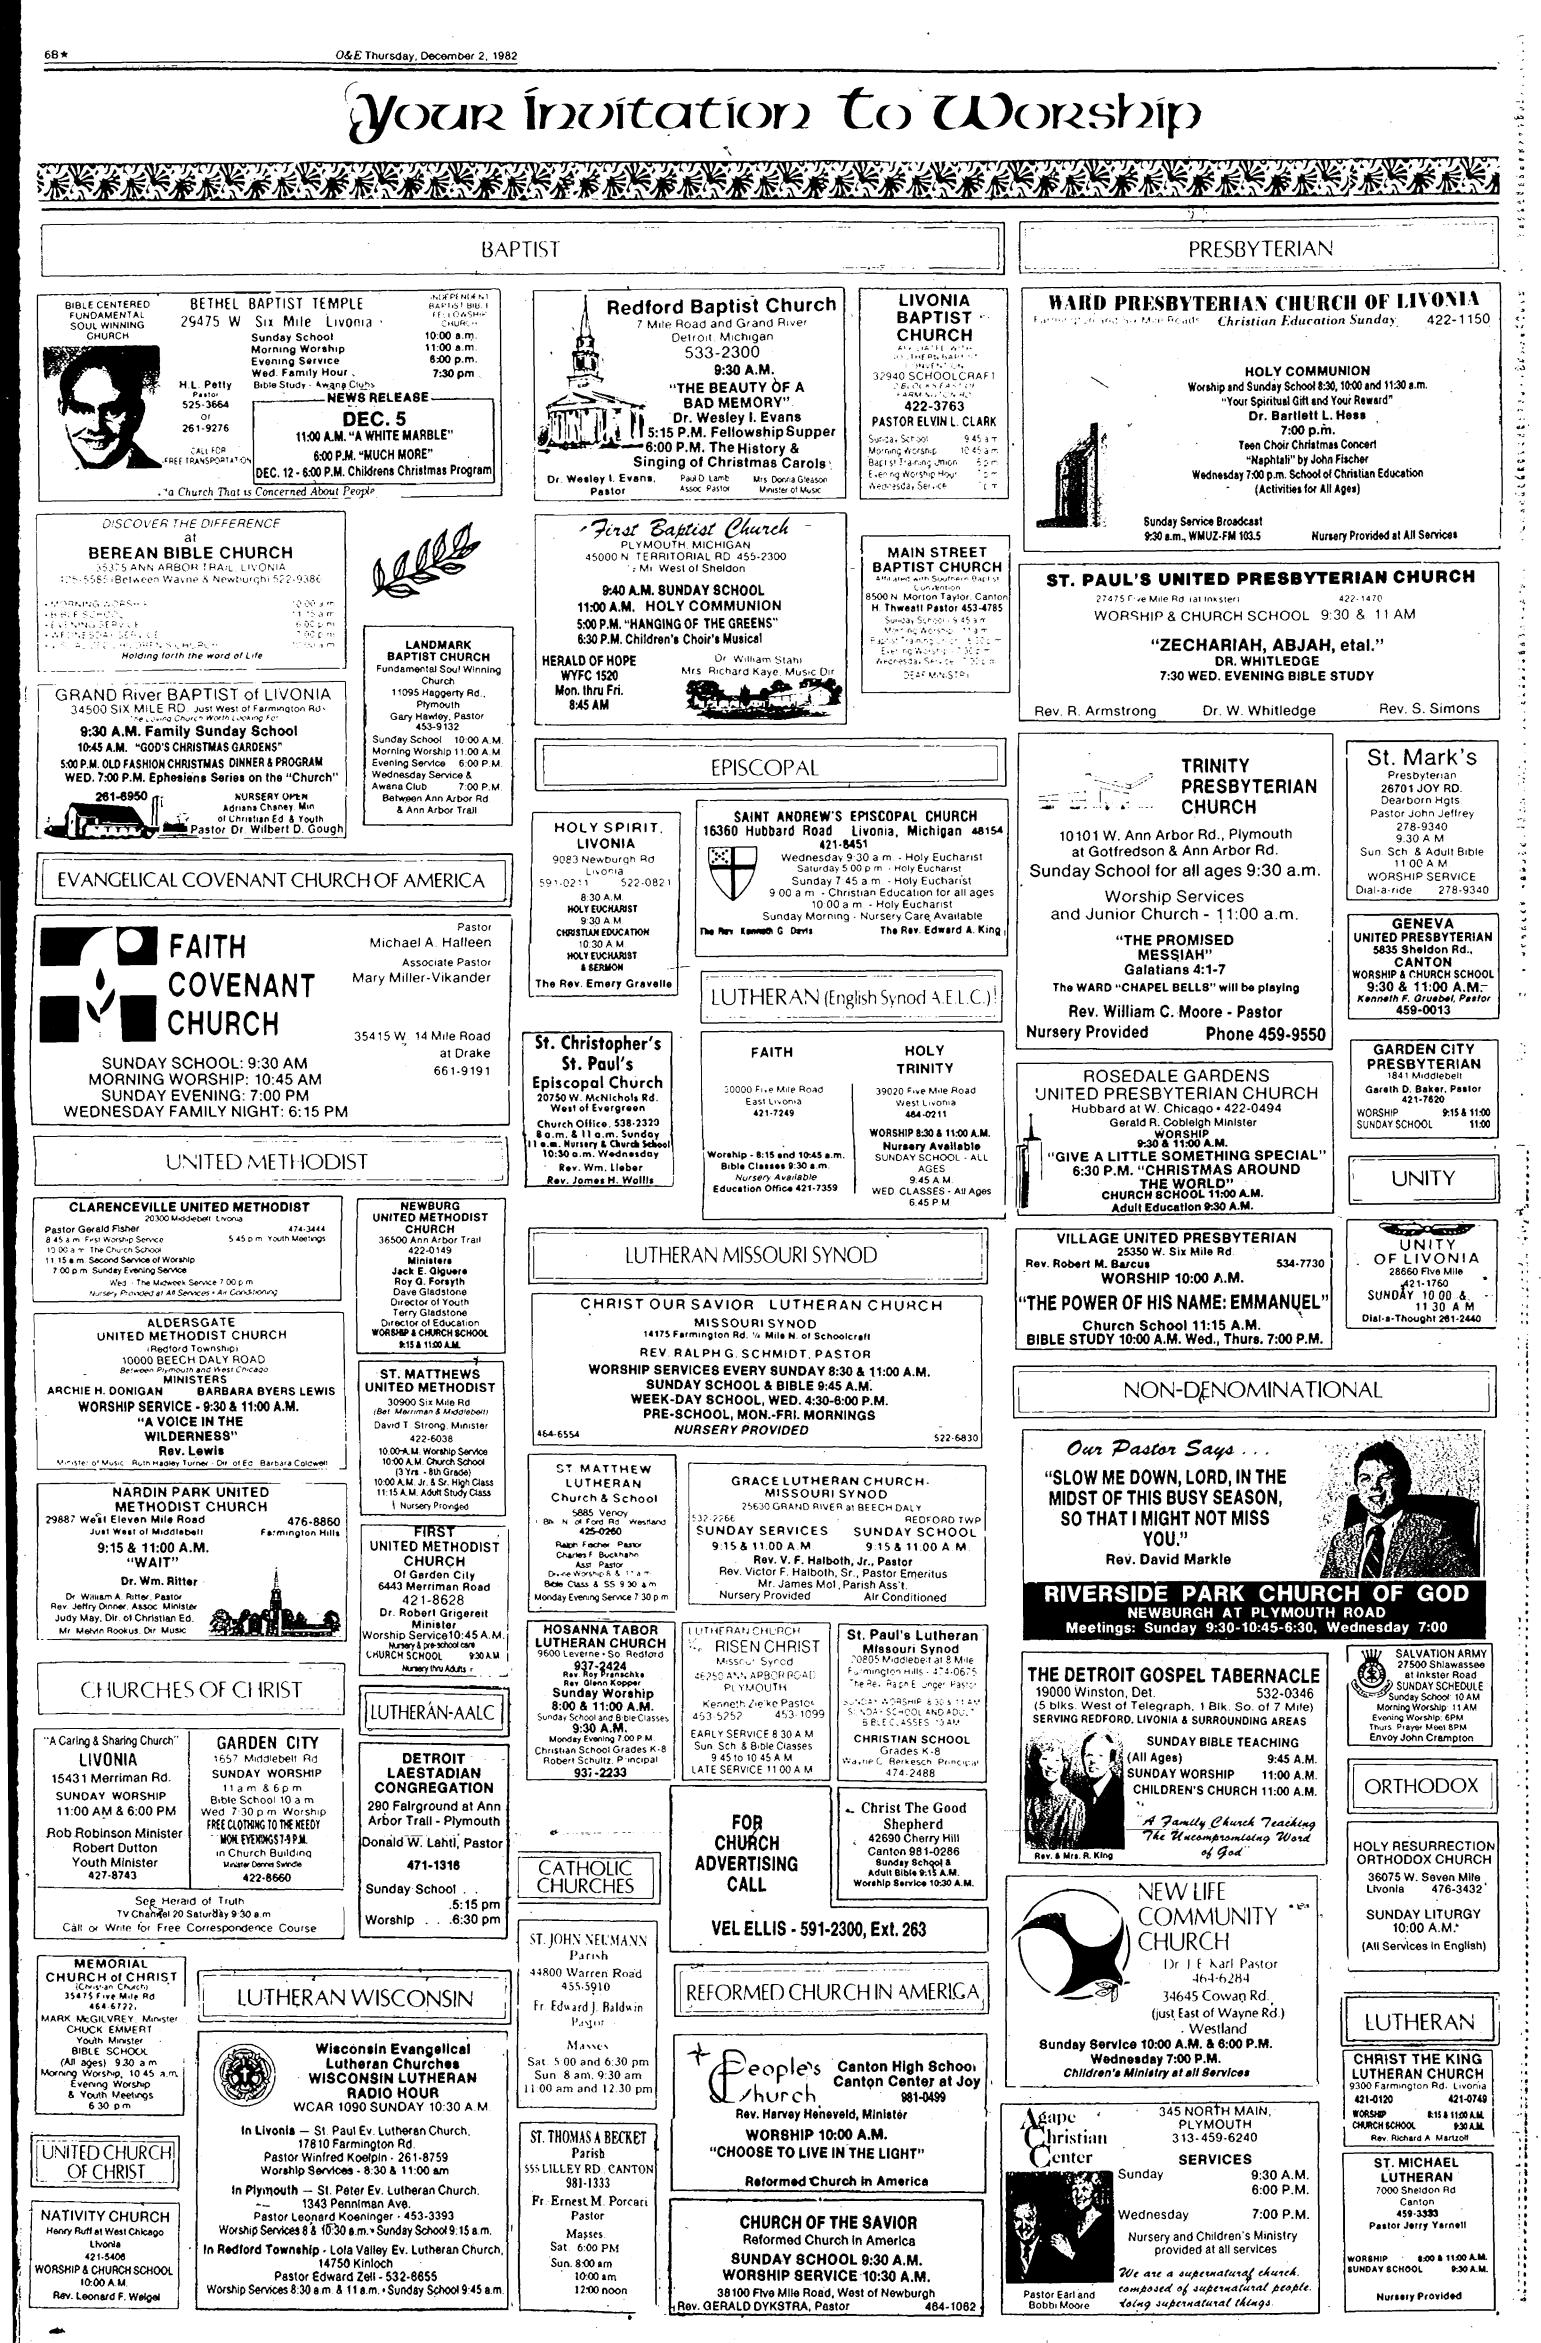

To Moslems, however, "the Christian Bataks are still notorious," the author reports. "Though they've given up eating human flesh, they still eat pigs and dogs."

THE MOST zealously Moslem part of Indonesia lies futher north in Aceh. The few Westerners who visit Aceh are cautioned to respect local customs.

During the liturgy the children decorate a tree named to honor the family of Jesse, Jesus's forebear.

They have been making in their church school classrooms the ornaments they will place on the tree. These include representations of the sun, the tablets of the law, the key and the star of David, a flower for the root of Jesse, Jacob's ladder and Bethlehem.

AFTER THE liturgy and the tree triming, there will be a potluck dinner and then St. Nicholas - the saint whose gift-giving habits made him the original model for the western world's Santa Claus - will make his appearance.

Eli Drakage of Livonia, a member of the Sacred Heart congregation, has taken the role before and will again this year. Wearing a robe fashioned to look like the one pictured on the St. Nicholas image displayed at the front of the church, he will accept gifts for needy families that have been brought wrapped and placed under the tree.

Then he will distribute lollipops and candy to the children.

"The tradition is that St. Nicholas visits the children with gifts," said Chelena. "We reverse that, because in times of need we must be the hands of

The dinner, he added, is to be meatless in keeping with the Advent fast which is practiced in varying ways by families in the congregation.

THE CELEBRATION is a whole parish adaptation of a Christmas Eve tradition in the Byzantine church. That is when St. Nicholas visits homes with gifts for the children, and he comes after a special family meal.

The meal in the church and on Christmas Eve in the homes of members will feature candles and straw on the tables and the serving of three symbolic foods, bread, honey and garlic.

"The straw is for Jesus' humble beginnings and the candle for the light he brought to the world," said the priest. "The piece of bread symbolizes Christ, the bread of life, and the honey and garlic represent the bitter and the sweet of life."

• CHRIST OUR SAVIOR LU-THERAN

The Rev. Hannibal Frederich of Bridgeton, Mo., will play the role of Martin Luther during the family-education-and-fellowship ministry at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4, in Christ Our Savior Lutheran Church, 14175 Farmington Road, Livonia. Dressed in clothing of the 16th century, the era when Luther lived, Frederich will give insight into the person of the great reformer. His presentation is drawn from Luther's published works and done in the style of Hal Holbrook.

A graduate of the Concordia Theological Seminary in St. Louis, Frederich does portrayals of other Biblical and historical personages such as Paul the Apostle, Isaiah, Mark Twain, Gen. George Patton and Winston Churchill.

A movie called "The City That Forgot About Christmas," will be presented to children, who can also do crafts and sing during the family-education ministry.

vent and the Christmas season is planned 4-6 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 5 in Rice Memorial United Methodist Church, 20601 Beech Daly at Eight Mile, Redford. It will feature the adult chorus and the children's ensemble and will include decorating the sanctuary and the Chrismon tree.

Chrismons are Christmas tree decorations based on early Greek and Latin Christian symbols and current interdenominational ones. These include crosses, fish, chalice and communion cups. They are made only in white and gold.

For the ceremony the Sunday school children will decorate the tree and windows, and Christmas carols will be sung. The Christmas tree will be in place with many lights, as yet unlit. The communion rail is draped with its roping only, awaiting the final decorating by small Sunday-school children.

The narthex has long tables with Chrismons and other items that will be silently and reverently hung on the tree by women. The large wreaths for the walls are heavy and need to be raisd by two men.

During the program the use of Chrismons during the ages is told. Then the Christmas tree lights are turned on. The Claudia Circle of the United Methodist Women will sponsor a luncheon in the church from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 8. A ticket costs $3.50, with proceeds going to missions.

• ST. PAUL PRESBYTERIAN

David Bouer will discuss his visit to refugee camps in Thailand and Cambodia during the Sunday Morning Forum at 11 a.m. in St. Paul Presbyterian Church, 27475 Five Mile, Livonia. He will show slides.

The annual Women's Communion Advent Service taking place at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec.7, will feature a dramatic presentation of "Mary's Dream."

• ROSEDALE GARDENS UNITED PRESBYTERIAN

Christmas Around the World, an evening of sharing Christmas traditions of different countries, is planned at 6:30 p.m. Sunday in Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian Church, Hubbard and W. Chicago, Livonia. The program will include decorating cookies, making reindeer, singing of carols and ringing handbells.

• ST. AIDAN CATHOLIC

The Bel Canto Ensemble will present an evening of sacred music at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 3, in St. Aidan Catholic Church, 17500 Farmington, Livonia. It will be followed by a wine-and-cheese reception. Donation will be $6.

LANDMARK BAPTIST

The Martin Family Singers and the Templetons will perform at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 4 in Landmark Baptist Church, 11095 Haggerty, Plymouth.

Whose needs are filled by holiday giving?

Life offers a number of overwhelming issues which tax our moral sense. Taken together they can easily distract us from less emotionally charged issues deserving of our attention.

Questions surrounding the debates on nuclear arms, on abortion and on various forms of discrimination often overshadow other very basic human concerns. The holiday season once again serves up these seemingly lesser concerns for our consideration

This is the time of the year when soup lines are publicized and food baskets are delivered. Pleas for donations are heard at the entrances to department stores. Groups of people go looking for convalescent homes where they might entertain the residents. And even Christmas toys rise an item or two for consideration.

'Pleas for assistance can challenge our moral sense. In theory we may believe in helping the poor. But in practice the pleas in their behalf may be annoying. As busy people rush to complete our shopping, finding a parking place has already tried our patience and we are asked to stop. Someone wants us to donate for folks who do not have a car to park and who have less heat in their houses than we have in our driving machines.

They are people whose major concern is dinner for their children. Because we are a people with a moral sense, we can ignore our rush, overcome our annoyance and respond to the needs. We may not even wait to be asked.

ONE MIGHT WONDER, though, just whose needs are being met as we go looking for a cause to help us complete our oligations. The hungry of December had little to eat in October, and there is no reason to count on February being much better.

Those whose need is such a major concern in this time of holiday cheer are often left to their own meager resources for the rest of winter.

Feeding the hungry was never meant to be a seasonal imperative. Nor was it intended to be left to the professionals and the Mother Teresas of the world. It is presented as a very basic ingredient in the life of anyone who would call herself or himself moral.

Responding to the basic needs of the deprived may not be as convenient amid the slush of February or the heat of summer as it is through the programs and campaigs of holiday time. But convenience is not always an ingredient of moral response.

AMONG THE DEPRIVED are many whose stomachs may be filled but who hunger for a kind of food which is not available in supermarkets. Their need may be an interested listener, a touch, or simply a smile to let them know they are somebody. Many of them are the loners of life. They live in our own neighborhoods and sometimes our own families. Responding in the season of mistletoe comes naturally, but what are these loners of life to do when the needles have fallen off the trees.

One particular group of such loners are those whose age has thrown their usefulness into question. They will smile or sit stone-faced as the songs of season are sung in the hallway of their nursing homes. Some will say thank you if a personal greeting finds its way to their apartments of solitary confinement. But what are they to do when our need to greet them has passed?

EVEN THE TOYS of holiday fun raise an issue or two for the morally astute. Where, for example, is the consistency when we preach peace while at the same time put toys of violence into the hands of tomorrow's decision-makers?

Or what do we say to children about buying off on love when we are too busy to answer their questions or play their games but buy them a toy or three or four to take our place?

And what do, we say by making sure that they have the latest and the best because the kid next door has it?

If all of this seems a bit much for a season which is already too demanding I would offer a suggestion. Put this away in a place where you can find it in a month or so and then read it again on a blustery afternoon in January. That may be the same day that a senior citizen in your life is in need of a phone call.

Perhaps I should have waited until then to write all of this, but I too have my holiday needs.

Everyone has his favorite Bill Kennedy story. After all, the impresario of a matinee movies has been on Detroit TV since 1958, and in that time he's left an indelible impression on us all.

Bill was always the first to criticize his show's selection of movies when an afternoon's feature deserved downgrading. And he frequently provided fascinating background on the day's drama, cast and crew.

But Bill, who's giving up the daily TV grind in favor of a once-a-week broadcast from his retirement home in West Palm Beach, Fla., starting Sunday, will be best remembered for his questionand-answer sessions.

There must have been times when he wanted to slam that 'phone down on callers who inquired about the love lives of "The Six Million Dollar Man" or "Starsky and Hutch," but Bill always persevered, kept his cool and answered the most ludicrous questions to the best of his ability. That's where he often got into trouble, though.

There was the time, for instance. that he identified the host of the game

Heaven help John Glenn! Mercy rolls past Rockets

By Jim DuFresne staff writer

They are almost divine. In fact, Farmington's Our Lady Of Mercy girls' basketball team did everything so well on the Plymouth Canton court Tuesday, you'd have a hard time covincing Westland John Glenn that they didn't receive a helping hand from above.

Only during the first two minutes of the regional semi-finals were the Rockets in the game. The other 30 minutes belonged to the Marlins who made believers out of their opponents with a convincing 61-33 win.

"Everything they did hurt us," said John Glenn coach George Sommerman, whose team wrapped up the year with a 13-9 record. "They are a devastating basketball team. I hope they go all the way.

THE WAY they looked against Sommerman's team, they definitely have a chance. Mercy used a press, a full-court press that worked so well they could have made wine, to befuddle the Rocket's offense. Then they used a lot of inside scoring with a sprinkle of outside shots to build their lopsided lead.

"We didn't know that much about John Glenn," said Marlin coach Larry Baker. "So we decided to throw our best stuff at them and see how they do man scored the opening field goal for the Rockets only seconds after the tipoff and they held the 2-0 lead for two minutes. Then Mercy's deadly press took effect. It squeezed the life out of the Westland squad and at one point the Marlins capitalized on two quick turnovers for a 8-2 lead.

John Glenn had trouble moving the ball past midcourt and as a result didn't score another field goal until 2:16 was left in the half. The Marlins, meanwhile, unleashed their second weapon - Mary Rosowski.

THE SOPHOMORE was sensational inside the key. Her second field goal came with a second left in the first quarter and gave Mercy a 13-5 lead. In the next two minutes of the second quarter she managed three more baskets to hand her teammates a 23-7 advantage and, for all practical purposes, the game.

"I don't think Mary has had a better game," said Baker, "She was on some kind of basketball high, that's for sure. After tonight, I told her we were going Not too well, thank you. Darla Berg- to lock her up in the lockerroom and

About the only area in which John Glenn excelled was at the free throw line. Mercy missed its first six charity shots and managed only four out of 12 in the first half. The Rockets hit seven of 11 and ended the half down 35-13.

Although John Glenn scored 10 points in each of the last two quarters it was of little importance as the Marlins kept their lead and threatened to turn it into a 30-point rout.

With 4:25 left to play, Mercy went up 56-25 on a basket by Lois Kaminski and kept the 30-point advantage until the final minute of the game when Michele McCullen's 15-foot shot cut the final margin to 28.

"I'M NOT disappointed at all, we had a good season," said Sommerman, whose squad started the year off with a 1-4 record. "We were just proud to make it to the regionals.

McCullen was the only player to reach double figures for John Glenn with 12 points. The next highest scorer, Colleen Reilly, had six. Mercy, which is now 20-1, was paced by Rosowski's 17 while Sarah Basford, Amy DeMattia and Kathy Kirwan each scored eight.

SCC spikers wrap up best finish

By Ken Voyles special writer

The Schoolcraft spikers capped their finest season ever by reaching the finals of the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) Women's Volleyball Championships Saturday at Catonsville Community College near Baltimore, Md.

The Ocelots were defeated for the championship in a best-of-five match by Scottsdale (Ariz.) Community College, 15-10, 15-3, 16-14. With the win, the Artichokes emerged from the three-day, 16-team tournament as repeating NJCAA champions.

But SCC emerged with its best season ever. Karen Kelley, a Livonia Stevenson graduate, was named best hitter of the national tournament and earned a berth on the all-tournament first team.

TWO OTHER SCC players were honored at the championships. Chris Stellberger, the team's finest blocker and a graduate of Livonia Clarenceville, was selected to the first team while setter Miki Truchan was named to the all-tournament second team. Truchan is a graduate of Livonia Bentley.

"We accomplished everything we set out to do," said Ocelot head coach Mike O'Toole, who has guided Schoolcraft to four straight nationals. "We wanted to win the regionals and finish in the top three teams to bring home a trophy.

"This feels great. This is the best year ever for Schoolcraft volleyball."

Rrrring- say hello to fame, John

The price of fame: your telephone rings often and at odd hours.

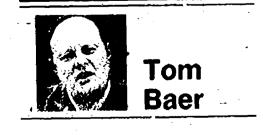

John Herrington, that famous Farmington football coach, was paying that price Monday night - and loving every minute of 1E -

When asked (perhaps for the 50th time) how he was celebrating the big event -Harrison High winning the Michigan Class A football championship with a thrilling 17-14 double overtime victory over Dearborn Fordson in the Pontiac Silverdome last Saturday - Herrington laughed and said:

"I've been on the phone every 10 minutes. so I haven't had time. People I knew in college have been calling, people I haven't seen in years, old friends and different coaches.

"People called and said, 'I was gonna call you last year and didn't, so I made sure I called this year.' It's just been great."

Those people who neglected to call last year were probably just waiting to see if you were for real, John. Last year, all your Hawks did was win the Class B title.

But Saturday's double OT affair, won by Dave Blackmer's 24-yard field goal, really got the ink and the voice. People were saying it was the most exciting game ever in the brief history of Michigan playoff football.

People were saying a lot of things after that game, things like what a great runner sophomore tailback John Miller is - and will be for the next two years - and how underrated is senior quarterback Ken Kish. who completed 15 passes for more than 208 yards against Fordson.

MILLER, LANKY (6-foot-2), large (180 pounds) and young (16), has been described as a boy in a man's body.

"He simply has great athletic ability," Herrington said. "He plays basketball and he'll be one of my best baseball players. Plus he has that mental toughness. It's really unusual to find all that in a young kid.*

"The person he (Miller) reminds me most of is Bruce Ruhl when he played over at Southfield-Lathrup."

Herrington has called Kish, a senior, "the best quarterback I've ever had - and I've had some great ones."

Blackmer, a senior who sparkles on offense and defense in addition to kicking 47yard field goals, is being courted by many colleges, but seems to be leaning toward the University of Michigan.

Recently, Blackmer learned that he had been included on the "All-American" team picked by U.S.A. Today, a new national daily newspaper.

Late goal lifts Shamrocks

A backhanded goal by Joe Hamway with 2:15 remaining in the third period lifted Detroit Catholic Central to a 4-3 come-frombehind win over Detroit Country Day Saturday at the Southfield Civic Center.

The Yellowjackets jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first period when junior defense Todd Moilanen scored on a powerplay with assists from Jim Van Antwerp and John Collins. Country Day then added its second goal when sophomore center Craig Yaucher slapped it in with Van Antwerp earning his second assist.

Football spectrum: from pros to preps. It was Thanksgiving night.

We were driving from my wife's parents' house after a day full of stuffing, mashed potatos, turkey and gravy, not to mention the always-filling pumpkin pie.

While driving eastbound on I-696, my wife, Marge, and I were digesting our food by listening to a rebroadcast of that memorable 1962 Thanksgiving Day football game between the Detroit Lions and Green Bay Packers.

The broadcasters that day at Tiger Stadium were Bob Reynolds and none other than the present Lions General Manager, Russ Thomas.

It seemed strange to hear about plays being executed by polished stars like Alex Karras, Milt Plum, Terry Barr, Joe Schmidt and Roger Brown of the Lions, and Bart Starr, Ron Kramer, Paul Hornung, Max McGee and Ray Nitschke of the Packers. But, there they were, intercepting passes and scoring touchdowns at that very moment while we passed under the Van Dyke overpass.

It was almost haunting - kind of like a football "Twilight Zone."

The Lions won, 26-14. It was the Pack's only loss that year in 14 games, and, under legendary Vince Lombardi, Green Bay went on to win the National Football League title.

It was a peculiar feeling listening to that game. Only a few days earlier, my wife and I were fortunate enough to attend the annual Detroit Country Day banquet honoring none other than former Lion receiver Terry Barr.

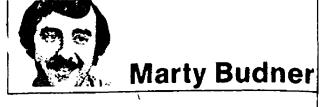

Barr, a founder of the very active Country Day Blue and Gold Club, was talking about life in professional football during his playing days.

He talked of loyalty, teamwork and dedication ingredients, he said, that are missing among today's players. Barr said it was a "traumatic" experience to leave a certain club while today's players are constantly on the move seeking more money.

Barr, a University of Michigan graduate, has three sons. Terry, 14, attends Country Day, while Alan and Brian graduated from Country Day.

They were all in attendance at the banquet, and you could sense Barr's post-meal statements were directed towards his youngsters and all other young people in the crowd.

That's why, listening to the rebroadcast of that classic game, I seemed to appreciate Barr and his teammates' efforts even more. It was a time when the players' enthusiasm genuinely seemed to supersede money

My, how times have changed.

HILLSDALE IN PLAYOFFS: Hillsdale College may be the state's most unnoticed football team.

The Chargers have qualified for the playoffs for the second straight year. They will play their opening post-season game 1 p.m. Saturday, hosting Carson-Newman College of Jefferson City, Tenn. in the first round of the NAIA national championships.

Hillsdale is 11-0 this season and ranked No. 1 by the NAIA, while the Fighting Eagles of Carson-Newman are 10-1 and ranked No. 3.

Carson-Newman's only other playoff appearance was in 1972 where it lost in the championship game to East Texas by three points, 21-18.

A number of players from the Observer & Eccentric area won letters this year for the Hillsdale team. They are: Mike Gatt (Livonia); Jeff Hubert (Plymouth); Steve Chiodo (Birmingham); Pat Collins (North Farmington); Chris Mayone (West Bloomfield); Jerry Cifor (Livonia); Bill Eberhart (Birmingham); Colin Haffey (Birmingham); Geoff Hill (Birmingham); Bill Kendro (Birmingham); Buddy Puscas (Birmingham); and Jay Sullivan (West Bloomfield).

STATE CHAMPIONS: Farmington Harrison has gained its due share of acclaim over the past couple days.

The Hawks, who won the 1981 Class B title. moved up to A this year and won the crown with an eye-popping 17-14 double overtime win over Dearborn Fordson. Harrison won 12 straight games, including playoff wins over Bloomfield Hills Lahser and Milford Lakeland, this season without a loss

While Harrison was justly recognized, I'm not sure quarterback Ken Kish was.

Incredibly, Kish completed only four passes last year as a junior on a state championship team. In this year's title-clinching game, Kish completed 15 of 28 passes for 208 yards.

His longest was a 55-yard toss to John Miller on the final play of regulation time that was just two yards shy of a touchdown. Had Miller scored, the game would have ended dramatically in regulation time.

Kish turned out to be a true champion.

"Our fencers are very knowledgeable by the time they finish beginners (class)," said Klekner.

Advanced beginners develop their basic skills to a level refined enough so that they can enter fencing tournaments. Advanced students learn additional attacks, parries and defenses.

"OUR ADVANCED beginners have turned into a club of sorts," said Klekner. "They are more of a social group than the beginners who just want to learn."

The advance students travel to amateur tournaments occasionally and compete in the three weapons of fencing - foil, epee and sabre — while beginners only use the foil.

Bowling elders crown new champion

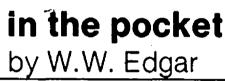

The Old Timers Annual Tournament drew 490 bowlers last Saturday at Thunderbowl, and when the last pin fell, Ermnio Bargero of Allen Park was crowned the new champion.

Bargero turned in a count of 692 and far outdistanced his closest rival. The scores didn't matter much as these elderly fellows had more fun visiting and reliving some of the great nights on the lanes.

The event, dedicated to Fred Wolf, proved to be one of the best of its kind in years.

THE CLOSEST BATTLE of the season marked the firing in the Monday's Men's League at Westland Bowl. John Hurley emerged from the heated contest with a 761, topping Jim Jesson by three pins. Hurley opened with a 258, followed with a 264 and finished with a 239.

Jesson began with a 224, added a 267 and ended with another 267. His 758 was outstanding, but not quite enough to catch Hurley for top scoring honors.

Three other 700 series were rolled at Westland and they came in the classic. Brent Murch showed the way with a 717. Rich Lang was next with a 711 and Dave Jackson wasn't far back with a 709.

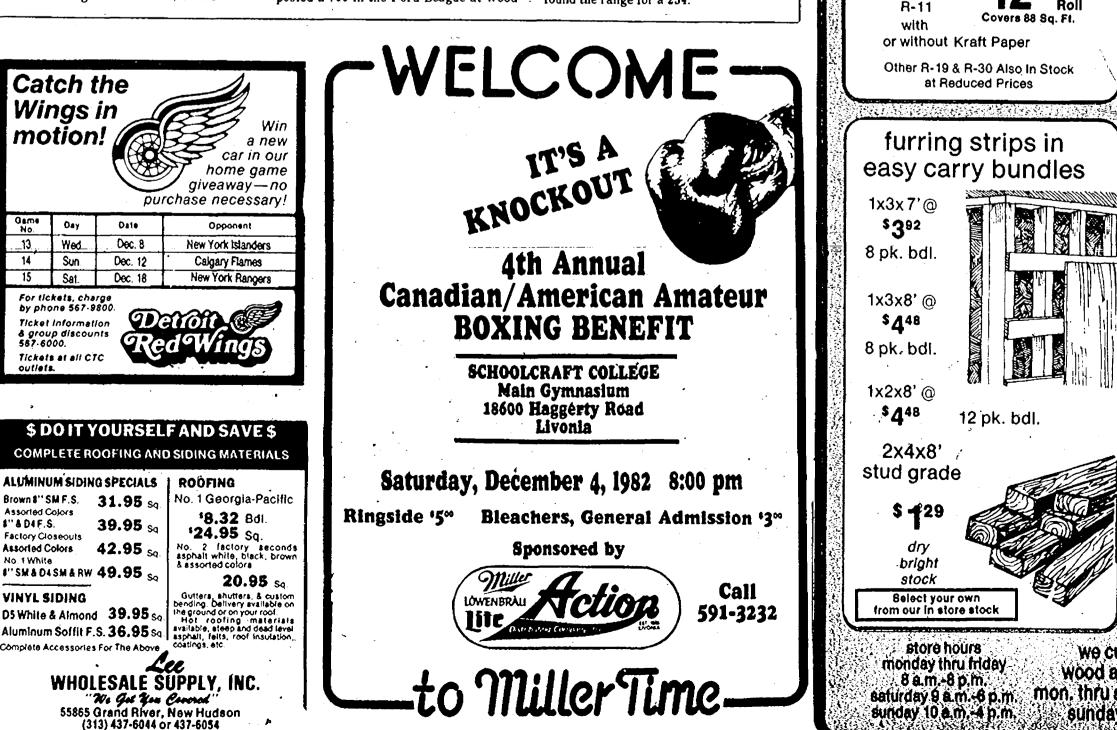

On the ladies' side, Leandra Michalak rolled a 266 in a 625 to set the pace.

TWO OTHER 700 series were bowled in the area during the week. Jim Parker posted a 700 in the Ford League at Woodland Lanes and Don Potts fired a 711 in the Bel-Aire Classic.

Among the other outstanding performances during the week was a 611 recorded by Tracy Lewis, a junior bowler at Super Bowl. Lewis started with a 200, then notched a 240. He finished with a 171 for his 611 series.

In the Men's League at Super Bowl, Bob Briggs used a 257 opener to roll a 688.

HIGH SINGLE games were the order at Garden Lanes. Jerry Lindley had a 287 and in the Senior's League, Carl Schafer found the range for a 254.

New era begins for Livonia basketball teams

Western Lakes Activites Association offers league tournament

By Jim DuFresne staff writer

It's more than just a new season for the boys' basketball teams of Livonia Bentley, Churchill and Stevenson. A whole new era is about to begin.

The three schools will say goodbye tonight to their old Suburban Eight, Inter-Lakes and Western Six conferences and embark on the first season in the reorganized Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA). 'The first league games won't take place for another week but already the enthusiasm for the new conference is bubbling over.

"It's going to be a very good conference," said Bentley coach Jeff Komula. The format of two divisions and a tournament is tremendous. A team that is seeded lower can still win the championship. I like that."

"I love this league," said Livonia Churchill coach Don Albertson. "You can go right down the line; every team is going to be tough to beat, every ball game you go into will be a good one." Albertson and his Chargers begin their season at Dearborn Friday and next Friday host Bentley for their conference opener. Bentley plays Livonia Franklin Tuesday in its first game.

Livonia Stevenson, coached by George Van Wagoner, faces Redford Union in its home opener tomorrow and then will take to the road for its first WLAA outing against Walled Lake Western Friday, Dec. 10.

LIVONIA STEVENSON

Gary Mexicotte will go from the soccer field to the basketball court in an effort to continue his winning ways for the Spartans this winter.

The 6-foot point guard, an All-America soccer performer, is the only returning starter Van Wagoner has from last year's 18-4 squad and second place finishers in the Inter-Lakes Conference.

But surrounding the senior this season will be an equally talented foursome that Van Wagoner believes could basketball

produce a better season.

"They are a little bit quicker than last year's team and they are better shooters," said the Stevenson coach. "We had only one player finish in double figures last season."

Van Wagoner is counting on senior guard Pete Rose, a sixth man as a junior, to fill in one starting position and senior forwards Bob Palmisano and Curt Ullstrom to see their share of playing time in the starting line-up. He is also hoping junior 6-foot-7 center Tom Domako will make a smooth transition from junior varsity level and be an immediate influence under the boards.

ABOVE ALL ELSE, he is counting on his players to again form the closeknit team that last year's squad proved to be. "The kids are interested in a common goal, they have a good attitude," said Van Wagoner. "But they will have to work as hard as last year's team did for us to have another good season." -----Rounding out the Spartans are 6foot-5 sophomore Bob Sluka, junior point guard Rick Rozman, 6-foot-4 senior Tim Englinge and juniors Brian Porter and Mark Kleinknecht, Todd Baggett and Dan Gilmartin.

LIVONIA CHURCHILL

Last year the Chargers began with a 1-9 record but they ended the season by winning seven of the remaining 13 games for a 8-13 mark.

Albertson has three starters and the foundation of that squad returning and sees no reason why they can't return to the winning pace they left off on.

"That would be nice if we picked up where we left off last year," the Churchill coach said. "We have pretty good depth this season. I have 12 ball, players that I don't mind turning to."

Topping the list is senior John Merner. The 6-foot-6 center set a school record last winter connecting on over 50 percent of his field goals and finished the year with a 14-point average. Joining him on the court again are senior forward Tim Luch and junior guard Craig Hunter, a starter as a sophomore.

"IT'S VERY unusual for a sophomore to start for me," Albertson said of the 6-foot-4 junior. "But Hunter is a good player. I think people are going to hear a lot about him this season."

Two other players returning with some playing time at the varsity level are senior guards Pat Gysel and Dave Riley. Albertson will also be turning to John Grzybck, the 6-foot-2 junior guard who led the junior varsity in scoring. "I don't have as much size as last year," said Albertson. "But the kids I do have can jump."

Also playing for Churchill this winter are Steve O'Hara, and juniors Rob Frost, Steve Juodawlkis, John Fraser and Doug Klucevek.

LIVONIA BENTLEY

Bentley begins the year a little thin in experience but with good size, one of the school's trademarks throughout the vears.

Komula can count on 6-foot-5 Jim Thorderson and Bob Friedrichs and 6foot-6 Phil Graczyk to come up with a few rebounds this winter. Thorderson is a senior forward and the only returning starter while Friedrichs, a senior with a good deal of playing time on the varsity level, will be rejoining his classmate. Graczyk, a junior arriving from the junior varsity team, will be a new addition for Komula under the boards. "We don't have that many seniors," said Komula.

Plymouth Salem cagers show sizable strength

By C.J. Risak staff writer league with only one team with Satem's potential.

•"Taste" the title: Salem is a team eager to chomp into a championship.

WITH A STARTING five like that, how can the Rocks lose?

To be sure, Salem has lost some sizable talent from a season ago. The "biggest" loss was 6-8 Norm Haygood, although Dave Miller and Mike Mc-Bride will be harder to replace.

But, despite lacking one true big man, the Rocks do have lots of size, and Thomann. "This year's team will be." Which means, as the Rock coach put HOULE, ACCORDING to Thomann, aggressive and he won't back down from anyone. And I think, the longer the season goes, the better he'll get.

That's because Houle is considered one of the best prep football tight ends in the state. Once he changes gears to basketball, his game should improve.

"This team has real good balance. top to bottom," cited Thomann. "The younger players will be pressing the older ones as the season goes on.

"On any given day, someone will step out and get us 15 points or so. That's the overall talent of this team."

What may cause a change in Thomann's planning is the new league the Rocks will compete in: the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA). In the Lakes Division, Livonia Stevenson and Livonia Bentley should give Salem a tussle for the title.

"I think, if you consider the talent coming back, it's got to be Stevenson and us," Thomann said of WLAA championship hopefuls. "And Bentley has a nice 6-8 kid who, if he comes on for them, will make them very good."

The WLAA also offers a new scheduling format. Every team plays 13 conference games (two against all division rivals and one against the other five teams), with the top four in each division qualifying for the WLAA tournament.

A TOURNAMENT to decide the league champ places new emphasis on how a team should perform throughout the season. In the past, it might have been "easy to get out early and tough to hang on late", according to Thomann, who added that now, "The team that's playing best late will do the best."

What the Rocks need to do is "continue to get better throughout the year." Thomann said. "Our mobility, quickness and basketball skills are things we have to really work on."

"But Fordson's a great four-down And Herrington himself was reaping. team, too. Most people don't stop them the benefits of coaching winners. "We were running the ball so well that I thought we'd run a couple of pops into the middle," he answered. "I told John (Miller), 'Stay in the middle and hang on to that ball.'

"We're very good from the 10 and in thought if we fumbled the snap or something, we could fall on it and kick - our thunder offense we call it - and we thought we could score. We had the it again on fourth down."

In the water they were devastating. Out of the water they were overjoyed. It all added up to another championship for the North Farmington girls, who, excuse the expression, submerged the competition in the Northwest Suburban League (NSL) swim meet at Redford Thurston High School Monday.

Although only 27 points separated North Farmington, 295, from runner-up Westland John Glenn, 269, it was the Raiders' meet right from the beginning as they captured six of the 11 events, including both relays.

"John Glenn tried to challenge them," said Thurston coach Tom Jiummo, "But North Farmington is really strong. They didn't have too much trouble winning it."

Mary Manderfield paced the winners with a pair of individual championships and a helping hand in the 400-yard freestyle relay victory. Manderfield captured the 100yard freestyle in 57.6, added the 50yard freestyle title with the time of 25.41 and then joined Jill Meneilley, Helen Sue Howard and Kathy Pierog to edge out John Glenn in the freestyle relay with the effort of 3:53.92.

Pierog also finished the afternoon with three gold medals. She nipped, Robina Gow of John Glenn in the the 100-yard backstroke with the time of 1:05.66 and joined Kim Walquist, Kim Goins and Judy Kettenstock to win the 200-yard medley relay in 2:04.31.

Seniors are big bowling fans

Of the vast army of bowlers who compete each week on area lanes, none enjoy toppling the pins more than senior citizens.

There are two reasons.

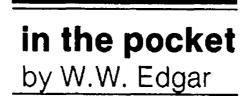

Like all other bowlers, they enjoy the competition. And more importantly, they exercise to ease their arthritis aches and pains. In many cases doctors advise them to visit the lanes daily if only to throw the ball.

Dr. O.L. Brooker, who retired several years ago, started the trend at Livonia Lanes and now it has been copied in all sections of greater Detroit.

their 30th year in organized league play and the ranks are growing each season.

DOUG DeMAROIS, who finished second in the recent Bonanza Major Association championships, rolled the best series of the week in the Wonderland Classic.

He linked games of 225, 255 and 283 for 763. At this figure he beat Dan Bowl, Ted Ratliff had games of 247, Longeway by 47 pins. Longeway started well with 276, but dipped to 205 before finishing with 235.

In the ladies classic at Wonderland, Pam Bashara was tops with a 600 that included a 231 middle game.

HAL JOLLY, who hadn't been The seniors are now celebrating among the leaders this season, finally came through with a 711 series in the Bel-Aire Classic. His nearest rival was Dan Goodrich, who tallied a 297 in 683.

> TWO NEW MEMBERS were inducted into western suburban 700 club during the past week.

Bowling at Super Bowl in Canton Township, Jim Keppen rolled games of 232, 247 and 236 for 716. At Westland 212 and 245 in the Monday morning 658. There was a strong finish in the men's league for a 704.

Simulation Station opens at center

By Ethel Simmons staff writer

OMBINING VIDEO and arcade games, as well as fast "fun food," all under one roof is the newest trend in the expanding concept of family entertainment centers.

At the Simulation Station, just opened at Westland Center, young people from tots to teens, along with their parents, can share the pleasure of games and snacks.

Because the station keeps the same hours as the shopping mall, it's an activity that can be paired with a routine shopping expedition. There's enough going on at the station, however, to make it worth a visit on its own.

Shortly before the brightly decorated, tastefully done entertainment center opened, Brian Palmer, one of the partners in the operation, toured the premises, pointing out its virtues.

PALMER OF Marine City is in partnership with Roger Secord of Lathrup Village, Gary Kughn of Farmington Hills, Richard Kughn of Detroit, who is chairman, and Bill Browning of Sterling Heights.

They own Simulation Station facilities at the Renaissance Center in Detroit, at Oakland Mall in Troy and in Ann Arbor.

The centers take their name from the motion simulator featured at all but the new Westland location. Palmer described the simulator as "an adventure capsule that houses 12 people and provides a visual, sound and motion experience."

But what the Westland station may lack without a motion simulator it makes up for with its chance to play games like Big Rigs.

Palmer said the new game is "based on a Smokey and the Bandit concept, where radio-controlled semi-tractor trailers and police cars chase each other through a maze with sound effects."

The 16-18 inch cars and three-footlong tractor trailers are maneuvered by control panels that can be manned by Mom, Dad and the kids, in competition with each other or another team.

"THIS IS the first location in the country with the tractor trailers," Palmer said of Big Rigs.

Westland also is the first of the four Simulation Station locations, operated by Kinop International, that serves food. A dining area provides seating for 50 people, who can order fast food from a kiosk just inside the entrance.

The edibles are the kinds that make good finger foods and all are oriented toward takeout. Hot dogs or cheese dogs on a stick, pocket pizza, fresh fried donuts made with sour cream, dough sticks (popular at West Coast theme parks), Belgian wafffles, chocolate-coated fruit on a skewer, and fruit cups with sundae topping are some of the choices.

Food and games are all paid for with tokens purchased from another kiosk. Palmer said most of the games are priced within the 25-50-cent range.

Other family games at Westland's Simulation Station include Boom Ball and Skee Ball, whère players rack up points and get prizes if their scores are high enough.

CHILDREN TOO young to play the games can still enjoy themselves in an area filled with kiddle rides.

Parents can even go shopping in other parts of the mall while the children play at the game center. "Uniformed people will be controlling the whole operation," Palmer said.

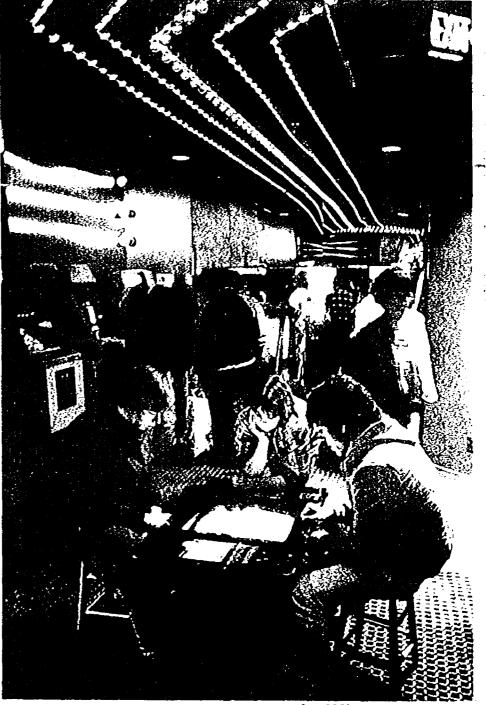

Simulation Center is on the mall's lower level and may be reached by two outside stairwells. A same-level exit from Hudson's also leads to the area where the entertainment center is located. New shops will open in the general area, which is being called the Emporium.

Besides the family games, there are video games to play. "They're the state-of-the-art, most recent video games," Palmer said. Some are twopeople games, others are for a single player. Games will be rotated with those at the other centers.

Twenty-six video games, plus other games for the family, can be played at the new Simulation Station in Westland.

Fast food can be purchased at a kiosk, with tokens bought at another kiosk. A cafeteria area is available, or the snacks may be ordered for carryout.

"Tom Smith and His Incredible Bread Machine," illustrated here, is a live show that will be performed through Sunday at Livonia Mall.

upcoming things to do

• AUDITIONS OPEN

The Spotlight Players will hold auditions for "Inherit the Wind" at 7:30 p.m. Friday-Saturday at St. John's Episcopal Church, 555 S. Wayne Road, corner of Wayne and Bayview, Westland. The play calls for five women, 19 men, a female child, a male child and a lot of extras. For further information call 595-6117.

• ONE-ACT PLAY

"Tom Smith and His Incredible Bread Machine," a one-act play in fairy-tale format, will be presented today through Sunday at the Livonia Mall. The free show is performed by two mimes and narrated by an elfin baker. It features magic, mechanical wizardry and many animated special effects. Sponsored by the Free Enterprise Institute, a non-profit organization funded by the Amway Corp., the production is on a year-long nationwide tour.

The Plymouth Symphony will present a Christmas program including performances of "The Nutcracker Ballet," at 2 and 5 p.m. Sunday at the Plymouth-Salem High School Auditorium on Joy, west of Canton Center Road.

Johan van der Merwe will conduct the orchestra, with the Northern Ballet Theatre of Livonia performing "The Nutcracker.'

Tickets_for both_performances will. be available at the box office. Single and season advance ticket sales will be at Beitner Jewlery on Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth, at Arnoldt Williams Music on Canton Center Road in Canton, at Four Seasons Flowers on E. Main in Northville and at Liberty Music on Liberty Street in Ann Arbor.

Single concert tickets for the ballet are. $6 for adults and $3.50 for senior citizens, all children and students.

The popularity of "The Nutcracker Ballet" is taken for granted and its appeal continues to grow, yet the first performance of the ballet in St. Petersburg in 1892 was received with indifference.

THE SUDDEN illness of the choreographer for the Russian Imperial Ballet delayed completion of the ballet. Its production was hurriedly finished by another choreographer, resulting in an almost unworkable ballet.

Paradoxically, the music, completed months earlier, gained immediate success and so became Tchalkovsky's most popular non-symphonic orchestral work.

Tchalkovsky assembled some of his favorite pieces from the ballet score and this became "The Nutcracker Suite," which includes "Dance of the

The ballet was presented periodically in abbreviated versions until 1954, when choreographer George Balanchine, with the New York City Ballet, presented a fresh interpretation. This 1954 production proved far more suitable and the ballet has since flourished.

Now in its seventh year, Northern Ballet Theater of Livonia provides a repertoire of classical and contemporary ballets by the masters of their craft, as well as advancing newly discovered musical and choreographic talents.

IN ADDITION to performing, the company does lecture/demonstrations and residencies. NBT has been responsible for bringing the art of ballet to thousands of school children, and dance movement to the hearing-impared.

The company has been under the artistic direction of Michelle Wolfe since 1975. She is also the resident choreographer.

Wolfe has studied and performed with such dance companies as the Joffrey Ballet, the Royal Winnipeg and the Metropolitan Opera Bailet. In addition, she has made local television and radio appearances and held the office of secretary and president of the Mid-States Regional Ballet Association.

Free transportation for senior citi-zens is provided from Tonquish Creek Manor the afternoon of each concert, and there will be free baby-sitting for pre-schoolers during the concerts.

The concert is made possible by a grant from the State of Michigan through the Michigan Council for the Arts and the Plymouth Symphony League.

Varied program proves satisfying

By Mary Jane Doe'r special writer

Orchestral concert programming is an art and a very tricky one. The conductor of the orchestra must select music that uses his instrumentalists to their advartage, that is dynamically interesting to his guest artist and that appeals to subscribers and the public in genera. The conductor must blend all of these requirements into a musically satisfying evening for everyone

This is exactly what was achieved by Francesco Di Basi, music director and conductor of the Oakway Symphony Orchestra, in Sunday's concert at Harrison High School in Farmington Hills.

Ara Berbenan of Southfield, basso with the New York Metropolitan Operafor the last four years, shone as a soloist, singing music by Hovhaness, Handel, Mozart and Verdi. Guest conductor for the afternoon was Dr. Harry Begian of the University of Illinois Music Department, who proved himself able, with band experience evident.

FEATURED WERE works by two Armenian-American composers, Alan Hovhaness and Richard Yardumian. Yardumian, a friend of Di Blasi's, was in the audience for the performance of his "Chorale-Prelude" and "Armenian Suite." Seventy-one-year-old Hovhaness sent his regrets.

A musical variety of sounds, moods, rhythms, performers and conductors is the only way to describe the fascinating concert. Ippolitov-Ivanov's "Procession of the Sardar," a rhythmical blend of minor-keyed melodies roused eveyone's interest. This was followed by Yardumian's "Chorale-Prelude" with its harp and wind and brass solos.

Berberian was lovely with the Han-proved himself at Michigan State Uni-

berian teamed up with Oakway's prin-cipal flute, Pamela Hill, who is also principal flute with the Michigan Opera Theatre Orchestra. They did a series of four songs, which Berberian has performed with the Boston Pops Orchestra. The duo provided interesting motifs of voice and flute, complementary to Berberian's bass sound and the higher-pitched flute.

It seems that whatever language Berberian is singing in - German, Italian or the language of his heritage, Armenian - he is able to project a clear understandable sound, a quality too often missing in singers.

Leaving his post as conductor for the second time during the proceedings, Di Blasi gave the baton to Begian to conduct Hovhaness' "Prayer of St. Gregory" while Di Blasi performed the moving trumpet solo in a clear, pure manner.

The afternoon concluded with Yardumian's "Armenian Suite," an interesting combination of folk melodies, dance movements, moods, styles, songs and rhythms. It contains a full range from solo use of the instruments to the full orchestra, making it an exciting work for orchestral performance.

Rarely do orchestral concerts achieve the kind of interesting musical performances and variety of offerings, for both soloists and orchestra, vocal and instrumental, as this latest Oakway Symphony concert.
