Rotary Club hosts ice cream social

The Rotary Club of Bellport enjoyed another day of service at the Boys & Girls Club of the Bellport Area with an ice cream social with the Roxy's Ice Cream catering truck.

Fifty children and 20 volunteers and staff received a summer ice cream treat. The initiative came from the Rotary Club of Bellport to do something fun with the summer program of the local Boys and Girls Club on Atlantic Avenue, Bellport, along with a generous donation from Brookhaven Town councilman (and Rotarian) Michael A. Loguercio Jr. Six of our Bellport Rotarians, Lorraine Kuehn, Synethia Grainger, Hans Tempel, Tom Corwin and Gene Tarvar

Sr. (not pictured), assisted by taking the ice cream orders directly from the children and asking Roxy to spin her delicious magic: vanilla, chocolate, or a combined twist in a cup or cone. Sprinkles always available. The Bellport Rotary has been serving the South Country area since 1962. "Service Above Self." ■

Avery property is saved

BY LINDA LEUZZI

The set-back 11-acre Avery property on South Country Road in East Patchogue, long championed by preservationists for its rich history indelibly stamped on a boulder with family members' dates and times going back to the late 1600s, was officially purchased this week by Suffolk County and Brookhaven Town.

"The total purchase was $1.9 million," said Suffolk County director of historic services, Rich Martin. "The county's share is $1.3; Brookhaven Town's is $600,000."

The seller was 39 South Country Road, LLC. "The property was inherited by Charles Wakefield," explained Martin. "He created that limited liability company."

Legis. Dominick Thorne (R-Patchogue) and councilman Neil Foley (R-Blue Point) have been carrying the preservation ball to fruition.

"This was the last big property in my district I had to handle," said Thorne. "I'm waiting to hear from county parks commissioner Jason Smegin on how much he needs for restoration. Then I'll put in a resolution for it. There's $1 mil-

Naming a new preserve after an ardent environmentalist

Art Cooley Memorial Preserve

BY LINDA LEUZZI

Those looking to honor and remember Bellport High School teacher Art Cooley again are invited to celebrate the 13-acre

BROOKHAVEN TOWN

Greenhouses Superfund site in East Patchogue, purchased and now managed by the Post-Morrow Foundation.

The designation will take place officially on Saturday, Sept. 2, from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Post-Morrow Foundation in Brookhaven Hamlet, with a gathering including wine, cheese, and music.

A vibrant science teacher of ornithology and advanced biology from 1956 to 1989, Cooley was an environmental lightning rod for students. He led them tramping along trails or gliding in canoes to the area's nature preserves and rivers, pointing out the various wildlife that flew past or peeked out, personally engaging students with their lives and habits. He also discussed issues in the classroom, urging his charges to come up with solutions and helped found Students for Environmental Quality at Bellport High School, in 1970, as environmental issues were coming to the forefront among other initiatives. He died in 2022.

"We started discussing the name around the time we were in the process of acquiring the preserve," explained Post-Morrow vice president Tom Williams.

"We'll cut about a half-mile grass trail around the perimeter within the next couple of weeks," said Williams. And, of course, an Art Cooley Memorial Preserve sign. The property will be maintained with native plants and grasses.

Located at Orchard and Hedges Road, the land was previously used for commercial growing purposes from 1929 to 2005. Undeveloped and zoned for residential use, in December 2006, during site demolition of buildings by the owner, concerned neighbors contacted local officials about potential health concerns, namely pesticides. A Department of Environmental Conservation cleanup was conducted between 2015 and 2016.

It became a county land bank parcel, and when Legis. Dominick Thorne (R-Patchogue) came into office and was briefed on the listed properties, he chose the site to work on with Post-Morrow. The land had gone into tax lien; Post-Morrow purchased it for $10,000.

"I live up the street from Orchard and my parents' home bordered the property," said Susan Shiebler. "My mom and dad fought for its preservation for years, met with the builders, and wanted it to remain what it is." Shiebler pointed out that new families of deer and groundhogs have now made it their home, along with Italian wall lizards.

Proceeds from the event will support the foundation's mission to protect the environment of Brookhaven Hamlet and surrounding areas like this one. Reservations will be held at the door. For tickets, click online at <http://post-morrow.org>. Online sales will close Aug. 25. Call 631-286-0686. ■ lion we have in the budget, so we'll look into lighting and security first."

A Suffolk County park ranger relief station is being set up on the property as a presence at all times, said Thorne. A car was already there on Monday after the closing took place. A ranger will occupy the front office of the 1880 Victorian house.

Susan Shiebler, the property's caretaker for the last six years who checked on the parcel daily with her son, was hired as a county park employee in historic services, said Martin. Shiebler will also occupy an office as well as the park ranger.

"In the beginning, we have to turn on the electric and place the county name there, as well as do some housekeeping and cleaning up the property," said Martin. "I like to document all existing conditions before restoration takes place, so Susan will do that. We are making it an official county landmark site, which means all the buildings will be restored."

Aside from mowing and some tree trimming, the property will remain intact. It had been regularly maintained with blue spruce, red maple, dogwood, cherry, holly, pine and spruce trees among the tree population.

Thorne said 60 yards of trash was found on the premises, but the owner cleaned it up before closing.

Martin said parking would be available on existing space on the lawn around the buildings.

Since it emerged in the spotlight, several nonprofits have been interested in inhabiting the Victorian house's space, including the Greater Patchogue Historical Society. The big carrot has been the Dutch colonial barn, circa 1930, which is in solid, sturdy shape.

Brian Egan, attorney for The Lessing's Companies, which has expressed interest in running a venue there, released this statement. "The Lessing's Companies look forward to working with the county and town to making this historic park property viable and sustainable."

Martin said an RFP process was required first. "We have to put out a request for proposal in a competitive bid to offer it to a private company," he said. "The Lessing's have three of our historic buildings already—Meadow Edge in West Sayville, Timber Point in Great River, and Coindre Hall in Huntington—that's already been done via an RFP, and they won them from their financial terms."

While officials gathered in the barn, stories and comments emerged. Barbara Avery, its last family inhabitant who died in 2017, raised miniature ponies there. Her grandfather, Charles Avery, opened the 200-acre Swan River Nursery in 1898 on the property to raise horticultural plants. Her father, Humphrey, continued the business and had used big horses at one time. He died in 1983.

"He'd go down rows of plants with his horses to cultivate them," Martin said. You can still see the names over the paddocks, including Dan and King. "It's a transitional barn. He was old-school."

"Barbara Avery would host field trips for kids," added Shiebler. "She'd show them her horses."

Vintage treasures peeked out, like an old carriage, sled, and water pumps for fighting fires. A saw dangled from a hook.

Foley mentioned that the property was very close to area sewers as a possibility.

The Avery family, starting with Humphrey Avery, has owned and inhabited the site since the 17th century.

The property has three historic buildings on it: an 1880 Victorian house in decent shape; an 1820 gambrel roof structure, quite dilapidated, that served later in its life as the family landscaping office; and the Dutch colonial barn, where Barbara Avery, who grew up here, kept her horses.

Humphrey Avery (1725-1790) was among the first Averys to settle in the Patchogue area. But it was Humphrey Avery Sr. (1699-1788) who purchased a lot that spanned from Blue Point to Pine Neck. It was land originally owned by Connecticut Gov. John Winthrop Jr., purchased from an Unkechaug Sachem, Tobaccus, in 1664. It spanned from Bellport to the Islip/Brookhaven Town border.

Preservation supporters, starting with Legis. Rob Calarco, councilman Neil Foley, historian Victor Principe, Preservation Long Island, Bellport-Brookhaven Historical Society, the Peconic Land Trust and others, began in earnest in 2020 when the county and town agreed to partner. Foley said he'd been approached by several developers since that time, but that would require a zone change.

"I think some places just need to be preserved," he said. ■

Harbor Freight opens in Shirley

Last week, councilman Dan Panico welcomed Harbor Freight Tools to the Shirley community, holding a ceremonial ribbon cutting.

“The new business is going extremely well in talking to the managers and employees. A lot of credit to Damianos Realty for investing in the center they purchased a couple of years ago and working to improve it, with Legis. Jim Mazzarella,” Panico said.

The store fills the long-vacant former Staples, located at 855 Montauk Highway in Shirley. Harbor Freight Tools signed the lease for the occupancy earlier this year, making the center 100 percent occupied once again. “It has been a pleasure to work with the principles of Damianos Realty Group, which purchased that property and invested in it. We worked together to get their permit and approvals necessary for the Aldi construction, and here they are now taking the long-vacant center building and bringing in Harbor Freight Tools,” he said. “That entire shopping center has gone from almost 100 percent vacant to what will be almost 100 percent full.”

Expansive projection art show to have biggest year

Arts council to 'raise the bar even higher'

BY SAM DESMOND

For its fourth year, the Patchogue Arts Council/Museum of Contemporary Art, in partnership with the Greater Patchogue Chamber of Commerce, will have its annual PATCHOGUE VILLAGE MoCA L.I.ghts show that encompasses the entire downtown Patchogue community in its expansive vision, with tailored art projections by local and international artists.

"It's still amazing to us that in just three short years, this event has become such an integral part of our annual programming," said PAC executive director, Beth Giacummo.

Growing in its four years from a conceptual sketch into a phenomenon that has captivated the imaginations of over 550,000 people, MoCA L.I.ghts is PAC's most widely attended program ever produced by the organization.

Each year, the viewer turnout and caliber of work has "surpassed expectations, continuously exploring new horizons and leaving a lasting impression on every attendee every time those projectors power up, and 2023 will be no different!" said Giacummo.

With PAC MoCA's accumulated experience in producing the remarkable event, Giacummo said they are determined "to raise the bar even higher... MoCA L.I.ghts 2023 promises to be a truly unforgettable experience, brimming with innovative features that will undoubtedly leave a lasting impact."

Among the additions planned for this year are illuminated works in the Sculpture Garden, an open call for performances, costumes, and wearable light forms, soundscape projections, interactive real-time performances, projections, expanded Art on the Marquee programming that will include The Suffolk, and a main projection installation curated in collaboration with Ma's House—a nonprofit organization focused on promoting the work of indigenous artists from the Shinnecock Indian Reservation in Southampton.

"Points of Light" is a grand-scale community program that relies on the generous support of individuals and businesses to ensure its sustainability and success. Unlike ticketed events, MoCA L.I.ghts remains accessible to all members of the community.

"It is precisely for this reason that we invite you to consider making a meaningful contribution or becoming a sponsor. Your support will not only enable us to continue nurturing the arts and culture within our shared Long Island community, but also reinforce your commitment to our thriving region," said Giacummo.

Collaborations with the Village of Patchogue, Patchogue BID, Patchogue Theatre for the Performing Arts, Pat-Med Library, Cornell Cooperative Suffolk County & Marine Department, Suffolk Marquee, and Vanderbilt Museum have been established to MoCA L.I.ghts 2023.

Award-winning designer Jack Harris developed all materials as a dedicated volunteer to PAC.

"Together, we will continue to contribute culturally, educationally, and economically to the area," said Giacummo. "We sincerely hope our sponsors will join the Patchogue Arts Council in our efforts to enliven our downtown with the arts for a long, long time. Together, we can create a legacy of innovation and see the limitless

Youngsters help improve Bellport Bay water quality

CEED and FOBB provide three-day program

BY GARY HABER

Last week, a group of youngsters from the Boys & Girls Club of the Bellport Area got to be part of the effort to help improve water quality in Bellport Bay. Four youngsters participated in a five-day marine environment education program organized by Friends of Bellport Bay and the Center for Environmental Education and Discovery, that included three days of being out on the water and working with Friends of Bellport Bay interns to plant 60,000 oysters on bulkheads in Bellport Bay.

Oysters are an important source for improving water quality in the bay. Once mature, each oyster can filter as many as 50 gallons of water per day.

The program also included a fishing trip on the Long Island Sound and an arts-and-crafts workshop at CEED's Washington Lodge headquarters, where students made living seawalls, which will be attached to the bulkheads.

The week was funded through a grant from the David M. Duffy Jr. Foundation, which was started in 2021 in memory of Duffy Jr., a Bellport resident.

Duffy, who died in 2021 at age 39, was an avid boater and passionate about Bellport Bay. That made partnering with Friends of Bellport Bay and CEED a natural union.

"This would be true to David's vision of life because he loved the bay so much," said Ryan Kelly, a friend, board member, and co-founder of the foundation, which has also funded scholarships for graduating seniors at Bellport High School.

Katia Read, co-founder and chair of Friends of Bellport Bay, said she hopes the youngsters participating in the program come away with an appreciation of Bellport Bay and its ecosystem.

"The bay needs help," she said. ■

Legislature presents $10M for sewers

American Rescue Plan money secured to help extend residential sewers

BY NICOLE FUENTES

During the Patchogue Village board meeting last week, Legis. Dominick Thorne (R-Patchogue) presented the village with a $10 million check.

"I am here to deliver the $10 million I promised to extend the sewer district in this village. I am so proud to have this partnership, in the village I call home, and to honor environmental concerns as well," Thorne said at the meeting. "It's not just the village being covered by sewers; it's parts of Blue Point and East Patchogue—all this because of the amazing work here in Patchogue."

The check was from a Suffolk County resolution, authorizing an appropriation of $10,000,000 of American Rescue Plan funds toward further extending residential sewer connections.

"This will allow us to get us up to at least 350 homes in south Patchogue; this is about the Great South Bay and preserving the environment we live in," said Patchogue Village mayor Paul Pontieri, also noting that their local efforts can only do so much. This money, he said,

"Will allow us to do more."

Earlier this year, in April, Suffolk County executive Steve Bellone announced the allocation of the $10 million dedicated to sewerage another 100 south Patchogue Village homes.

Bellone hosted a press conference, at that time, on the corner of West Avenue and Laurel Street, the site where work as being done on the sewer pipeline.

During the press conference, Suffolk County presiding officer and Legis. Kevin McCaffery said that the money brings the overall south Patchogue sewer project to a total of $32,000,000, with approximately 350 homes to be connected to the village's wastewater treatment plant. This is in addition to the current $22 million project underway in the Patchogue River Watershed, which will eliminate approximately 240 cesspools.

The grant was funded by the county's Wastewater Infrastructure Fund to help eliminate cesspools and septic systems close to the Great South Bay and ultimately reducing nitrogen discharge to the bay by 2,500 pounds per year.

Also, during the board meeting, the trustees approved a resolution authorizing the mayor to enter into an Inter-Municipal Agreement with the county to accept the contribution toward Phase II of the Patchogue Watershed Sewer Project. ■

Office building proposed for East Main Street

BY GARY HABER

A New York real estate firm is seeking approval to build a three-story, mixed-use office building in downtown Patchogue.

Patchogue East Main Associates has submitted plans to the Village of Patchogue Planning Board for a 46,301-square-foot building at 214 E. Main Street, which is at the corner of East Main Street and Rider Avenue.

The four-level building—three floors above ground and a lower level—would be located on an empty lot once occupied by a NAPA Auto Parts store.

The planning board was scheduled to consider the application at its meeting on Aug. 22.

The second and third floors are already leased for medical office space, according to an architectural drawing submitted with the application. The ground floor would be used for office, restaurant, or retail space. The lower level would be used for offices or storage.

The building would be located down the block from the former Burlington Coat Factory space, which NYU Langone plans to redevelop into an ambulatory surgical center.

The exterior of the building at 214 E. Main Street would be clad in red brick. That would mirror the look of the old lace mill on West Main Street, said Eric Russo, an attorney for Patchogue East Main Associates.

Trees would be placed along the Rider Avenue and East Main Street sides of the building, according to a rendering.

If the planning board re-approves some minor front-yard and rear-yard setback variances, the zoning board would consider the project on Sept. 19. It would then go back to the planning board on Sept. 26, Russo said. Permits could be in place by the end of the year, he said. ■

Osprey watchers notice injured bird

PSEG bird expert takes careful watch

BY NICOLE FUENTES

Every year, PSEG Long Island celebrates the return of the local osprey population in Patchogue Village by preparing for the breeding season and performing maintenance on the osprey cams. The monitored Patchogue nest is located on West Main Street, just south of the Blue Point Brewery. This year, watchers of the live cam noticed of the four chicks (which is rare in itself), one of them seems to have injured its leg.

The youngest chick, according to New York City viewer Judith Camacho, who noticed the injury and alerted the local paper, suffered some sort of leg injury last week and she believed it was in need of help. After noticing the injury, the "chatters," as they call themselves, contacted PSEGLI, the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, and wild care rehabbers in the area.

The injury can be seen at 7:34 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 14, during a feeding session.

"She has difficulty holding the food and you can see the injury on her left leg. She is such a fighter," Camacho said. "Survived with three older siblings, which is extremely rare. It will be a pity if she is not helped."

PSEGLI referred to Jim Jones, one of the bird experts/environmentalists they work with in these situations. After being alerted to the situation, he said he has been watching the nest, on and off, for 24 hours.

He confirmed that the chick does have an injury to the left foot, but he said that there are a few things to consider:

The fledgling has been perching fairly easily, and the foot can grip, but a bit clumsily; it was able to finish the fish meal without incident.

It can also stand on that leg without any apparent leaning.

It can fly, and has been leaving the nest to forage, and possibly hunt. The parents are still there and are feeding the youngster.

"All of these things are good," he said. "The injury does not—at this time—appear life threatening. We (PSEG, myself, and a wildlife rehabber) are all monitoring the situation. At this time, we are letting things progress naturally. These kinds of injuries are not uncommon, and osprey that I have worked with have recovered. We will keep watching!"

For more information about osprey and to view live webcam feed of the nests, visit <https://www.psegliny.com/wildlife/ospreycam>.

OSPREY FACTS FROM PSEG

Human garbage is hazardous to the birds. Many times, the osprey will gather garbage, such as plastic bags and fishing wire to build their nests. Fishing lines and strings may wrap around the birds' feet, preventing them from leaving the nest. Plastic litter is very easy to find and since the birds live close to humans, plastics often are found in nests.

When osprey build a nest on electrical equipment, it puts the nest in danger of catching fire, which can cause significant damage and outages to customers, as well as harm to the osprey. The birds are at high risk of electrocution, as their large wingspan can complete the circuit between closely spaced energized equipment or between an energized wire and a neutral ground wire.

Long Island is home to more than 400 species of birds, including the majestic osprey. Osprey are large, beautiful birds and a popular sight on Long Island. From the 1950s through the 1970s, Long Island's osprey population decreased and became endangered. The effort to build safe nesting sites on or near waterways has contributed to the rise in the population of osprey. ■

Kindness will be the word for South Country schools

Superintendent highlights school year ahead

BY GARY HABER

Kindness will be a focus for South Country School District's 4,000 students when they return to school on Sept. 6.

In addition to academic achievement, the district is putting an emphasis on character education, superintendent of schools Antonio Santana said.

"Kindness is the word for the year," said Santana, who is starting his second school year as South Country superintendent.

As part of that, South Country student-athletes will be among 2,000 students from 24 school districts who will be participating in the launch of the Ambassadors of Compassion program at East Islip High School on Aug. 25.

The national program encourages student-athletes to act as role models and mentors for other students.

The district is also rolling out a program for students in grades 6 through 12 focused on social and emotional learning aimed at teaching students interpersonal skills. The program at the high school will focus on "Clipper Compassion." The program was developed by teachers in the Glen Cove City School District, where Santana was principal at Glen Cove High School before joining South Country.

Here's a look at what else is new for South Country schools this year:

Bellport High School

The high school added new courses including Exploration in Data Science and an Advanced Placement course teaching computer science principles.

High school students will be able to take college courses through a partnership with Utica University and Suffolk County Community College.

Bellport Middle School

The district is working to have the middle school taken off the state Department of Education's list of schools in need of additional targeted support and improvement. Verne W. Critz Elementary and Brookhaven Elementary were restored to good standing in 2022. Brookhaven Elementary has since become a model for other districts, Santana said.

The district has been working with Teachers College of Columbia University on a reading and writing program to increase literacy.

Sixth graders will now move between classes for different courses as students now do starting in seventh grade.

The district is also introducing an Introduction to World Languages course for sixth graders.

Physical improvements

A new playground was installed at Brookhaven Elementary.

A STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts and Mathematics) lab was installed at Critz Elementary.

ADA playground equipment was installed at Frank P. Long Intermediate School

The pond in the high school courtyard was restored and the pond in the middle school courtyard is being redone.

The district plans to renovate the high school auditorium, including replacing the seats and carpeting.

Security systems, including cameras and locking mechanisms, have been updated at all district schools.

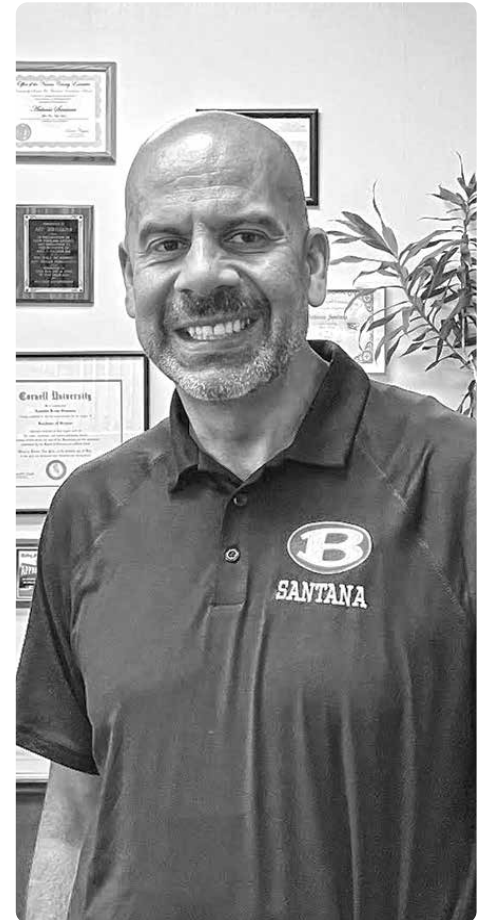

Sports

A new $80,000 digital scoreboard at Joe Cipp Field will be ready in time for the start of football season. The district also replaced the aging synthetic turf field at the high school used by physical education classes and the soccer and lacrosse teams. The $780,000 turf replacement is part of $2.6 million in capital improvements voters approved in October.

Last year, the high school launched a unified basketball team in which special needs students were assisted by general education students. The basketball program will be returning this year and the district hopes to add unified bowling and soccer teams.

Personnel

Twelve teachers are joining the district. The number doesn't include those who are replacing teachers who retired or left. ■

Antonio Santana is going into his second school year as South Country Schools superintendent.

South Shore phenoms return to MLB

Greg Weissert and
Logan O'Hoppe

BY JORDAN STANKOVICH

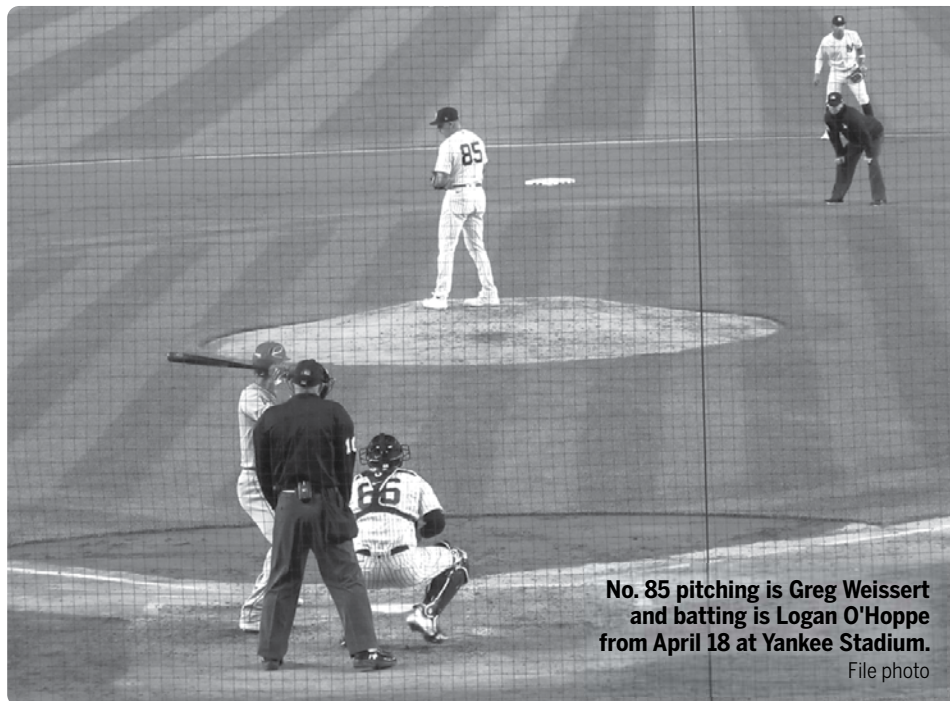

Two local South Shore phenoms, Greg Weissert and Logan O'Hoppe, are back playing at the Major League level.

Yankees pitcher Greg Weissert, from Bay Shore, and Los Angeles Angels catcher Logan O'Hoppe, from Sayville, who attended St. John the Baptist, coincidentally were both activated by their Major League clubs on Friday Aug. 18.

O'Hoppe, who grew up a big Yankees fan, made his debut at Yankee Stadium a few months ago on April 18 as the two Long Islanders faced each other at East 161st Street and River Avenue in the Bronx.

On April 20, when Weissert was pitching and O'Hoppe was batting against his fellow Long Islander, O'Hoppe grounded a single through the left side of the infield, but injured his shoulder on the swing. Unfortunately, he was diagnosed with a torn labrum, but after three and 1/2 months of being sidelined, O'Hoppe returned to the Angels Minor League system and played eight games and had nine hits in 24 at bats, lacing three doubles and scoring seven runs for the A and AAA Angels Minor League affiliates.

Then on Aug. 18, O'Hoppe was behind the plate for all nine innings in the Angels' 9-6 loss to the Tampa Bay Rays on Friday evening, and was a part of history in the ninth inning as the Angels turned their first triple play since 1997. O'Hoppe tagged out Yandy Diaz at the plate for the third out and it also was the first 6-4-3-2 triple play since 1971 in MLB, which consisted of the ball being thrown from the shortstop to second base to first base and culminating with the catcher. (It had been 52 years since a triple play was turned in that fashion in the Major Leagues).

That same evening, in The Bronx, Weissert returned to the Yankees after spending most of the season with the Yankees Minor League affiliate, the Scranton/Wilkes-Barre RailRiders. After pitching with the Yankees in the early part of the season, Weissert was optioned to AAA Scranton/Wilkes-Barre, then shortly after was promoted back to New York on May 9 and pitched in the ninth inning in a Yankees' 10-5 victory vs. the Oakland A's.

The following day, Weissert was optioned back to the RailRiders and during the month of May he pitched nine innings, conceded two earned runs, struck out 14 batters, earned a save and a win with a 2.00 ERA in eight games at AAA. On June 18, Weissert was recalled back to the Yankees for the doubleheader vs. the Red Sox.

At Fenway Park, Weissert pitched 1.1 innings, allowed 0 runs and hits, and struck out two Red Sox in a 6-3 matinee loss to Boston. After pitching in Boston, he returned to AAA, then recently returned to the Yankees last Friday vs. the Red Sox at Yankee Stadium. Weissert sent the Red Sox down 1,2,3 in the top of the eighth. Triston Casas went down swinging, Trevor Story grounded out to Gleyber Torres, and Jarren Duran flew out to Harrison Bader in center field, completing a perfect eighth.

In the top of the ninth, Weissert retired the first two batters, then conceded a run on a Rafael Devers' RBI single, scoring Alex Verdugo, then retired the side after he got Justin Turner to flyout to center. ■

Baseball presentation was a home run

The history of breaking down racial barriers

BY MICHAELA MEDECK

In the words of Dr. Chris Verga, "Baseball is New York: the end."

Baseball has proven to be a popular sport and form of entertainment; however, the enjoyable pastime has had a significant historical impact on Long Island. Specifically, the Cuban Giants.

On Thursday, Aug. 17, community members gathered at the Bay Shore-Brightwaters Public Library, where Dr. Chris Verga, author, educator, and longtime member of the Bay Shore Historical Society, presented the rich history of baseball on Long Island.

Once everyone grabbed refreshments and the camera was recording, Dr. Verga began the presentation. His passion for history and baseball shined through instantly.

He addressed that while most people believe Jackie Robinson was the first person to break the color barrier in baseball, that is not true. Verga said it was Sol White and his team, the Cuban Giants, who broke the color barrier even before Jackie Robinson was born.

To truly understand the historical significance of the Cuban Giants and modern-day baseball, Verga provided context. He spoke about the reinforced racial barriers on Long Island and how homeowners in Suffolk County and Nassau County enslaved people during colonial times.

"The enslavement of indigenous people and people of color created a segregated society here on Long Island," he said, noting that these groups blended together and created their own culture.

Verga spoke about how during the late 19th century, Long Island was quickly becoming a "hot spot." Resort communities began to form, most notably in Bay Shore and Babylon. One of the most notable establishments was the Argyle Hotel, once located in Babylon. The growth of these communities created jobs for indigenous and former enslaved people.

After Verga shared his pride for New York baseball, he talked about the New York Knickerbocker Club, which hailed from the Lower East Side. They were considered the first official baseball team. Baseball eventually left its New York roots and spread throughout the country during the Civil War. Soon, people from all over became fascinated with the sport. Tobacco companies used baseball cards to advertise and sell their products.

Verga described baseball in the 1880s as "unorganized, gritty, grungy." Still, it was full of enjoyment that came straight from New York.

The Argyle Hotel, which Verga previously mentioned, was often vacant after the Civil War, which left the staff with little to do. Frank Thompson, the head server, formed a baseball team among the kitchen staff. This team was made up entirely of people of color. This team later became the Cuban Giants. The team had no one to play against, so they hired people. This led to the creation of the first Black baseball league.

The color barrier was "crossed" when the Cuban Giants played white teams. Despite trying to "advertise" the Cuban Giants players as Latino, people figured out quickly that they were not Latino.

"But despite that, there wasn't racial tension, even when they were playing the white teams," Verga said.

The Cuban Giants playing against the Metropolitans was the first instance of an all-white team playing against an all-Black team on a pro level.

"This shattered the racial barriers," but the most remarkable moment was the players shaking hands afterward. Who won wasn't important, but that game was still a significant moment in history. ■

Two attendees were in the baseball spirit. They wore New York Mets and Boston Red Sox baseball caps.

POLICE BLOTTER

Man arrested in hit-and-run that injured three pedestrians in Patchogue

Suffolk County police recently arrested a man for leaving the scene of an accident that occurred in Patchogue earlier this month.

Two people were standing near a 2002 Honda on East Main Street, close to Phyllis Drive, after being involved in a motor-vehicle crash on Aug. 6 at approximately 3:40 a.m. A third person, not involved in the crash, approached the scene to check on the motorists when a 2007 Saturn Vue traveling eastbound struck the Honda and all three pedestrians. The Saturn fled the scene, continuing eastbound on East Main Street. The three victims were transported to local hospitals for treatment of non-life-threatening injuries.

Following an investigation, Fifth Precinct Crime Section officers arrested Diego Torres at the Fifth Precinct.

Torres, 32, of 36 Rosedale Avenue, Medford, was charged with three counts of leaving the scene of an accident with injury, and one count each of reckless endangerment and unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle.

He was issued a desk appearance ticket and will be arraigned at First District Court in Central Islip at a later date. ■

West Nile Virus detected at the William Floyd Estate

Fire Island National Seashore announced that West Nile virus (WNV) has been detected in a mosquito sample from the William Floyd Estate. The mosquitoes were collected on July 25 from a trap set by the Seashore as part of its Mosquito Monitoring Program. This program is a collaborative effort between the Seashore and Suffolk County Department of Health Services – Arthropod-Borne Disease Laboratory.

The Seashore, along with Suffolk County, will continue its weekly surveillance program to monitor the severity and extent of WNV within the boundaries of the Seashore. Per the Seashore's mosquito monitoring protocols, there will be increased surveillance at the William Floyd Estate, where WNV was detected.

If threats to human health are identified, actions to protect the public may need to include control methods such as larviciding, spraying, or area closures. The National Park Service works closely with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC), Suffolk County Department of Health Services – Arthropod-Borne Disease Laboratory, Suffolk County Vector Control, and local Fire Island and Long Island municipalities to determine the best course of action to protect residents, visitors, and employees of the Seashore. The public will be notified 24 hours in advance of any spray event.

West Nile virus is transmitted to humans through the bite of an infected mosquito. Visitors should take precautions to reduce exposure to the virus by avoiding areas with high densities of mosquitoes. If contact with mosquitoes is unavoidable, it is advisable to minimize outdoor activities when mosquitoes are active, wear protective clothing (long sleeved shirts, socks, and long pants) and use effective insect repellent, such as one containing at least 30 percent DEET. People most at risk of becoming ill are those over 60 years of age or whose health is impaired.

For general information on WNV, please contact your local health department. Information can be obtained from the CDC, or New York State or Suffolk County WNV websites. If you have information or questions for the park, please contact us at FIIS_information@nps.gov. ■

Freedom of the press is the cornerstone of our democracy

After hearing about the police raid conducted at a local community newspaper in Kansas, we can't help but to be thankful for the local government in which we work.

Our local papers are surrounded by encouraging and press-supportive representatives, including but not limited to, supervisor Ed Romaine in Brookhaven Town and supervisor Angie Carpenter in Islip Town, who herself has a background in news. We also have our county exec, legislators, senators, and assemblypersons who understand the information we need and work with us to get it out to the residents. We also have the local councilpersons, who are always available to us by cell. Then, on an even more local level we have our village trustees and—especially—our ever-supportive mayors, including Paul Pontieri and John Valdin.

We might not always agree, but we do have a complete professional understanding of our symbiotic relationship. Though most of the time, their actions are for the betterment of our communities, our local leaders know we have an eye on them as they also know we serve as an outlet to get positive information and news out as well.

What happened in Kansas is an infringement on the freedom of the press. Not only is it illegal to wrongfully search a press office, but also, it is unethical and a huge disservice to our people. We must continue to call out this behavior, not only on the national but also the local level, to continue to protect our First Amendment right:

“Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.”

This newspaper, though continually grateful for the support of our local government, has upheld that right for over 150 years and will continue to do so for the next 150. However, we understand that what happened in the similarly small town in Marion County, Kan., can unfortunately happen anywhere. Anywhere, where our First Amendment right and the value of local journalism dies.

We didn't feel right, as a member and supporter of local news, to not go on the printed record and say: We are disgusted by the actions of the Marion County police and do not stand for any newspaper office or publisher's home to be raided and items be seized, without legitimate legal reasons.

BACKGROUND

If you are not familiar with the story: A small-town local newspaper just a few miles outside of Wichita in Kansas was raided and items were seized from both the office and the publisher's home. The raid by local police was prompted by a story published about a local business owner. However, authorities said they were investigating what they called “identity theft” in a search warrant. The publisher addressed the public, stating that what he wants to come out of this is the President to reiterate the freedom of the press, he said, and that it is the core value when we think about our democracy. ■

‘This is Me’ outdoor concert at CEED

“This is Me,” an original production celebrating authenticity and self-love, will premiere on BROOKHAVEN Aug. 26 at 2 p.m. This free event features musicians, poets, singer/songwriters, dancers, and inspirational speakers with combined careers spanning 50 years. Performers include accomplished musicians—some who have worked with Bob Marley, Susan Tedeschi, Wyclef Jean, and others—and up-and-coming artists and students. Food will be provided by Island Empanada.

The event is presented by INSPIRED, an organization dedicated to helping children and young adults—especially those from underserved communities—achieve success through the arts. According to its founder, Jo-Ann Wilson, LMSW, the purpose of the show is to encourage confidence and challenge negative self-talk. “We are not the sum of our past mistakes or the balance in our bank accounts,” she said. “‘This is Me’ is an invitation for self-exploration, self-celebration, and making connections.”

This outdoor concert is hosted by the Center for Environmental Education and Discovery (CEED), whose mission is to connect communities to nature and science with the creative use of discovery, art, and education. In case of rain, the concert will be held indoors.

The featured performers include Jo-Ann Wilson, Ruben S. Austin, Jonathan “Johnny Will” Wilson, Sterling “Sax” Bailey, Jerry D’Amaro, Adriana Devers, Oya Bandura, and local artists from the community.

“This is Me” is partially funded by the New York State Council of the Arts, administered by the Huntington Arts Council Inc. and the County of Suffolk. CEED is located at 287 South Country Road, Brookhaven NY 11719. They can be reached at (631) 803-6780. ■

Dasysiphonia japonica

Commonly referred to as simply Dasy (pronounced daisy), an invasive red seaweed native to the Pacific Northwest that appeared in the Great South Bay a few years back.

Thriving in the Bay's newly warmer temperatures, its decaying blooms are associated with fish die-offs.

It was most recently seen washed up along the shorelines in Patchogue. Its odor is offensive and, in large quantities, it can be toxic to humans and animals.

Hawaii fire relief efforts on Long Island

Aug. 9, 2023 was a tragic day for the island of Maui, Hawaii, U.S.A. The fires were devastating, with loss of 114 lives and complete destruction of homes, businesses, and cultural history.

Rotarians are people of action, worldwide!

The Rotary Club of Bellport, N.Y., has stepped into action by organizing a campaign to collect monetary donations from Rotarians, churches, friends, families, any or all individuals wanting to fulfill that internal human need to support each other and “create hope” for the island of Maui. A single fund, locally established, will be the most helpful over time to provide the most significant benefits.

Each bank check or electronic donation collected will be recorded and deposited in a dedicated local bank account of the Rotary Club of Bellport. We, the Rotary Club of Bellport, will then mail collective larger checks containing your donations to the Hawai'i Community Foundation, a 5-star Charity Navigator-rated organization, to purchase the prioritized needs of food, water, supplies and shelter. We may also send a check to the Maui Rotary Club to assist them in obtaining a Rotary International Disaster Relief Grant. We will continue this campaign effort through our Rotary year 2023-2034 (ending June 30, 2024).

Although there are many large international organizations offering Hawaii support, we are your local Long Islanders, New Yorkers, Rotarians volunteering in our Rotary Club to lead the way to organize and help the relief and recovery efforts for our fellow Americans.

Will you please reach into that human spirit of kindness and generously support our efforts?

MY TURN

A story of local government helping with passports

BY WENDY PALLADINO, MEDFORD

When I was 14, my mother died and left a huge void in my family forever. Her ashes were laid to rest next to the grandparents that raised her, back in her home country of El Salvador.

At the age of 42, I asked my family if they would be ok if I brought her home, back to New York, so that we can visit with her as we continue to heal from her loss. My family enthusiastically agreed and were overjoyed with the decision.

Planning the trip itself left us with more anxiety than joy, however. The worst part of the planning was the passport application process. I needed to renew my children's passports, and the process was very slow. I received my daughter's passport in 12 weeks, but 15 weeks later, I still didn't have my son's.

Since this is an issue so many of us are having, I found myself talking to anyone and everyone about it. Many people shared their stories with me. A friend of mine told me of her story of having to go to San Juan, Puerto Rico, for her in-person appointment. At the height of my experience, I was preparing to go to Colorado.

However, that same friend had also shared that she reached out to her local congresspeople and recommended I do the same. Three days after reaching out to congressman Garbarino's office, I had my passport in hand. They were responsive and attentive, and I am so incredibly grateful to him and his staff for making the assisting of his constituents with their passports a priority.

My cousin, who lives in Los Angeles and who was meeting me in El Salvador, was having the same terrible passport experience. I told him the success I had by reaching out to my congressman, but he was doubtful he'd have the same results in a large city like L.A. His wife was willing to try, and so reached out to her local congressman, Jimmy Gomez of L.A. Soon, she had her son's passport in hand as well.

These are two amazing examples of local government doing the most important job that government has, in my opinion, which is to serve the community they represent when they are in need.

So, a special shout-out and thank you to Kara from congressman Garbarino's office—you have my deepest gratitude. And thank you congressman Garbarino—without the help from your office, this trip would not have been able to happen. ■

Annual Cocktails by the Bay

Bellport Village Program Fund celebrates

A record 250 guests gathered at the annual Cocktails by the Bay in the garden of the bayfront home of Roger, Sava and Phillip Thomas on Saturday, Aug. 12, to celebrate the generosity of all those who contributed to the highly successful projects launched by The Bellport Village Program Fund (BVPF).

Michael Foster, chair of The Bellport Village Program Fund, joined guests to thank hosts Roger and Sava Thomas and to express gratitude for the continued generosity of their donors supporting all of their projects.

This record turnout not only included village residents but also residents of neighboring communities, who recognize the work and the impact that the BVPF has beyond just the village itself. The energy and enthusiasm for the work of the BVPF was plainly evident!

The BVPF works with the historic Village of Bellport in a public/private partnership to execute selected projects in the village to preserve and enhance the village's exceptional ambiance and amenities for Bellport Village residents.

BVPF is executing two significant projects this year: partnering with the village and the Bellport Environmental Committee to purchase and install bike racks in 10 strategic locations throughout the village to decrease the reliance on cars and encourage bikes; and installation of air conditioning in the Community Center basement recreation room. BVPF previously restored the historic 1929 bowling alley and completely redesigned and renovated the Community Center basement recreation room, in which the bowling alley is housed.

The BVPF's first and very impactful project, Project Bite Back, started 10 years ago. It has since effectively controlled mosquitoes and abated green flies at Bellport's Ho-Hum and Mother's beaches as well as at the Bandshell Park. These locales would be all but unusable if not for this project.

The Bellport Village Program Fund, a private not-for-profit New York State 501(c)3 organization, is dedicated to executing projects that contribute to the beautification and cultural awareness of Bellport Village and the education and engagement of its youth.

All contributions are tax deductible and go 100 percent directly to projects, with the BVPF Board funding all operating expenses. All the projects are done in cooperation with the Village of Bellport and demonstrate the power and benefit of public/private partnerships. ■

WINTERS RAIL TERMINAL

WINTERS BRAS. Rail Terminal

What is the Project?

The biggest and most environmentally friendly project to come to Long Island in the past 50 years. The Winters Rail Terminal will be located in Yaphank and will provide critical and necessary infrastructure to serve Long Island for the next 50 years.

Why is this Project Needed?

The Brookhaven Landfill is closing in 2024 which means approximately 1.2 million tons of waste will need to go somewhere. A rail transfer station will allow the waste to be processed and transported to distant landfills for proper disposal. Rail will remove more than 60,000 trucks off the Long Island Expressway annually. A smart rail solution is the answer and will provide a safe and sustainable solution to manage waste generated on Long Island.

What is Included?

Long Island Center for Sustainability - A rail served transfer station and recycling facilities for appliances, electronic waste, construction and demolition waste and municipal solid waste.

65 acres of green space
2,400,000 sq. ft. of Industrial warehouse space
24,000 linear feet of railroad track

Benefits

Jobs - This will bring 1,800 construction jobs and between 1,400 and 1,800 permanent jobs to the community.

Less truck traffic - Railroads reduce highway truck traffic on the Long Island Expressway and reduce greenhouse gases to fight against climate change.

Clean air - The railroad infrastructure is important to the future of Long Island. With trains being more fuel efficient than trucks, railroads are the most environmentally sound way to move freight over land.

Green Space - More than 25 percent of the 228 acres have been set aside as a conservation easement to preserve open space.

We need your support for this exciting project to preserve and protect Long Island's environment.

Learn more about this project at our website and subscribe to our mailing list to receive more information.

Stop and try Tiesto's!

Tiesto's, located just outside of Patchogue Village's Main Street, is a new Ecuadorian restaurant in the former Blue Goose location.

Chef Luis Marin comes from a small town in Ecuador, South America. He grew up in the restaurant business and got his talent from his mother, who owned a restaurant in his native country.

Once he migrated to the U.S., he decided to make cooking his career. After many years of indulging people with his delicious food in a local restaurant in Bellport, he decided to open his own restaurant.

He now owns Tiesto's with two daughters, Jessica and Ivonne, who also have been in the restaurant business for many years. The trio is excited to open the doors of Tiesto's and make you feel like home.

Why Tiesto's?

Tiesto is a handmade clay plate, used for cooking in the Andean culture. Their ancestors cooked in the tiestos so the food would concentrate its flavors and retain heat with ease. They perform differently than metal pans and pots.

Almost Home Animal Rescue receives the NYS Senate Empire Award

A Patchogue animal rescue organization has been recognized by New York State Sen. Dean Murray (R,C), for their excellent work with pet rescues and adoptions. Murray presented the New York State Senate Empire Award to Linda Klampfl, the founder of Almost Home Rescue & Adoption Inc., who was joined by members of her staff and several volunteers.

Almost Home's mission is to rescue animals and re-home unwanted and abandoned dogs and cats from private homes and municipal shelters, and place them in responsible homes. The staff and volunteers are the lifeblood of the organization.

Besides rescues and adoptions, Almost Home goes into the community, working in economically challenged areas to offer assistance and resources to pet owners in need. Their Training Wheels program facilitates a bond between owner and pet while preventing overpopulation by providing no-cost spaying and neutering in areas where it is not easily accessible.

They also provide an education program for children to help them become more humane pet owners.

"As a pet owner and animal lover, I am proud of the work that Almost Home Rescue and Adoption does, and it is my privilege to present them with the NYS Senate Empire Award," said Murray. ■

Bellport resident awarded American Meteorological Society Graduate Fellowship

Shaun Laurinaitis, of Bellport, has been awarded the 2023 American Meteorological Society Graduate Fellowship.

BELLPORT With the fellowship, Laurinaitis will pursue a MS in meteorology, at the University of Oklahoma.

The AMS Fellowship Program, now in its thirty-third year, is designed to attract promising young scientists to prepare for careers in the atmospheric or related oceanic and hydrologic sciences. The program recruits promising young people entering their first year of graduate study, from a wide range of interests that include: meteorology, physics, mathematics, hydrology, environmental science, oceanography, marine science, computer science, and engineering. The graduate fellowship is one of nine awarded by the AMS in collaboration with industry and government agencies. Stipend amounts vary from $5,000 to $26,000.

Laurinaitis graduated from the State University of New York at Oswego with a bachelor's degree in meteorology. He is the recipient of the SUNY-Oswego Presidential Scholarship and the Charles

P. Dolan Memorial Scholarship. Laurinaitis will research trends in winter weather during graduate school. Recently Global Climate Model data has been dynamically downscaled to a much finer resolution. This allows for datasets of future climate trends on a finer scale. Laurinaitis will examine these datasets to understand future trends in synoptic scale weather patterns that are conducive to wintertime snowfall variability.

Since 1991, AMS, in partnership with its members, corporations and federal agencies, has been supporting and engaging with the next generation of scientists. We have awarded over $12million in graduate fellowships and undergraduate scholarships to nearly 1400 students who are pursuing degrees in the atmospheric or related sciences. AMS celebrated its 100th anniversary in 2019 and as part of the celebration a Campaign was established to raise funds needed to launch new initiatives and programs that will continue to expand the diversity of AMS, strengthen and grow the weather, water, and climate community, foster student growth, and deepen our impact on science and on society.

ABOUT AMS

Founded in 1919, AMS is the leading voice in promoting and advancing the atmospheric and related oceanic and hydrologic sciences. We are committed to supporting and strengthening the weather, water, and climate community to ensure society fully benefits from scientific education, research, and understanding.

Headquartered in Boston, with an office in Washington DC, AMS has more than 13,000 members, including researchers, scientists, broadcasters, educators, and other professionals, as well as students and weather enthusiasts. AMS publishes books, textbooks, and monographs as well as more than 2,000 articles annually across 11 peer-reviewed scientific journals. AMS set the standard for broadcast meteorologist certification in 1957, and today more than 1,500 broadcasters and consultants are AMS certified. Each year, AMS holds 8 to 12 specialty meetings and an Annual Meeting that draws more than 5,000 attendees. AMS helps inform policy makers of the latest scientific understanding and high-impact research, and promotes Earth Science literacy through initiatives for K-12 teachers and undergraduate institutions across the country. ■

BARBARA ANN GOY HORAK

Barbara Ann Goy Horak left us to join the angels on July 11th, 2023.

Bobbie as she was known lived in Patchogue her whole long-life, attending elementary, Patchogue high and secretarial school. She still lived in her childhood home till her passing.

She spent her childhood summers at her wonderful grandparent's dairy farm, in Pennsylvania, running through fields, swimming in the fishing hole and milking cows. Her sweet uncle Harry was always quick to show her his hunting skills and make her laugh. The love of her life was her childhood sweetheart Bill.

They were by each other's side for well over 64 years. He still called her his bride. They had 4 wonderful children, Bobbie Ann (Kris), Billy boy, Todd(Darlene),Heather (Nick). And 5 incredible grandchildren that she adored, Kuinn, Kooper, Nicholas, Andrew, Liella.

Her family was the biggest joy in her life. She loved her lilacs, huge rhododendrons, and her gardens. Bobbie loved swimming in the ocean and pools and cooking for her family. Her yeast cake was a favorite. Her beautiful blue eyes and sweet face and sassy sense of humor was shared with all, including her longtime card players and adored friends, Chris and Margi, cousin Penny and Marco and Florence and Cuz. Grammy always made you feel she had been waiting to see just you all day, and now the day was complete when you were with her. What a beautiful sweetheart that we had in our lives. A private family service will be in Florida with a celebration of life to be announced.

Predeceased by her parents, Henry and Anna Goy, brother Hank Goy, sister Shirley Goy, and Bobbie's son, Billy Boy. In lieu of flowers, please give someone a smile or make a donation to the children's Leukemia society.

If you do not respond to this summons and complaint by serving a copy of the answer on the attorney for the mortgage company who filed this foreclosure proceeding against you and filing the answer with the court, a default judgment may be entered and you can lose your home. Speak to an attorney or go to the court where your case is pending for further information on how to answer the summons and protect your property. Sending a payment to the mortgage company will not stop the foreclosure action.

YOU MUST RESPOND BY SERVING A COPY OF THE ANSWER ON THE ATTORNEY FOR THE PLAINTIFF (MORTGAGE COMPANY) AND FILING THE ANSWER WITH THE COURT.

MEET ZOYA!

Zoya is a 1 year-old female terrier mix we pulled from a local animal shelter. She was doing horrible at the shelter, licking the bars and drooling. Since she came to Almost Home, she is doing much better. Zoya is good with dogs and walks well on a leash. She will do best with an experienced dog owner who will continue her training.
