Ban Is Removed On Construction

The "stip work" order which was placed on the Gunther building on Rivard near Charles street by order of the City Council a few days ago after protest of the neighbors, because they alleged he was putting up a building not conforming to the frontage fixed by the reservations for that location, was removed by direction of Councilman Carpenter Friday morning.

It is understood that a gentlemen's agreement has been reached whereby the property will conform. The chief complaint of the neighbors was that he intended to put up two properties on a frontage of 80 feet; one full lot of 60 feet plus a 20-foot strip. It is claimed that properties in this neighborhood must each be on a 60-foot front.

City's Beach Committee Informed of Improvements

Children's Wading Pool to Be Repaired; Picnic Tables and Guards Will Be Supplied, Members Told

The Citizens Committee on the Lakefront Park of Grosse Pointe City, recently appointed by Mayor Netting under authorization of a resolution of Council, met last Friday morning in the municipal offices.

The City was represented at the meeting by Councilman Chester F. Carpenter, who is Commissioner of Parks and Playgrounds; Neil Blondell, City Assessor; and Superintendent of Highways Julius Stork.

The Citizens Committee members present were: Co-chairmen Edward Pongraz of Notre Dame and Mrs. William Adams, of University place, Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Mathewson of 230 Lakeland, Mrs. Frederick William Munro of 1550 Cadieux, Howard Snure of 341 Lakeland, and Edward Wilcox of Loraine.

The Beach Park conditions and facilities were discussed at length and the committee expressed itself as greatly pleased with the work planned for this coming season. A more liberal appropriation has been made for the park this year than has been possible for several past years because of war conditions.

Among other things about $4,500 will be spent on putting the children's pool in condition. Also a number of picnic tables and benches are to be supplied.

One of the deficiencies of which the women complainants spoke at the Council meeting recently was the lack of suitable life guard arrangements. This is to be overcome by employing a Superintendent of Life Guards, who will have complete charge of all park employees delegated to this work. There will also be a more sanitary upkeep of the latrines.

With the excellent start that will be made this year, the committee feels that in another season or two of war-free years the parks will be in excellent condition.

The Committee commended Councilman Carpenter for the improvements that are to be put into effect this summer.

Planning Group Named in Woods

At the Wood's Council meeting Tuesday night there was a lengthy discussion of the coming commercial development anticipated in the Mack-Vernier area west of Mack.

To assure a creditable and uniform type of commercial building in the area, a resolution was adopted by council authorizing President Ghesquiere to name a planning commission for this particular area.

President Ghesquiere named Don Goodrow, Wade McKnight, Mac Luce, Roy Lang, Rex Johnston, George Couillard and Ray St. John.

Party for Pointe Veterans Set for This Saturday Night

Plans have been completed for the big party the Pointe is giving for its own veterans on Saturday night in the Neighborhood Club.

The program will get underway at 9 p.m. and all Pointe veterans, guys and gals, are cordially invited to be on hand. The entire facilities of the club will be turned over to them.

Dancing will be to the music of Bobby Baker and his nine-piece orchestra. There will be all kinds of contests during the dancing, such as earring matching, slipper dances, etc. for which prizes will be awarded.

The Breakfast Club, which gave sendoffs to all Pointe draftees leaving during the war years, will provide the refreshments. They have received great cooperation from Pointe businessmen and merchants.

The Hostess Corps, which showed soldiers, sailors and marines from all Allied countries how fine Grosse Pointe hospitality could be, at its many parties staged during the war, will be on hand for this event.

Veterans are urged to take their husbands and wives. If dates are required this can be taken care of by calling Niagara 4600.

Red Cross Drive Goes Over Quota

The Red Cross campaign in Detroit went over its quota of $2,400,000 Tuesday afternoon, E. A. Schirmer, campaign chairman announced, with returns to date totaling $2,443,487.

Thousands of medium and small sized gifts and $76,000 from motion picture theatre collections and from hotels, restaurants and night clubs put the campaign over. Schirmer reports the collections from D.S.R. and Packard employes, county branches and out-city motion picture theatres are expected to put the campaign over the $2,500,000 mark.

When the extended campaign ended with a report, luncheon April 15, the amount collected at that time totaled $2,316,000. Schirmer expressed deep gratitude on behalf of the Red Cross to Detroit citizens who continued sending in contributions after the campaign finished. More than $127,000 was contributed during the last two weeks of April.

UNEXPECTED ATTACK

Sunday night about 9:10 o'clock a piece of concrete was hurled through the window at the John G. R. Young home at 1041 Cadieux road. An examination of the circumstances, by the police led them to believe it was tossed from the wheels of a fast moving automobile.

NEWSBOY BITTEN

Robert Peterson of 956 Lincoln road, was bitten on the calf of his left leg on the night of May 2 while he was delivering papers on his bicycle. The offender is a Black Labrador owned by the Munn family of 440 Fisher road.

Jack Alkema Dies in Fall

Believed to Have Dropped from Top of Elevator in Frank and Seder Store

Jack Alkema, a 16 year old Grosse Pointe boy who lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ward H. Alkema, at 1410 Lakepointe, met his death Tuesday in a fall down a freight elevator shaft at the Frank and Seder store on Woodward, where he was employed.

The boy was believed to have crawled to the top of the elevator cage to look for some lost articles and have fallen off down the shaft.

He was removed to Receiving Hospital where he died a few hours after the accident.

SMART PUP

The Park police received a call from a resident on Balfour road last week to pick up a stray dog that had been haunting the premises. They picked him up and got him as far as Dr. O'Neil's front door. Although a homeless stray, he was a lively little fellow and must have suspected that all was not well within for him, so with a few hearty wrenches made his escape. The last the officers saw of him he was high tailing it down Kercheval.

Single Bid for Collection Of Garbage Blow to Woods

Council Finds Cost Will Be $7,000 Higher This Year; Budget Already Adopted at Old Figure

The Wood's village received a cruel jolt at the council meeting Tuesday night when it was found that the only bid submitted for the collection of garbage and ashes for the coming year was more than $7,000 higher than the same item in the past year.

Bernard Benson, who had the contract last year, was the only bidder and, as it was necessary to arrange for this collection at once, and there was no prospect of obtaining a better bid by postponing action, the Benson bid was accepted.

His contract last year was $15,000. This year it will be $22,738.

Another complication in the garbage situation is the fact that the budget for the new year had just been adopted, and the provision there, for the garbage and ash collection, had been on the last year basis. It will be necessary to meet this higher cost out of the contingent fund of $20,000.

Mother Deserves Queenly Present

Who's the queen of your heart? With her day just around the corner on May twelfth, there's only one answer. It's Mother, of course.

This year, her day will be a particularly happy one. The war is over, her favorite son or daughter is safely home—or at least scheduled to be there soon. With such happiness to start with, how can Mother's Day be other than a wonderful occasion?

Naturally, there's that little matter of a gift—and this year you'll want to have it just right, the perfect expression of your loving regard. You'll want your gift to be feminine, and you'll want it to be lasting.

If you're thinking in queenly terms for that mother of yours, you can't go wrong with a regal fragrance, one that has won the esteem of discriminating women ever since Catherine the Great chose it for her private scent some 200 years ago. Essence Imperiale Russe is a rare blend—mysterious and exciting, refreshing and romantic. Part perfume, part cologne, it combines the long lasting fragrance of the one with the exhilaration of the other.

Pointers Picked On "Clinic Band"

Two Grosse Pointe High School students have been selected members of the eighth annual Wayne University High School "Clinic Band" for 1946. The band will play for the Congress of the Fellowship of American Composers.

A committee of 12 high school band directors selected 95 members for the 1946 band from over 200 applicants representing 30 different high schools in and around the Detroit area.

The students from Grosse Pointe High School that were selected are: Martha Fischer, Clarinet; and Paul Terbrueggen, Euphonium.

In accordance with the objectives of the Congress, all music played by the Clinic Band this year will be by American composers. In most cases the composers will be in Detroit to conduct their own compositions.

The Clinic Band will open the evening programs of the Congress of American Composers on Monday, May 8, at the Music Hall.

St. Matthews Women's Club Will Sponsor Luncheon

If more women raised their vision not so many would need to have their faces lifted.

School Reports Theft of Cash

The theft of $15 in cash from a teacher's locker at Country Day School was reported to Farms police on the morning of May 6. Mrs. D'Avinaugh said she had three envelopes containing money. One of them was short $10 and another containing $5 had vanished completely when she arrived at school on Monday morning, she said.

An open window in the rear of the building indicated the means by which the thief had entered the building.

Seeing Eye Launches Membership Drive

Mrs. Richard H. Webber opens home for initial meeting of campaign; Dr. A. Duane Beam is speaker

Mrs. Richard H. Webber opened her Lake Shore road home on Monday (May 6) for the opening meeting of the 1946 Seeing Eye membership enrollment. Volunteer workers of the enrollment's three divisions gathered at 2:30 to hear Dr. A. Duane Beam, well known Grosse Pointe ophthalmologist, describe his recent experiences as head of the rehabilitation program for blinded personnel of the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard. Miss M. Romayne Thompson, chairman of this year's membership effort, presided.

After four years of service with the United States Navy, Dr. Beam has recently returned to his home on Lincoln road with Mrs. Beam, the former Dorothy Bolton, and their two small daughters, to resume the practice of ophthalmology here. A commander at the time of his discharge, he headed the ophthalmological staff of the United States Naval Hospital in Philadelphia, which was designated as the national center for the rehabilitation of blinded sailors, marines and coast guardsmen. His talk on Monday was devoted to the organization of the Navy's program for these men.

Following Dr. Beam's talk, a sound film showing the teaching of dogs and masters at the Morris-town, New Jersey, headquarters of The Seeing Eye, was shown.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

During the next two weeks a committee of 130 volunteer workers in Detroit and suburbs will seek 400 new members for the support of The Seeing Eye. Mrs. Oscar L. Bohr and Mrs. James B. Webber, Jr. are co-chairmen of the enrollment's Grosse Pointe Division. Vice-chairmen of the division include, Miss Ann Adele Brown, Mrs. Nelson Holland, Mrs. Harry J. Mack, Mrs. James McMillan, Mrs. Paul H. Sutherland, and Mrs. Clarkson C. Wormer III.

Ernest Kanzler of Touraine road is chairman of The Seeing Eye's permanent Detroit Executive Committee.

Women Republicans Plug For Registration of Voters

The Women's Republican Club of Grosse Pointe has started a drive to obtain as many re-registrations and new registrations in the area as possible. The drive was given impetus by the announcement some weeks ago by Clark Henry Lavers of Grosse Pointe Township, that thousands of voters here had allowed their voting privileges to lapse by failing to keep up their registrations.

The club is paying particular attention to mothers and women who are heads of households, asking them, to see that family members coming of age get on the registration lists immediately; and in seeing that their service sons and daughters returned from the war take care of their voting privileges as soon as possible.

Legion Auxiliary Issues Invitation

Seven hundred thousand women were enrolled in the American Legion Auxiliary for 1946 when the organization entered its April activities, according to Elva Nielsen, membership chairman for the Detroit Districts Association, these Districts having gone over their Quota for 1946 with a membership of 3,808 as of April 15. Reports received by Elva from National headquarters in Indianapolis, Indiana, show that enrollment of new members is continuing rapidly, largely women newly eligible through the World War II service men of their families.

In the first three months of 1946 approximately 45,000 more members were enrolled than during the entire year of 1945, when the previous high membership record was set. New Units are being chartered in every part of the country to serve with newly organized American Legion Posts.

The American Legion Auxiliary is now the largest women's organization of its kind in the world. Its service work for veterans and their families, along with its civic and patriotic activities, is attracting thousands of women into its ranks.

The Grosse Pointe Unit No. 303 of the Auxiliary is continuing its invitation to all eligible women to come into its membership for 1946. The unit now has an enrollment of 94 members, its quota for this year. It will be eight years old this month. New Theater Given Permit

Woods Approves Excavation on South Avenue South of Bournemouth

The long discussed moving picture theatre on Mack avenue south of Bournemouth has at last received official sanction from the Wood's village.

The theater will have a seating capacity of 1500. The original plan for a 3500 seat theatre has been abandoned.

Construction will begin at once and on Wednesday morning excavating machinery was on the ground.

It looks very much as though Grosse Pointe was going to have a broadcasting station of its own.

KISS OF DEATH

By LAWRENCE RANDALL
As Told to Mary Madelon

"Someone struck me," he was choking for breath. "Here—you take the golf irons at him—I'll have to wait here for you."

The murderer couldn't be far off, there being only this one trail in the grove. With a strange surge of satisfaction, I clutched that golf iron. This is it! I'd be face to face with the killer now. I was ready for him. And it would have been hard for me to decide for a jury at this instant whether there was self defense or murder in my own heart.

I plunged forward, cutting the path with the iron club ahead of me. An explosion of bullets flashed at my side. So close I could smell the smoke. Striking out blindly, with all my pent up force of passion, I could feel the swift impact of flesh on the steel of the club, then the violent rasp of branches as he plunged into the woods, with that final dynamo of energy that comes to all men fighting death. And dead he must now be, in the sudden black underbrush.

First I must get Birdie to the club house before he bled to death. There I could get the men to ambush this killer in the woods before he made an escape to the boat. In the soggy trail, my foot was caught and tripped by a soft object. Bending down, I picked up a drenched felt hat. The last, clinching clue to the murderer's identity.

I lifted Birdie's body. He was unconscious now. Toward the blurred lights of the clubhouse, I staggered up the trail, with the superhuman strength of desperation, zigzagging under the sodden weight of the boy's body.

Once on the lawn, the police guards who'd been guarding themselves from the storm on the verandahs, saw me, rushed wildly down the slope to a belated rescue. Carroll, cracking orders in all directions materialized instantly on the scene. Two of his men picked up Birdie's body and headed rapidly for the club. The others he detailed to the woods and lake.

Following the men lifting Birdie's body around toward the service entrance, I mused ironically that murder must still use the servant's door at the Grosse Pointe Golf Club.

Huddled in the light of the vestibule, I pulled out the soggy hat I'd stuck in my pocket back there in the grove. The hat of the man who'd killed Miranda Ames, killed Sue Manchester and tried to kill Birdie MacLean and myself.

Inside the hat, the bloody rim still showed the gill tracing the initials of the murderer's name.

CHAPTER 18. A FETE WORSE THAN DEATH

Don Monaco, the murderer, was going to be the star of his own deathbed scene if it killed him, which of course, it did.

There he reclined on the bed, a flamboyant ghost of himself in the folds of his mauve and chartreuse dressing robe. His smouldering eyes were black pits of evil in the pallor of his contorted face; his lightning white smile was twisted into a wierd sneer. Monaco wasn't going to like things in the hereafter any more than he liked things here. Little souls die little deaths. Not even the majesty of eternity at his elbow could make Monaco bow in repentance.

"Sit down, gentlemen," he gestured with mock courtesy, "Sit down, and I shall give you the motive, the 'modus operandi' and any other minor data you crave on these murders I've committed. You see, for a chap who's hopelessly bleeding to death with that royal and ancient curse of the Monaco family—haemophilia—I feel quite spry to die."

In the room with Don Monaco were Cornelius Dunn, Lieutenant Carroll, the doctor brought by Dunn, a legal stenographer and myself. Over in the corner of the room, the stenographer was tapping out a transcription of the confession; behind the bed, a dictaphone was making a record of the same conversation in the room.

If Don Monaco was determined to be the star of his final scene, Cornelius Dunn was equally bent upon being master of ceremonies and get the thing over on schedule.

Dunn was sitting at the bedside now, eyeing a wrist watch I'd never seen on him before. This watch was a curious, unique, priceless platinum affair with no hands, but a luminous gold ray measuring off the minutes beneath a slice of diamond crystal.

Monaco saw the watch too. He said: "Don't rush me. Maybe you think I'm not really trying, but I'm dying as fast as I can, Mr. Dunn."

Dunn shifted his gaze from the watch, staring at Don Monaco as non-committally as if he were watching a rattlesnake's slow, writhing demise.

The champagne that Cornelius Dunn had ordered up for Monaco, as his last maudlin request, shone golden in the glass in the sensuous white hand which he lifted from time to time to his lips. The doctor had decided that any injection would prolong the flow of the haemophilia. So the champagne was a form of anesthesia.

The doctor said: "I've sent for the ambulance. Perhaps if we can get him to a hospital—"

"Thank you, doctor. I won't need an ambulance. I hate hospitals, especially your mass production factories of birth and death. I'd rather die, sipping champagne, in bed as befits the last of the malevolent Monacos."

"Well," said the doctor, "you'll have strength to talk for a short while—"

Dunn cleared his throat. "Let's have it then. You admit you killed Miranda Ames, Sue Manchester, and tried to kill Birdie MacLean and Larry Randall. Right?"

Monaco sipped his champagne. "Perhaps not the right, but obviously the expedient thing to do."

Answer yes or no. You committed both these murders?"

Cornelius Dunn leaned over to a small table where Don Monaco's black and silver clarinet was lying. He flicked out his handkerchief, wrapped it around the clarinet and held it up before Monaco's eyes.

"This clarinet," he stated rather than asked, "this clarinet was the weapon with which you committed these murders. Isn't that so? Yes or no?"

"Yes," from Monaco. "I killed Miranda and Sue with it. Tonight, in the fog, I took a gun shot with a gun at Birdie and Randall, because I couldn't see them clearly. To do a smooth job with the clarinet, you have to aim accurately. How did you know the clarinet was the weapon, Dunn? I've been carrying it everywhere with me because I couldn't clean the blood seeped into the wood ridges—any corner chemist could have analyzed it as their blood."

"It was partly because you were carrying it, even in jail that I suspected it was the instrument of death. Why would anyone, even a moody musician, carry a clarinet to jail unless there was a reason why he couldn't let it out of his clutch? I suspected you, anyway. There was always a method in your madness, and this time there was madness in your method, Monaco. I had to have medical opinion on whether such an instrument of wood and silver could inflict a death wound. Tonight, on my way to the club here, I got the opinion from Doctor Tenever that a clarinet could inflict a death blow, provided the blow struck a certain area on the head known as the 'Temporo frontalis'—is that correct, doctor?"

"That is correct," nodded the doctor.

"You're doing very nicely," scoffed Don Monaco, "Why not go on, with my confession, Mr. Dunn?"

Dunn bent his wrist toward the light, measuring with a casual cold-bloodedness the remaining time for confession.

"We have now," continued Dunn, "established the fact of your committing these murders. You have acknowledged this clarinet to be the weapon. What was your motive, Monaco?"

"My motive?" Monaco sighed sardonically. "Ah, my motive was the same as your motive, Mr. Dunn. Money, money, money! The love of money is the root of all evil—and you're an expert at transplanting those roots. Perhaps you think you work for it. Well, I preferred shirking to working. A Monaco was never born to toil. Work is only for peasants. What you call here in America—the common man. Don Monaco was no common man. But being born with the curse of profligate ancestors, I had no family fortune to inherit. I had no alternative but to marry money. That is sometimes the bitterest method of earning it. But with Miranda, it would have been easy. That girl I could have loved, but for nothing—"

I turned away from the bed. Clenching my fists to my sides, I somehow controlled myself. I had struck the blow that brought on this death scene; I could not strike again a dying man.

Monaco was aware of my battle for control. He directed his Materials for making more than 20,000,000 memorial poppies have been distributed to disabled war veterans by the American Legion Auxiliary and Posts.

Millions of the little red flowers which will be worn in honor of the war dead on Poppy Day, May 23, already have been completed. It is estimated that 25,000,000 will be ready for distribution throughout America on Poppy Day.

Poppies are being made under the direction of the American Legion Auxiliary in nearly 100 hospitals and convalescent workshops located in all parts of the country.

The poppies which will be distributed here May 23 are being made at Battle Creek and Grand Rapids, where the Department of Michigan is giving employment to disabled men of both wars.

The Grosse Pointe Post and Auxiliary members will be on all corners starting May 23 at 12 o'clock. City Land Sale In Final Stage

The delay in the purchase of the property belonging to the City of Grosse Pointe north of Mack avenue and along Radnor for more than 5,000 feet, by the Augustinian Fathers has been caused by a rather deliberate searching of titles and checking of surveys by the City of Detroit.

The deal is that after the Augustinian Fathers have purchased the property from Grosse Pointe they are to sell all of it to Detroit except the irregularly shaped piece fronting on Mack. On this the Fathers intend to erect a High School with a capacity of 1500 students.

Detroit expects to take the remainder of the plot and incorporate it into its public park system. Lately there has been some discussion about a new grade school for Detroit on part of it.

"Tony" Appeals Pair of Fines

"Tony" the popcorn man, who has been in hot water with the Park authorities through his persistence in keeping his corn and candy truck in operation on Jefferson avenue, had a hearing Friday morning on two summons recently served on him by the police.

Judge DeBaeke fined him $10 and $5 costs on both counts. Koinis appealed both cases. The ordinance prohibiting curb service, recently passed and advertised by the village, is not yet in operation. When it becomes effective it is believed Tony will be stopped from using the public highways for the carrying on his business.

Third Defeat Handed Nine

Fordson Tractors Jump on Two Pointe Pitchers for 12-3 Victory

The Fordson Tractors must have gotten wind of those two no-hit games registered against the Blue Devil baseballers in the first two games of the season, because they held little respect for the Pointers' ability to hit the ball.

Wuerker, starting his second game of the season, pitched flawless ball in the first three innings, allowing no hits while striking out five Tractor batsmen.

Wuerker retired the first two batters to face him in the fourth inning and it appeared as though the Blue Devils would make a close ball game of it.

Wiacsek drove in two runs when he singled sharply and got in scoring position by stealing second base from where he scored on Motyka's single.

Christianson Helps Devils Down Acorns

Hurls Two-Hit Game As Pointe High Snaps Losing Streak to Win, 4-3

Kenny Christianson, Blue Devil southpaw starting his first game of the season, turned in a fancy two-hit performance to defeat the Royal Oak Acorns, 4-3, on Grosse Pointe's home field and snap a three game losing streak which saw the Pointers victims of two consecutive no-hit, no-run decisions in their first two Border City League baseball games this season.

Christianson not only turned in a fine mound performance but was good at the plate collecting one hit in two official times at bat.

Don Floor, diminutive Blue Devil catcher, advanced Christianson to second when he singled to left center field and when the center fielder let the ball get through his legs both runners took another base.

D.R.Y.A. Okays Regatta Starts

Commodore Dave Davenport of the Detroit River Yachting Association received suggestions from the race chairman for the starting order of all classes which will sail in the D.R.Y.A.-sponsored regatta this season.

The DRYA also adopted the classification for auxiliaries to be known as Class A, Class B, Class C and schooners and ketches.

With the conclusion of the war it seems that everyone wants to belong to a yacht club and participate in the regatta. So at present every club in the DRYA has a waiting list.

Pointe Tracksters Upset Monroe in 55-49 Victory

Win in Final Event Needed to Clinch Meet; Dan Beck Runs Thrilling Leg of Medley Relay

By FRED RUNNELLS
Fresh from the smashing victory over the Royal Oak Acorns, April 30, the Grosse Pointe High Blue Devils scored the biggest upset of the current track season when they edged Monroe out of top honors with a thrilling victory in the 880 yard medley, the last event of the meet, for a 55-49 victory, and its second triumph in the Border City League competition.

According to all pre-meet dope sheets the Blue Devils were the decided under dogs but refused to let figures determine the outcome before the meet was started.

Don Hiles got the Blue Devils off to a flying start in the first event, with a hard fought win over Monroe's Redlinger and Morelli in the 120 high hurdle. Monroe piled up a sizeable margin when Manual Hoskins and Bowling finished one-three in the 100-yard event.

Don Beck, carrying a six pound cast on his left arm as a result of a broken arm suffered in a neighborhood mishap, showed the way to Monroe's Morrell and Redlinger in the 200 yard low hurdles for another big five points which put the Blue Devils right up in the running.

Another heart breaking turn of events came in the 220 event when Hoskins and Bowling finished one-two ahead of Grosse Pointe's Bob Cudlip. This seemed to anger the Blue Devils and Dick Lamb and Al Johnson came right back to take a one-two win over Monroe's Morrin in the 880 event to tie the meet up at 32 points each.

The shot put event ran true to form when D'Haene won with a toss of 43 feet 5 1/2 inches. Don McPhail and Ed Isbey gave the Devils second and third respectively.

Don Duncan and Bill Wolfe pulled the biggest surprise of the meet when they tied for first place in the high jump event at 5 feet 6 inches, giving Grosse Pointe eight big points to knot the score at 45 all.

Ed Isbey increased the Devils lead when he out jumped Monroe's Eldridge and Hoskins in the broad jump with a leap of 19 feet 3 inches. This brought the score to 50 to 49 in Grosse Pointe's favor going into the last event, the 880 medley relay.

Drew and Bowling raced even into the far turn on the final leg of the race. It was here that Bowling gained a slight advantage which he held until he turned the baton over to team mate Eldridge, four yards out in front. Fraser took the baton from Drew and picked up three of the four yards before he passed the baton to speedster Dan Beck.

As Cudlip crossed the finish line bedlam broke loose and students and team members swarmed all over coach Frank Banach with congratulations. For once, in his life Banach was speechless and could only offer a huge grin.

Grosse Pointe will travel to Ferndale for its next meet, May 7, and attempt to keep its three meet victory string alive when it meets Lincoln High in a non-league contest.

Trombly School Wins High Honor

Trombly School of Grosse Pointe is one of 79 contest winners cited by the traffic and safety division of Automobile Club of Michigan for its outstanding traffic safety education program during the 1945-46 school year.

In recognition of its superior safety activities, it will be presented with the Auto Club Traveling Safety Cup Award, and will be eligible to send one safety patrol boy on tour to Niagara Falls beginning May 24.

This trip for outstanding safety patrol boys marks the return to a pre-war policy when winning schools were awarded trips to Washington, D. C. During the war period, bonds were substituted due to travel conditions.

Plan Summer Cut Flowers

When the neighbors begin cutting fine summer bouquets is no time to wonder why you can't have flowers like that. Begin planning and planting now, suggests Jack Rose, gardening specialist at Michigan State college. Don't forget or neglect the vegetable garden in order to raise flowers. Food is too important this year. But Rose says a few flowers for cuttings will take only a little time and space. Marigolds and zinnias can be seeded outdoors about May 10 to 15 to make good summer cut flowers. Gladiolus bulbs can be planted all during May. Space plantings about 10 days apart. Cosmos, nicotiana, African daisy, larkspur, baby's breath, bachelor buttons, candytuft and petunia can all be seeded outdoors right now to fill your summer bouquet.

Stolen Safe Recovered

Detroit Police Intercept Truck Carrying Loot From Pointe Office

When "yegmen" come to the Pointe they believe in doing a 100 per cent job. Rather than take any chances on overlooking any valuables that might be lying loose in the safe of the Staudt Real Estate company in its office at 15322 E. Jefferson Thursday night, they took the safe itself. Needing a convenient exit for the safe they broke the padlock on the door, and also the glass window for good measure. The breaking and robbery was discovered when the janitor came around about 6:30 in the morning.

The matter was reported at once to the Park police and while they were working on the case a call came in from Lieutenant Singsler of the 5th Detroit precinct that his men had captured a fellow in a truck who had some heavy baggage aboard in the form of a safe.

The Detroit police had had seen the truck at a nearby hour in the morning and had their suspicions aroused by the appearance of the truck. They had tried to over-haul it but the truck fled. They caught up with it at 1200 Manistique and at that moment a man was seen to jump out and run away.

The police caught the remaining occupant of the truck, who gave the name of Moses George, aged 30, of 3215 Lafayette, Detroit. He has remained mum as to his companion. As usual with such seasoned professionals, "he don't know nuthin." Soon after the capture the Detroit police got the Park teletape alarm and were not long in putting two and two together. Mr. Staudt identified his safe and the case is complete. Moses George had a hearing before Judge Victor DeBake and was held in $1,000 bail with two sureties. The charge was breaking and entering in the night time and larceny from a place of business. He will have his examination on May 17.
