PHILADELPHIA, PA., MAY 9, 1947

No. 7

On Stage Tonight— “The Phila. Story”

Tonight's the night. The Drexel Auditorium's the place. At 8:15 p.m. the curtain will go up on the Rouge and Robe production of Philip Barry's popular comedy of Main Line life, “The Philadelphia Story.” The lead role of Tracy Lord will be played by Helen Taylor. Last term you may remember seeing Helen in the one-act comedy, “Write Me a Love Scene.” Although Helen is only a freshman, she shows great promise and a long dramatic career is in the offing for her.

Macaulay (Mike) Connor, the reporter who comes to cover Tracy's impending wedding for a feature magazine and ends up in a midnight swimming party with his reportorial subject, will be very ably handled by Hal Paiss. This will be Hal's second starring role on the Drexel stage, his first being that of Uncle Sid in Eugene O'Neill's “Ah, Wilderness!” which was produced last spring. As a result of the swimming party, Mike has to answer to George Kittridge, Tracy's fiance who will be played by Will Rauch. This will be Will's first dramatic role on the local boards. Last term, however, he appeared in a totally different characterization as the Pirate King in the “Pirates of Penzance,” a role which called for dramatic as well as vocal ability. As Mike is getting his dressing down from George, the plot is somewhat further thickened by the presence of Tracy's ex-husband, C. K. Dexter Haven, played by Jim Crouse. Jim is a newcomer to the Drexel stage but shows much ability and can be counted on to turn in a good performance.

There is a wealth of talent among the newcomers. Dinah Lord, Tracy's “bratty” kid sister will be played by Rosemary Leonard. Another new discovery is Marilyn Goodman who will play Margaret Lord, Tracy's mother. An interesting complexity involves two other newcomers. A telegram informs Tracy that her father Seth Lord, played by Jack Campbell, will be unable to attend STORY on Page 5

'Terians to Hear Lecture On Palestine

The Drexelterians will hold their last and most important dinner meeting for the term on Thursday, May 15, 1947. The meeting, as usual, will be held in the Christian Association Building on the University of Pennsylvania Campus.

Dr. Daniel G. Firestone, a very well known and distinguished speaker, will discuss the current topic, “The Palestine Problem,” a subject about which Mr. Firestone is a recognized authority.

A new constitution for the society has been written and will be presented to the members for ratification at this meeting.

As this will be the last regular meeting for the present school year, elections of officers will also take place. Any member wishing to nominate new candidates from the floor for the various offices may do so before the elections at this meeting.

The present nominees for president are Bill Minshall and Shirley Neyhard, Dick Hannum and Bill Minshall are nominees for Men's Vice-President, and Shirley Neyhard and Flora Stabler, the nominees for Women's Vice-President. Dick Austin is up for Treasurer; Luva Baldwin and Annabelle Shields, for Recording Secretary. John Miller and Hedy Lou Schick are the nominees for Corresponding Secretary.

Soph. Class Votes $200 For DWM

The elections for next year's officers of the Women's Classes in the school took place last Wednesday, April 30, 1947. The results are as follows:

Senior class—

President—Jean Day
Vice-President—Marilyn Schultz
Secretary—Mary Lou Greisen
Treasurer—Flora Stabler

Junior class—

President—Dot Biddle
Vice-President—Janet Raughley
Secretary—Jeannette Gernert
Treasurer—Betty Procter

Sophomore class—

President—Elaine Schneider
Vice-President—Ginny Adams
Secretary—Pat Simpser
Treasurer—Betty Jane Telshaw

Two of the present classes have made notable contributions to several worthy causes. The Sophomore class voted in their last class meeting to contribute $200 to the Drexel War Memorial Fund. The Freshman class is helping to support the St. Nazaire recreation center in France by contributing $100.

Stu-Faculty Day at Lodge Tomorrow

By Charles Vermillion

Climaxing weeks of speculation and extensive preparations, the Student Faculty Day outing at the Drexel Lodge will hold sway tomorrow—from 11:30 until 5:00. Classes scheduled for Saturday morning will be in session as usual.

A look at the schedule of tomorrow's activities shows that a big, free lunch will be served at noon. Following, will be a varied musical program, as arranged by Mr. Wallace Heaton. The mid-afternoon hours will be filled with Student-Faculty competition—both in sports and in games less strenuous physically. A pair of skits, presenting Student and Faculty casts, will terminate the day's entertainment.

Tomorrow's Student-Faculty Day is a renewal of such occasions of former years, the War facilitating curtailment in 1942. It is expected that this revival will prove to be a gala affair, and will serve to somewhat lessen the social breach now existing between the faculty and a relatively huge student body.

Credit for the laying of the basic plans for such a get-together should go to Janet Conrad, who only until recently was president of the Women's Student Government Association. Her work was continued and enlarged upon by the Men's Student Council and the W.S.G.A. as a whole. Bob Hough and Olga Michaelcewich have worked diligently as co-chairmen, and numerous committees have generously given of their time in order to perfect a successful social occasion.

All students and faculty members, their husbands, wives, and children are invited to spend tomorrow at the Drexel Lodge in Newtown Square. Transportation, however, must be supplied by the individual.

Prom Queens Vie for Title

Bellevue Stratford will be Scene of Coronation Ceremony, May 17

By Jeanette Gernert

Five lucky girls have been chosen to compete for the honored title of Queen of Drexel's Annual Spring Prom, to be held this year at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel on May 17th from 9:00 P.M. to 1:00 A.M. and featuring Johnny Long's Orchestra. Shirley Arnold, Jean Day, Janet Forstadt, Peggy Jo Johnson, and Jeanne Kellett have been selected by the Prom Committee, made up of representatives of all the upper classes, as candidates for the contest.

Interviews with these girls show that the members of the committee had an eye for beauty, brains, and personality when choosing these five aspirants to the throne. Shirley Arnold, a freshman Junior Sec, hails from Frankford High School here in Philadelphia, where she was a representative on the Student Government and spent lots of her time attending the meetings of the Bowling Club, Riding Club, and the Secretarial Club. Graduating from there in June, 1946, Shirley entered Drexel's Business School in September. Delving immediately into the thick of college activities she is now a member of the Alpha Sigs, TRIANGLE Staff, Secretariate, Drexelterians, and the YWCA. In school Shirley likes English best, but in her free hours her choices are dancing, sports, and collecting miniature cups and saucers.

very active one at that. Jean graduated from Abington High School in June, 1944, and entered the Home Ec course here the following September. While still in high school she was a drum majorette for three years and an ardent tap-dancing pupil. Jean has quite a bit of executive ability too, having served as president of the sophomore and junior high school classes and secretary of the Student Council in her senior year. Entering Drexel she displayed the same ability and has served as secretary to Key QUEENS on Page 7

Mechanicals Elected to Honorary

Pi Tau Sigma, the Mechanical Honorary, held its informal initiation Wednesday, April 30, in the Student Building at which time three seniors and ten Juniors with outstanding records were accepted for membership in the society. The seniors are: F. Devaux, B. Fisher, and J. R. Johnson. The juniors are: H. Blumel, T. McDonald, J. McDowell, C. Andrews, F. Devine, H. Wolf, R. Freeburger, S. Herman, M. Weinstock, and T. Stilwell.

These are the men that have been seen around Drexel lately wearing engineers' caps and insignia plaques.

The formal initiation and banquet is planned for Wednesday, May 14. Faculty members and alumni have been invited to attend the ceremony.

Independents Plan Name & Program

The newly organized Drexel Independent women's group held its third meeting on Wednesday, April 29. Pat Redfield, who is chairman pro-tem, called the meeting to clear several issues left unfinished at the previous meeting. The dues decided on were $3.00 per school annum. The aims and purposes of the organization have not been definitely settled. The ideal aims will be selected by a group vote on the aims submitted by individual members.

The Independent group, contrary to popular rumor, is not a new sorority in the formative stages, but it is a group for the purpose of organizing the girls who have no affiliation with sororities and who desire to remain independent.

Another venture discussed at the meeting was for the Independents to make their official debut with the opening of the Women's Lounge with a tea. The group voiced its approval if the tea is to take place in September, but a negative vote for before the fall term since it is believed that the group will still be in the formative stages until the Fall term of this year.

Athletic Policies

THE present athletic policy is one of the most condemned on the campus. We have received complaints bitterly opposing the recent "no athletic excuses" from all quarters, but the reason for this action is very much muddled. Some of those involved assert that Drexel's Athletic Director informed the Administration that no athletic excuses were necessary; another group complains that even when excuses were issued, some professors refused to honor them; others state that the action is due to the expanded program; and still others maintain that the administration is flatly opposed to granting excuses because time out of the classroom is detrimental to learning.

Perhaps the real reason is a combination of all factors—perhaps the real reason has not been indicated. But regardless of what constitutes the real reason it's a crying shame that the action wasn't taken before athletic schedules were made, or deferred until the present sports season ended.

To take a typical example—our track schedule calls for a triangular meet at Swarthmore next Tuesday. Most of the members of the track team have classes until 4:30 p.m., some until 5:30—the track meet starts at 4:00 p.m. The same type of problem confronts other Dragon sports—and will continue to confront them until some equitable solution is formed by those holding the necessary authority.

Scholastic Honorary Elects Ten

At a recent meeting of the Phi Kappa Phi National Honor Society composed of members of the faculty and senior students selected from the first eight of their class, ten new members were elected.

The aim of the society is to provide, through meetings, the intellectual opportunities which will broaden the cultural experiences of the honor students.

Elected from the School of Engineering are Charles R. Davall, Earl W. Bennethum, Rocco Ditaranto, Frank A. Votta, David Mynick and Daniel Clapp; from the School of Business Administration are Eugene P. Werner, Joseph P. Power and Mildred Moore; and from the School of Home Economics, Cora Billig Foltz. The bids were sent out early last week.

Formal initiation will take place 6:15 Tuesday evening, May 20, in the Art Gallery. This will be followed by a banquet at the Ryder Club at 7:00. Dr. John Baker will be guest speaker. Formal attire will be a requirement for the women initiates, optional for the men.

At present the active membership of Phi Kappa Phi for the 1946-47 season numbers 56. This number includes 27 faculty members and 29 students, excluding the ten new members.

Letters to the Editor

May 6, 1947

To the Editor of the TRIANGLE:
Dear Sir:

I watched the degeneration of our school paper to the level of a comic strip with a great deal of dismay. I felt that as the organ of an institution such as this that the TRIANGLE should contain some degree of intelligent expression. In all fairness to you, I decided to think of the paper as an expression of college life, light and carefree. With this in mind I thumbed through the paper with a minimum of irritation, but in the May 2nd issue I find that you have presumed to delve into politics.

You say that, "a farmer's place is in the field—PLOWING, not dabbling in international affairs." To paraphrase that, your readers might say that, "a child's place is in his play pen—PLAYING, not dabbling in grown-up affairs." I take exception to the stand you take against Mr. Wallace, but in a country that has thrived on the free expression of thought, no one can take offense at your voicing your opinion. But this blessing of free expression carries with it a certain amount of responsibility. It is expected that a man will think before he speaks, to prevent the taxing of his fellow men's patience.

The subject of winning the peace has been uppermost in the thoughts of the thinking people of the world. We are feeling our way cautiously, ever wary of the threat of an atom bomb war. Now is the time for clear thinking of a truly serious nature. Instead we see that a student at an institution of higher learning, who has realized some form of success by being elected editor of the school newspaper, expressing himself on a serious topic flippantly and with absolutely no regard for the issues at hand. In debating it is considered unsportsmanlike to vilify an opponent if you have no sound basis to meet his argument.

If you feel the urge to dabble in politics, express yourself as is befitting a college man in this enlightened country of ours.

Sincerely yours,
HAROLD SHARLIN

EDITOR'S NOTE:
The author of the above letter has "WATCHED the degeneration of our school paper." Isn't it strange that the small number of complaints leveled at the TRIANGLE are from those students who merely WATCH the paper. Perhaps, Mr. Sharlin, the reason for the TRIANGLE's "degeneration" lies in the fact that YOU are not working on the staff. Repeatedly, we have requested students to work on the paper. The staff works from 7 P.M. till 11:30 P.M. every Tuesday and Wednesday evening. (The "PLAY PEN" is in the Student Building.)

A Student's Epistle

Dear Mom,
Well, mom, this past week was mid-term week! It hardly seems possible. But it's true. I don't know what else happens during this week, but for one thing, it's the time you begin to notice, more than usual, the students stumbling around the Court and mumbling to themselves and counting on their finger tips. I overheard one guy's private conversation the other day and he was saying, "Now if I get a hundred in the next quiz and a ninety-five on the final, along with the twenty I already have, I'll have this course whipped." And with that he dashed over to some stupid looking statue and rubbed the hell out of its big toe. This rubbing routine seems to be the right thing to do, because that big toe has been rubbed so much it's about as shiny and tender looking as pop's nose after one of his Saturday nights in town. There's a lot of other statues around on which I could find something a heck of a lot more inviting to rub than a big toe.

Talking about mumbling students, mom, tomorrow will be their chance to get even. Tomorrow the students are going to have some fun with the faculty, and they can hardly wait! Somebody in school (I think it was a girl, mom, because I can't think of any fellow who would think of it), decided that we didn't know the profs well enough on account of the way we go around mumbling under our breath about them. There are even a few rash individuals who do not bother to mumble—which is unhealthy, to say the least. Well, anyway, what happens is that the students and professors will get together and play baseball, tennis, ping-pong, and maybe even throw a couple shakers of dice behind the hedges when the deans aren't looking. The idea of all this is to show the students that the professors are really all right.

Mom, you remember my telling you what a tough time we have getting lunch around school? Well, there's a swell new restaurant that just opened up a couple of days ago and I eat my lunches there, now. It's not actually a new place—it's really a large new addition to an old restaurant and bar that must have been here when Billy Penn arrived. A couple of Irish lads by the name of Cavanaugh run the place and what a swell chow they put out—and reasonable, too. That cute little dorm package I've been raving about, the one with a figure like an hour glass with the sand in the right place, took me there for lunch yesterday and liked it so well that we never got to our afternoon classes. Everything would have been O.K. except that about two hours later my instructor walked in for a quick one and when he saw me, he wouldn't even say "hello." That wasn't very polite of him, was it?

I'll have to stop now, mom, as it is getting late and I still have to find my baseball shoes and my set of files.
Your everloving son,
Chesterfield.

Donald Dame to Sing At Spring Festival

By Esther Liss

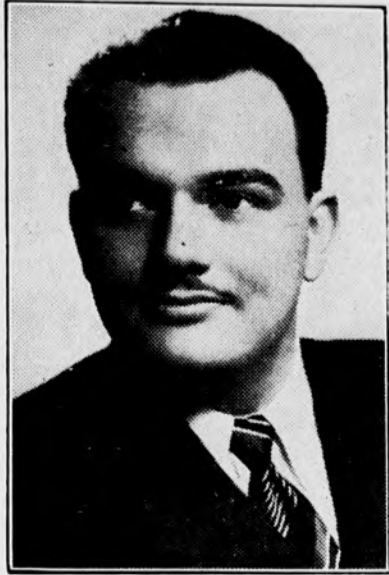

Donald Dame, well known young American lyric tenor, star of the opera, and concert stage, will appear with the combined musical organizations of Drexel on Friday, May 23, at 8:30 p.m., in the auditorium. Mr. Dame has planned a group of French, English, and Italian folk songs and several popular selections for his part of the program.

Besides being featured every Sunday evening over NBC's "American Album of Familiar Music" and having a record number of performances at the Metropolitan Opera to his credit, he is also a popular recording favorite for Victor Albums. Mr. Dame has appeared on more than one thousand broadcasts over four major networks and during the 1946-47 season alone has given 90 performances in the leading cities of the United States.

A scholarship student at Western Reserve University and later at Juillard he made his first appearance under the baton of Arthur Rodzinski with the Cleveland Orchestra.

Since then he has made coast-to-coast concert trips, appeared with the New York Oratorio Society and the Handel and Hayden Society of Boston, and he has also been tenor soloist with the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia and Baltimore Symphonies. Mr. Dame has sung the leading tenor roles of more than fifteen operas in the productions of the Metropolitan, Cleveland, Chautauqua, Detroit, Trenton and the New Opera companies, and the Worcester Festival.

It has been said that he has a sweet and resonant voice; that he has the ability to give his listeners an exhilaration of spirit which only a true artist could do. He surely would have won the bravo from Caruso himself.

DONALD DAME

Mr. Dame sings with fluency and accuracy and a kind of thoughtful phrasing that creates a purely instrumental effect.

Spring Music Festival program will include music by the combined glee clubs, selections by the Drexel band and orchestra with Wallace Heaton, director of music, conducting. William S. Thunder will play several numbers on the Drexel Grand Organ.

Independent Organization Now Active

The fledgling organization of independent men students for the purpose of building up interest in the student government here at Drexel has held several meetings in the past week. Both meetings were well attended by a representative group of students. During the meetings information pertaining to the rules and practice of electing student government officers was given by Hal Paiss. The importance of electing conscientious students to hold these positions cannot be overstressed. The main purpose of the organization is to insure the nomination of capable men for the coming election.

The independent group is not restricted to non-fraternity men and welcomes to its ranks any male student interested in better student government. As a platform in the coming election a suggestion was made that to induce more students to participate in class activities, at least one large social function, preferably a dance at a downtown hotel, should be given each year. Admission would be free upon presentation of a class dues card. The lack of studying facilities has reached serious proportions during the last few terms and a plan whereby enlarged study halls would be made available by placing restrictions on the use of the Student Building lounge and the men's lounge during school hours and the rearrangement of the Library so as to provide greater seating capacity are but a few of the plans being studied by this group.

A group of Accountants, gave a brief talk on the practical aspects of professional ethics as connected with the accounting profession and the high prestige which Certified Public Accountants enjoy.

Vet's Guidance Center Stands Ready to Help

How are you stacking up in your studies? If the going is rough, is it because you do not prepare yourself well enough or because you are a little rusty on the principles you learned in high school? If the going is rough, for example, in electrical engineering, is it because, perhaps, you are better suited for important studies in business administration, chemical engineering, metallurgy, commerce and engineering.

For the returned serviceman, the Veterans Guidance Center, 32 South 32nd Street, might have some of the answers to these questions. Except for men schooling under the Disabled Veterans laws and for men studying under the provisions of PL 346 and PL 268 who become academically deficient, the use of these Guidance Center facilities are entirely voluntary. To veterans there is no charge for these tests.

The Veterans Guidance Center has a series of well-tryed tests of aptitude and natural ability. (Don't worry, men. It's not the old G.C.T. all over again; neither is it the mechanical movements nor the maddening dot and dash sound test of Reception Center or basic training days.)

The tests used in the Center are designed to develop an objective psychological profile for each individual. These tests objectively measure the mental ability, personality, scholastic aptitude, and vocational interest of the individual being tested. From the results of these tests the trained appraiser in the center will be able to suggest the best professional or vocational objective for the veteran. In addition to suggesting the desired objective, the center may suggest the amount of training required and the preparation for entering one of the professions or vocations. With this information before him the individual veteran will be able to determine more easily the profession he should enter with a reasonable fair degree of success and happiness.

Of course, the Guidance Center would rather have the veteran take these tests before entering college. An Armored Division man, ex-member of a tank team, having been very, very chummy with a diesel engine during his years of war, may have decided that diesel power is here to stay and that the thing for him to do is to become a diesel engineer. The college and the Guidance Center, however, after tests, investigation, and interview, and with their knowledge of the opportunities in the diesel and other civilian fields, may make an effort to route the veteran into a field for which he may be better suited and in which he can be surer of employment after graduation. Findings and advice of this kind should be especially welcome to the veteran who is a few years older than his classmates. He cannot tolerate, economically, a misinterpretation of the vocational stirrings within himself.

Secretariate In Charge of Room 221

The Secretariate has been given a new job by the Business Administration Department. Members of the club will now be in the Office Machines Room 221, when no classes are being held there. The girls will be responsible to see that only students in Ec. 13 and Ec. 14 and B.A. 135 use the machines. If Dean Blackstone's office will approve, other students may use the room providing they have obtained a special permit from the Business Administration Office. Everyone is asked to cooperate with this plan and not to expect special favors.

The last social affair for this term was the Luncheon held Saturday, May 3, at Moravian Inn. Jane Wittman introduced the speaker Polly Tallman, of Gimbel Brothers. She spoke on SECRETARIATE on Page 5

Accountants Meet At Mitten Hall

By Bernie Yeager

Last Monday Temple University played host to the many thousands of accountants and future accountants of eastern Pennsylvania. Mitten Hall, Temple University, was the scene of the Fourth Annual Philadelphia Accounting Forum, held under the auspices of the Philadelphia Chapter, Pennsylvania Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and in cooperation with Colleges and Universities of the Philadelphia Area.

The program for this educational meeting was a complete and well-planned one, beginning at 2:00 p.m. and climaxed by a very delicious "McCallister Banquet."

The C.P.A. degree was the subject of the opening meeting. This talk covered the history of the degree from the inauguration of the first state law in New York State in 1897 up to the current laws governing the profession.

The afternoon was divided into two lecture periods, both consisting of three concurrent meetings. Mr. William A. Nagele, Jr., representing Drexel Institute of Technology, presided over the 3:15 meeting which discussed the duties and staff training of the Junior Public Accountant. Mr. Edward M. Blanchard, C.P.A., and Mr. Leon B. Bernstein, C.P.A., defined the duties and qualifications for this work. They attempted to sell the field of accounting to their very attentive audience which was composed largely of college students from the Philadelphia area.

At the other 3:15 meetings, Mr. Harry C. Zug, C.P.A., discussed the long and short forms of report writing, and Mr. John H. Haire, C.P.A., gave a very interesting lecture on the meaning and significance of the Accountant's certification.

During the last half of the afternoon, Mr. H. H. Kerkstein, Esq., very thoroughly covered the subject of Tax Fraud, pointing out the various types of errors made on income tax returns, the means of tracing down the actual frauds, and the laws governing the punishment for such crimes. At the same time Mr. David P. Fry,

Jr., C.P.A., was explaining why the auditor should understand Cost Accounting. The problems in field auditing were also thoroughly discussed at this time by Mr. Thomas H. Carroll, C.P.A., Mr. Lawrence J. Scully, C.P.A., Mr. Benjamin Goldenberg, C.P.A., and Mr. Nathan McClure, C.P.A.

All of the lectures were very well attended by men in the accounting field, college instructors, and students of Temple University, University of Pennsylvania, Drexel Institute of Technology, La Salle College, St. Joseph's College, and Villanova College. Many excellent discussions arose from the questions which the audience proposed to the speakers at the close of the various talks.

The Auditorium in Mitten Hall was filled to its very capacity at 6:30 for the dinner meeting. The steak dinner was a delicious treat and the music was superb. After the feast, Mr. John L. Carrey, Secretary, American Insti-

Congratulation to Kappa Phi Delta

It is indeed a pleasant event to congratulate the Kappa Phi Delta frat on the purchase of their new house at 3312 Powelton Ave.

On January 1, 1946, the legal proceedings for the purchase of their new house were successfully completed with the aid of their legal adviser and alumna member of 1942, Jake Baler.

The 85 members and 7 pledges of Kappa Phi Delta, led by Len Evelove, president; Sam Chinofsky, vice-president; Milton Reisman, treasurer; and Norm Perlmutter and Richard Goodwin, secretaries are industriously striving to complete the "rec" room in the cellar of the house in the very near future.

The house has accommodations for 20 men, but is without a kitchen. Even so it is filled to capacity at the present time.

The Kappa Phi Delta frat was established at Drexel back in 1921 by 11 aggressive young students and has grown until at the present time its membership equals 91. The frat has remained local for various reasons for the past 26 years but has hopes of soon obtaining national affiliations. They have previously had houses on campus, but since they lost their last house 6 years ago, they had had no pressing need for one until recently.

Mothers will tell their children And through ages the tale will grow.
How Martey Burrows from "202" Stole the Pi Kap Show.

Cat-Nips—It was real nice of the TKE's to give Carolyn a useful gift last Saturday night—we cannot let go unnoticed the new hair-do of our own Cleo de Feo—Chris Leone may be small but he sure is compact—he has everything, except a fraternity pin which is being worn by Peggy Waller—another Apple Pi who got up enough crust to open face and dish one out is Hugh Carrol—Lee is the lucky little gal—guess ya can't give away pledge pins, huh, Nelson—Bob Mills must be doing well at his industry job. He has bought lotts a new shirts so he doesn't have to wear his fraternity pin to hide the holes in the old one—he gave the old shirts to Jonesie—yes, and his fraternity pin too—Helen Cummins with the sparkle in her eye matching the sparkler on her finger—Nat Leventhal has joined the ranks of the ti-hi's and she has a diamond to prove it.

Scene Around—The W.A.A. did a fine job of presenting a spring Carnival—Jack Leary almost put the gals outta business when he won six chocolate bars for ten cents before bouncer MacMillan flogged him—good to see Bill Hensel around without his cast—cast, cast?—Oh, yes. "The Philadelphia Story" has a fine one—Joe O'Brian, swimming pools, pipes, Rosemary, brick walls and Crouse—all for 74c—ya can't go wrong—testimonial from Hank McCabe "I have no-nox since I switched to Ethel"

Special Warning to all those who are making "weekend" plans—It made her turn a violent red. After the deed was done She cried through tears—"I owe it all To the Ocean City sun."

Eel of the Week—It's that New Jersey accent of mine—the fact that Jack Coney's is smooth has nothing to do with it—he's the man of distinction you've seen on so many Ford advertisements lately—smooth—

Toll Stories—This will cost brother—there's the one about Bunky Stanton who started out by scratching his ear at an auction sale and ended up almost buying a grain mixer (wonder how his wild oats and corn would mix?)—found out the other day why Mr. Giles is so bald on top—when he was a young man someone told him he was smooth and it went to his head—here's a fine story—some guy got his check two days early last month—he is still being held for questioning.

For Men Only

Leave it to the female of the species to dream this one up. An odd plea was entered in a divorce court of recent date. The good Mrs. contends that she married her husband as a joke and immediately after the ceremony she returned home to mother to live, never putting any wear and tear on her husband's Beautyrest or bankroll. Not too unlikely a story, but a novel twist on the usual procedure, to say the least. The odd part of the deal is that this happened twenty-one years ago, and she's just getting around to the punch-line. Even a good joke can be overdone. It's a crying shame the newspapers don't follow up their space-fillers. There's more in that story than is catching the eyeball at first glance.

On the subject of marriage, a discussion of marriages of convenience has been kicked back and forth for some time now. No, bub—you've got the wrong idea. A marriage of convenience is not one of the shotgun variety. It's a marriage of me or you, preferably me, to a girl with a sackful of ten dollar bills. I can dream up no sane reason why you should let a few million dollars stand between you and the girl you love. (Marry me, honey, and I'll take all this away from you.) Granted, all you head-shaking graybeards, you don't want to marry a girl for her money, but can you think of any other way to get it away from her?

We went down last Friday evening to see what this Graduation or Bust business was all about. The dress rehearsals Friday and Saturday nights came off pretty well. I think the Pi Kaps are to be congratulated. A few more weeks of rehearsals and re-writing and they may have a show worthy of public presentation. Keep up the good work, boys. You've done a good job in the musical department, too. There is one number in the show that I think you're going to hear more about. It goes something like.

"Fish gotta swim, birds gotta fly. I gotta love one man till I die—"

DISCUSSIONS

By Al

Local Lad

Ted Weems, Phila. boy who made good, has pulled the neatest trick of the month. He recorded Heartaches years ago and does not get royalties on it. Now that he has a band again he has recorded a tune called Violets and given it the Heartaches treatment. Number comes complete with Elmo Tanner whistling and is almost a carbon copy of the hit, Heartaches. They change a note here and there, but a casual listening would make you believe it is Heartaches. Now our boy, Ted, can collect from the sales of this new platter, he hopes.

Stafford Sings

Jo Stafford, of Chesterfield fame, warbles A Sunday Kind of Love and Ivy on her latest Capitol record. Ivy, a song sure to be dear to the heart of Miss Monk of the typewriting dept., was written by Hoagy Carmichael (he being the one responsible for Ole Buttermilk Sky and Stardust). Hoagy thought up the theme

Notes From A First-Nighter...

The Pi Kap extravaganza proved to be worth all the advance publicity. As a musical comedy, the book had body (which is more than most of the professional shows offer) and the original music was both lilting and catchy. Although the first act dragged slightly, the second act caught up with itself for a rollicking finish.

Show-stopper Martha Jane Perrine was in good form for "Can't Help Lovin' That Man" and gave just the right touch to composer Dorwart's ballad, "It's All Over Now." The dancing chorus showed sparkle through the efforts of Mary Long and years ago but didn't use it until he was asked to write a tune for the new picture "Ivy" and then used the old theme and the picture title.

By the way, seeing how simple it was to write a song and receiving inspiration from the Pi Kap show, your disc reviewer decided to write one himself. However, you better hope it isn't recorded because the title is You. Can't you see yourself going to the record dealer and saying "I want You, how much will that be?"

Prom Platter

Our Spring Prom Maestro, Johnny Long, is recording for Signature records. Latest release has the popular How Are Things in Glocca Morra and a novelty titled Last Night On the Back Porch. The Porch number has some of the famous Shanty Town in it and is a swell record, even if it was banned from the radio for being suggestive. Oh well, it gives radio vice-presidents something else to do besides cutting comedians off the air.

Real Record

Showing that he can always be counted on for something different, Lionel Hampton, the ex-Benny Goodman vibe man, plays Lime-House Blues on his newest record. The rhythm section really comes on and the frantic tempo is maintained throughout the record until the half-time ending. Don't try to anticipate the ending as it just goes on and on (like Reggie Van Cleavage trying to graduate from Drexel).

Scotch Andruscavage, both of whom had all the personality—the rest of the line-up looked somewhat bored with the whole idea. Orchids also to Bob "Kidnap Kelly" Lake who stole the show without opening his mouth, Shirley (our own little girl) MacMillan in her "Lydia, the Tattooed Lady" get-up, Joe Shields—newest swoon-boy of the age, and Leo Hauf, who could get a job with Dillinger any day of the week . . . he's that good! It was quite an evening . . . and Broadway will love the show!

By Ginnie Greene

The Lambda Chis up at Bucknell are planning an exotic spring weekend based on theme, "An artist's garret in Paris." (Couldn't be any better than ours tho' . . . eh, kids?) . . . Our little French Canadian paper (which is printed sometimes in green ink, sometimes in brown on tan) is already bidding the student body happy summer vacation ("vacation"! two cents says there're no engineers up there) . . . Outside of the fact that the paper will sometimes run a whole page on subjects such as pasteurization, Okinawa, etc., it's quite interesting . . . (darn, but I wish I could translate those cartoons!).

PHILADUSTRIAL RAMBLES by Ray Brogan Story

Consider the progress made in Philadelphia in the electric systems between 1876 and today. The generating unit of 1876 consisted of one demonstration unit at the Centennial Exposition which was hard put to produce one kilowatt. Today the Philadelphia Electric Company with ten generating plants, three of which do not produce 3000 kw. in the aggregate, produces 1,259,710 kilowatts. Together with its subsidiaries it serves an area of 2,255 square miles with a population of 2,697,000. The heart of this power generation is carried on by seven large generating plants, one of which can be seen from the Chestnut Street side of Curtis Hall.

A typical generating plant is Richmond station at Delaware Avenue and Lewis Street. It is a ten story building consisting of three main sections: the Boiler Room, Turbine Hall and the Electrical End.

The Boiler Room has a floor space of approximately 20,000 sq. ft. and is about ten stories high from the ground to the base of the smoke stacks. It is built in two sections, the new and the old ends. The old end has twelve boilers which supply steam for the operation of two turbo-generators. The new end was put in operation in 1936 and has two boilers for one turbo-generator which was the largest single shaft turbine that Westinghouse had manufactured till then.

Turbine Hall contains the three turbines which are the generating units of Richmond station, capable of producing 285,000 kw. One of the older turbines was manufactured by Wheeler and the other two by Westinghouse.

The Electrical End is the control center for the station. It contains all the transformers and buss rooms and regulates the flow of current from the station into the system.

In a station such as Richmond, coal and water are the main raw materials used in the production of electricity. The coal is the fuel used to heat the water to steam. The coal is used entirely in the boiler and its heat is used entirely in the boiler. The water becomes steam and as such it is used to turn the turbines. The steam is also used to heat the water going to the boilers.

The heat cycle of the steam is very interesting. The water enters the boiler through tubes about which the hot gases of the burning coal pass, heating the water to steam. The steam is carried to the superheater area in the upper regions of the boiler where the hotter gases of combustion super-heat the steam. The super-heated steam is then fed to the turbines where its main job is to turn the turbines. The majority of the steam passes through the turbine into the condenser where it passes around tubes, through which cold water runs. This condenses the steam to water. This water is called condensate and passes from the condenser to the first and second heaters and from there to the boiler feed pumps where it is pumped back to the boilers.

The first and second heaters are supplied heat by bleeder lines from different stages of the turbine. The bleed steam passes about tubes in the heaters, carrying the condensate. This heats the condensate and turns the steam to hot water. This hot water is pumped into the condensate lines and follows to the boilers.

City water is not pure enough for use in the boilers or turbines and for this reason any water lost, either as steam or condensate, through leaks in steam or water lines, must be made up in evaporators. The procedure in the evaporators is the same in general as in any of the heaters. City water passes over tubes containing live steam bled from the turbine. The water turns to vapor and is then condensed, run through a deaerator to remove any air, and then pumped into the boiler feed lines. From the boiler feed pumps the water goes to the boilers where it starts its cycle again.

her wedding. When "Uncle Willie" Tracy, played by Jack Cochran, shows up he is introduced to Mike Connor as Seth Lord, Tracy's father, in order to present a "nice" family picture. The complexities develop when Seth does arrive and has to be introduced as "Uncle Willie." Not to be overlooked is the fine performance to be turned in by Jean Keller as Mike's journalistic companion, Elizabeth (Liz) Imbrie. Among all these novices one veteran thespian stands out—Al Polanecky who plays Alexander (Sandy) Lord. Al's performance of a dual role in "The Thirteenth Chair" has established him as an actor. In "The Philadelphia Story," Al's performance of Tracy's brother is no less spectacular. The cast is rounded out by Ed Brewer, Marion Garber, and Joe O'Brien.

Austinmen Drop One to Swarthmore

This past Saturday afternoon the Drexel stickmen ran into one of the best teams in this neighborhood and came out second best, 9-2. In the opinion of the coach, the Dragons looked very much improved over some of their previous matches. Avery Blake, the Garnet's coach, made the statement that our goalie, Andy Andrews, is about the finest net tender he has seen in play this season. Phil Schneider, the game captain, switched to midfield this time and played an exceptionally fine game for the Blue and Gold. Jack Pyper played a gleaming brand of ball on defense and Bill Dickinson, a newcomer to the starting ten, performed very commendable.

The first quarter got under way and Swarthmore was first to draw blood when Stafford Metz whipped a goal by at 4:02. Two more goals were zipped into the net for the Swarthmore men and at the end of the first quarter the score stood at 3-0. The Dragons played commendable during the second quarter and the half-time score was 5-love. During the third period the Dragons seemed to come to life and slipped through two counters. Craig Smith came through with one at 3:33 in the third quarter and Ed Stier counted with his at 11 minutes even. Stafford Metz was high gunner on the field with a total of 4 goals for Swarthmore and he was followed by Johnny Pyper with two. The captain and All-American player for Swarthmore, Jimmie Bodwitch, was held down to one counter by very close guarding on the part of the DIT defensemen.

This Saturday afternoon the stickmen travel to the lair of the Nittany Lions to run up and down the field with the Penn State lacrosse team. It should be a fine game, especially if the Dragons show as much improvement for this contest as they did against the Garnet.

Cindermen Collect 9 Points in Meet

Last Saturday, the Drexel track men met West Chester State Teachers and Lehigh at West Chester and came out on the short end of a three-way decision. The meet showed the need for more practice and some support from the student body.

The following are the events that Drexel placed in and the winning times:

120 Yard High Hurdles	2. Dick Hanlon	Winning Time: 17.2
220 Yard	4. Bob Heffner	Winning Time: 23.7
440 Yard	4. Robert Baum	Winning Time: 51.3

Amy Roosevelt Downs Girls' Softball Team

The women's varsity softball team played the Swarthmore team on April 30 at 4:00 P.M. and met defeat by the score of 11-3. This was the second game for Drexel after losing to Penn by the close score of 14-13.

Swarthmore was the first up to bat and in the first inning scored one run. The Drexel infield was a little slow in settling down. First up to bat for Drexel was Mickey Yabe, third baseman, who went down before Amy Roosevelt's speedy pitching. Shirley had a single and stole to second base, but was later put out at third base when Marilyn Schultz made a pop out.

In the second inning, Swarthmore kept connecting with the ball and scored three runs, now being ahead by the score of 4-0. Amy Roosevelt, pitcher for Swarthmore, kept putting her fast ball across the plate and Holland and Michalewicz both struck out while Simperts had a pop out.

Swarthmore scored four more runs in the third inning despite Thaysen's excellent pitching. During this inning, Mickey Yabe was hurt at third base and the following substitutions were made: Schultz went to third base, Beagle came in from the outfield to play short stop and Goto went to right field. The first run for Drexel was scored by Betty Proctor who had a single at her turn at bat. Following her, Betty Beagle also made a single and eventually came home on a single hit by Thaysen. The score was now 8-2.

In the fourth inning, Drexel's infield tightened up a bit and did not allow any runs to be made. However, Drexel did not score either.

The Drexel infield now tightened up a bit and prevented Swarthmore from scoring in the fourth inning, and held them down in the fifth inning to one run. The fast pitching of Roosevelt prevented the Drexel girls from scoring in both the fifth

Women Attend Softball Clinic

The Annual Softball Clinic was held at the University of Pennsylvania on Tuesday, May 6, 1947, at 6:45 P.M. The purpose of the Clinic is to demonstrate to the different coaches and women softball players various techniques and game situations that might occur in any meet.

Some of the colleges represented were Beaver, Temple, Ursinus, Bryn Mawr, Swarthmore, and Drexel. Several of the members of the Drexel women's varsity softball team also took part in the Clinic.

After a short period of demonstrating throws, running skills, and batting, there were two teams picked to play an exhibition game. Several of the Drexel girls were chosen to be team members.

and sixth innings.

In the seventh inning, Holland was up first at bat and walked. After a steal to second, she came on home when Michalewicz hit a drive to the infield. Next up to bat, Simperts struck out and then Proctor walked. Beagle also walked. With someone on third and second bases, Yabe came up to bat. Roosevelt pitched with excellent control and struck out Yabe, a heavy hitter.

Special note should be given to Amy Roosevelt who stands among the best of the women pitchers on the softball teams of the colleges in our vicinity. She not only has excellent control of the ball but an exceedingly fast pitch which cuts the outside corner of the plate.

Dragons Win Over Stevens

McMainsmen Romp Over Techmen 11-4 to Get Back on Victory Path

The Dragon baseball team scrambled back to the win column Wednesday afternoon, April 30, by crushing Stevens Tech 11-4. It was the fifth win against one loss for Drexel in the Middle Atlantic Conference baseball league.

Ed Meyer went the distance for the McMainsmen, hanging up his second victory in as many starts. Although touched for nine hits and four runs, Meyer was never really in danger after the third inning, in which the Dragons pushed across four runs to take the lead at 4-1. Three runs in both the fourth and sixth innings and a lone tally in the eighth inning completed the Dragon scoring for the day. Ed Meyer aided his own cause by pounding out a double to spark the third inning uprising.

Drexel regained its batting form once again and collected thirteen safeties, all but two of the one-base variety, from the offerings of Jack McCaffrey, Stevens' mound ace. Bob Brown, leading hitter of the Drexel aggregation, led the attack with three hits in five trips to the plate. Joe Uhland and Joe Brethwaite each pitched in with two hits for three times at bat. Uhland's double and Ed Meyer's double were the only extra base blows of the day for the Dragons. The stellar bunting of Bernie Rosenfeld and Gene Saylor kept the Stevens infield completely befuddled all afternoon, and proved to be quite the crowd-pleaser.

Due to wet grounds and threatening weather, the scheduled game between Drexel and Moravian, which was to be played at Bethlehem, Pa.

Racketeers Annex Last Two Matches

This past Saturday the Drexel Dragon edition of the tennis team came through with their third victory in five attempts when they downed a hard fighting team from Rider College to the tune of 8-1. Previously on the 26th of April the racketeers whitewashed a team from Dickinson, 9-0.

Against Rider College, the number one match pitted Norm Parmet against Casper Meals and Norm emerged the victor in straight sets, last Saturday, was postponed indefinitely. Tomorrow, weather and you-know-what permitting, the Dragons journey to Hoboken, N. J. to play Stevens Tech in the final game of a scheduled home and home series. In all probability, either Charlie Welsh or Ed Meyer will open the game on the mound for the Dragons.

3-6 and 2-6. In the number two match of the afternoon Milt Parmet traded volleys with Mat Soen and in three sets came out on top to gain Drexel's second point. Max Fornwalt, Ed Thompson, and Wally Sonntag all came through for the Dragons as they took their matches. Bob Spitz playing in the number six slot lost out in three sets for the only loss.

Norm Parmet and Max Fornwalt teamed up and downed the first two doubles for the Rider College team in straight sets, 6-3 and 6-2. Milt and Wally took their set and Bob Spitz redeemed himself when he teamed up with Ed Thompson to down the number three combination for Rider College, 6-2 and 6-2.

Tech Sailors Trip to Navy For Regatta

On this coming week-end our Tech Sailors are going to Annapolis, Md., to participate in the Middle Atlantic Dinghy Championships.

Drexel will be represented in the regatta by Nat Denmen, Gregg Clayton, Kent Roberts, Larry Power, and Bob Richards. Kent Roberts and Nat Denmen will be the Skippers.

This trip will be an innovation inasmuch as three Drexel coeds will participate in a championship regatta for the first time in the history of the Sailing Club. The girls are Gloria Boon, Jane Colson, and Mary Lou Stewart.

This race is extremely important because the five clubs with the highest scores will participate in the National Dinghy Championship. The Nationals are to be held at the Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., on the 17th and 18th of May.

Last week-end the Tech Sailors traveled to the New York Maritime Academy where they were to sail against the Academy, Trinity, and Haverford College. Due to very inclement weather the teams were unable to hold the regatta.

Swim Class For Women Announced

Under the able leadership of Miss Helen Forstner and Miss Betty Sattlemeyer, members of the Women's Physical Education Department, a class for advanced swimming and life saving is held every Thursday from 7:30 until 10:00 at Penn's pool, 33rd and Spruce Streets. This is a fine opportunity for anyone to perfect her diving and swimming ability, especially since Drexel does not have a pool of its own as yet.

Some of the girls who now are members of the class include the following: Gene Thaysen, Pat Simpser, Carol Swanson, Molly Metz, Mary Lou Greisen and Pat Jorgenson.

Membership is extended to all women and those who are interested should see Miss Helen Forstner in the Women's Gym.

WAA Spring Carnival Big Success

By Jean Hocker

Gaiety and frivolity reigned in the Women's Gym on Monday despite the rainy weather. The occasion was the W.A.A. Spring Carnival.

Brightly colored crepe paper streamers and balloons were set to the tune of the carnival music. All was combined to reproduce the typical Block Carnival right in the midst of Drexel. The Carnival was complete with all its traditional features—candied apples, lemonade, popcorn and potato chips. Many tried their skill at baseball and basketball. There were games of penny-throwing, straw throwing, put the ring on the bottles, dart throwing and the like for carnival prizes.

Madame Mystic, one of the most eminent on-campus fortune tellers, revealed the past and the future of Drexel students for the small sum of five cents.

The main feature of the day took place at one o'clock when the radio drawing took place. During the past week chances for the radio had been sold. The holder of the lucky number and the winner of the table-model radio was Elaine Schneider.

It was announced that Barbara Mack had selected the most accurate number of beans. There were 4,627 beans in the jar; B. Mack estimated 4,602. The jar of beans went to the most inaccurate "estimator."

The Carnival was given by the Women's Athletic Association for the benefit of the War Memorial and the Women's Hockey Team. Each year the Hockey Team goes to hockey camp, and part of the proceeds from this carnival will be used for defraying the expenses of this trip.

Robin Hoods To Meet at Drexel Field

On May 17 at 11:30 a.m., the Philadelphia Archery Club and Drexel are sponsoring a Tri-State Target Sheet at the Drexel Field, 46th and Haverford Avenue. The Collegiate Invitation Championship will consist of the Columbia Round, all teams competing at the same time. Each college is entering two or three teams of four each. They are classified:

- Men's team
- Women's team
- Mixed team

Awards will be given in the forms of trophies and medals. A cup will be presented to the college team with the highest score. Medals will be given to the man and woman with the highest individual score, and, also, to each man and woman on the highest scoring team.

In case of rain, the shoot will be held the following Saturday, May 24, 1947.

Tau Beta Pi Exam Tonite At Lodge

By Louise Terry

On Tuesday, April 29, the Zeta chapter of Tau Beta Pi held an informal smoker to permit the members to become acquainted with the eligible candidates. This society will hold the traditional all-night entrance examination at the Lodge, today, from 12:00 midnight until 6:00 Saturday morning. The six-hour comprehensive examination must be taken by all new candidates for membership. Suitable distraction will be provided by the playing of New Orleans jazz records contributed by Bill Bonnett. Breakfast will be prepared by the Civil Engineers, under the supervision of Professor Sam Leonard. The eligible candidates for membership are as follows:

Seniors:

- Tsuruzo "Joe" Takeda
- Alfred J. Robinson
- Daniel E. Clapp
- Robert F. Smiley
- William P. Haase
- Milton Plotnick
- Paul Haffner
- James R. Johnson
- Harry Dinaekus
- Hugh Cullen
- James Leggoe
- Edward Spear
- Andrew Anderson
- James Daniels

Juniors:

- Albert Clarke
- Lewis Seaman
- Edwin Finklestein
- Eugene Hindin
- Robert Friedman
- Richard Tann
- Harry Broadbent
- Truman McDonald
- William Savage
- Harry Louie

Varsity Club Plans for This Term

On April 30 the Varsity Club held its last meeting. Many suggestions were made and new plans formulated. A committee was formed to check on the recommendations brought up last term. There are no definite decisions as yet, but there will be in the course of the next few weeks. A social committee was formed whose main purpose will be to plan social events for the Varsity Team. The committee's first project is the Letterman Banquet for which ideas are now being carried out.

The Varsity Club is also planning a joint meeting with the Alumni Varsity Club in the near future.

Eligible varsity members are urged to attend the meetings which are held every Wednesday evening.

and Triangle and vice president of her class this year. Jean has also been elected as president of next year's Women's Senior Class. Other activities which claim Jean's time are Glee Club, Delta Sigma Epsilon sorority, and serving on the board of the YWCA and the Women's Student Government Association.

Black-haired Janet Forstadt, a freshman Retailer, came to Drexel from Upper Darby High School, where she played varsity hockey and basketball, took part in her senior class play, served as vice president of the Girls' Hi-Y Club, and was a Purple Color Captain. Here at Drexel Janet has joined the Delta Phi Epsilon Sorority and the Retailers' Club.

Athletics seem to play an important role in the life of Peggy Jo Johnson who participates in hockey, badminton and softball here, and in high school was a member of the hockey, basketball, and badminton teams. Peggy already has a regal background, having been elected May Queen of Glen-Nor High School where she was a member of the Student Council and the Girl Reserves. Becoming a freshman Home Ec student at Drexel, Peggy Jo joined the W.A.A., YWCA, Drexeltarians, and the Home Ec Club. In her spare time, Peggy works as a model.

DIT Women's Club Elects Officers

Under the sponsorship of the Drexel Women's Club an organization of the wives of student veterans has been formed for instructive and social purposes.

The group, comprised of approximately fifty wives, will meet the first Saturday afternoon of each month for lectures, field trips, entertainments and teas. Later they plan to have dinners and dances for their husbands.

At their second meeting on Saturday, May 3, the following officers were elected: Mrs. Richard Barras, President; Mrs. David Booth, Vice-President; Mrs. Albert Spear, Treasurer; Mrs. John Benson, Secretary; Mrs. George Downs, Chairman, Refreshment Committee.

Annual dues of two dollars and fifty cents were voted, and the other necessary business of a new organization was quickly settled.

On May 24, at two o'clock, at the Sarah Drexel Van Rensselaer Dormitory, Professor Florence G. Dorward will give the group a much-desired lecture on "Marketing on a Small Budget." After the lecture and tea the wives will have the opportunity to inspect the Nursery School and Home Management House. A cordial invitation is extended to all the wives of Drexel students to attend the lecture.

Senior class candidate Jeanne Kellert is quite an active little lady too. With a background of cheerleading, editing a yearbook, and acting as secretary for her class and the Student Council from Springfield High School, Jeanne came to Drexel in February 1944, prepared to assume the positions she now holds. This future Home Ec teacher has, in her four years at Drexel, served as chaplain for the Alpha Sig Sorority, president of Key and Triangle, vice president of the Home Ec Club, a board member of the YWCA, and a member of the varsity tennis and badminton teams. Jeanne is also a member of the Women's Student Government Association and was recently elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Members of the committee which chose these candidates and is formulating all the plans for the dance are: Betty Anne Beagle, Doris Ann Dodd, Olga Michelcovich, John Fesko, Jr., Bob Cragg, Carl Trout, Bert Green-span, Jim Hutchinson, and John Weaver, chairman.

Divot Diggers Win Over the Blue Hens

Drexel's divot diggers took it on the chin against the Dickinson team on April 26th 6-3, they just sneaked by a strong Delaware team by the close margin of 5-2, and this past Saturday afternoon they journeyed over to Princeton and came out second best, 6-3.

In the first match against Dickinson, Joe Kalinowski led off for the Dragons when he downed the Red Devils' number one man for the first point. Bob Marple chimed in with the second point for the Dragons and Bob teamed up with Sam Kerr to defeat Shadle and Finney in the best ball match 2 and 1.

Captain Joe Kalinowski led off against the Blue Hen's best man and came out on top for the Dragon's first match point. Frank Thompson took his match and the two of them split the best ball match to make the score at this point, 2½ to ½. Sam Kerr took his match and teamed up with Bob Marple to split in the best ball match once again. Bill Germain came through with the winning match when he defeated his man 3-1 to make the total 5 for the Dragons and 4 for the Delaware aggregation.

Saturday afternoon the Dragons travelled to the Tiger's hideout and copped the first three points when Joe Kalinowski and Frank Thompson each won their matches and then they walked off with their best ball match to get the only scores for the Dragons. For the next six points the Tigers seemed to pounce all over the Dragons and annexed the match by the margin of three points.

This afternoon the divot diggers travel to Swarthmore to try and best Swarthmore's combination.

Seniors to Attend '48 Alumni Meet

When the band swings out on the field for the last game of next football season, and the Dragon weaves about the gridiron before Drexel takes on Swarthmore, the Class of '47 will take its place in the center section of the east stand, beside those of '94 and '12 and '41 and all those in between. For that day, November 15, has been chosen as this year's Homecoming Day.

And that night, in the Rose Room of the Bellevue-Stratford, this year's class will sit down to their first dinner as alumni with a placard bearing the figure "47" among the placards of those they knew in last year's class, and those of men and women long known in their chosen fields.

Further information will be made known as the date approaches, so put it on your calendar now if you will be an alumnus then.

30 Retailers Visit New York Stores

Under the sponsorship of the Retailers Club, approximately 30 of its members journeyed to New York City this morning for a pre-arranged visit to various stores that excel in the field of Retailing.

When asked what firms the students will visit, Mr. Ulrich, instructor in the Business Administration School, said, "This one-day affair will be spent visiting the W. T. Grant building and Amos Parish and Co., Inc." The headquarters of W. T. Grant is located in New York City with 400 of its stores scattered throughout the nation. The Amos Parrish and Co., Inc., are consultants for stores.

The visitors will have qualified workers to familiarize them with the various operations of each department, giving the students an excellent opportunity to gain first-hand knowledge of Retail Managing and Operation.

Alpha Sigma Alpha

• After a hectic time at the Lodge, the Alphas are back at the old grind again. Eight of the Alphas from Temple U. were with us for the weekend. It was really great getting to know our sisters better. In spite of the weather we all had a good time. But we didn't get much sleep, did we Patty, Gay, and Elaine? Many thanks to Mathel Nelson for her engagement candy. Sure was good!

The W.A.A. Carnival was a huge success as far as the Alphas are concerned. Barbara Mack won a cake for guessing the number of beans in the jar correctly, and Elaine Schneider won the radio.

Congratulations to Janet Raughley the new Vice-President, and to Betty Proctor, the Treasurer, of the coming Junior class. Elaine Schneider is President of next year's Sophomore class. Best of luck, girls!

Well, spring rushing is over and the Alphas have five new pledges—Cherry Locker, Dotty Jones, Grace Heney, Joan Carnes, and Irene Molleski. Have you noticed the pin that Marion Jones is sporting nowadays? The lucky fellow is Drexel's own Bob Mills. Best wishes from the Alphas!

Our congratulations to the Pi Kaps on a swell show. We all enjoyed it immensely.

Eddie Ross

P.S. Just heard that Mayree Newman is ill in the Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital, Lansdowne Ave., Darby, Pa. We all hope she will soon be back at school.

T.K.E.

• Last Saturday night found the house full of lovelies at the Rag Bag Rumpus. Everyone had a swell time and thanks to Ed Bowen for the extravaganza floor show—

Speaking of floor shows, the Spring Weekend will have its kicks with same and a cast of thousands. The weekend will begin as most weekends do, on Friday night, and will be followed by Saturday, possibly Sunday. Medford Lakes Lodge is the scene for the formal dinner and dance on Friday evening. Saturday is open season on canoes and stuff. Saturday evening, THE SHOW, and we will rub two Boy Scouts together in hopes of having a doggie roast if we can catch the dogs. The girls will be returned to the house and the Fraters will be supplied with a pillow, and sent to the park or some place. Sunday is Picnic Day, after which the weekend will be over—Monday will start a new week at school.

Les Sultans de Swat swatted madly last week and the pin ball score was a 26-9 rout de vout. Thank you, Pi Kaps.

A.S.C.E.

• Senior members of the civil engineering school attended a convention of the A.S.C.E. at the University of Pennsylvania May 5. Speakers were plentiful and discussions included a wide variety of subjects—"Mechanical Analysis of Stresses," "Future Metals in Engineering," and EDVAC.

Results of a written competition on civil engineering were announced at the convention. Gerald Hofstaetter from Drexel won first prize for his paper on "Cavitation."

Tuesday, May 6, A.S.C.E. formulated plans for an A.S.C.E. day at the Lodge, scheduled for Friday, May 23. So put away the books all you CE's, and come on out for a rest!

Theta Sigma Upsilon

• After studying for and taking mid-terms, the Theta Sigs relaxed last weekend. Saturday afternoon a group of us went to Ginny Brugler's tea which, much to our surprise, turned out to be a birthday party. How does it feel to be all of twenty-two, Ginny? Vivian was fascinated by so many of the sandwiches we were afraid she'd get indigestion. Saturday evening was the Pi Kap show. We want to extend our congrats, it was a swell performance. The rain stopped just long enough Sunday afternoon to make possible a riotous weeny roast at Blue Bell Hill for a small group of Theta's. Next time you should take a guide with you, then maybe you won't get lost!

Monday evening we initiated four pledges—Florence Ehret, Helen Smith, Sara Swartz and Rita Wiedman. The initiation took place at Mrs. Leonard's home. We're happy to have you with us, girls!

That took care of last weekend, but there is another to look forward to. Our formal dance at the Sheraton Hotel May 10 sounds very inviting. Hope to see all you Chi girls there!

Theta Chi

• Theta Chi, after an unusually active week, is proud to welcome into its ranks ten fine new brothers. On Sunday, Jim Hunt, Gene Saylor, Gene Roman, Ted Kneeder, Bill Miller, Hank Thompson, Jim Wilson, Ray Urban, Joe Procter, and Dick Jones were initiated into Theta Chi. May you all be as fine brothers as you were pledges.

Congratulations are in order for our latest pinned-up boy, Joe Wimbrow. Best of luck to Ruthie and you, Joe.

Kappa Phi Delta

• "Will you join me in a cup of tea?" queried the Kappa Phi.

"No, I'll join you in a keg of beer, there's more room," shyly replied the D Phi E.

So progressed the tea at the house on Sunday afternoon. Wholeheartedly supported by the girls and fellows, who in turn were supported by Joe's (the kind that used to inebriate Grandma) punch. Everyone was in character. Some were more characteristic than usual. Yo Joe!

Thanks to Mrs. Rosen for the cookies and cake. We lost no time in devouring same. All of which contributed to the grand success of our first tea.

In case you've wondered about the lonely Nine: Reds P. on the mound, Herb W. guarding first, Len S. at second, Bert S. protects short, Stan B. covers third, Walt D., Bernie W., and Irv G. comprise the outfield. This leaves Dick G. holding the bag (home, that is).

The Seniors are feverishly working during these last few weeks of the term. Bob has taken to the books, but we fear Willy has yet to catch the fever. Which brings us to congratulating the Pi Kaps on their swell performance this past weekend. Till next week.

Dick and Herb

Lambda Chi Alpha

• Time flies, boy how it flies! This Friday marks the end of the sixth week for Spring 1947, and the beginning of another busy weekend for Lambda Chi Alpha. Congratulations to Julius Schwab who was pledged at our last meeting.

Student Faculty Day is back, and those who have ever attended one will be sure not to miss Saturday afternoon at the Lodge. When you get them outside Randall and Curtis, the faculty is a pretty swell bunch. (Apologies to those who are that way in school as well as out.)

The house dance will start at nine Saturday evening, but we'll expect to see most of you after the play. President Haynes, with help from old faithfuls Parker and Watson, has a pleasant afternoon planned for our mothers on Sunday. We would like to see a good crowd Sunday between three and six, and remember fellows, your mother is one date that is really interested in YOU!

Pi Kappa Phi

• Now that the show is over everyone is attempting to relax. However, it looks like it is going to be quite some time before the cast stops saying their lines. Shields refuses to sing a note and Baldwin thinks "this is getting serious." Scotchey was seen doing the jitterbug routine in the library and everyone is trying to locate his lost clothing.

Our annual Parent's Day Tea was held Sunday, May the fifth. It was a pleasure to meet the parents of the new members and pledges and to renew old acquaintances. It proved to be a great success and we are sure the parents enjoyed their first visit to the House.

The pledges have officially challenged the Chapter to a softball game to be held this Saturday afternoon. The Chapter has accepted so everyone is walking around with blood in his eyes. Eddie Radzvilka has made some bold statements about the ability of the pledge group so we are anxious to see if he can substantiate his statements. When asked for a comment on the game, Guy Hess, star pitcher for the Active Chapter, said, "With me pitching we can't lose, so put your money where your mouth is." Thank you, Guy Hess!

We would like to take this opportunity to officially welcome Joe Nebbia into the pledge group. Sure are glad to have you with us!

Hillel

• Plans are rapidly becoming realities as Hillel is getting ready for its big spring dance. The Techmen have been secured to supply the music and refreshments will be served. The big night is May 24 and the place is the Student Building Lounge. In keeping with President Truman's request, the price of admission to this gala affair has been sliced to $1.50 per couple. Tickets will be on sale the week of the dance in the Court.

The next meeting of Hillel will be held at the Penn Hillel house on Monday, May 12. For entertainment at this meeting, there will be several skits put on by the Kappa Phi Delta fraternity and the Delta Phi Epsilon fraternity. As for the results, come out and see for yourself.

May 12 is also election time. This is a student organization and it is up to the students to come out and vote so we may be insured of having the best set of officers possible for next year.
