1100. NEW YORK STATE CHILD'S PERCUSSION HALF STOCK RIFLE BY SCOTT 34 cal, 27 1/2" octagon barrel with a very good lightly oxidized bore. The barrel has toned to an even plum brown patina having some light scattered scratches and surface oxidation as well as displaying some light tool marks around the rear sight. The top flat near the breech end is marked "W.J. & R.H. SCOTT/ALBANY". The lock and hammer have toned to a pleasing brown patina having some light surface oxidation displaying a light scroll engraving; the lock is marked "WARREN/&STEELE/ALBANY". The drum and nipple exhibit a brown oxidized patina having some pinprick pitting. The triggerguard and rear ramrod tailpipe display a pleasing goldenrod patina. The smooth walnut straight grip stock with pewter nose cap rates very good as lightly refinished long ago displaying some scattered dings and scratches over a thinning varnish; the right side of stock is missing its fancy diamond inlay around the wedge and the toe line is marked "J.B. HOGAN". The stock is fitted with a crescent buttplate and toe plate which has toned to a pleasing goldenrod patina. The rifle is fitted with a blade front sight and elevation buckhorn style rear and a threaded peep sight is mounted to the tang. W.J. & R.H. Scott were active makers in Albany New York in 1848-1874; lock makers Warren and Steele were active 1844-53. A really nice petite percussion rifle built with quality craftsmanship. (177771-4) {ANTIQUE} (500/700)

1101

1101. VIRGINIA MANUFACTORY 2ND MODEL MUSKET CONFEDERATE PERCUSSION-CONVERTED About .72 cal., 33" shortened barrel with an oxidized bore. The metal surfaces on this Confederate-converted musket are an overall oxidized brown patina with dark gray undertones, showing scattered light pitting, more prominent in the area of the nipple bolster. The lock is appropriately marked and still fully readable "Virginia/Manufactory" with "Richmond/1819" at the rear of the lockplate. The stock rates about very good showing an old light cleaning many years ago, now devoid of all markings, and shortened to within 4" of the front (originally middle) barrel band, showing a drying crack on the left stock flat from just ahead of the flat to the rear of the sideplate. The lock is crisp and mechanically functional, there are no sling swivels present, a period-shortened tulip-head ramrod is however. The alteration to percussion is very much S.C. Robinson-style with the flat-bottomed replacement nipple bolster with the short cap deflector protrusion at upper rear and near straight vertical spur on hammer. Overall an interesting late style Virginia Manufactory musket, certainly worthy of professional conservation back to its original full-length. (37680-6) {ANTIQUE} (1000/1500)

1102. W & C SCOTT AND SON PATENT ACTION DOUBLE HAMMERGUN serial #5704, 12 ga., 27 1/2" damascus barrels, unchoked, with bright very good plus bores which show only some scattered very light oxidation and a few widely scattered, very light pinprick pits. The barrels are an overall deep pewter gray patina with scant remnants of original damascus and scattered light pitting, heavier on the left and right of the barrels near the muzzles and around the heavy bolsters at the breech; they feature the Castle St., Regent Circus address. The frame and lockplates are quite nice retaining about 75-80% original color case-hardening on the frame with the lockplates a similar amount of original color case-hardening, closer to 85%, very strong on the left lock. There is light scroll and borderline engraving with small game dog and bird vignettes left and right, the hammers rather graceful and neatly engraved as well. The buttstock would rate otherwise about very good were it not broken completely in half at some point and now in need of replacement. The splinter forend rates about good. The forend features a patent pushbutton release and the frame has a dual locking bolts left and right, in addition to the dual underbite, which engage mating lugs on the left and right of barrel breech. The triggerguard is mis-shapen and detached, its front section broken off still in the frame, no doubt from the catastrophic wrist failure. The locks function well mechanically and the gun seems to lockup tight and the tubes appear very thick. (37670-2) {ANTIQUE} (400/600)

1102

1103. REMINGTON BEALS FIRST MODEL POCKET PERCUSSION REVOLVER .31 cal., 3" octagon barrel with an oxidized bore. The metal surfaces on this issue 4 are an overall deep plum and speckled brown patina with light oxidation staining and scattered light pitting. The German silver triggerguard rates very good. The one-piece gutta-percha grip is worn smooth and rates about good as well. There is a period repair to the advancing hand and the gun only functions occasionally. Still a good "example" piece for the budding Remington collector. (36889-276){ANTIQUE} (300/400)

1103

1104. WARNER ARMS CORPORATION 32 TOP BREAK DOUBLE ACTION REVOLVER serial #B9519, 32 S&W, 3" ribbed round barrel with a very good plus to near excellent bore. The metal surfaces retain about 98 to 99% original nickel finish with some light flaking at the muzzle and perhaps a minor handling mark here or there. The triggerguard retains some very good original blue, fading to a darker gray on the bow, while hammer and trigger show very nice color case-hardening. The checkered hard rubber grips rate very good plus to excellent, they are un-numbered but fit very well. Barrel-to-frame lockup is excellent and the gun functions well mechanically. Really a nice example overall in a very seldom-encountered state of condition. (37420-27) {C&R}(100/200)

1105. UNITED STATES NAVY MARK II FLARE PISTOL serial #249, About 22 mm, 9" barrel with a mostly smooth, lightly oxidized bore with shows scattered very light pitting. Externally the barrel is a mix of dull plum and light brown oxidation and is deeply marked "Mark II" along its top edge. The brass frame is a dull ocher patina and is marked on its left edge "Navy Yard, N.Y.". The two-piece smooth walnut grips rate very good with minor dings and handling marks and small chips along their bottom edges at the lineup pins, they are stamp-numbered to the gun. The mechanism seems to function well and lockup is only slightly loose with the breech being off face by just a sliver. Purportedly post-dating the Model 1896 flare pistol, these preceded the Remington Mark III that is so common these days, these examples rather seldom-encountered. (37420-36) {C&R} (400/600)
1106. STEVENS OFF HAND TARGET NO. 35 SINGLE SHOT PISTOL serial #55741, 22 LR, 8" part octagon part round barrel with a fair-poor bore which shows only remnants of rifling. The metal surfaces are an overall dull plum brown patina with pewter undertones and some scattered light oxidation and a few scattered areas of very light pinprick pitting. The hammer shows some remnant traces of pale fire blue. The smooth walnut grips rate good and very good, the left side showing some dings and abrasions, the right side some light handling marks, they are pencil-numbered to the gun. Barrel-to-frame fit is loose, the extractor is no longer present and the barrel and frame are numbered to two different pistols. The front sight is intact, remnants of the rear sight are intact, it having been modified and repaired a number of times over the years. A good restoration candidate. (37420-31) {C&R} (100/200)
1107. MOORE'S PATENT FIREARMS COMPANY FRONTLOADING REVOLVER serial #13826, .32 caliber test fire, 3 1/4" round barrel with an about good lightly oxidized bore. The barrel, cylinder and hammer are all primarily a dull gunmetal gray patina, the barrel with only remnants of its original marking. There is light engraving present on the barrel, as well as a few dings and handling marks around the barrel wedge and some spots of light pitting, the German silver front sight still fully intact. The patent markings are present on the cylinder which also shows some lightly scattered oxidation and sparse pinprick pitting. The frame has toned to a dull goldenrod patina and shows very good engraving on both flats with light geometric engraving on the trigger sheath and bottom of frame; there are some generous traces of original silver plate present. The smooth burl walnut grips rate very good as lightly cleaned many years ago, they are assembly numbered to the gun on their interior. Barrel-to-frame fit is slightly loose but the gun seems to function well mechanically, this example made without the hook-style extractor. (37781-4) {ANTIQUÉ} (350/500)
1108. RARE HORACE BRIGGS SINGLE SHOT DERINGER serial #6, 22 RF, 3 7/8" part octagon part round barrel with a poor bore. The metal surfaces on this rare revolver are an overall dull gunmetal gray and pewter patina with overall light and moderate pitting. The frame engraving left and right is still evident as is a portion of Mr. Briggs' left side barrel marking. Actually made by D.B. Wesson in Norwich Connecticut, Flayderman estimates the actual quantity of these arms made at under 500. The smooth walnut grips rate about very good and good, the right grip showing a bit more wear. The arm currently does not hold on cock readily without manipulation. An interesting example of these very rare guns for the early single shot Deringer or Smith & Wesson collector. (37420-18) {ANTIQUÉ} (500/700)
1109. HARRINGTON & RICHARDSON ARMS COMPANY 32 SAFETY HAMMERLESS REVOLVER serial #204001, 32 S&W, 3" ribbed round barrel with an oxidized poor bore. The metal surfaces are an overall dull gray-blue with overall light oxidation and surface rust with numerous scratches, dings and handling marks. The checkered hard rubber H & R "target" logo grips rate very good. The gun is not mechanically functional and is missing parts. (37849-6A) {C&R} (20/40)
1110. UNMARKED BELGIAN "BRITISH BULLDOG" STYLE REVOLVER serial #1600, .30 cal., 2" barrel with an oxidized bore. This is a Belgian-proofed revolver which is unmarked. It is a dull gunmetal gray with overall brown oxidation and spots of light and moderate pitting. The checkered walnut grips rate fair. The gun functions loosely mechanically and the firing pin has been ground. (37807-7) {C&R} (20/40)
1111. IVER JOHNSON ARMS & CYCLE WORKS 32 SAFETY HAMMERLESS REVOLVER serial #129754, 32 S&W, 3" ribbed round barrel with a very good plus to near excellent bore. The metal surfaces are an overall deep gray and lightly oxidized brown patina with numerous handling marks and scratches, most prominent on the cylinder, with lots of tiny dings on the butt. The checkered hard rubber owls head grips rate very good (r) and fair, with the left grip showing a large chip at its leading lower edge. The gun seems to function for the most part but the extractor needs mechanical attention. (37849-67) {C&R} (25/50)
1112. ITALIAN BRASS FRAME REMINGTON 1858 REPRODUCTION PERCUSSION REVOLVER serial #B4261, 44 cal., 7 7/8" octagon barrel with a bright excellent bore. The barrel, loading lever and cylinder retain 98% plus original blue while the trigger and hammer show very good color case-hardening. The brass frame has toned to an overall dull ocher patina. The smooth European hardwood grips rate about very good showing much original varnish, the right grip with light handling marks. The revolver will time well and seems to function appropriately mechanically. Revolver is marked on the bottom of the butt "PR EIE", by some indications that should be "FIE" but this example is not so-marked. Still likely an F.I.E. import, this marked overseas. (37758-23) {ANTIQUÉ} (75/150)
1113. UNMARKED BELGIAN DOUBLE ACTION REVOLVER About 32 cal. CF, 3 1/8" round barrel with oxidized bore. The metal surfaces are an overall dark gray and dull pewter gray patina with oxidation and scattered light pitting. The checkered walnut grips rate about very good. The mechanism will occasionally function and the nose of the firing pin has been ground. (37807-6) {C&R} (40/80)
1114. HOPKINS & ALLEN ARMS COMPANY RANGE MODEL DOUBLE ACTION REVOLVER serial #A527, 22 RF, 4 1/2" octagon barrel with oxidized bore. The metal surfaces retain about 60% original nickel, the areas of loss toned to a dull gray and brown oxidized patina. Hammer exhibits very good color case-hardening with light oxidation. Smooth target style walnut grips rate very good. Gun does not function mechanically. (37762-54) {C&R} (45/50)
1115. H&R 922 DOUBLE ACTION REVOLVER serial #1606716, 22 LR, 6" octagon barrel with an oxidized bore. The metal surfaces retain about 90% original blue with an overall smattering of light, and some moderate oxidation. The hammer exhibits very good color case-hardening. The checkered walnut two-piece grips rate very good plus. The mainspring has been removed and the firearms function cannot be ascertained. (37762-52) {C&R} (50/100)

1116. RUGER NEW MODEL BLACKHAWK DOUBLE ACTION REVOLVER serial #32-75425, .357 Magnum, 6 1/2" barrel with a bright excellent bore. The metal surfaces retain about 95% original blue, the loss is due primarily to some muzzle wear, scratches and scuffing on the edge of the ejector rod housing and on cylinder and smatterings of surface oxidation; also with a number of scars large and scratches, the bright-polished sides of the hammer showing light staining. The cylinder is too short for this revolver leaving a large cylinder gap (in excess of .060") and the gun is completely disassembled. The smooth walnut Ruger medallion grips rate about excellent. (37721-64D31358) (200/300)

1117. PERCUSSION HALFSTOCK SPORTING RIFLE BY FOLSTAD .36 cal., 33 1/8" octagon barrel with a very good bore having light oxidation within the grooves. The iron surfaces have a dark brown and gray patina with scattered fine oxidation with moderate oxidation at the breech and bolster. The top of the barrel is marked "J.Folstad *". The brass double forward spur triggerguard, pendulum patchbox and hardware are a lightly mellowed goldenrod with a few light impact marks and patches of tarnish. The maple half stock rates about very good having nice fiddleback with a 6 1/2" thin crack in the left stock flat and a smaller repaired crack above the bolt, a 3/4" chip between the hammer and bolster where the lock was fitted, it also looks like the front tip of the lock was removed to aid in fitting the lockplate along with long thin drying marks at the buttplate. The buttplate is a bit proud of the wood and the nose cap is no longer present. The tailpipe is made of brass, the two ramrod pipes are iron replacements and the two piece ramrod rib appears to have been added at a later time. The barrel is sighted with a simple V-notch rear sight and a long thin blade German silver front sight mounted on a 1 1/2" rectangular brass dovetail. The barrel was mistakenly mounted off-center of the frame forcing the shooter to aim to the left and a short brass tip iron ramrod is present. An interesting modified half-stock that should make a good conversation piece or wall hanger. (57535-7) {ANTIQUÉ} (350/550)

1118. PERCUSSION FULL STOCK SPORTING RIFLE BY CONESTOGA RIFLE WORKS .50 cal., 35" octagonal barrel with an oxidized and pitted bore. The metal surfaces are predominately a brown patina with scattered dents and scratches especially around the breech end of the barrel. The lock is a dark smoky gray patina with hammer mostly a lighter gunmetal gray. The brass furniture has turned to a pleasing golden ocher patina. The lock and the barrel are both marked Conestoga Rifle Works Lancaster PA. The hardwood stock rates good overall with a thin 3" crack through the wrist and long repairs approximately 16" from the muzzle along the barrel with a few light handling marks and marks from being cleaned. Some of the stock pins and hardware are modern replacements and do not fit the wood properly. The lock still functions but the brass tipped wooden ramrod is obviously not correct and is short. These rifles were reported to be economy rifles for the local trade marketed by Henry Leman under his trade name Conestoga Rifle Works. (57535-6) {ANTIQUÉ} (200/400)

1119. CUSTOM DUAL PURPOSE FLINTLOCK FULLSTOCK FOWLER About 16 bore, 41 1/8" barrel with a dark bore. This fowler appears to be made of up of American and European parts. The barrel is equipped small rectangular bayonet lug and a small bright round blade front sight that has been soldered in the barrel about 2 1/2" from the barrel, the barrel has no proofs but has a turned medial ring 26 1/2" from the muzzle and six vertical cut grooves a few more inches back; the lock appears to be Ketland & Co. marked and the iron trigger has a rearward turned tip and the triggerguard is made of iron. The barrel, lock and triggerguard have a smoky gray and brown patina with scattered oxidation and pinprick pitting more prevalent at the breech and lock. The American style stock appears to be maple has a large crack through the wrist with an attempted brass plate repair on the top of the wrist at the comb and an iron nail at the middle left side of the triggerguard. The wood has a large chip at the toe along with numerous handling marks and chips where the barrel pins have been replaced with wrapped copper wire. The stock is equipped with a loose brass forend tip, two ramrod pipes and tail pipe, chalice shaped thumb plate, crescent shaped sideplate and a rudimentary buttplate with cut toe and fastened with eight iron nails and screws. The brass has an ochre patina with light impact marks and spots of tarnish. The lock remains strong but no longer locks in half-cock and a flared button tip steel ramrod is included. A neat unknown fowler that whose craftsmen utilized many different available parts. (57540-7) {ANTIQUÉ} (175/275)

1120. PERCUSSION CONVERTED PENNSYLVANIA FULLSTOCK SPORTING RIFLE BY J.J. HENRY & SON About .41 cal., 39 3/4" octagon barrel with a rusty bore. The barrel has an overall pale brown patina with patches of gray and scattered fine oxidation, there is some light scroll engraving around the rear sight and on the rear tang. The barrel has a drum-and-nipple conversion and is sighted with a simple v-notch dovetail rear sight and a low profile brass blade dovetail front sight, the rear sight appears to be backwards. The lock is a smoky gray patina with some scattered light oxidation, has light scroll engraving and is marked "J.J. HENRY & SON / BOULTON". The tiger stripe maple stock is equipped with a double groove molded cheekpiece and rates good overall with a thin crack at the rear stock bolt, a 2 1/2" curved flexing crack between the front of the lockplate and the front extension of the triggerguard, a 6 1/2" thin crack extending from a 1 1/2" chip in the right of the forearm and a thin crack extending from the muzzlecap to the front ramrod pipe. The stock is decorated with a German silver star escutcheon above the cheekpiece, a plain oval thumb plate and six wedge pin escutcheons, the front right escutcheon is no longer present. The brass patchbox, single spur triggerguard buttplate, lock bolt escutcheons, muzzlecap and ramrod hardware have a nicely mellowed tarnished ocher patina, the patchbox decorated with loose scroll. The lock remains strong and functional. There is no ramrod present. A Pennsylvania percussion conversion quite possible made for the fur trade that will still look good above the mantel. (57540-1) {ANTIQUÉ} (300/500)

1121. UNMARKED BACK ACTION PERCUSSION HALFSTOCK FOWLER About 12 bore, 42" round barrel with a dark bore. The iron surfaces are an overall pale brown and gray patina with some scattered fine oxidation, moderate on the bolster and hammer shroud and a handful of tiny impact marks behind the single bead front sight and some slight discoloration and solder where the iron ramrod pipe has been attached. The walnut stock rates about very good with a few thin cracks in both sides at the buttplate, a thin crack in the corner at the lock bolt, the rear of the lockplate and a thin 2 1/2" chip and crack in the left forend. The stock has numerous light handling marks and the forend tip has been shortened to 28 1/2" from the muzzle, has been roughly rounded and is darker than the rest of the stock. The brass triggerguard, buttplate and tail pipe have an ochre patina with light pitting and impact marks in the buttplate and a latter brass tipped wooden ramrod is included. The hammer is loose but functional and part of the hammer skirt is chipped and missing. (57674-21) {ANTIQUÉ} (50/100)

1122. BELGIAN PERCUSSION HALFSTOCK FOWLER About 30 bore, 29 1/2" round barrel with a dark rusty bore. The barrel and buttplate have been cleaned to in-the-white with remnants of brown patina, scattered oxidation and light impact marks particularly at the breech. The lock, triggerguard and hardware have a dark brown patina with moderate surface oxidation and bright edge wear along the hammer and bolster. The wood stock rates poor with large chips and cracks along the triggerguard, side flat and trigger areas, a repair attempt was made in the side flat with small iron nails and a large iron grommet. The stock has been moderately sanded leaving the wood shy of the metal with bare wood on the buttstock and worn edges along the lockplate and wedge pin. A thin broken iron band style ramrod pipe has been installed on the barrel and a short, bent and twisted brass tipped wooden ramrod is included. The half cock function no longer works and some of the lock screws and nuts are modern hardware replacements. An old imported child's or ladies fowler for above the door or camp wall. (57740-6) {ANTIQUÉ} (15/30)

1123. WINCHESTER THUMB TRIGGER BOLT ACTION RIFLE 22 S.L.E.L., 18" barrel with a good bore having pitting and evidence of rifling the entire length. The barrel and bolt have toned to pale gray with patches of brown and fine oxidation staining. The wood stock rates fair showing an old light cleaning with old cracks though the wrist repaired with brass pins and some type of synthetic filler along with an abundance of light handling marks and stains. The checkered hard rubber buttplate shows modest wear and is a bit proud of the stock. (57675-8) {C&R} (200/400)
1124. BELGIAN PEPPERBOX PINFIRE REVOLVER 8mm Pinfire, 2 1/2" six-barrel cluster with oxidized bores. The blued cylinder shows a balance between reapplied fading and finish. The frame has faded to a gray gunmetal patina and shows some light oxidation staining and evidence of a weld repair near the front. The hammer and trigger show traces of the original blue finish with some light oxidation staining. The smooth walnut grips rate good with an added varnish finish, handling marks, dings and a couple small chips on the bottom. An interesting piece of firearms history overall. (207535-68) {ANTIQUÉ} (50/100)
1125. MOSSBERG 500AT SLIDE ACTION SHOTGUN serial #G485011, 12 Ga, 28" plain cylinder bore barrel with a very good bore that shows some scattered oxidation. The stock and forend rate very good showing dings, handling marks and finish loss. The butt is equipped with a White Line recoil pad that is loose and will require mechanical attention. The top rear receiver screw has been replaced with a flathead screw and a washer. The bolt will not go all the way back and the elevator assembly is missing. A good project gun that will need mechanical attention and a few parts to function properly. (207711-14) {MODERN} (50/100)
1126. SPANISH 1893 BOLT ACTION RIFLE (SPORTERIZED) serial #RE1846, 7mm Mauser, 29" barrel with a very good bore that shows some minor pitting near muzzle. The metal surfaces retain 85% arsenal blue with oxidation on floorplate and buttplate, fading on barrel and silvering on floorplate. The cutdown stock rates very good as lightly cleaned with a few handling marks, dings and a 1" repaired crack at tang. The bent bolt and all other numbered parts are matching and the rifle is sighted with a Swift 4-12x40 scope with a crosshair reticle. The scope tube retains 98% original blue and the optics are crisp and clear. An interesting sporterized Mauser that will likely shoot very well once the headspace is checked. (207711-22) {MODERN} (150/300)
1127. COLUMBIAN FAMAGE BOLT ACTION RIFLE (SPORTERIZED) serial #F18479, 30-06, 23" barrel with a good bore that shows scattered pitting. The metal surfaces retain 85% reapplied nickel finish with oxidation on barrel, receiver, triggerguard and floorplate. The Monte Carlo stock rates very good plus showing a few minor abrasions, dings and handling marks. The stock has sling studs and a Winchester recoil pad. The serial numbers are mismatched, and the sights and front floorplate screw are missing. There is a triggerlock installed that we are unable to remove. A good project gun overall. (207722-33S19429) {MODERN} (100/200)
1128. NAZI MARKED STEYR M1912 SEMI AUTO PISTOL serial #7490t, 9mm, 5 1/2" barrel with a good bore that shows oxidation and pitting in the grooves. This is a limited edition numbered 382 of 1000 and is signed by the author in pencil. "Saving the Flag" depicts the 4th Michigan at the Wheatfield. Col. Harrison Jeffords is seen at the center of the fray, wielding his 1850 officers sword in the midst of retrieving the regimental colors from Johnny Reb (other reports say it was actually the United States flag and not the regimental colors). He is said to have shot the Confederate soldier who had seized the flag and grabbed the flag himself. In the midst of all this turmoil, Jeffords received a gunshot wound to the thigh and was mortally bayoneted in the left abdomen. Immediately soldiers of the Fourth Michigan rushed forward to his aid and reportedly carried both the flag and their fallen commander out of the Wheatfield; other reports say in the melee the flag was torn to shreds. Jeffords would succumb to his injuries the next day at 4 AM, July 3, 1863, he was the highest ranking commissioned officer in the Civil War to die of a bayonet wound. Also at the fray can be seen Lieut. R. Watson Seage who, along with Lt. Michael Vreeland, rushed to Jeffords aid, those two men being stabbed, beaten and trampled by the Confederates on the field. The depiction is vivid with the ripe wheat being beaten down by the clashing armies, the air thick with gunsmoke and the shouts of men, all presented in Troiani's vivid and dramatic fashion. The view measures 22" by 21", matted and framed in a nice mahogany-tone hardwood frame which measures 30" by 28 1/4".
