Supervisors Are Worthy

One week from next Monday the voters of the several townships of the county will go to the polls to choose what to them is the most important officer for which they at any time cast their ballots. Great excitement follows the nominations made by the major parties for the presidency but for the rank and file of the electorate, once in office, the difference in choice is of but little moment. Governors, senators, congressmen, judges, sheriffs—when these men are chosen their respective candidacies are matters of spectacular interest and partisan politics. A lot of noise is created; voters rush to the polls in numbers; campaign slogans are created; the countryside is placarded with lithographs and the air is heavy with promises quite often soon forgotten.

But when it comes to the selection of supervisor for a township then it is that election comes close to the home. The candidates named are known personally to practically every voter who casts a ballot. Their integrity, their ability, their fitness for the job, or the lack of it, is a matter of common knowledge. There is no long distance campaigning. There is no artful dodging. The voter and the candidate stand face to face. No subterfuge is possible nor is it attempted.

And when the responsibilities of the office are known and the manifold duties involved are understood, it is admitted that the man (and some day there will be women supervisors) must be about right to be considered. He must stand four-square among his neighbors. He must be a man of good judgment, both in financial affairs and in human interests. Often he must exercise stern regulation, often it is a matter of tactful approach and sometimes just human sympathy is the demand. No officer in the whole category of political positions comes so close to the constituency he serves as does a township supervisor. At home and at the county seat his decisions are of prime importance.

Upon his good judgment, his sincerity and his integrity depends the economic and social welfare of the people of his community, as well as those of the county at large.

Thus we approach a question which it seems is deserving of mention at this time. The NEWS believes the people of Ingham county for the most part will agree with the foregoing. This is believed because of the action taken at the various caucuses held about the county during the preceding ten day period when the present membership of the board of supervisors, without exception, were nominated for re-election. In many townships there is no opposing candidate. It is evident that the people have laid aside much of the old partisanship in local politics and have come to recognize faithful service and to reward it with continued approval.

There is not sufficient space at our command to permit the writer of this column to pay tribute to each deserving supervisor but there are a few whose services upon the board, as it is observed at the county seat by one whose experiences there should give him some advantage in judging, are of such character that comment may be pardoned if not accepted. In one or two of these cases opposition at home is apparent, a situation which leads us to the comments made.

Jacob Schepers, supervisor representing the city of East Lansing, has served more years without interruption than any other of his contemporaries. Supervisor Schepers has made a place for himself in county affairs. He represents his own particular constituency with rare good judgment but more than that he has come to know his county and its affairs as perhaps no other single member of the board has or does. He has served upon its most important committees. He is accustomed in private life to making decisions upon important matters and brings to county affairs the same good judgment he exercises at home. He is never found compromising yet he is never pugnacious or querulous. In council his opinion is sought; in debate he is fair but forceful; when he votes he voices his convictions without fear or favor. There should be no question about his election as long as he is willing to serve. East Lansing owes it to the remainder of the county to send him to the board of supervisors. His colleague, A. R. Sawyer, while of less experience, is of equal merit.

Another member of the board who is deserving of re-election is John Russell Ferguson of Meridian. No member of the board, in the length of time he has served, has devoted himself to the duties of his office, in his own township and as a member of the board more than he. He is young, progressive, frank, honest, and fearless. Men may disagree with him but none can say he is not straightforward. He has taken great interest in the construction of the new county infirmary and in that capacity has spent much time and considerable of his own money in securing facts regarding plans and methods. Now that the building is about to be begun, it would be a matter of great regret throughout the county if he failed of election on April 1. Notwithstanding he is opposed by a man of experience in county affairs, the NEWS unhesitatingly endorses Russell Ferguson for re-election and commends him to those at home who perhaps have not had opportunity to observe his service to the county in the same light as has this writer.

Sharlte Warner of Wheatfield is another veteran supervisor whose services are worthy of highest commendation. Claud Menger is still another, and in this class might be mentioned Fred Marshall of White Oak, Archie House of Leroy, and Roy Moore of Lansing township, the last four named being men of younger years and less service but none the less efficient and capable.

The NEWS is indulging in no flight of fancy nor does it seek to dictate elections. But it is on the job at the county seat at every meeting of the board. Its senior editor has served many years as a member and as clerk of the board. This editor is possessed of sufficient ego to believe he is able to size up members of the board perhaps more impartially than even their constituents at home. It closes by saying that Jacob Schepers and Russell Ferguson are two members who stand very high in the esteem of their colleagues. Their good judgment and wise counsel has marked many sessions at the county seat. By all means they should be returned.

Absurdity

From the debacle which has followed announcement by the head of the anti-saloon league that women clubs, service clubs, churches and similar organizations would be employed in a great spy system which would smash Detroit's rum ring, it is easy to discern to what extent our Mr. Holsapple must please his chief, Dr. F. Scott McBride, author of the scheme so flatly denounced by the organizations to be used in the proposed plan. Further reference by Dr. McBride to the fact that the league has a strangle hold on congress is yet another breach of etiquette which will do the dry campaign no good.

These are the very things concerning which members of the Michigan legislature complain. Holsapple's attitude reflects exactly Dr. McBride's attitude. Without consultation certain members has been "sold" to certain policies which they in truth did not approve but because of the fear of Holsapple displeasure they have stood for. Others have submitted tentative bills to him only to read in the papers next day that he had prepared the bill and had directed a certain legislator to introduce it. All of which is on a par with the thrill which heads of Detroit clubs must receive when they learn from the press that they and their organizations are to be used in an ambitious campaign concerning which they had not been consulted.

Bishop Nicholson, head of the state dry league, was cautioned by Dr. McBride that "outsiders" should not be allowed to interfere in dry matters or with league activities. It is presumed that Dr. McBride will have something to say regarding "outsiders" refusing to co-operate in his latest and most ambitious undertaking.

The foregoing presents as silly and untenable a picture as is portrayed in utterances of Mayor John C. Lodge of Detroit, who is quoted as having visited fifty places known to police and the public as drinking places where intoxicants are freely dispensed and yet who reports that after a night of it he failed to see anyone drinking. It would appear that the ultra wets and ultra dries are in competition, one with the other, to go the limit in absurdity.

Schuyler Marshall, former editor of the NEWS and now publisher of the Clinton County Republican-News and recognized as among the leading editors of the state, quotes a Jackson prison official as asserting of Arthur Rich, convicted here of an assault upon Louise King, Battle Creek college co-ed, that "Rich should have been sent here for five years and the girl for about three. I believe they were both drunk." Strange how some officials take their duties. Here is a man who probably heard not a word of the trial testimony, yet who in twenty words over-rides the verdict of the jury and the sentence of the court. In a recent visit to the same institution, the writer was impressed with the gibbous with which certain prison officials passed upon the convicts under them. The more hardened and notorious the criminal the more attention, it appears, they receive at the hands of guards and keepers. It is suggested that the business of prison keepers is to restrain, discipline and, if possible, reform the men sent to them. It is ill-becoming in them to widen the breach which already exists between the men committed to them and organized society represented by the courts.

Incidentally it might be of interest to readers to learn that Arthur Rich has been ill, is quite despondent concerning prospects for release, and in contrast with his former debonair demeanor, he is rather inclined to moody periods.

Many Farmers Attend Better Seed Exhibit

BETTER SEED TRAIN DRAWS 225 FARMERS TO MASON.

Mason ranked well above the average in attendance at the Better Seed Train which was here last Thursday. It was brought here through the cooperation of the Michigan State College and the Michigan Central railroad. Over 225 farmers viewed the exhibits at Mason while about ninety-five availed themselves when the train stopped in Leslie.

Mason business men and several farmers offered prizes of certified seeds which were given away at the train. Edwin Wells of Okemos, was awarded the bushel of certified alfalfa seed given by Mason business men.

The bushel of certified Polar Dent or Jewett's Yellow Flint seed corn was won by W. E. Evans of Dansville. At Leslie C. W. Harlow was awarded these prizes. These two prizes were offered by A. W. Jewett, Jr.

Another Dansville farmer, Roy Hobart, was given the bushel of certified Russet Rural seed potatoes offered by Thos. Barr & Son. Lloyd Price won the seed potatoes at Leslie.

Emory Jewett was awarded the bushel of certified Worthy Oats at Mason and at Leslie Maynard Brownlee carried off the prize. The oats were furnished by F. C. Lott of Holt.

Much interest was manifested by farmers at the train and many questions regarding the certifying of seed were asked. The lessons of the train exhibits showing the value of good seeds with other exhibits along the same line will mean more certified seeds used in this county this year according to agricultural leaders.

SUPT. MURRAY AND REV. PRES-COTT ATTEND AREA MEETING. Donald Murray, superintendent of schools, and Rev. W. R. Prescott were group advisors of the Area Y. M. C. A. conference, at Grand Ledge last week end. Nearly two hundred boys were present from fourteen cities and towns in this section of the state and Y. M. C. Verne Stockman of Grand Ledge was general chairman of the local committees and served as pianist at the conference sessions. Earl T. May, area secretary, was in general charge of the conference.

Little Ten Group Is Increased To Twelve

HOWELL AND BATTLE CREEK SCHOOLS JOIN CONFERENCE. The South Central Michigan High School Athletic Association, widely known as the Little Ten, will have to change its name to the Little Twelve as two schools have been added. They are Howell and Lakeview of Battle Creek. Howell is a welcome addition to schools in this section of the conference as the Livingston county seat school is a traditional foe of Mason and East Lansing. Howell and Mason have met for many years. Lakeview high school of Battle Creek is also well known in conference circles. In the past the food city school has played many games with other conference teams. The two schools were voted memberships at a recent meeting of the conference held at Marshall. At this same meeting standings for the basketball season were given out. Mason landed in third place, topped only by East Lansing and Coldwater. The coaches also picked an all-conference basketball team upon which Leonard of Mason was the unanimous choice for a forward position. Other members of the mythical team are Paul Green of Coldwater, and Cramp-ton of Marshall, with Brown and Crist of East Lansing.

Holt Schools Placed On Accredited Lists

SUPT. L. G. GOODRICH IS SO INFORMED. According to notice received by Supt. L. G. Goodrich of the Holt schools, that high school has been placed on the accredited list by the University of Michigan for a two year period. Previous to this the school has only been accredited for a single year period. Dr. Gingerich of the university, who made the inspection, gave the school such a good report that the secretary of the accrediting committee in writing Mr. Goodrich, commended the school very highly for satisfying all the requirements of the university list. Holt was first placed on the accredited list in 1926, the year in which it graduated to first class in the twelve grade system. It is rapidly coming to be recognized as among the leading schools of the county.

BASKETBALL BANQUET

Members of the girls basketball team were delightfully entertained at dinner Thursday evening at the home of their captain, Helen Lamont. Coach Beatrice Tyner, Frances Mickelson, Mrs. D. A. SCHOOL NOTES

The class tournament in boys basketball has been in progress during the past week and champions have been named. In the first round the Sophomores defeated the Juniors but later the winners were forced to forfeit the game because of the fact that an ineligible man played in the game.

The Freshies then defeated the Seniors. The Faculty defeated the Junior team by a small margin and declared the Freshies champions without facing the battle. No alibi is offered for this action but if you can reach any of the Freshies you might try asking them their opinion on the subject.

The date of the high school movie, "West Point," has been changed from March 27 to April 11 to prevent conflict with the Passion Week services in the churches.

Spring vacation will begin next week Friday afternoon. School will dismiss at 1:30 in the afternoon to permit the students to attend the community Good Friday services at the Baptist church.

Plans are under way for a May Day program which will be presented on the court house lawn. This work is being done by Miss Mildred Cardwell, county health officer, and students from the local school and from the nearby rural schools will take part in the program. The King and Queen will be chosen and the dainty dances and festivities symbolic of May day programs will be featured. The winding of the may-pole will be one of the attractions.

This week Saturday, Supt. D. A. Murray will be host to the superintendents of Ingham county. The superintendents have a get-together once every two months and the meetings are in the form of a dinner followed by a business meeting ending up with an inspection of the school building in the city in which they are meeting.

About $225.00 was cleared from the Senior play and this sum added to the sum made by the advertising to which the Mason merchants are so liberally responding make the financial condition of the 1929 Anchors not only appear bright but certain. Now all plans are complete and most of the work on the book is done and it will soon be in the hands of the printer.

A "barnyard golf" course will be set up by the student council and the country students will have another game with which to pass away their time during the noon hour.

The school musical was held in the auditorium Wednesday evening. All divisions of the music department participated in the production.

The Scout committee for 1929 is announced as Chairman, J. E. Kennedy, Dr. L. A. Wilken, Claude Post, H. B. Longyear, Clifford Walcott, H. H. Snyder and D. A. Murray. L. J. A Steel Roof on Your Building Will Take Roof Worries Off Your Mind

Why wait another year to get the protection of a steel roof? Have us give you this protection this year. For a steel roof is more than a roof. It is a kind of insurance that you can not afford to be without.

Rain and Snow

Shingles and composition roofing are needed in certain types of construction but when it comes to farm buildings or business blocks a steel roof is best. A steel roof keeps out the hardest driven rain; heavy snows or thick ice do not damage a steel roof.

Fire and Lightning

Fire protection alone should be a decisive factor in favor of steel roofs. When properly grounded a steel roof gives protection against lightning. Sparks and flying embers gain no foothold.

Long Life

A roof of steel will outlast most any other kind. Such a roof as we build may cost a trifle more at first but in length of service the cost of a steel roof is lower than any other.

Let us give you an estimate of the cost of a steel roof on your buildings.

Solons Fret As Weeks Fade Without Result

by Holsaple is declared to be holding back rather than promoting the cause. Two letters have been received by Mr. McBride in reply. In the first the bishop stated that pressure of other matters would prevent his early attention to the subject but he indicated that such a letter coming from such a source must hold within it a challenge for attention. Later, after Holsaple had gained the ear of his chief and after Dr. McBride, the national president had been appealed to, the bishop wrote the Shiawassee solon that "outsiders" should not interfere and that Holsaple appeared to be carrying out the wishes of the state association. The bishop refers to "shillyshallying" but admits Holsaple is "human" which helps some. At any rate Holsaple's $50000 security seems now secure for a time at least.

Here are the 14 house members who signed the letter: Vernon J. Brown, Minton; James A. McBride, Burton; J. Herbert Read, Manistee; Fred P. McEachron, Hudsonville; John P. Esple, Eagle; Louis E. Anderson, Charlevoix; A. C. Bushnell, Bronson; Fred C. Holbeck, Long Lake; E. H. DeClaire, Saint Clair Shores; A. D. Cuthbertson, Flint; H. A. Osborn, Sault Ste. Marie; Luther E. Hall, Ionia; and Edward L. Smith, Grand Rapids.

Taxes! Taxes! Taxes! Yet more taxes! There are as many taxation theories, it would appear, as there are legislators. Mill tax, income tax of varying shades and degree, taxes on tobacco and cigarettes, tax on malt and music extracts, tax on billboards, tax on amusements, head tax, occupation tax, inheritance tax, severance tax covering oils, gas, timber and minerals taken from the lands of private individuals or corporations—taxes for this and taxes upon that—the legislator finds himself in a maze of conflicting theories and opposing interests. Theater owners insist any tax upon their business spells ruination, tobaccoists sing the same song and so do the bill board-owners and all the others. Everyone concedes the necessity for added revenue but none are willing to assume the burden and so the unheard small property owner is aimed at in the mill tax proposal now appearing to gain favor among the lawmakers.

Rep. Fred Holbeck's proposal to amend the state constitution so as to permit the state to engage in the deepening, widening and straightening of rivers and harbors for drainage purposes passed the house by a wide margin, only a few, including the writer, having the temerity to vote against a bill so laden with the possibilities of unrestrained spending. Once the orgy starts the improvement of rivers will consume money in such amounts that the highway expedients will look like a thin dime and there will be no gas tax available from which to pay the huge costs certain. If the senate approves the voter will find the proposal on his 1930 ballot.

A sweeping upward revision of weight taxes so far as they apply to heavy trucks doing intercity long distance hauling over public highways is contemplated in the bill of J. Herbert Read of Manistee. A bill to permit county boards of supervisors to take over the management of county fairs where the county owns the grounds has passed the house. The Espie fireworks bill putting a ban on the selling or use of fireworks or explosives has passed both houses and awaits only the signature of the governor to become law.

With the state struggling to find means to construct enough buildings and to provide sufficient beds for its unfortunates, Detroit guardsmen have the nerve to ask for $2,050,000 to build five armories for use of the military department. Senator Lennon has introduced a bill appropriating $25,000 for two years to improve Lansing's airport. Inasmuch as the port already occupies state lands there are many who inquire why the city should not do its own improving as other cities are doing.

Despairing of doing away with the state administrative board, his bill now lying peacefully in the hands of the committee on state affairs, Rep. Culver of Detroit, comes forth with another bill to submerge that powerful body by adding to it five members, three to be selected from the membership of the house and two from the senate. It also undoubtedly will meet the same fate as its predecessor.

Returning to the subject of taxation, Rep. McBride's income tax measure should be mentioned. This bill is drawn with a sliding scale; beginning at $1500 for single persons and at $3500 for married persons. As it reaches the upper levels of incomes the rate of taxation is increased from 2% on incomes of $10,000 and less to 4% on those above $50,000. The Bachron bill taking full advantage of the government's 80% exemption law, has passed the house. While the measure will give the state several millions a year added revenue it must go into the primary school fund and consequently does not relieve the pressure for more state revenue.

Among the latest measures to be introduced is the joint resolution offered in the house by Rep. James G. Frey of Battle Creek which seeks to amend the constitution and raise the salary of the governor and attorney general from the present wage of $5,000 each to one more in keeping with the office. He proposes to submit the proposal to the people and ask them to approve a salary of $10,000 for each of these important officers.

FORGER RETURNED.

Deputies Fred Frye and E. W. Barber returned from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Tuesday with Earl J. Wilson, wanted in Ingham county for forgery.

Optimism Expressed Over 1929 Business

AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY ANTI- CIPATES RECORD YEAR.

Completion of a 16,000 mile trip to America's leading merchant in its state parks is definitely settled in the mind of W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales of the Oakland Motor Car Company, that the United States has embarked upon what bids fair to prove its year of greatest prosperity.

Particularly is this true of the automobile industry, generally accepted as the most sensitive barometer of business, of which Mr. Tracy said that it shows every promise of eclipsing any previous year by a sizeable margin.

On the road almost continuously for two months, Mr. Tracy visited 150 Oakland-Pontiac dealers in all parts of the country, in addition to nine districts and three regional offices, touching at such representative trading areas as New York, Los Angeles, Kansas City, Seattle, Dallas, Chicago, Memphis, St. Louis, San Francisco, etc.

"I have never seen the morale of our dealers so high as at present," said Mr. Tracy. "In the entire country I found no complaints about business and discovered nothing but optimism."

"The prosperity of the nation is apparently general, both industrial and agricultural districts being in good condition. In the south a good crop year has left its mark and the industrial development of that section is coming along at a surprisingly rapid rate."

"With February setting a new high output figure for the month in the industry, despite weather that affected sales adversely in many sections, we may look for records to topple consistently when warm weather opens up the rush of spring buying. Our own organization bettered last February's 3,000 units and more than trebled our output in the same month of 1927, while in March we have lunched upon schedules that I believe will establish a new high record for any one month in our history."

36,000 Campers Used Michigan State Parks

OVER FIVE MILLION VISITED STATE PARKS IN 1928.

In 1928, 49 state parks operated by the Conservation Department were visited by five and one-half million of people, representing 46 states other than Michigan, Canada, and Czechoslovakia. Cedar Hills state park reported one car and two visitors from Czechoslovakia.

Michigan furnished bathing facilities to 750,000 visitors in its state parks in 1928, and camping grounds to 127,000, twenty-five thousand of whom were out-of-state people.

Thirty-six thousand camps were made within the boundaries of these public recreation areas.

OBITUARY

Richard Robinson was born February 11, 1851, in Yorkshire, England, and departed this life March 14, 1929. He was the second of a family of three children. The sister and brother having preceded him in death.

On this farm Mr. Robinson grew to manhood and became owner of the south 50 acres of the old farm. In 1874 he married Ellen Beaumont and at once built a new home on their farm. To this union were born four children, three of whom are living: Joseph W. Robinson of Detroit; Merle, Mrs. Frank Folar of Wheatfield township; Ed. Mrs. Harry McFarren of Bath. The mother died in 1917 and the second daughter, Emily (Mrs. Burton E. Ross of Lansing), in 1920.

After the death of the mother, Mr. Robinson continued to live on the farm and do the work thereon until March 28, 1928, when failing health compelled him to leave his home and go to live with his daughter, Mrs. Frank Folar at Wheatfield, with whom he has since lived and who has tenderly cared for him throughout his declining days.

He was counted as a hustling and progressive farmer, always happiest when working on the farm. He loved to talk about old times, the days when Indians lived along the bank of Mud Creek, the days of ox teams and few horses. His children and friends often heard him tell of his boyhood days when he hauled wood with an ox team to Jackson and took the family grist to mill at the same time, going one day and returning the next. He leaves to mourn their loss, the one son, two daughters, three grandchildren. The grandchildren are: Leslie H. Robinson of Cleveland, Ohio; Ira J. Robinson of Detroit; and Kenneth E. Crane of Chicago. One grandson, C. Lyle Folar, died last November. His untimely death undoubtedly hastened the death of the grandfather, as he failed rapidly from then on. Funeral services were held at the home of the daughter in Wheatfield, Saturday, at 2 p. m., Rev. Alfred Eddy, officiating. Interment was made in Maple Grove cemetery beside the remains of his wife.

Angeline Berry Best Leroy Twp. Speller

ANNUAL CONTEST GIVES BAKER SCHOOL TROPHY.

The annual spelling contest for the schools of Leroy township was held in the high school building in the village of Webberville, Friday evening, March 5, 1929, the eight schools of Leroy township contesting for a silver cup which was offered several years ago by the business men of Webberville. For the past two years, Alchin school, No. 5, Leroy has won this cup. It has been successful this year, it would have obtained permanent possession of it. The competition was very strong, with Baker school, No. 7, standing first and winning the cup for the year. Meech school, No. 2fr. second and Lee school, No. 1, third.

The several teachers of these schools offered a cash prize of $2.00 for the best individual speller, $1.25 for the second best speller and 75c for the third best speller. Angeline Berry of Herrick school No. 4fr. won the first prize as the best speller in the township. James Patrick of the Alchin school, No. 5, won the second prize and Dorothy Bonington of the Lee school No. 1, won the third prize.

Mrs. Thelma Dewey and Mrs. Ella Foreman, assisted by several of the Webberville teachers had charge of the contest and Commissioner F. E. Searl pronounced the words and presented the prizes.

This contest was originated by Mr. Howard Thayer, now a teacher in the Dansville school, and is an annual affair in this township.

Two Local Boys Among Washington Sojourners

Y. M. C. A. STAGES TRIP TO CAPITAL CITY.

A conference of Y. M. C. A. workers with the boys and girls of the Lansing area is scheduled to be held at Grand Lodge on Friday evening and Saturday of next week, according to announcement. "Boy and Girl Relationships" is the conference theme with Dr. David Trout and Professor David Songquist as the headliners among the speakers and group leaders. Full information concerning details of enrollment and entertainment may be secured from Rev. W. R. Prescott, Supt. Donald Murray or Miss Minty of the high school.

Saturday, March 12, a group of 11 boys leave for a trip to Washington, D. C., Philadelphia and Atlantic City. They will stop at Akron, the rubber city, Pittsburg, the steel city; Baltimore, Wilmington and Alexandria. Their route will take them over and through the Blue Ridge and Allegheny mountains and across historic Potomac and Delaware rivers. They will visit Arlington and Mount Vernon and spend considerable time in the national capitol where they will enjoy privileges the casual visitor never receives.

Expenses for the entire trip, so far as the boys are concerned are covered by a fee of $27.00, two dollars of which are paid on enrollment. $17.00 covers the expense for transportation, sleeping quarters in Y. M. C. A. buildings and meals. Very little money beyond this is required for the trip. Just thirty boys will be taken on the trip as not more than that number can find accommodations in the average Y. M. C. A. gymnasium where they sleep on gym pads. Full information concerning what to take and what to wear and other details may be had of V. J. Brown of Mason or E. T. May at Y. M. C. A. at Lansing. Two boys, Curtis Bartlett and Willard Droscha from Mason are among those already enrolled for the trip.

PERSONAL VIEWS MEXICAN REVOLUTION

RUSSELL BROWN OBSERVES JUAREZ BATTLE.

Later Is Among First To Cross Border, Views Deal, Meets Rebel Chiefs, Talks With Citizenry.

(Special to News)
With the remainder of the El Paso population, I enjoyed Friday's comic opera staged between the Federal troops and the revolutionists for the most important cities in northern Mexico. For once I was lucky. It was my day off so I arose early and was down town at five a. m. I had a great time, tried to cross the bridge on the night before the battle but was chased off. Military police drawn in a line about seven blocks from the bridge but we went up to the smelter came down the river before daylight walking on top of the diversion canal bank and got a ring side seat, just about the time the curtain went up. From my vantage point I was able to see what I think were some of the most interesting scenes of the war. Those Mexicans sure shoot wild.

(Editors Note—Knowing that in case there was excitement across the bridge at Juarez, my son, Russell, would be quite likely to be in on it, I was sent him Saturday, March 9, to write what he saw and send it by airplane to the NEWS. The following story was written on Sunday but did not reach Mason until the evening of Thursday, March 14, although the envelope is post marked El Paso March 10, 5 p. m. The editor has no knowledge of what happened to the airplane in which it was sent but does know the letter was delayed more than twenty-four hours longer than the regular time consumed by the regular rail way mail service. We regret we could not publish the letter last week but believe it contains sufficient heretofore unpublished facts to more than warrant its publication. Russell is employed in a Standard Oil refinery at El Paso and is able to converse with the natives in their jargon tongue.)

All of El Paso enjoyed the show but most were partial to the gallery seats. The majority of onlookers climbed to the security of the taller buildings and the scenic Drive, scanning the Mexican border town with a great variety of glasses. A few more curious but I do not know how the U. S. military patrol to gain the orchestra seats on the north shore of the Rio Grande, the writer being counted in on this number.

At daybreak Friday after a night of watching the Rebel fires in the distance and preparation on the part of the Federal troops, Juarez, the enemy approached the city from the south over the Mexican National Railway line, with two trains consisting of five hundred officers and men also enough railroad building equipment to lay about one mile of track. For two days they had been repairing track and bridges which had been torn up by the Federal troops. The Rebels after destroying the tracks had serenely marched back to the city and fortified themselves on any building that would afford protection.

The Rebels were allowed to organize in the rear of the Tivoli, Juarez' famous gambling house in the heart of the city. From here started an old-fashioned sword waving pistol snooted cavalry charge which was met as they rounded into 16th of September street, with a hail of machine gun and rifle fire from the top of the Rio Bravo hotel and from behind the swinging doors of some of Juarez' one hundred and forty-four saloons. The cavalry was followed by infantry and after the Mexicans sounded like a terrific battle, which later I learned resulted in only five killed and a half dozen seriously wounded, the Federals were driven from the top of buildings and sent scurrying north to the river, on to the very front of our stage.

At this time a hail of steel jacketed bullets began to fall on U. S. soil landing as far north as the main business section of El Paso, killing one two-year-old girl, wounding a young boy, breaking windows in office building and landing harmlessly in the Plaza. The watchers on the river bank were now rewarded. The Federal forces, uniforms happing in the wind, were running in a race for all race for the river. With an estimated one hundred rounds fired at this time the watchers were surprised to see so few fall. This can be explained though by the way rifle fire was lighting around us and up town. The battle here raged hot for over an hour with only four killed and thirteen wounded. Federals ranged with their backs to the river finally and invited the Rebels to charge for they well knew that U. S. troops would intervene if they started fighting on the bridge. The Rebels retired having taken the city except for the narrow strip along the river. A flanking movement was started which disgraced the Federals without firing a shot. The Federals tried to cross the bridge to friendly U. S. soil nearby but were held back by the Fort Bliss armoured car unit so took refuge in a nearby hotel. From then until five in the evening just an occasional shot was fired. A little after five the Federals had the main flag and marched to the bridge, conferred with U. S. Gen. Mosley and were allowed to give up their arms after which they were escorted to Fort Bliss by our cavalry and placed in internment.

So another chapter was written in the book of Juarez battles. Not bloody, a little tragic and quite a bit amusing. One Federal was seen to run at full speed down the street, suddenly stop, hide his gun under a front porch and hurriedly seek shelter, supposedly through fighting for the day. Juarez had some four hundred men in the Federal garrison which should have been plenty to repulse the Rebels but the whole affair from the sidelines seemed to be a shoot and run affair.

The writer crossed the bridge to the Mexican side at seven-fifteen that evening. A few dead horses were still in the streets, people were coming out of their hiding places, the city was placed back into the hands of civil authorities, the mayor who was to have been executed that day by the Federals was back on his throne, also the court martial chief of police who was forced to fight his friends in the Rebel ranks.

Except for the shattered fronts of most of the saloons and cafes, glass scattered over the streets and bullet holes everywhere, there was no sign of battle. The Rebel soldiers who are just as slovenly a gang as the Federals were quite the heroes of the hour. The citizens of Juarez were standing on the curbs talking, gesticulating, with arms flying like wind-mills. The few Mexicans I talked with all seemed more than willing to tell me how they witnessed this glorious charge or that bit of heroism that came directly outside their home. They were all for the Rebels, backing up the argument that a Mexican who wishes to lead a long life has to have the faculty of rapidly changing his loyalty.

Juarez on Friday was a bleeding, wartorn city; on Saturday it was a peaceful pleasure-bent town. Saturday morning when I again visited the city the streets had been cleared. Men were busy replacing windows in their places of business. I saw only two places that were so badly shot up they were closed. I looked upon Rebel Capt. Jose Paredes, who was killed in a pistol battle and whose body was lying in state at the municipal building. I also shook hands with the victorious Rebel Chief Gen. Miguel Valle, who was spending a few hours receiving the citizens of Juarez and assuring them there would be no executions and no looting and to date there has been none. All the former employees of the federal government who were in the customs, postal and other services were given their jobs back and tomorrow railroad service will be resumed to points south as far as Torron.

If the Federal army tries to retake the city there will probably be a hotter battle, because, if taken, the Rebels can only look forward to one thing, and that a firing squad. I hope that I will be able to view it if there is another battle, for to me it was just like getting up early to watch the circus unload.

Included with the foregoing letter, there were enclosed several clippings from El Paso papers showing pictures of the scenes described and describing in detail the appearance of the Federal army as it marched across the international bridge to the haven sought at Camp Bliss, the U. S. army post where the Michigan national guard was encamped back in 1916 during the last previous uprising of Rebel forces. The men were said to shamefacedly hide from the moving picture cameras while two generals were screened entirely by being given a ride in an army closed car. About seventy-five of the Federal soldiers were Juarez business men who had been impressed into service less than twenty-four hours before the fighting began. Many of these were dressed in civilian garb. Sad were the scenes at parting with wives and sweethearts as the soldiers left the Mexican end of the bridge as it was the belief that the Federalists would be shipped by circuitous routes to join the Federal forces now approaching from the south to stamp out the revolution.

The following is clipped from the El Paso Herald: Lydia Rodart, 2, 913 S. Santa Fe, victim of a stray bullet fired during the fighting in Juarez Friday, was buried in Concordia cemetery Saturday afternoon. Simplicity characterized the ceremonies.

A lone automobile was in the funeral cortege. The father, Jesus Rodarte, sat in the car and held the cast-iron little daughter, the body of his most toothless, sat and wept.

Others came in and went out after a short stay.

The white casket rested on a stand. At the head of it was a table on which three tall yellow candles were burning.

The bottoms were buried in sand in two water glasses.

Lydia's little body was dressed in white. There was a cape of blue material around her. The father admitted that he had little money. Paper flowers, blue and pink, had been arranged with meticulous and loving care over the body. A wreath of white flowers was over the forehead.

Good Results From Certified Potatoes

FARMERS REPORT HIGHER QUALITY, INCREASED YIELD.

From 40 to 50% increase in yield of potatoes was obtained last year by Ingham County growers as a result of planting certified seed as compared to common seed, according to reports received by agricultural agent, J. G. Wells, Jr.

Mr. Wells had 100 bushels of certified Russet Burbanks shipped in which were sold to seventeen people in lots ranging from one-half bushel to 20 bushels. A letter was written this winter to each one using some of this seed, asking for a comparison of it with common seed.

Thos. Barr of Mason wrote: "We planted an acre for certification and the remaining two bushels were planted alongside our own seed. The certified seed produced big prolific vines while our own seed came up spindling and some hills missing. The rows from certified seed yielded about five bushels per acre while those from our own seed yielded not quite one bushel. C. H. Murray, supervisor of Bunkerhill township reported: "The plot planted to certified seed outyielded the home grown seed of the same variety 40%."

"We raised the best quality of potatoes from the certified seed we have ever raised," wrote W. A. Hall & Sons, of Mason. The same thing was found by H. W. Silsby, county sheriff, who wrote: "I planted a few rows over an acre from the certified seed and the yield was 300 bushels of excellent potatoes, free from disease and of satisfactory size. We planted several acres using seed where we could get it, and the potatoes were diseased. This makes me quite favorable to certified seed."

Mrs. Oren Butters of Route 6, Lansing, wrote: "We dug 11 bushels of nice potatoes from the one-half bushel of certified seed, which is eight bushels more than one-half bushel of our own seed produced."

"We harvested two bushels of potatoes from the certified seed to one bushel from our own seed," reported C. C. Terry, of Onondaga. Similar results were obtained by Paul Redman, living south of Mason, who dug 22 bushels from one bushel of certified seed, while his own seed under similar conditions yielded 12.5 bushels from one bushel.

Because of the low price of certified seed this year there is an excellent opportunity to better the seed stock, according to Mr. Wells. Even though people are raising potatoes only for their own use this matter is important.

Elevator Manager Recommends Larro

SAYS FARMERS PROFITS ARE INCREASED BY USE.

"The hearty approval of dairymen, hog raisers, and poultrymen on the extra profits that come from the use of high quality feeds is being freely expressed by feeders in this section who have had experience in feeding Larro, a line of rations that is always uniform," states George Ward, manager of the Farmers Elevator Co.

"Feeders tell me," he says, "that they never had their cows, hogs and poultry in such good health and first class condition as since they fed these rations that are always uniform. Off-feed conditions, that are always followed by a drop in production and loss of profits, are avoided by the use of uniform feeds."

With Wolverine Fertilizers, Pine Tree Seeds, and Larro Rations, this aggressive feed merchant is rapidly increasing his business, it is said.

"I Should Have Had Konjola Long, Long Ago"

Business Man Gives Enthusiastic Endorsements To Powers Of New Medicine.

MR. FRANK TRACEY

"My business partner recommended Konjola to me, and I shall always be in debt to him for this," said Mr. Frank Tracey, 31 Peterboro street, Detroit, Michigan. "I had been ill with kidney troubles for five years. I had to get up four or five times every night, and this broke my sleep so that my general health was affected. I was nervous, and lacking in vitality and resistance, and was unable to find anything to give me even temporary relief. I was in a pretty bad fix. My partner insisted that I try Konjola, and I should have had this new medicine long, long ago. It went to work right away and in a very short time I was feeling like another person. I am sleeping well every night now, and the terrible back pains are gone. My digestion is perfect, and I am picking up weight and strength right along. My friends are amazed at this sudden change in my appearance and demeanor. I have no hesitancy in recommending Konjola, for personally I think it is the world's greatest medicine."

Konjola is sold in Mason, Mich., at L. H. Harrison's drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

SO MUCH depends upon the care you give them. Now... when they're so helpless and dependent on you to keep them alive... now, when their whole future depends on the feed you choose... is the time to feed Purina Chick Startena and Purina Baby Chick Chow.

They'll repay you for it many times in the months to come. Purina has all the proteins, minerals and vitamins it takes to strengthen and develop their tiny frames and start them on the way to early and profitable maturity.

Chicks' lives are in your hands. Feed them the best and safest feed that science can produce. Feed them Purina.

This Simplicity

means money to YOU!

John Deere Farm Tractor

Simplicity in the tractor you buy is mighty important to you.

This quality means easier operation, fewer adjustments to make, fewer repairs to buy, less trouble, and, what's even more important, it means longer life.

In the illustration above, you see the remarkable simplicity of the powerful, light-weight John Deere Tractor. It shows you at a glance why the John Deere is known as the tractor of fewer, but sturdier, parts.

A strong, one-piece frame encloses the entire working mechanism, protecting all parts from dust or sand, and supplies a reservoir for automatic lubrication so that all working parts operate in a constant bath of clean oil.

From engine to drawbar, the John Deere is a simple, but powerful giant, with no unnecessary parts to add weight and cause loss of power.

When you're ready to buy a tractor, don't overlook the fact that the John Deere is actually hundreds of parts simpler than other tractors of similar power rating.

When you're in town come in and look it over.

Is Your Car More Intelligent Than You?

BY ERWIN GREER
(President Greer College)

The genius of those who build and put out cars has been able to produce in a car a highly developed quality of intelligent mechanical action, far beyond the intelligence of the public that drives it. Their whole thought is to produce the most intensified mechanical intelligence and response, while they never give a thought to the dull, unrelated mentality of those who will drive it.

Cars built for an intelligence that their drivers do not possess; 50-mile-an-hour cars run by 20-mile-an-hour people; a public, 50 per cent of which is incompetent to drive a car at all—these are the things that are making our automobiles juggernauts and our highways places of slaughter—not bad driving, not speeding, not discourtesy. The remedy is not more control, more signals, more red tape, but more education and the compulsory elimination of the untrained driver.

It is a safe estimate that over half the driving public are unfit to operate the modern automobile. The general public intelligence is out of proportion to the rising mechanical intelligence of the car. This can be believed when we take into account the number of unkempt, unwashed, shabby, rattling cars on the road—it is not only plain that the majority of the public, not only do not know how to drive, but they do not know how to keep up a good car.

What is the plan by which this inefficiency can be remedied? Simply this: There should be in every big city an industrial college, similar to Greer College, where motor education could be taught, and no one should be allowed to own or drive a car until he kept up to the mental balance required for safety on the highway. This education should be intensive and long enough to give the student a fully developed awareness—and a deep respect for his position of trust.

He should be required to prove that he can drive a car—and take care of it, up to the hundred per cent mark. There should be education along the lines of motor fitness, and motor efficiency, highway courtesy, cleanliness in person and cars, tests in observation, comprehension, vision, awareness, emergency action. Space and distance calculation would go a long way in putting the highways into a safety zone—and would be an example to all the rest of the world.

Farmer Tells Class Methods Of Success

FORECASTS SOME OF PROBLEMS
NEXT 25 YEARS.

The voice of experience will replace the expression of theory in the commencement address given before the 100 short course students who graduate at Michigan State College, March 8.

Garfield Farley, Albion, himself a short course graduate in 1904 and a partner in the nationally known Farley Brothers Farm, will point out some of the things which agricultural graduates of this year may expect to encounter in the next 25 years.

Diversified crops and livestock interests and the production of a high quality product are a part of the agricultural practices advocated by Mr. Farley. The development of remunerative markets through the production of products such as certified seeds is another means of success recommended by the commencement speaker.

What's To Be Done About It?
BY ERWIN GREER
(President Greer College)
In a single generation the motor car has wrought changes in our social habits that make even the early 'nineties difficult to recall or to visualize. A world suddenly deprived of its motor vehicles would find everybody in it bewilderingly lost. Inevitably a revolution so deep as this, so universally adopted, has raised a host of problems that even now we are only beginning to see in something like their true proportions. Our countryside and our villages are scarred with the most hideous shrieking advertisements that were ever devised by commercialism at its worst. The motor car has done worse than spoil the quietude and charm of the out-of-doors; it has proved itself the most murderous invention ever let loose upon the national highways. This raises at once a host of questions such as compulsory insurance, driver tests, and the right methods of traffic regulation and control, particularly in the matter of speed. But there are a hundred other matters that bear on dangerous driving which are still unsettled on any uniform plan. Meanwhile the police courts are so burdened with motoring offenses that the administration of justice, at the very point where it is most in contact with the mass of the people, is in peril of breaking down, magistrates are calling for special tribunals to try these cases, and the police are so taken up with regulating traffic and chivvying motorists that the burglar and the criminal have found in the internal-combustion engine their greatest ally. The law and ordinances, again, in regard to parking in the streets of our towns are conflicting to the point of being chaotic. What's to be done about it?

FILM NEWS
PASTIME THEATRE

Hoot Gibson, mighty star of Western pictures of action and romance, soon is to be seen here in his greatest production, "King of the Rodeo," a sequel to his stirring hit of several years ago, "Chip of the Flying U." E. M. Bowyer, noted novelist, wrote both stories, "King of the Rodeo," filmed by Universal with the national Chicago rodeo as background, comes to the Pastime Friday and Saturday. The story tells of a Montana youth who comes unknown to the Chicago rodeo, one of the greatest round-ups the country has ever had. He meets an Eastern girl who first mocks his cowboy ability. When he becomes hero of the rodeo she lets her heart have free rein and it takes her into the cowboy's arms. Actual scenes from the rodeo with Gibson participating in real events against some of the greatest cowboys in the country form a big part of the picture. Kathryn Crawford, a new Universal "discovery" and a former musical comedy star, appears in the feminine lead. A comedy drama of rampant youth is "Prep and Pep," coming Sunday and Monday to the Pastime, and featuring in a campus setting the popular juvenile stars Nancy Drexel, Dave Rollins and John Darrow. The story of this highly entertaining picture is about the transition of a bashful boy to the athletic pride of Calvert Military Academy, where he fights to duplicate the fame that was once held by his father, who was the great star of the school in his day. The big climax to the picture comes when the boy proves his mettle and rescues the commandant's daughter from a burning prairie. The entire cast is well chosen, including Rollins as the bashful boy, Darrow as the rival, and Nancy Drexel as the feminine interest. Others who deserve mention are E. H. Calvert for his sympathetic portrayal of the commandant and Frank Albertson as the school comedian. Hailed as an epic of ultra-modern youth, "Walking Back," the new De Mille picture starring Sue Carol which comes to the Pastime Tuesday, Souvenir Night, promises an evening of sensational thrills. It's a rapidfire melodrama of up-to-the-minute boys and girls confronted with the modern problems of hold-up men, bootleggers, wild automobile rides and parties. It presents in a graphic manner the dangers encountered by jazz-mad, pleasure-loving, giddy boys and girls today. The story is one that will delight every spectator, while the comedy is especially fine. Every scene is filled with drama, thrill and appeal. The picture is a screen version of George Kibbe Turner's successful serial, "A Ride in the Country" and the director was Rupert Julian. In the cast are such noted players as Richard Walling, Robert Edson, Ivan Lebedeff, Arthur Rankin, Jane Keckley and Florence Turner, the latter formerly one of the most popular stars of the screen. "Excess Baggage," William Haines' new starring picture which comes to the Pastime next Wednesday and Thursday, is the most natural story in which he has ever appeared, according to the star. "Never before have I appeared in a motion picture where every action seemed to be the normal and proper one to make under the circumstances," said Haines. "It's a lively and interesting tale of stage life behind the scenes, and my role is the most enjoyable one I have ever taken."

For croupy children, feverish colds, disturbing night coughs, it gives us a feeling of security to have Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in the house." No opiates, no chloroform, made under rigid sanitary control. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound carries a strong appeal to thoughtful mothers everywhere. Ask for it.

Jacquard (3-tone) $179.00

FADS may come and fads may go, but genuine comfort is never out of style. Remember that when you buy a living room suite, a sofa or a chair. Look to the lines of the piece—graceful, simple, sturdy they should be. Find out about the construction—it's something you can't see, but it's the most important part of a piece of furniture. Comfort lasts only so long as the construction remains firm and sound. Of course you should sit on the chair or sofa you are buying and make sure it's the most comfortable one of all for you. Finding all those things, you will know you have a suite that will never go out of style.

Simplicity is Always in Vogue

"FUSSY" styles may capture popular fancy for a season, but the furniture you never grow tired of is that with simple lines, honest and unpretentious, a tried and true old friend that doesn't "put on airs." Especially in the furniture you live with day after day, simplicity is a virtue that grows on you through the years. If you would know how attractive simple furnishings may be, see the ones in our store.

"Early English" is Ever in Fashion

The Buffet, $85.00
The furniture of Jacobean England inspired this attractive dining suite. In walnut and gumwood with velvet seats, eight pieces—

EARLY English suites, particularly for the dining room, happen to be very popular at the moment, but better than that they seem to be a perennial fashion, never out of style. Of course, you don't expect to use them successfully in every kind of house. You know that massive styles like these are only for good-sized rooms, unless the pieces have been scaled down (as some of ours have) and adapted to apartment size dining rooms. Naturally Early English styles are not the only good ones. We have many more you'll like.
