Staff, wire reports

More than 900 West Virginia Air and Army National Guard technicians will be furloughed in the coming months because of automatic federal budget cuts.

That includes 39 at Camp Dawson, in Kingwood, and one person at the Fairmont National Guard Readiness Center.

The technicians maintain the Guard's equipment and vehicles, and are classified as civilian employees. They're among more than 600,000 U.S. Department of Defense civilian employees who will be furloughed a total of 11 days each.

The furloughs will also affect 186 workers with the 130th Airlift Wing in Charleston; 384 with the 67th Airlift Wing in Martinsburg; and 376 Army National Guard members at locations across the state, according to the state Na-

"It is one of the most frustrating things I have dealt with in my 32 years in the National Guard," West Virginia National Guard Adj. Gen. James Hoyer told the newspaper.

If there is a natural disaster, the Guard's ability to respond could be affected by the furloughs, he said.

"It's clearly going to have an impact on our readiness," Hover said.

Bomb plot details settle little in NSA debate

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Obama administration declassified a handful of details Tuesday that credited its PRISM Internet spying program with intercepting a key email that unraveled a 2009 terrorist plot in New York.

The details, declassified by the director of national intelligence, were circulated on Capitol Hill as part of government efforts to tamp down criticism of two recently revealed National Security Agency surveillance programs.

Najibullah Zazi's foiled plot to bomb the New York subways has become the centerpiece of that effort. It remains the most serious al-Qaida plot inside the United States since the 9/11 terror attacks.

In the rush to defend the surveillance programs, however, government officials have changed their stories and

Senator: Program deeper than believed

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A leading Republican senator on Tuesday described controversial U.S. spy programs as looking far deeper into Americans' phone records than the Obama administration has been willing to admit, fueling new privacy concerns as Congress sought to defend the surveillance systems.

Sen. Lindsey Graham, R-S.C., said the U.S. intelligence surveillance of phone misstated key facts of the Zazi plot. And they've left out one important detail: The email that disrupted the plan could easily have been intercepted without PRISM.

The debate about the surveillance echoes one from years records allows analysts to monitor U.S. phone records for a pattern of calls, even if those numbers have no known connection to terrorism.

Graham said the National Security Agency then matches phone numbers against known terrorists. Graham helped draft the law that governs the surveillance program.

Police: Suspect tried to escape on girl's bike

ROSWELL, N.M. — A burglary suspect is facing additional charges. Police said he slipped out of his handcuffs and tried to make a getaway using a small girl's bicycle.

Manuel Munoz, 32, was initially arrested this past week during a suspected burglary at a storage building.

According to police, officers found Munoz hiding under a desk.

Police said Munoz then managed to get out of his handcuffs and run from police. Police said he found the tiny girl's bike and attempted his escape.

He was eventually caught again.

2 agencies repaid for Sandy cost

PRESTON COUNTY COMMISSION

BY MICHELLE WOLFORD

The Dominion Post

KINGWOOD — Preston County 911 and the Office of Emergency Management (OEM) received more than $34,000 in reimbursements for Hurricane Sandy.

Preston 911 Assistant Director Justin Wolfe told commissioners Tuesday that the $34,167.16 will be returned to the proper accounts. "Anything we took out during the storm goes back where it came from" in the 911 and OEM budgets.

Wolfe said the money came from Federal Emergency Management Agency (75 percent) and state (25 percent) funds. It repays OEM/911 for labor costs and supplies ($10,212.95), and for generator hours ($22,054.30).

Generators were used to power water plants, nursing homes and radio tower sites in the aftermath of the storm. Wolfe said generators ran for 1,088.4 hours after the storm. The tower on Laurel Mountain was operating on generator power for nearly 13 days, he said.

County Administrator Kathy Mace said the county is still awaiting its reimbursement.

Commissioners also:

■ Approved the hiring of a part-time temporary employee. Joshua Johnson, of Kingwood, will receive $9 an hour for about 24 hours a week until August, while a full-time employee is on family leave, Mace said. His primary job will be mowing.

■ Gave permission for the Terra Alta Volunteer Fire Department to use an ATV on county roads in the days leading up to its Fourth of July celebration.

The Dominion Post

Six one-time United States Penitentiary (USP) — Hazelton inmates were sentenced to more prison time for the death of another inmate, U.S. Attorney William Ihlenfeld's office said.

One inmate, Anthony Young, 35, was also allegedly involved in a fatal fight at North Central Regional Jail in January and could face charges in that case when the Doddridge County grand jury meets next month.

Young pleaded guilty to conspiracy to commit an assault on another inmate in connection with the 2006 death of Willie Myers at USP Hazelton, a press release from the U.S. Attorney's Office said.

Young was accused of holding Myers while other inmates stabbed him to death.

U.S. District Judge Irene Keeley sentenced him to 10 years in prison.

Young's co-defendants' sentences varied, the office said.

on another inmate.

Leo Hackett, 36, pleaded guilty to the same charge and was sentenced to almost six years. Dashean Bradley, 36, was sentenced to five years in prison on the same charge. Demetrius Palmer, 31, got a little more than three years.

Young could be indicted for the death of 19-year-old Jeron Hawkins, who suffered severe head injuries in a fight at the Doddridge County jail Jan. 7.

He died Jan. 9, at Ruby Memorial Hospital.

Hawkins was serving a life sentence for a 2011 murder in Morgantown.

State police said Young attacked Hawkins and beat him with a mop bucket or part of the bucket. Through an attorney, Young said he acted in self-defense.

An employee at the Doddridge County Prosecuting Attorney's office said Hawkins' death is still being investigated by state police.

But Sgt. W. Vessels, commander of the West Union detachment, said the case has been wrapped up.

"If they call for it, we're ready to go," he said.

It's not just food for thought

West Virginia's launch of summertime meal programs for children also feeds hopes

For most of us, the right time to eat is when we're hungry, or not.

But for many, it's when they have something to eat.

Especially, for too many school-age and preschool children during the summer months.

Earlier this week, the state Department of Education released a list of more than 400 feeding sites across the state that will provide free breakfasts and lunches to children from low-income families this summer.

The costs of the meals is covered, by and large, by the federal Summer Food Service Program, while school districts, churches, nonprofits, parks, camps and others provide the feeding sites.

The magnitude of free and reduced meals served in our schools during the academic year is staggering. Nationwide, more than 22 million children in public schools are fed as such twice a day.

In West Virginia, nearly 60 percent of students on average depend on free and reduced-priced meals at school. That breaks down to nearly 170,000 of the state's 281,000 schoolchildren.

However, the scope of the summer meal program is a fraction of that: About 13,000 students daily statewide, well below the national average of 15 percent of eligible children receiving meals in the summer.

What that means is despite the efforts of the state, U.S. Department of Agriculture and hundreds of community action agencies, churches and others a lot of children are hungry today and will be this summer.

Of course, in some cases, maybe they're not hungry so much as they simply don't receive nutritious meals. If adults opt for beer and popcorn, instead of fruits and vegetables for a meal, no one's going to look askew.

However, if tens of thousands of children are not eating properly, that should get everyone's attention.

Though there are no major plans to expand the numbers of feeding sites this summer, there are plans to step up transportation efforts in rural areas.

Also this year, the Legislature approved the Feed to Achieve Act, which supplements existing meal programs. It also encourages partnerships with private businesses to help sponsor government nutrition programs in schools.

Many summer meal programs not only provide breakfasts and lunches, covering all five groups, but also teach children the value of eating healthy.

Nutritious meals for children are not just necessary for them to learn and play, but also to break the cycle of poverty that often perpetuates itself unless the private and

Is the 4th Amendment dead? With each passing day we see government agencies encroaching on more and more of our natural rights, as guaranteed in the Constitution.

Not only that, but we see more and more so called "conservative Republicans" in the political class supporting the violation of the Constitution.

The National Security Agency's violation of the 4th Amendment by tracking Verizon Wireless customers and their call records is an example of this.

While the people are outraged that this would occur, and point their fingers at the Obama administration, the fact is one of our "own" is responsible for this tyranny.

That's right, one of West Virginia's own "star" Republicans is to blame.

Rep. Shelley Moore Capito, darling of the West Virginia GOP, voted not once but twice to violate the 4th Amendment, and voted for the so-called PA-TRIOT Act that allows the Obama administration to spy on all Americans without a warrant, and then supported the repeal of the 5th and 6th amendments by voting for the National Defense Authorization Act, which allows the government to detain you indefinitely, even ship you to foreign prisons, without trial or due process.

Not only that, but she has also voted for the Cyber Intelligence Sharing and Protection Act to allow Obama and his team to spy on all of your email, too.

Now Capito is running for the U.S. Senate, with the blessings of many West Virginia state politicians and GOP officials.

While you are busy shaking your fist at the Obama administration, you are missing the point. It is a fellow West Virginian that has given them permission to do such.

It is time to hold fellow West Virginians accountable for these violations. For liberty begins at home, and we must clean our own house. We must look beyond the party affiliation — Republican or Democrat — behind the name of a politician or candidate, and instead focus on

Springing into spring at 2013 Senior Olympics

Yes, spring into spring, as I have done, and you'll be happier than you have been in a long time.

On May 25, we drove to the Tunnelton Volunteer Fire Department Hall to enjoy the annual alumni association festivities. While the number of attendees was down, those who did attend apparently enjoyed themselves, if the loud banter and laughter was any indication. I sat across the table from a lovely lady from Terra Alta who had graduated with the Class of 1942. Her daughter had brought her to the event and subsequently had enjoyed a good time herself. My husband and I graduated with the Class of 1943.

For those of you who ignore invitations from former classmates to attend class reunions, I strongly advise you to rearrange your priorities, go and have a blast. You won't be sorry.

Anyhow, on June 4, a bus filled with senior citizens left the bus garage in Kingwood and headed for the 2013 Mineral County Senior Olympics. Yes, you heard right.

The four-day event was held at WVU's Potomac State College, in beautiful Keyser.

Keyser sets pristinely in a beautiful forested area of Mineral County. Homes are neatly kept, and flowers bloomed nearly everywhere. I enjoyed every minute of my four-day stay there.

I would be remiss if I neglected to praise the leaders, sponsors and all the young people who made this event unforgettable for me.

Our own senior citizens brought home a total of 116 medals: 40 gold, 44 silver and 32 bronze medals. Records were broken, and a trophy accompanied us home.

Hats off to our great bus driver, Carole Barone.

Plan next year to take a trip yourself to the 2014 Senior Olympics in beautiful Keyser. You won't be sorry. Eileen Hartman Kingwood

Leaking my notes on meeting with attorney general

ATTORNEY GENERAL ERIC HOLDER'S meeting with journalists and media rights advocates, including me, began in the way many Washington conversations do, with negotiations as to what was to be "off the record."

The meeting was one of a series Holder has been holding with editors, bureau chiefs, network executives and media rights organizations to discuss his Justice Department's handling of investigations that involve reporters. Some news organizations boycotted the meetings rather than go along with Holder's off-the-record demand. I attended as a representative of the New York-based Committee to Protect Journalists, of which I am a board member. If it leads to positive changes and not just a public-relations boost for Holder and his boss, President Obama, I think it was worth a try.

The sad fact about the Constitution's protections of journalists in such cases is how few protections we have. The media and the government are still operating under the legacy of the Supreme Court's 1972 Branzburg v. Hayes, in which the high court narrowly ruled 5-4 that the First Amendment does not exempt reporters from giving evidence in criminal cases.

Yet, in a bow to free press rights, the court also held that the government must "convincingly show a substantial relation between the information sought and a subject of overriding and compelling state interest." If that sounds about as clear as an oil spill to you, you're not alone.

The high court has yet to revisit the issue, but the Justice Department enacted important guidelines after Branzburg. They give the department wide discretion while also trying to set something that sounds like reasonable limits. They require that the attorney general approve all media subpoenas. They must be "as narrowly drawn as possible" and the news organizations must be notified of a subpoena in all but the most exceptional cases so they have time to appeal it in court.

What brings the issue up again are the revelations that earlier this year, Justice conducted the most aggressive known federal seizure of media records since the Nixon administration. The department seized two months of records for 20 phone lines used by Associated Press reporters and editors.

They also obtained a warrant to search email records at Fox News and a subpoena for the network's telephone records. Both the AP and Fox cases involved separate leak investigations.

Holder also denied at a May 15 hearing that he had ever been involved in any decision to pursue a criminal probe of a journalist. He also declared that it would not be "wise policy" to do so. Yet in the affidavit for the Fox News subpoena, the reporter involved, James Rosen, was described as a "co-conspirator" by investigators.

White House spokesman Jav Carney and the Justice Department said that Holder had testified truthfully, since Rosen was not charged. The C-word was made necessary by technical legal rules, the department said. Yet, to journalists and other non-lawyerly folks — like me being named as "co-conspirator" sounds a lot like the feds were preparing Rosen for possible indictment. Justice officials could hardly throw a harsher chill on the media if they were trying.

Bridging such cultural gaps was one of Holder's stated reasons for holding the meeting, as part of a review ordered by Obama to develop proposals for new or improved rules by mid-July.

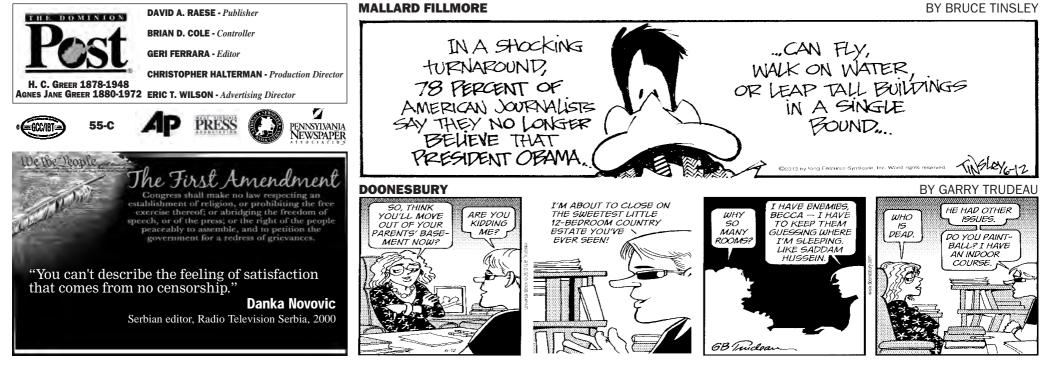

If this sounds like an inside-baseball concern, limited to media workers, consider for a moment how many questionable government activities we know about, thanks to leakers and the reporters who reported their leaks. Notable examples in recent years include warrantless eavesdropping, "renditions" to secret prisons, waterboarding and armed drones.

One of the most commonly raised concerns of media workers, executives and advocates in Holder's meetings was how and why media should be notified of an investigation, as the department's guidelines indicate. Then they can negotiate with the government over what should be released and how. Holder acknowledged that the vast majority of such disputes are quietly resolved in this way without going to court.

If the two parties can't come to an agreement, a secret federal court would provide an objective third party to settle the issue. Judges aren't perfect, but they provide a assurance that the government must prove its case before stepping on the public's right to know.

Snoop mom feels shut out by her son

DEAR ABBY: My partner of 12 years and I are well-educated, successful career men. Every few months my mom comes to visit, and we all enjoy spending time together.

The last few visits were not so great. We caught Mom snooping in our bedroom and our home office. When we confronted her, she got upset and stormed out of the room in tears. I have asked her to respect our privacy, but her response is that she — as the mother — is the one who deserves respect.

We recently had some renovations done to the house that included locks on our bedroom and office doors. When neither of us are home, the doors stay locked. Nothing was said about it during Mom's last visit, but last week we received a note from her telling us not to come for our usual summer visit. I tried to call her, but she won't answer. Today I talked with my aunt (Mom's sister), who told me Mom is furious over the locks. My aunt also expressed disappointment in me for "shutting Mom out." I don't understand how I could be in the wrong,

DEAR IN A JAM: Although your mother deserves respect, it is hard to respect someone who goes through one's bedroom and office after having been asked not to. You may be her son, but you are also an adult and have the right to some privacy. What Mom is doing is the equivalent of throwing a tantrum. You were not shutting her out; you were drawing the line. Regardless of what your aunt said, you owe no one an apology. Let's hope this storm blows over soon. And as to your summer holiday plans, an Alaskan cruise might be a lovely change from the humidity of Florida and the steam coming from wherever your mother lives.

Firefighters tangle with training | State:

WVU Forest hosts weeklong academy

BY ALEX LANG The Dominion Post

Several new firefighters picked up hoses, and instructor Willie Cirone joked as they took their first cracks at unraveling their firefighting equipment.

"It's like 'Police Academy,' for [heaven's] sakes," he said.

Cirone, who is from the New Jersey State Forest Fire Service, was teaching them the proper way to roll and unroll fire hoses, as well as the difference between the sizes and their best functions.

The training was among the activities Tuesday at the Mid-Atlantic Wildfire Training Academy held on WVU Forest land. It is a weeklong event to provide forest fire training to all levels of firefighters.

Conor Cook is fresh out of high school in Cincinnati and is looking to become a forest firefighter. He said he believed he was the youngest one at the academy, at 19 years old.

Cook said he became interested after a cousin participated in an academy. He said he wasn't afraid to fight fires, but nervous.

Adds 2 more days to school calendar

PRESTON COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

BY MICHELLE WOLFORD

The Dominion Post

KINGWOOD — Preston County students will return to school Aug. 22, and begin the school year with a two-hour delay.

Craig Schmidl, assistant superintendent of schools, told the board this week that the calendar sent for state approval came back with a request to build in eight weather make-up days after March 1, not the six submitted.

"The biggest effect that will have is, school will begin one day earlier," Schmidl said.

The original calendar had school starting on a Friday -Aug. 23. Staff was to report Aug. 19. That hasn't changed, he said. But students will start Aug. 22, a Thursday, after a two-hour delay. That gives administrators a little extra time to get things in order before students arrive, he said. Summer break is scheduled to begin June 4, 2014.

from 10 states participating, said Michael Vanderberg, academy coordinator. The academy is a partnership among seven states, and they try to hold it in West Virginia each year because of its central location.

The academy offers courses for all levels of firefighting skills, Vanderberg said. Many of the participants want to join crews that are deployed to fight western wildfires, he said. He added they are right in the middle of that season, and crews from West Virginia can be sent to help. For the more experienced academy participants, it's a chance to move up the ladder.

"These firefighters will also come here to advance their careers," he said.

Some academy members want to become crew bosses or learn to teach courses, Vanderberg said.

Students in Monongalia County return to school Aug. 15 and the school year ends May 27, provided make-up days are not necessary.

Also this week, the board heard an update on the Backpack Feeding Program through Food for Preston, which provides meals for some students over the weekends during the school year.

Susan Moran, Preston County Schools' homeless coordinator, said the program's needs have grown while resources are dwindling.

Food for Preston Coordinator Tammy Laney said the program started with 80 students and has grown to 172.

Some slaves set free as W.Va. joins Union

THE WEST VIRGINIA Constitutional Convention was called back into session in February 1863.

Attendees unanimously approved the Willey Amendment to the state constitution, calling for "the children of slaves born within the limits of this State after the fourth day of July, eighteen hundred and sixty-three, shall be free; and all slaves within the said State who shall, at the time aforesaid, be under the age of ten years, shall be free when they arrive at the age of twenty-one years; and all slaves over ten and under twenty-one years, shall be free when they arrive at the age of twenty-five years; and no slave shall be permitted to come into the State for permanent residence therein."

The statehood bill including the Willey Amendment was submitted to the voters of West Virginia for ratification. The bill passed by a landslide, 27,749 in favor with 572 in opposition.

On April 20, President Abraham Lincoln issued the following proclamation: "Whereas, by the Act of Congress approved the 31st day of December, last, the State of West Virginia was declared to be one of the United States of America, and was admitted into the Union on an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatever, upon the condition that certain changes should be duly made in the proposed Constitution for that State;

"And, whereas, proof of a compliance with that condition as required by the Second Section of the Act aforesaid, has been submitted to me;

"Now, therefore, be it known, that I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, do, hereby, in pursuance of the Act of Congress aforesaid, declare and proclaim that the said act shall take effect and be in force, from and after sixty days from the date hereof.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States to be affixed.

"(Signed) Abraham Lincoln, President"

Sixty days later, on June 20, 1863, West Virginia entered the Union. It was the 35th state of the nation, and the first to enter during Lincoln's administration. In May, Arthur I. Boreman was placed in nomination by the Constitutional Union party of West Virginia to run for governor. No other candidate was nominated. Thus Boreman became the first governor of West Virginia. Francis Pierpont. who had been Governor of the Restored and Reorganized Government of Virginia, continued as governor, moving to Alexandria and controlling Union held portions of Virginia. Pierpont also ordered that residents in Jefferson and Berkeley counties be allowed to vote for admission into West Virginia. With Union troops placed outside the polling places, both counties voted for inclusion. That vote remains controversial today.

WEST VIRGINIA marks 150 years of statehood June 20. The Dominion Post will publish weekly columns by Bob O'Connor, a historian, scholar and author of six Civil War books.

Straighter Teeth can lead to:

Healthier Gums

Properly positioned teeth are easier to brush and floss than teeth that are crowded, crooked, or spaced too far apart.

Properly aligned teeth can help gums "fit" tighter around them, which may lead to better periodontal health.

Easier Cleanings

With maintenance of good oral hygiene, the chances of having plaque retention, tooth decay, and periodontal (gum) disease can be reduced.

Improving Chewing and Speech

In some instances, speech problems may result from poorly positioned teeth and jaws.

Correction of the bite can help improve chewing and speech.

Decreased Risk of Dental Trauma and Abnormal Wear Properly aligned teeth are less stressful on the supporting bone and jaw joints.

Men's Wearhouse reports financial results for its first liscal quarter today.

The clothing store chain is expected to announce that its earnings and revenue rose from the same quarter last year. Men's Wearhouse has been struggling with sluggish sales in recent quarters. That's one reason it has been exploring the possible sale of its weaker-performing K&G unit, which sells men's suits and accessories, in addition to women's clothing.

Wall Street will be listening today when PVH, previously known as Phillips-Van Heusen, reports its latest quarterly earnings for details on how PVH's efforts to integrate Warnaco are coming along. Some analysts are concerned the company may be facing weak demand for denim clothing in Asia.

Harley Davidson stock continues to rise from the depths of the recession under the leadership of CEO Keith Wandell. Since he took over during the financial crisis in 2009, the stock has climbed 139 percent compared with the 86 percent rise of the broader market.

The motorcycle maker lost $55 million in 2009. Harley made $624 million last year, the best annual profit since 2008

Wandell was hired from auto parts maker Johnson Controls and is the first CEO hired from outside Harley. To turn things around he renegotiated union contracts and modernized production plants. The majority of new dealerships opened in the last five years are in developing countries, reducing the company's reliance on middle-aged American men to buy the premium-priced bikes.

Several financial analysts believe Harley's greatest potential for growth lies overseas; the developing economies of Latin America and Asia are particularly promising.

Stock indexes fell Tuesday in concert with markets around the world. The weakness began in Asia, after the Bank of Japan said that it would hold steady on its stimulus for the world's third-largest economy. Some investors expected to see new stimulus measures, and Japan's Nikkei 225 index fell 1.5 percent. The weakness spread to Europe, where France's CAC 40 index lost 1.4 percent. Shortly after trading began in the United States, the Dow Jones industrial average lost as many as 152 points, but it pared its loss as the day progressed. It was the second drop in a row for the Dow and for the Standard & Poor's 500 index.

Agency: Opting for overdrafts means higher fees

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A U.S. agency says consumers who opt for overdraft coverage on their checking accounts pay higher fees and are more likely to have their accounts closed than those who decline it.

A report by the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau released Tuesday says it's hard for consumers to anticipate and avoid overdraft charges. It found that the cost for "opting in" for overdraft coverage varies widely from one bank to the next.

Customers of some banks paid average charges of $298 annually, while those at others paid $147.

The CFPB has been investigating overdraft fees, which are a major source of banks' revenue. The agency has said its examination could result in new rules.

The Consumer Bankers Association, which represents large U.S. banks and regional banks, urged the CFPB against adopting any policy that it said could push consumers toward financial firms outside the banking industry, which are less strictly regulated by the government and offer costlier alternatives.

"Consumers have the right to choose the products and features which best provide for their family's daily financial needs," Richard Hunt, the group's president and CEO, said in a statement Tuesday. "Fortunately, the marketplace for checking accounts is extremely competitive and banks make every effort to educate their customers about the options available to them."

Banks charge overdraft fees when customers try to spend more money than they have in an account.

Banks will allow the able expectations." transaction and then charge the customer a penalty of as much as $35.

Consumer advocates say overdraft fees hurt the people who can least afford them, because poorer customers are more likely to drain their checking accounts to close to zero.

"Consumers need to anticipate and avoid unnecessary fees on their checking accounts," CFPB Director Richard Cordray said in a statement. "But we are concerned that some overdraft practices may increase consumer costs beyond reason-

In 2010, the Federal Reserve barred banks from automatically enrolling customers in so-called overdraft protection programs for debit card or ATM transactions. Banks must obtain a customer's consent, or "opt-in," Without overdraft protection, a transaction is declined if the customer can't cover it. The rule didn't apply to checks, online bill payments or recurring debits, such as a monthly cable bill. It also didn't limit how much banks can charge for the overdraft service.

Taliban bomber in Kabul kills 17

Associated Press

KABUL, Afghanistan A Taliban suicide bomber struck outside Afghanistan's Supreme Court on Tuesday, killing 17 people in the deadliest attack in Kabul in over a vear and a half.

It was also the second consecutive day of attacks in the Afghan capital, undermining the ability of Afghan forces to keep security without help from NATO troops.

The attacker rammed his SUV into buses carrying court employees at the end of the day's work. All of the dead were civilians, including women and children, police said. and at least 39 people were wounded.

The Taliban said they delivered a blow to "cruel judges" who obey Western powers, and warned of more bombings to come.

President Hamid Karzai condemned the attack, saying it was another "terrorist act that once again shows the Taliban are serving the enemies of Islam."

Tuesday's attack was the deadliest in Kabul since Dec. 6, 2011, when a suicide bomber on foot hit worshippers at a Shiite shrine, killing at least 80 people.

It came just a day after heavily armed fighters launched a failed assault on NATO's operational headquarters at the military section of Kabul's international airport. All attackers were seven killed by Afghan forces and only two civilians were wounded in Monday's attack.

Clashes in Istanbul extend into night in Taksim Square

Associated Press

ISTANBUL—Protesters and Turkey's prime minister both refused to back down Tuesday in what could become the final battle for Istanbul's Taksim Square, the symbol of nagrievances tionwide against his government.

Tens of thousands of protesters returned to the square in the evening, in a show of defiance met with tear gas, rubber bullets and water cannons, hours after riot police had forced their way past improvised barricades to clear the square of protesters occupying the area for the past 12 days.

Hundreds more vowed to continue their sit-in at Taksim's adjacent Gezi Park, despite an order from Prime Minister Recep Tayyip Erdogan for them to leave — an order bolstered by the police show of force.

A peaceful demonstration against the park's redevelopment that began more than two weeks ago has morphed into the biggest test of Erdogan's authority in his decade of power.

South Korea: Talks with North scrapped

SEOUL, South Korea — The Koreas' first high-level talks in vears have been scrapped because of a stalemate over who will lead each delegation, South Korea said Tuesday, a day before they were to begin. The cancellation is a blow to tentative hopes that the rivals were about to improve ties following years of rising hostility.

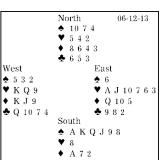

North Korea said it wasn't sending its officials to Seoul for the two-day meeting that was to begin Wednesday because the South had changed the head of its delegation, Kim Hyung-suk, a spokesman for Seoul's Unification Ministry, told reporters in a briefing. The ministry is in charge of North Korea matters.

Mandela daughters visit their ill father

JOHANNESBURG -Doctors are doing all they can to improve Nelson Mandela's health as the 94-year-old icon spent a fourth day in the hospital for a recurring lung infection, South Africa's president said Tuesday, as two of Mandela's daughters visited their father.

In a possible sign of the seriousness of Mandela's condition, daughter Zenani Mandela — South Africa's ambassador to Argentina — arrived at the hospital to see her father. Former wife Winnie Madikizela-Mandela also visited.

The defenders should hunt too

By Phillip Alder

Otto von Bismarck said, "People never lie so much as after a hunt, during a war, or before an election. Bridge players do not so much lie after a deal as not realize that they failed to take as many tricks as possible

This layout was in yesterday's column. Then South, hunting for 10 tricks in four spades, ruffed the second heart and immediately played on diamonds to take six spades, two diamonds and two clubs. (If diamonds had not been 3-3, declarer would have tried the club finesse.)

Now let's turn to the defenders' hunt for four tricks. How can they succeed after West leads the heart king?

South's sequence, a takeout double over East's weak two followed by a jump to four spades, showed a very strong hand with at least a six-card suit. North hoped that no one would double!

East should realize from the bidding and the dummy that South has only one heart. Maybe West has a trump winner, but if not, the defenders must take three minor-suit tricks. These might come automatically, but perhaps South has a strong club holding that needs to be led through. (There cannot be a need for an immediate diamond shift.) East should overtake West's heart king with his ace and switch to the club nine (the high card denying an honor in the suit).

South can win, cash the spade and diamond aces, and play a second dia-mond, but East overtakes West's jack with his queen and leads another club. Here, this leaves declarer with no chance, having to lose four tricks.

For UHS, Aug. 30 is revenge

THE HAWKS opened the 2012 season by pounding Lewis County, 35-7, en rout to an 8-2 regular season. The Minutemen fumbled a snap and took a knee on the first possession, then turned the ball over five times. Then the Hawks drew Lewis County for their first-round playoff game. This time it was University that threw two interceptions, fumbled once and botched a snap on the tying extra-point attempt and was sent packing from the playoffs in a 24-23 loss in too-early November.

Monday was the first day of the optional three-week practice period for high school sports and UHS head football coach John Kelley was running a simple drill at Mylan Pharmeceuticals Stadium.

He had a contingent of quarterbacks and tailbacks practicing making handoffs and running about 10 yards up the field, past an assistant coach with blocking pads.

"Last year, Lewis County starts slanting hard that way," Kelley said, stopping the drill after a few minutes and leaning to an imaginary defender's left. "Go the other way, and it's off to the races."

That was during the last hour of a 2 1/2 hour practice, which followed a two-hour lifting session, and during those four-plus hours, I heard the Minutemen mentioned at least as many times

Kelley said you can mark it as what will be the recurring theme for the UHS team from now until Aug. 30, when UHS travels to Lewis County for its season-opener.

973 average on the NCAA scale

WVU's 17 varsity athletic programs have an average Academic Progress Rate (APR) score of 973 and, for the third straight year, no team will face penalties.

Top guns

The Morgantown High foothall team entered three-week practice period Monday looking to fill six offensive and seven defensive positions from the 2012 state semifinal squad. None will be more talked about than the quarterback spot, vacated by Mark Johnson, who begins his collegiate career at the University of Massachusetts this fall. Johnson. who was the Mohigans' starter for the past two seasons, was incredibly reliable as a senior. He completed 64 percent of his passes and threw for 1,269 yards and 14 touchdowns, with just two interceptions. The top candidates to fill his position are junior Ethan Goldcamp and sophomore Zayne Hern. "We told them both a long time ago, It's wide open," said MHS assistant coach Tom Powers, who is filling in during the first week of the three-week practice period for MHS head coach John Bowers, who is in Charleston coaching the North Bears in the annual North-South All-Star football game.

Diamondbacks owner grateful for Okla. effort

Submitted to The Dominion Post

Arizona Diamondbacks Managing General Partner Ken Kendrick has made a donation of $200,000 to the Mountaineer Athletic Club in the name of the WVU baseball program to the Oklahoma City tornado relief effort.

"We have all been saddened by the recent tornadoes in Oklahoma. The actions taken in the aftermath by the WVU baseball team demonstrated the true Mountaineer spirit by immediately helping the victims begin the recovery process," Kendrick said. "I am now very proud to help support our baseball team's efforts with the rebuilding process, which will hopefully bring some joy back to the Oklahoma City community."

The funds will be appropriated to the Oklahoma City All Sports Association to help repair baseball fields in the Oklahoma City area that were damaged by devastating tornadoes during the past month.

"This is where we not only live, but where we play. The devastating and tragic tornado storms of Mav 2013 delivered an incredible and painful blow to our communities and their sports facilities infrastructure," Oklahoma City All Sports Association Executive Director Tim Brassfield said. "Many of the vouth baseball organizations are shut down or severely hindered due to the loss of so many baseball/softball fields. We will be forever grateful for a relationship with West Virginia University and their amazingly generous alum, Ken Kendrick. His contribution will be used to help boys and girls get active and back on the ball fields as quickly as possible as we rebuild the many, many complexes that were damaged or destroyed." A native of Princeton, W.Va. and a 1965 WVU graduate, Kendrick was inspired by the goodwill put forth by members of the WVU baseball program while the team was participating in the Big 12 baseball championship from May 23-25 in Oklahoma Citv. Following a rare EF5 tornado that devastated nearby Moore, Okla. on May 20, the WVU baseball team jumped into action. The team went to a store to buy essential items that were later handed out to victims staying at Oklahoma's campus. On May 26, with one day to spare before coming back to Morgantown, the team took a bus into Moore and visited a neighborhood, helping victims sort through the wreckage of the demolished houses.

QB job up for grabs on MHS squad

"I told the kids I would set the tone today and I would set the tone in practice in August and I would set the tone in the pregame speech," Kelley said.

"You could feel it all week (before last year's playoff game), our kids did not take them seriously and I said the formula was there for an upset. And unfortunately, we were the team that made all the mistakes. Were we better than them? Yeah. But you can't make that many mistakes. That's the tone of the whole preseason to me."

When plenty of coaches are breaking in new starters and teaching the playbook, the Hawks are almost ready to begin polishing. They return 11 of 22 starting positions and nine starting seniors, including nearly all of their skill players. The seniors led stretches and guided the younger players through drills, looking crisp doing it.

Kelley said the Hawks have simplified their defense and he expects the veterans to pick it up in just one day. He thinks the basic offense will be in place by this weekend, when UHS plays in a 7-on-7 tournament at WVU.

'Our starters, I wouldn't hesitate to throw them out there right now," UHS senior receiver Jack Armstrong agreed. "We've been working over the spring and winter and I think most of us retained everything from last year. The coaches are excited because they haven't had to teach us much any more, they are just letting us go out and get better and get reps."

Are the Hawks still going to make mistakes? You bet.

But between their returning talent and their buoyed memory, I bet it won't be against Lewis County on Aug. 30.

"That was one of the first things Coach Kelley talked about today," Amstrong said. "Our strength coach has been yelling it in our ear the past couple months. I've even been getting crap from the other teams about it. I joke about it, but it really gets to me.

"I'm waiting for that day," he said with a grin. "It's going to be really fun."

side and out and to know where everybody else is supposed to be? You can know your position — and we probably have kids who just know their position on the field — but that quarterback's gotta know what every single person on the field is doing, where they are supposed to line up by formation, everything. We put a lot on their shoulders, but we usually have somebody who can handle that quite easily."

Goldcamp has the most experience as a quarterback, starting and leading the junior varsity in every game last season and the freshman team the season before.

"Ethan has been in the fire with us with the JV program," Powers said. "He played injured as a freshman, because there was no other quarterback for the freshman team, so he's been there before. He knows the depth of our offense and he shows the poise of an older guy who's been there."

Goldcamp saw some late-game varsity action last season, when he completed 6 of 14 passes for 30 yards. As the most veteran QB option, Goldcamp is the frontrunner for the job.

Right tackle Andre Smith will miss the Cincinnati Bengals' three-day minicamp and be fined by the team. Smith missed the team's voluntary workouts the past three weeks, but was expected to be in Cincinnati on Tuesday for the three-day mandatory minicamp. Cornerback and former WVU player Adam "Pacman" Jones joined in the afternoon practice Tuesday, a day after he was arrested on an assault charge. Jones declined to answer questions. His attorney entered a plea of not guilty on his behalf Tuesday. Lewis said Jones' situation is "unfortunate," but he had nothing else to say.

■ Donte Stallworth has recovered from serious burn injuries suffered in a hot air balloon crash and is practicing with the Washington Redskins. Stallworth took part in Tuesday's minicamp as a tryout player, but coach Mike Shanahan said he hopes to sign the veteran receiver this week. Stallworth and his then-girlfriend were riding in a hot air balloon in March when the balloon clipped a power line. Stallworth said parts of his body were literally on fire.

■ The NFL is looking at options for where to hold the draft in 2015. Next year's draft, one of the most popular events on the league calendar, was moved from April to May 8-10 to keep it at Radio City Music Hall. The venue has created a spring entertainment show that will occupy the historic theater for April. If the league decides to move the draft back to April in future years, it will consider other venues. Already, Chicago Mayor Rahm Emanuel has contacted Commissioner Roger Goodell about his city hosting the draft. NFL internal study groups could consider moving the draft to different cities, similar to how the Super Bowl is rotated.

The NHL conference finals' television viewership more than doubled from last year. With three large-market teams and three clubs with recent histories of luring audiences, the Blackhawks-Kings and Bruins-Penguins series averaged 2.65 million viewers on NBC and NBC Sports Network despite lasting only a combined nine games. Kings-Coyotes and Devils-Rangers averaged 1.25 million viewers last year over 11 games. Helped by two double-overtime games. this year's series drew the most viewers for a conference finals in 17 years, when games on Fox and ESPN averaged 2.86 million viewers.

IndyCar has fined Team Penske $35,000 and docked it 15 entrant points because the underwing on Helio Castroneves' race-winning car at Texas didn't meet specifications. Team Penske said it found the height was instead 7.575 inches "because we neglected to tighten" braces positioning the rear of the diffuser.

Rask, Crawford on center stage for NHL showdown

Associated Press

CHICAGO Corey Crawford was in the stands Patrick when Kane slammed home the goal that secured the Stanley Cup for the Chicago Blackhawks in 2010.

A year later, Tuukka Rask was just a practice player when Tim Thomas led the Boston Bruins to the title.

Fast forward to Wednesday night at the United Center, and Crawford and Rask will be in goal when the Blackhawks host the Bruins in Game 1 of the Cup finals.

It's been a long road, but that little taste of the Stanley Cup turned into much more for two of the most important players for this series.

Sure, it's nice to win a championship. It's just a little sweeter when you're on the ice at the very end.

"Once you've seen it, and not being on the ice, I think everybody would like to have that chance someday," Rask said. "For me, it came pretty early after our win and I'm just trying to make the most out of it and enjoy myself."

The rise of Rask and Crawford is a testament to the patience and steady approach of the Bruins and Blackhawks, and it's no coincidence that each team is seeking to become the first franchise with two Stanley Cups in the salary cap era.

After a slow and steady climb, Rask and Crawford have been the best goaltenders in the league during this year's playoffs. Crawford leads the NHL with a 1.74 goals-against average, just ahead of Rask (1.75 GAA).

"It's a process for goalies, I think," said Blackhawks general manager Stan Bowman, one of Crawford's biggest supporters during the years. "We've always had confidence in his ability. I think it's just nice to see now him getting the recognition that he deserves. "The consistent play that we've had game in, game out, it's been that way from the beginning of the year. We know we're going to get a great performance from him every night."

While Chicago drafted Crawford in the second round a decade ago, Rask was a first-round selection for the Toronto Maple Leafs in 2005. Boston got him in a trade for goalie Andrew Raycroft a year later.

General manager Peter Chiarelli, who officially took over the team a couple weeks after the Rask deal, said it's his understanding that the Bruins decided they wanted Rask instead of center Jiri Tlusty in the deal.

"There was a lot of discussion at both ends about it," Chiarelli said. "It was decided that it would be Rask from Boston's end. I think they tried to come back and maybe flip that, consider the other guy, who is a good player in Carolina now. Eventually they said no and the deal was done."

It certainly worked out for the Bruins.

AP Sources: Tebow signs 2-year deal with Patriots

Associated Press

FOXBOROUGH, Mass. - Tim Tebow is back on the field with an NFL team the New England Patriots.

The Patriots announced the signing of the former Jets quarterback on Tuesday, six weeks after he was cut by New York and just in time for the start of the three-day Patriots minicamp that runs through Thursday.

Tebow practiced with New England veteran starter Tom Brady and backup Ryan Mallett. The newest Patriot wore No. 5, not his familiar 15 — which belongs to Mallett — on his shorts and helmet.

Two people with knowledge of the deal told The Associated Press that Tebow was signed for two years with no guaranteed money.

Herbert Hoover's Bird repeats as captain of AA all-state team

Herbert Hoover High School's Corey Bird left his mark on the state high school baseball tournament the last two seasons, playing in four games and ending his varsity career with a Class AA state title.

The centerfielder and pitcher, who is headed to Marshall University, said individual awards are secondary to team awards.

Nevertheless, he caps his decorated Hoover legacy by repeating as captain of the Class AA All-State first team as selected by the West Virginia Sports Writers Association.

He said it didn't get any better than winning a state championship, but being the captain of the all-state team for the sec- a .457 career average, 184 ond consecutive season isn't bad either.

"That's pretty big, but winning championships ... that's [what] we strive for and we did it," said Bird, who batted .467 with a double, six stolen bases, five runs and four RBI in the four state tourney games. "It's still pretty cool."

In four seasons, Bird played in 120 games - four in the state tournament as a junior and senior — with runs, 25 doubles, 10 triples, 79 walks, 119 stolen bases, 100 RBI and only 16 strikeouts. Bird had 55 stolen bases in 35 games this season. The state record for steals is owned by Wahama's Mike Lewis, who stole 80 bases in 56 games in 1974 during the era of scheduling. unlimited Lewis averaged 1.43 stolen bases per game. In 35 games in 2013, Bird averaged 1.57 steals a contest.

Steelers refining offense in Haley's second year

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH - Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Ben Roethlisberger's surgically repaired right knee is on its way to a full recovery.

So too, it seems, is Roethlisberger's relationship with offensive coordinator Todd Haley.

Following a somewhat rocky year in which the two couldn't seem to warm to the idea of the other, the admittedly headstrong men behind Pittsburgh's offense appear focused on moving forward after the Steelers slumped to an 8-8 finish.

Haley approached Roethlisberger and several other players during the offseason asking them about changes they'd like to see made, and Pittsburgh Steelers wide receiver Plaxico Burress (80) runs with teammates on the first day of minicamp NFL football practice Tuesday, in Pittsburgh.

"You want your guys that when things fell apart, he are out there, especially Ben also expressed frustration who is handling football on at the playcalling and at one hopefully an every down bapoint reverted to old hand sis, to feel invested in what's signals left over from mengoing on," Haley said. Though Roethlisberger consistently took the blame more conciliatory tone while watching minicamp Tuesday. Though relegated to highly paid spectator by minor surgery on his right knee last week, Roethlisberger gave Haley credit for being proactive in attempting to find common ground.

"Just the simple fact that he came to me and asked what I thought about it, changing the names of things to kind of make more sense to all of us, (helps)," Roethlisberger said.

Having the face of the franchise at ease is a plus. Roethlisberger looked relaxed watching backup Bruce Gradkowski work with the starters as minicamp opened and said his knee feels so good he could "start on Sunday if the calendar read September

Blood-alcohol gadget keeps golfers on course

Associated Press

CHARLESTON Chuck Stump and Brent Pauley are out to end drunk driving — and not just the kind you think.

They're fighting drinking and driving on the golf course.

In February, Stump and Pauley introduced the Golfalyzer, a portable, AA battery-powered Breathalyzer geared toward what they call "social athletes" on the golf course.

"Drinking and golfing seem to go hand in hand," Paulev said. "We wanted to bring awareness to the alcohol consumption on the course and to let golfers know and make better decisions when they came off the course."

Bolt laughs off idea he's 'past it' after loss

Associated Press

OSLO — Usain Bolt laughed off suggestions Tuesday he may be 'past it,' saying he's looking forward to defending his world championship titles in the 100 and 200 meters.

Bolt, who will run the 200 meters at the Bislett Games on Thursday, said he has his "eye on the prize" of the worlds in August in Moscow.

He said he's not concerned after coming off a rare defeat in the 100 meters last week.

Bolt lost by one-hundredth of a second to American sprinter Justin Gatlin in Rome, marking the Jamaican's first significant international loss since the false-start disqualification at the 2011 worlds in South Korea.

Bolt is the world record-holder in the 100 and 200, and any slight dip in form will attract attention. His dominance is being questioned while rivals Gatlin, Tyson Gay of the U.S. and Jamaican teammate Yohan Blake challenge him this season.

Bolt said he respects them all.

Bolt will face local favorite Jaysuma Saidy Ndure on Thursday. The 28-year-old set a season-best time of 10.13 in the 100 in Rome last week.

Stump, 52, of Hurricane, 59. of and Pauley, Charleston, have been golf buddies for many years. They met when Stump did some consulting for Kanawha County while Pauley was county manager. Both men now own their own consulting firms.

Their idea for the Golfalvzer came out of the blue during a friendly round last fall.

The two men started selling the product online for $24.95 at www.golfalyzer.us in February.

NCAA APR hits schools with lesser resources

Associated Press

Eighteen Division I teams will miss the postseason, and another 18 in men's basketball and nine other college sports will trade practice time for remedial classroom sessions under NCAA academic progress reports released Tuesday

Poor Academic Progress Rate scores mean postseason bans in the 2013-'14 academic year for teams from 10 schools: Alabama State, Arkansas-Pine Bluff, Florida A&M, Florida International, Grambling State, Mississippi Valley State, Orleans, Norfolk New State, Savannah State and Southern. That compares to 15 teams ineligible for the 2012-'13 postseason.

Five teams received Level 3 APR penalties, which can include financial aid reductions and multi-year postseason bans: The men's basketball teams at Grambling, Mississippi Valley, New Orleans and Louisiana-Monroe and Chicago State's women's volleyball team.

Most of the penalized schools have significantly more limited resources than top NCAA programs, including 11 historically black schools.

The overall four-year APR score across Division 1 is 974, a one-point increase from last year. Scores are calculated by individual D-I teams based on eligibility and graduation and retention rates. A minimum four-year average score of 900, or 930 over the most recent two years, is required for postseason participation. The minimum required APR scores will increase to 930 over four years or 940 over two years, starting with the 2014-'15 postseason.

Under the APR standards, the NCAA defines "limited resource" schools as those ranking in the bottom 15 percent in athletics spending. Those schools only have to earn a four-year APR of 910 for the 2014-'15 postseason.

Connecticut's men's basketball team, which was barred from the 2013 postseason because of past problems with its Academic Progress Rate — the first BCS school so sanctioned — has qualified academically for next year's NCAA tournament.

The squads losing postseason eligibility consist of six men's basketball teams; three football teams: Two squads each in baseball, women's volleyball and men's indoor and outdoor track; and the New Orleans women's basketball team. Data for eight of the sanctioned teams remains under review, meaning the penalties could be reversed or lessened.

Cole's debut impressive; Bucs top Giants, 8-2

BASEBALL

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — Gerrit Cole took a shutout into the seventh inning of his major league debut and hit a two-run single in his first at-bat Tuesday night, leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to an 8-2 victory in front of a festive crowd.

The top pick in the 2011 draft, Cole allowed two runs and seven hits in 61-3 innings after being called up from Triple-A Indianapolis earlier in the day. He began his highly touted career with a three-pitch strikeout — all 96-mph fastballs — of Gregor Blanco and struck out two overall. He did not walk a batter.

Pedro Alvarez went 3 for 3 with a home run to back Cole. Starling Marte also homered and Andrew Mc-Cutchen and Russell Martin had two hits each.

San Francisco put two runners on in the first and loaded the bases in the second against Cole (1-0) but failed to score in either inning

ST. PETERSBURG. Fla. Matt Joyce hit one of three homers off Jon Lester to help the Tampa Bay Rays beat the AL East-leading Boston Red Sox, 8-3, on Tuesday night.

BALTIMORE — Miguel Gonzalez allowed one run over eight innings and Nick Markakis hit a tiebreaking, two-run single in the seventh inning as the Baltimore Orioles beat the Los Angeles Angels 3-2 Tuesday night.

Light-hitting Ryan Flaherty contributed two well-timed hits for the Orioles, whose third straight victory put them a season-high nine games over .500 (37-28).

The Angels lost their fourth in a row despite a home run by Mike Trout that traveled an estimated 448 feet.

Woods and Garcia don't connect beyond handshake

Associated Press

ARDMORE, Pa.- Unable to arrange a private meeting, Sergio Garcia left Tiger Woods a note in his locker Tuesday at the U.S. Open with hopes of moving on from his racially charged comment and getting back to playing golf.

"I did leave him a note a handwritten note,' Garcia said. "And hopefully, he can take a look at it. It's a big week and I understand that it's difficult to meet up and stuff. So hopefully, I'll be able to do it. If not, at least he has read the note and he's happy with that."

GOLF

The note presumably was an apology.

It was the latest — and perhaps final — chapter in a messy feud that ended badly for the Spaniard when he jokingly said at awards dinner in England that he would invite Woods over for dinner during the U.S. Open. "We will serve fried chicken." Garcia said.

He apologized to Woods and everyone he offended in a news conference.

Garcia approached him on the practice range Monday at Merion for a handshake, and little more.

ers and just playing with them made me better," Goldcamp said. "I feel like I'm ready to go out and I can do everything that Mark did and I can step up and be the guy this year. I firmly believe that."

Hern, a 6-foot-2 left-hander, threw for 20 touchdowns on the freshman team last season.

"He has a very big frame on him. He throws a great deep ball," Powers said. "We need to know that he knows the full scale of the offense, that kind of thing. The freshman team doesn't book we use."

Senior Will Rockis returns to his starting cornerback spot, and will likely get lots of action at wide receiver. But he has also taken some reps at QB and will get more Friday and Saturday when the Mohigans compete in a 7-on-7 tournament at WVU. Rockis, also a sprinter on the MHS track team, split time as the JV quarterback when he was a sophomore.

"We're going to get a peek at him. It's always an option," Powers said. "He hurt his shoulder when he was a young man and we just never put him back in that position, but he's an extremely gifted athlete always run the whole play- and he's gonna be tested by us. We want to see if he's the option we need to go to."

After being ranked in the top five in the state in the 200-meter dash, Rockis suffered a partial tear to his hamstring during track season and did not compete in the regional or state meets. Powers said Rockis was not 100-percent healthy yet, but he is progressing well and has been fully participating in the three-week practices with the football team.

While Powers considers Goldcamp and Hern to be pocket passers, Rockis is more of a dual-threat.

"Being the sprinter that he is, if you let him alone to the outside or if he can get athlete," Powers said. "He's a wide receiver, he's played running back for us, he's done a little of everything. So he brings kind of the wild package to you in the sense that anything is open to him."

Powers said the Mohigans want to have their defense prepared for the 7-on-7 tournament this weekend, so they have devoted only about 15 minutes in each of the first two practices to offense. The quarterback contingent has spent most of the time working on passing and footwork drills, while beginning to learn the basics of the playbook. Goldcamp said he is just soaking it all

"It's been fun, especially kind of being 'the guy' as of right now, it's been exciting," he said. "I've been energized all day. The past two days I haven't wanted to do anything else besides play football.

"I'm happy to be out here and I want to do my best to help the team win and maybe go to a state championship."

Whoever gets the job will have the services of first-team all-state running back Chazzy Thomas, but will be throwing to a new group of receivers. MHS's leading receiver Blaine Stewart will begin his collegiate career at James Madison this fall Shane Commodore will be playing at WVU and Jarret Hockenberrv returned to Clav-Battelle, where he attended middle school, after his freshman campaign at MHS.

Goldcamp said those holes won't change the high expectations for Mohigans football. MHS has been to the state semifinals eight of the last 10 years and won state championships in 2005 and 2006.

"I have no doubt that even with our new faces, we can be one of the dominant teams in West Virginia," Goldcamp said, "and we can make a deep playoff run to even the state championship if we put our minds into it."

cent graduation success rate — to be eligible for postseason competition.

Prior to this past academic year, teams with an APR score of 925 or below faced penalties such as a loss of scholarships. Only if a team fell below 900 could it get banned from postseason play by the NCAA.

Baseball (922) is the only WVU team below the 930 threshold, but athletic department officials are hopeful and confident the program has made proper strides to avoid a future postseason ban.

Curtis Jones, assistant athletic director for academic services, said the baseball squad had a perfect 1,000 APR score during the fall semester and should have somewhere between a 960 and a 1,000 APR for the spring semester, which encompasses Randy Mazey's first year as head baseball coach.

The 922 score was generated during Greg Van Zant's final four years as the Mountaineers' coach. WVU's baseball squad had a department-low 882 APR for the 2011-'12 academic year. That score dropped the team's four-year overall APR from 946 to 922.

"The program is in really, really good shape under Coach Mazey," Jones said. "In addition to the things we like to do from an academic standpoint, he brought his own set of academic standards to the university. He does a great job helping us manage that.'

Jones said the success WVU baseball players had in the classroom this past year proves as much. With an increased travel schedule, Jones said an academic advisor traveled with the baseball team throughout the season, which benefited the student-athletes. He also noted that deputy athletic director Mike Parsons arranged tentative travel schedules so certain players could remain on campus to attend to projects or tests on Friday mornings before traveling to Becklev or Charleston for evening games.

WVU Seven teams (men's basketball, women's basketball, cross-country, gymnastics, indoor track, outdoor track and wrestling) had perfect 1.000 APR scores for the 2011-'12 academic year.

Wrestling raised its four-year APR score from 928 to 945 as a result of its perfect performance.

Rowing, which lost scholarships in 2008 and 2010, has raised its APR from 915 to 981 in three years. Men's soccer has improved from 898, in 2008, to 989.

"We went from three teams (gymnastics, rowing and men's soccer) that had perfect scores in 2010-'11 to seven teams in 2011-'12, and I'm certainly delighted with that progress," WVU athletic director Oliver Luck said in a statement. "I want to congratulate the men's basketball, women's basketball, cross country, gymnastics, indoor track and field, outdoor track and field and wrestling teams for their perfect scores in 2011-12. Overall, our 973 APR score is strong, and I'm pleased that our teams continue to make good academic progress."

APR is determined on a points system. Any student-athlete receiving athletic aid in a varsity sport can earn up to four points per year for being academically eligible and remaining enrolled in the institution. The APR is the total points earned on the roster divided by the squad's total possible points, multiplied by 1,000.

Nothing like a W.Va. chili dog

IN ONE OF OUR quiet moments around the shop where I work, I say to my old buddy, "Geez, can you believe it's time for me to write another column again? What do I write about?

He replied to me in his sarcastic manner. "Ya like chili dogs, don't you?"

What a moment of clarity this was. He should know me this well. He and I have spent countless hours discussing the better points of all hot dog stands in and around Morgantown, not excluding points as far away as Charleston. (Have you ever heard of the mythical monster dog they serve down there in Charleston called the "home wrecker?" I'm adding that to my bucket list).

Anyhow, we have argued about more than a few, but agreed upon many. But the great thing about this debate is that it is not generational. By the time this prints, he will be a week away from retirement, while I have some 40 years left to go.

The places he ate as a kid are the same places I ate as a kid, and we both still enjoy the same haunts today, because, well, chili dogs are as much a part of West Virginia culture as bleeding gold 'n blue.

A good chili dog is as perfectly West Virginian as being in the woods on the first day of buck season, or fishing the trout-stocked lakes. West Virginians have been the subject of mainstream America's humor concerning life in Appalachia, mostly because those making the jokes have never been here and just don't understand about our simple pleasures.

My buddy and I argue frequently about the merits of every chili dog shop that we both know. There is some name -calling and sometimes somebody calls the other an idiot, throwing his hands in the air in disgust. But if you get right down to it, what makes a good chili dog is a regional thing. In Texas, the chili is made with kidney beans and it's a hearty delight. In Arizona, or better said the Southwest, the version begins with a frank wrapped in bacon. How could anything in bacon be wrong? In the Midwest, the chili is good, different than ours. Did vou know that in Cincinnati, Ohio, they actually use cinnamon, allspice and chocolate in their chili recipes. This lends an almost aromatic sweetness that I've always craved at least once or twice a year. Chicago dogs are more complex, with seeded buns and pickles, kraut and other fancy condiments. Impressive dogs, just not a true blue chili dog in my cookbook. Way out there in California is a joint called "Pinks," which is famous mostly for serving celebs, but their regular chili dog is sweet, not spicy or hot. Just right. Which is surprising to me mostly because I've always thought of places like L.A. and Miami, (big bustling cities) to lack the down-and-dirty, real blue-collar types of food that I love so much. But there is proof. Even a ritzy town like L.A. can make a decent chili dog. Here in the Mountain State, we cherish our chili dog, much like our pepperoni rolls. It's frankly a taste that we own. It almost changes your palate so that you may never enjoy anywhere else's version quite as much again. Having moved back to West Virginia after 14 years away, my first "welcome home" chili dog, I compare to that of a released prisoners first real meal. At least in my eyes it was just that magical. Some shops use all-beef or all-pork franks. Most, if not all, offer a mild, medium or hot chili. But one thing is for certain. If you ask a West Virginian how he takes his dog, it's like asking how he takes his coffee. The response is quick, concise and assured: Mustard, onion, medium chili. Three of them please. That's how I get it done.

The Great American Grill

Restaurant not solely for hotel guests

BY KATIE McDOWELL The Dominion Post

yhen most folks think of the Hilton Garden Inn, they likely think of a place to stay — whether traveling through town for a convention, to attend a Mountaineers game, or perhaps visit the campus for the first time.

But Terrance Wenrich, food and beverage manager at the hotel, hopes locals start thinking of it as a great place to eat, too.

And with a convenient location, newly renovated, open floor plan and healthier, more exciting menu — not to mention some great breakfast buffets he is confident that the hotel's eatery can more than deliver.

Tanya Fuller, general manager of the restaurant — called The Great American Grill agreed.

"We've really gone with a fresher, healthier approach," Wenrich said. "[The menu] isn't just chock full of thick steaks, there's a lot of arugula, avocado, fresh, cool combinations of tastes and flavors."

In an effort to evolve with the public's tastes, he said, the managers at the Great American Grill have allowed the chef much more artistic freedom in kitchen, and it's paid off.

"We've taken what the public says they wanted, and the chefs have taken those flavors and really created masterpieces.'

For instance, for their fish and chips, the chef uses fresh, hand-battered cod, he said. There is a large selection of unique flatbread wraps. Appetizers that break the usual mold. And everything has an upscale feel, without an upscale price, he said. "There really is a little bit of everything," Fuller said. "That's what separates us from the rest [of the eateries surrounding the Hilton at Suncrest Towne Centre]." Two of the restaurant's most popular dishes, Fuller and Wenrich said, are the osso bucco a hand-trimmed pork shank slow-roasted in a demi-glace of pearl onions and mushrooms ($20) and the Bourbon Apple Pork Tenderloin, a cider-and-apple brined pork tenderloin basted with bourbon and brown sugar ($17). Also popular are the Tuscan Ragout, a slow-cooked vegetable, pork and beef dish in a red wine-herb sauce ($16) and the Great Balls of Fire — the Great American Grill's take on the classic cheesestick — which are fried balls of pepperjack served with a sweet and smoky chipotle sauce ($6). The Pan-Asian ribs are also a big

SHRIMP AND ZUCCHINI FETTUCCINI

Heat the oil in a large nonstick skillet over medium heat and add the garlic, zucchini and red bell pepper. Cook 2-3 minutes or until the vegetables start to soften. Add the pepper flakes and wine and bring to a boil for 1 minute. Add the shrimp and remove from the heat.

Add the pasta to the boiling water and cook according to package instructions, 3 minutes for fresh and about 9 minutes for dried. Drain and add pasta to the skillet with shrimp. Place over medium-high heat and simmer about 1 minute or until the shrimp are cooked through. Toss well and add salt and pepper to taste. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

favorite, Wenrich said. Dinner is served from 5-10 p.m. each night. But because the restaurant is housed in a hotel, many local diners looking for a place to have dinner may not immediately consider it an option. Or, in fact, realize it's there. Or they may think you have to be a guest at the hotel to eat there.

Which are all things Wenrich and Fuller would love to see change.

One of the biggest draws so far at the eatery are the weekend breakfasts - full made-to-order waffle-omelette-French toast buffets with all the traditional sides, such as breakfast meats, sausage gravy. Because it's a buffet, it's still quick, but there are a lot more options for one's money than say, at a fast food or traditional breakfast joint, Fuller and Wenrich agreed.

The breakfast buffets are offered from 6:30-10 a.m. Monday-Friday and from 7-11 a.m. on weekends. Your all-you-can-eat

The restaurant also offers a full bar. Wenrich said they are proud of their high-end wine and beer selections, which includes a Chimay beer brewed by a small group of monks.

Banquet space is also available for meetings, reunions, weddings, parties and more.

"We have customers who come in and they may ask what's new, or if we can make something that's not on the menu," Wenrich said. "Maybe there was a special they really liked and they want that again. That's what separates us from other restaurants, too. It's an open kitchen, and we come out and talk to the customers."

COOKING Q&A

BY KATHLEEN PURVIS The Charlotte Observer (MCT)

Q: I was making brownies from a mix that called for vegetable oil. The only oil I had was olive oil. The brownies came out OK, but I wondered if there are times when you shouldn't use olive oil.

A: Olive oil is high in monounsaturated fat and is believed to have other health benefits, including antioxidants.

Olive oil is also sometimes used as a substitute for butter in baking, particularly for vegans. Still, there are differences between olive and vegetable oil in cooking:

Price. Depending on the quality, olive oil generally costs more than vegetable oil.

Smoke point. Oils vary in how they handle heat.

Olive oil has a low smoke-point, meaning that it breaks down and can be a fire hazard at higher temperatures. Oils such as peanut or canola oil can handle higher temperatures better.

While that isn't an issue with baking, you wouldn't want to deep-fry with olive oil.

Cafe Bacchus hosts fundraiser dinner for Baby Noah

Submitted to The Dominion Post

Café Bacchus will host SUPPORT, AWARENESS, & LOVE, a fundraiser for Baby Noah, who was born prematurely in August of 2012 due to complications via emergency C-Section. The dinner will be from 5-8 p.m. Friday at 76 High Street.

The event will include dinner, live music by members of Fletcher's Grove, a live and silent auction, and a cash bar. Tickets are $15 per person and can be purchased online at sup portbabynoah.com or at the door.

Baby Noah weighed only 2 pounds, 12 ounces at birth and was in WVU Children's Hospital NICU for the first two weeks of his life. When he was able to finally go home, his parents, Amanda and Steve Wright, were thrilled, but six weeks later, their world was turned upside-down when Noah exhibited some dangerous symptoms and had to be rushed to the hospital. Doctors discovered that he had Group B Strep Meningitis and, as a result, developed massive Hydrocephalus. Since then, he has endured numerous brain surgeries and has a permanent shunt in his brain that removes excess fluid build-up. Noah, who is 9 months old, is still recovering from all he has been through and continues to make a recovery.

"I feel that everything happens for a reason, and people are chosen to go through certain things in life," his mother said. "I want to turn this terrible situation into one where I can give back and create awareness about Group B Strep for other families out there. My goal is to start a fund for children with Group B Strep and Hydrocephalus so that no family has to feel the financial burden as we have. Noah is such a strong little boy, and I feel so blessed to be his mom. I hope to give back to other families that may experience the same thing as we have with his illness."

All proceeds from the event will go toward Baby Noah's recovery and promoting awareness for Group B Strep and Hydrocephalus.

For more information on Baby Noah and the SUPPORT, LOVE, & AWARENESS event, visit supportbabynoah.com.

With summer almost here, it's time to clean and oil those grates, and to brush up on grilling techniques, too. Here are our top 10 grilling tips:

General

1. Keep the grill clean and oiled. It's easiest to clean when it's hot. Just before you put on the food, scrape down the grate with a grill brush. Then moisten a balled-up paper towel with vegetable oil and use long tongs to oil the grate.

2. Leave the food alone. The No. 1 cause of food sticking to the grill is moving it too soon.

Fish

3. Pick the right fish. Use firm, meaty fish such as tuna, swordfish and mahi-mahi. Make sure pieces are no thinner than 1 inch, and use steaks rather than fillets.

4. Grill fish over direct heat. Only use indirect heat if you are grilling a whole fish.

5. Don't overcook fish. It's done when the flesh just turns from translucent to opaque. (Use a sharp paring knife to take a peek.) Exceptions: Salmon is best just before it turns opaque, tuna when it's essentially raw in the center.

Burgers

6. Get the form right. Keep the mixture loose and make regular, equal-sized patties so they cook evenly. Use your thumb to make a shallow impression in the center of the patty (both sides); this will prevent "grill bulge." Keep patties under 1 inch thick unless you like them rare.

7. Use the right cut. The classic burger cut is chuck, which has great depth of flavor and good percentage of fat, from 15 to 20.

8. Grill over high heat. Otherwise, you'll never get a good crust. If you get a good crust on the burgers but they're still not done enough in the center, take them off grill, cover tightly with aluminum foil and leave for 5 minutes. They will continue to cook.

9. Cheese burgers. Apply cheese about a minute before burgers are done.

Chicken

10. Use moderate, indirect heat. Lay chicken pieces on cool side, skin side down, and leave for 10 minutes. After 10 minutes, rotate 45 degrees for pretty grill marks. Only after 20 minutes have elapsed should you think about turning them over. Breasts should be done in about 40 minutes. If, when the chicken is cooked through, it isn't brown enough, move it directly over the hot coals/high burners, and give it a few minutes longer.

Award-winning authors to sign books Saturday at B&N

Submitted to The Dominion Post

TERRA ALTA — An international award-winning author who wrote a novel about cloning Jesus is among the featured authors signing books from 11 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturday at Barnes & Noble in University Town Centre, Granville.

Don Stansberry, author of "Secret Blood," won an Indie Book Award for Best Religious Fiction, was a winner at the London Book Festival, a finalist in the E-Book: Mystery/Thriller/Adventure category of the International Book Awards, and earned honorable mentions for Best Fiction from the Great Southeast Book Festival, the Paris Book Festival and the San Francisco Book Festival

Headline Books has also published Stansberry's four award-winning children's titles, "Crusty," "Inky, Oglebee and the Witches," "Inky and the Missing Gold" and "Skipping Through the ABCs of History." Stansberry lives in Vienna, Wood County.

Other West Virginia and southwestern Pennsylvania authors who will sign at Barnes & Noble on Saturday are:

■ Stanley Toompas, an optometrist in Philippi, with his twin brother, Stephen, a pharmacist who lives in Bridgeport, compiled 31 short stories of their childhood growing up in Clarksburg, in two books titled "I'm the One the Other Isn't" and "I'm the One the Other Isn't Book Two, More Stevie-Stanley Stories." Their atypical childhood includes being raised in a metal house where they constantly shock one another, and continually running away from storms with their mother.

■ Debra Benedetti, a professor of English at Pierpont Community & Technical College in Fairmont, brings back outdoor games from the 1950s and '60s in an effort to get kids off the couch. In "Season of Play," Benedetti's collection of games and rhyming text are complemented by the soft pastel drawings of award-winning illustrator Ashley Teets to make this a fun book for summer. The book won a Silver Mom's Choice Award for Best Craft/Activity Book Ages 5-8, and was an Indie Book Awards Finalist for Best Children's Juvenile Non-Fiction and a Creative Child Magazine Book Awards Finalist.

■ Barbara Smith of Philippi is a freelance writer/editor, and medical ethicist, Emerita Professor of Literature and Writing and former chairwoman of the Division of the Humanities, Alderson-Broaddus College. She will sign copies of her novel, "Through The Glass," an upbeat story about a stained glass artist whose studio faces a cul-de-sac in the outskirts of Logan.

■ Colleen Driscoll of Harrison County wrote "Piper the Elf Trains Santa" to teach children that they can get exercise without even knowing it — just by playing their favorite active games. The audio book version has a song that Driscoll wrote. All her children play an instrument, so they wrote and performed the song.

Uncle Dave Howard of Waynesburg, Pa., wrote "Lady's Day to Play" about his Jack Russell-Cocker Spaniel-Poodle. Howard, who writes his books as Uncle Dave, gives a portion of his sales to research about Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, which claimed the life of his niece's baby. He wrote the book as a baby shower gift for his niece. This week, his book won a Mom's Choice Silver Award for humor books for children ages 5-8.

■ Patsy Pittman of Vienna will sign "Pocket Change," her newest collection of short stories, and "Blood Kin & Other Strangers," which was named an Award Winning Finalist in the USA Book News Best Books Awards and an Award Winning Finalist in the Indie Book Awards.

 Melissa Ridenour of Morgantown penned "What Would You Do? A Kid's Guide to Staying Safe in a World of Strangers" to instruct young readers in a gentle question-and-answer format that shows them how to make good decisions about their safety, empowering children in a non-threatening way to take a proactive role in staving safe from predators and harm.

■ Cindy Bandy O'Brien of Morgantown wrote "Agitated" to help children relate to everyday situations that push their buttons and learn some strategies they can use to deal with unpleasant feelings. The book won a Mom's Choice Silver Award for Best Juvenile Level 1 Ages 5-8 Self-Improvement.

■ Barbara Myers of Morgantown wrote "Lily & Nana" with her then-5-year-old granddaughter Lily Hamilton about the everyday things the pair likes to do together. Myers, a retired early childhood educator, saw the genre of children's literature lacked books on intergenerational subjects.

FOOD

A fresh take on Father's Day surf and turf

BY J.M. HIRSCH Associated Press

When I think surf and turf. I think rich and overwrought.

It's not that I mind big and bold. It's just that I prefer them when paired with fresh and vibrant, especially as we head into summer. So for Father's Day I decided to rethink the classic surf and turf. My goal was to retain the meaty goodness of the dish, but make the flavors really pop and keep the dish feeling fresh.

What I ended up with is a flank steak that marinates in lime juice and cracked black pepper before being grilled and topped with a shrimp, salmon and avocado ceviche.

Ceviche is a Central and South American dish in which raw seafood is "cooked" in a bath of citrus juice, often spiked with just a bit of hot peppers. The result is a luscious, delicate texture and a punchy, fresh flavor. For my ceviche, I went with shrimp and salmon. And you obviously want to get the freshest possible seafood for this dish.

To hit just the right texture, the shrimp are briefly poached in boiling water. But if you're not comfortable dishing up raw salmon on your own, you can substitute an equal amount of cold smoked salmon. The smoked salmon is still raw, but some people feel more comfortable with a product prepared by somebody else.

I kept the heat in the ceviche on the mild side, but it's easily adjusted to suit your preferences.

PEPPER-LIME FLANK STEAK WITH SHRIMP AND SALMON CEVICHE

Start to finish: 1 1/2 hours (30 minutes active) Servings: 4 For the steak: 1 1/2 pounds flank steak

1/4 cup lime juice 1/4 cup olive oil Kosher salt and ground black pepper For the ceviche: 1/2 pound raw large shrimp, peeled and cleaned

Juice of 5 limes (about 1/2 cup) 1/4 small red onion, finely diced minced 1/2 habanero or jalapeno pepper, seeds

2 cloves garlic, and ribs removed, minced 1/2 cup finely chopped cucumber 1/2 cup thawed frozen corn kernels Kosher salt and ground black pepper 1/2 pound salmon, cut into 1/4-inch cubes 1/2 cup finely chopped fresh cilantro 1 avocado, peeled, pitted and cubed To marinate the steak. place it in a nonreactive baking dish. Drizzle the lime juice and olive over both sides, then season liberally with salt and pepper. Rub the seasonings in, then cover and refrigerate.

To prepare the ceviche, bring a large saucepan of salted water to a boil. Have a large bowl of ice water nearby. Add the shrimp to the boiling water and poach for 30 seconds, then use a slotted spoon to transfer to the ice water. Once the shrimp have completely cooled, use the slotted spoon to transfer them to a kitchen towel to dry.

Pepper-lime flank steak with shrimp and salmon ceviche is a fresh idea for a meal to celebrate Dad.

Meanwhile, in a medium bowl stir together the lime juice, red onion, garlic, hot pepper, cucumber and corn. Taste, then season with salt and pepper. Add the shrimp and the salmon, then gently mix. Cover and refrigerate for 1 hour.

After the ceviche has chilled for an hour, remove the steak from the refrigerator and let stand at room temperature. Meanwhile, heat the grill to high.

Remove the ceviche from the refrigerator and stir in the cilantro and avocado. Taste and adjust seasonings.

Using an oil-soaked paper towel held with tongs, oil the grill grates. Season the steak with additional pepper, then grill for 5 minutes per side for medium-rare. Transfer the steak to a cutting board and let rest for 5 minutes. Cut the steak into thin slices across the grain. Divide the sliced steak between serving plates, then spoon ceviche over each serving.

Putting a healthy spin on the popular fish taco

BY SARA MOULTON

Associated Press

Mexican cuisine has been popular for a long time, but my recent travels around our country have persuaded me that fish tacos are big now in a way they never were before.

Naturally, perhaps, they are easiest to find in regions with a strong Hispanic influence — particularly California, Texas and Florida — but I've also been bumping into them in Chicago and New York. Soon enough, they should be just about as ubiquitous as falafel. It's a happy thing.

Folks in Mexico's coastal ties — where fresh fish and tacos are both plentiful - have been enjoying fish tacos since before the arrival of the first Europeans. But if any one individual can take credit for the north-of-the-border spread of this culinary delight, it is Ralph Rubio.

On spring break from his studies at San Diego State University in 1973, Rubio flipped for the fish tacos in San Felipe, a port town on the Baja California peninsula. Ten years later, back in San Diego, he opened Rubio's Baja Grill, which specialized in fish tacos. Today, there are hundreds of Rubio's locations, including one in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Traditional fish tacos consist of battered fish topped with shredded cabbage, a drizzle of citrus mayo, all wrapped in a corn tortilla. But there's plenty of room for variation.

These days the fish might be grilled rather than battered and fried. Sometimes it's served on flour tortillas, sometimes on corn tortillas. It's almost always topped with some kind of creamy sauce, as well as with shredded cabbage and/or avocado. Whatever. I've never met a fish taco I didn't like.

My version is light on calories, but heavy on flavor. The fish is lightly-floured and sauteed rather than deep-fried. The citrus mayonnaise sauce went bye-bye in favor of a puree of avocado and buttermilk. The avocado contains healthy fat, and the buttermilk is as lean as skim milk, but much tastier. Topping it off is shredded cabbage, carrots and radishes tossed with vinegar, salt and a pinch of sugar.

Fans of chilies will love the sliced jalapeno garnish. I think the cilantro is key, too, but if you were born with the anti-cilantro gene (a real thing!), you can swap in basil instead. Finally, those of you who worry that corn tortillas are high in calories can relax; two 6-inch corn tortillas, softened up and toasted without oil in a dry skillet, weigh in at just 80 calories.

A note about the fish: I used tilapia because it is sustainable, affordable and widely available all year. But substitute any fish you like. Just keep in mind that a thinner fish will take less time to cook.

HEALTHY FISH TACOS WITH BUTTERMILK AVOCADO PUREE

Start to finish: 40 minutes. Servings: 4.

1 large Hass avocado, peeled, pitted and cut into eighths

1/3 cup buttermilk 2 cloves garlic, minced, divided

Zest and juice of 1 lime

Kosher salt and ground black pepper, to taste

3 cups shredded Napa cabbage

1 1/2 cups coarsely grated carrot 1 cup coarsely grated radishes

1/4 cup white wine or cider vinegar 1/4 teaspoon sugar, or to taste Hot sauce, to taste 1 pound tilapia fillets, cut into 8 equal pieces Whole-wheat flour, for coating the fish 3 tablespoons vegetable oil Eight 6-inch corn tortillas

Sliced fresh jalapeno peppers, to serve Chopped fresh cilantro, to serve Heat the oven to 200 degrees. In a food processor, combine the avocado, buttermilk, 1 clove of garlic, lime juice and salt and pepper. Puree until smooth, then set aside.

In a medium bowl, combine the cabbage, remaining garlic, carrot, radishes, vinegar, sugar, lime zest and hot sauce. Season with salt and pepper and toss well. Set aside.

Heat a heavy skillet (such as cast-iron or stainless steel, but not nonstick) over medium heat. One at a time, place the tortillas in the skillet and toast for about 30 seconds per side. As the tortillas are toasted, stack them on a sheet of foil. Wrap the foil around the tortillas, then place them in the over to keep warm. Alternatively, the tortillas can be held with tongs and toasted directly over a gas burner for a few seconds per side.

In a pie plate or other wide, shallow bowl, combine about 1 cup of flour with 1 tablespoon of salt and 1 teaspoon of pepper. One at a time, dredge each piece of fish through the flour until coated evenly. Shake off any excess.

In a large nonstick skillet over medium-high, heat about 1 tablespoon of the oil over medium-high. Add half of the fish to the pan and cook, turning once, until golden and cooked through, about 3 minutes a side. Transfer to an oven-safe plate and set in the oven to keep warm. Repeat with the remaining oil and fish.

To serve, top each tortilla with a bit of the avocado puree, then a piece of fish. Drain the cabbage mixture, then mound some of that over each portion. Serve with jalapeno slices and cilantro on the side.

Spicy, cheesy and porky. You really can't go wrong with stuffed jalapeno peppers for Father's Day.

They work perfectly as a precursor to a grilled entree or on a platter of other savory munchies while watching the game. Use whatever sausage you (or Dad) prefer. We like the zip of a hot sausage, but a sweet sausage works well, too. If you're looking for even less heat, you can substitute baby bell peppers in place of the jalapenos.

Steroids can help sinuses

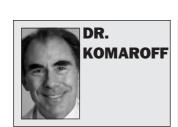

DEAR DOCTOR K: I have chronic sinusitis and nasal polyps. My specialist suggested trying oral corticosteroids. What do you think? DEAR READER:

"Steroids" is short for anti-inflammatory hormones called corticosteroids, and "oral" means steroids taken in pill form. I think a short course of five to seven days of oral steroids is worth a try.

As you know sinusitis is an inflammation of the mucous membranes that line the sinuses. It often causes headaches and an uncomfortable feeling of pressure in the face.

Chronic inflammation in the membranes of your nose and sinuses can cause fleshy growths called polyps. Not all cases of chronic sinusitis result in polyps, but when they form, polyps can block your nasal passages and sinuses. This makes breathing more difficult and can diminish your sense of smell. Polyps also make it easier for infections to start in your sinuses.

Once sinusitis becomes chronic, the inflammation can take on a life of its own. Corticosteroids become an important treatment option, as they have anti-inflammatory effects.

The first type of steroid to try is one that can be inhaled into the nose. Inhaled steroids deliver the medicine directly to the inflamed tissues that need to be quieted. However, polyps can block the passage of the inhaled steroids to some of the inflamed areas.

If inhaled steroids don't do the job, it's worth considering a brief course of steroids in pill form. Taking an oral steroid such as prednisone for a week or so reduces the size of the polyps a little and decreases overall inflammation in the nose. Shrinking polyps and reducing inflammation allow the topical steroid to reach its target and be more effective.

Side effects are more likely from oral steroids than from inhaled steroids. But in my experience, a short course of oral steroids, such as what I'm recommending here, rarely produces serious side effects.
