Zoning decisions in store

Reclassification request raises some questions

BY BEN CONLEY, The Dominion Post

City Planner Chris Fletcher conceded Tuesday that Morgantown City Council has a tough decision to make with a zoning reclassification request in the city's 6th Ward.

The request, from Jay and Tim Guminey, of G&G Rentals, would change the parcel of property at 356-358 Kingwood St. from R-1A (single-family residential) to B-1 (neighborhood business).

The parcel is already non-conforming as it contains two structures — a smaller building (356) that was once the location of Bobette's Confectionary/Grocery, and later, Junior's Grocery, and a large, 100-year-old building (358) that once housed five apartments, but has sat vacant since 1991.

According to Fletcher, the issue was the focus of extensive discussion by the city's Planning Commission, which ultimately went with the planning staff's recommendation, voting, 4-3, to recommend city council's approval for the request.

MORGANTOWN CITY COUNCIL

The staff report offered by the planning department notes that "the owners seek to remove a long-standing blighting condition to the neighborhood and to return the buildings to the market as contributing structures."

It was only after the planning staff offered its opinion and the planning commission voted that

June to begin with mixture of weather

The Dominion Post

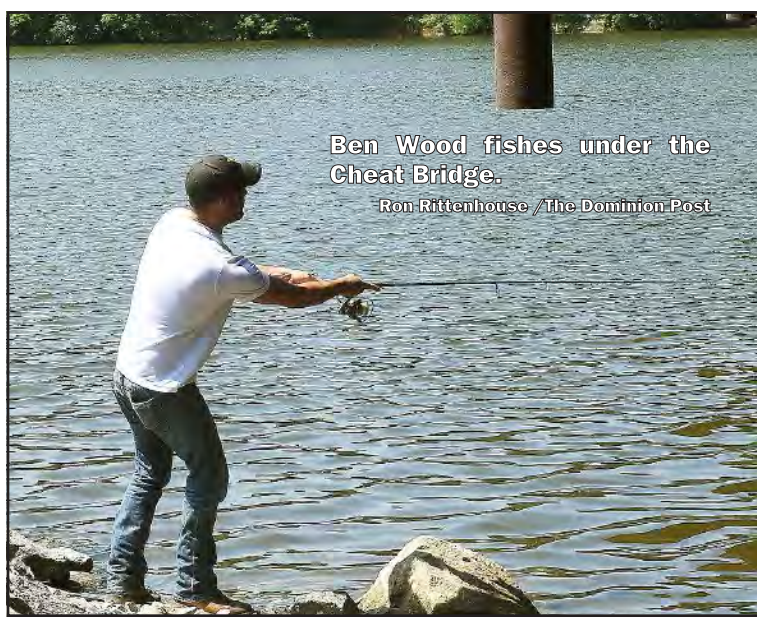

The coming week will be filled with sunshine, showers and sporadic thunderstorms, according to Tom Kines, a senior meteorologist at AccuWeather.

Kines said the Morgantown area is in the middle of a wet weather pattern, and it's wetter than normal for this time of year. Don't expect many dry days this week.

It's hard to predict how much rain will fall because it's going to be hit-or-miss. Some areas could see over an inch, though, Kines said.

Temperatures this week are expected to be in the 70s during the day, with overnight lows in the 50s, which is normal for this time of year.

Today will be mostly dry and in the mid-70s, but there will probably be a shower to deal with.

Thursday is going to be dry with plenty of sunshine and temperatures in the low- to mid-70s.

The unsettled weather returns on Friday and Saturday with occasional showers, a chance of thunderstorms and temperatures in the mid- to upper-70s.

Wal-Mart works to close gap with Amazon

Associated Press

HOBOKEN, N.J. — Even after an online spending spree, it may be hard for Wal-Mart to escape the Amazon in the room.

Wal-Mart's acquisition of Jet.com and brands that appeal to younger shoppers have given it an e-commerce boost as it works to close the gap between itself and the online leader. The world's largest retailer is betting on essentials like cereal and diapers and has adjusted its shipping strategy to better compete with Amazon's Prime program.

But Amazon keeps innovating too, implementing new technology and trying to make shopping more convenient.

Marc Lore, a co-founder of Jet.com who is now head of Wal-Mart's U.S. online operations, said he's confident about the company's momentum and that there's plenty of room for it to thrive.

"I can tell you we are happy with the moves we are making, and we are happy with the results," Lore said at the Jet headquarters in Hoboken, N.J. "It's about moving fast. It's about innovating. And it's a very big market." He noted that e-commerce sales industry-wide are still growing 15 percent per year.

Lore led Wal-Mart's acquisitions of specialty online retailers like ModCloth, Moosejaw and ShoeBuy.com, and said he's still looking at companies that have expertise in categories where Wal-Mart wants to grow faster.

As Wal-Mart prepares to show off some of its innovations this week before its shareholder meeting, there are signs that things are starting to click.

Sales at Walmart.com rose 63 percent in the first quarter, up from 29 percent growth in the previous quarter and marked its fourth straight quarter of increases. Wal-Mart said most of the increase was not through acquisitions, but was fueled by changes in its shipping strategy and a discount for shoppers who pick up their online orders. Wal-Mart.com now offers 50 million products including those from third-party sellers, up from 10 million a year ago. In comparison, Amazon has hundreds of millions of products.

David Spitz, CEO of e-commerce technology company ChannelAdvisor, said for some shoppers, it has become ingrained that they start and finish their shopping at Amazon, and the Prime program reinforces that. He said Wal-Mart wasn't putting a sufficient emphasis on keeping up.

"If anything, the gap was widening," Spitz said. "Jet.com was intended to be a jolt. Wal-Mart is clearly being more aggressive. There is a sense of urgency, but whether that is enough is the multibillion-dollar question."

Amazon accounted for 33 percent of U.S. online sales last year, according to the research firm Euromonitor. Wal-Mart moved into second place ahead of eBay, with 7.8 percent.

PRESTON COUNTY COMMISSION

Commissioners OK partnership for TV petition

Agree to join with Mon over satellite channels

BY KATHY PLUM, The Dominion Post

KINGWOOD — Preston County Commissioners agreed Tuesday to pair with the Mon County Commission in petitioning for changes in local satellite TV stations.

Commissioners Dave Price and Don Smith agreed to the joint resolution. Commissioner Craig Jennings was not at the meeting.

The two counties will ask the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to order satellite TV providers to offer customers in the two counties the option of having Clarksburg channels as part of their local stations.

Currently, only Pittsburgh stations are offered. Price stressed that the petition will not seek to do away with the Pittsburgh stations but will require that both options be available.

The commissions have been working on paperwork required for the petition since last year.

A change in federal regulation allows government bodies to request changes in Designated Market Areas. Nielsen Media Research sets the areas.

Also at the meeting, Preston County commissioners:

Appointed Newburg Fire Chief Bill Larew to the County Clean-Up Committee for a two-year term, beginning Thursday and ending May 31, 2019. The committee is required to include a fire chief because Terra Alta Fire Chief Rob Kirk's term is ending.

Met in executive session for a half-hour on legal issues with Prosecutor Melvin C. Snyder III, Sheriff Dan Loughrie, Utility Officer Rick Dotson, Emergency Management/911 Director Duane Hamilton and Assistant Director Justin Wolfe, and County Administrator Kathy Mace.

Keeping up good ruffing work

By Phillip Alder

What is a ruff? The answer you get will depend on the person. Some will mention the item of clothing that was popular from the mid-16th to mid-17th century. Others might comment on the wading bird. A bridge player will talk about winning a trick by using a trump, and he might add that if that ruff does not occur in the longer-trump hand, it will generate an extra trump trick.

How is that relevant in today's deal? South is in six hearts, and West leads the spade queen to dummy's bare ace.

North's three-spade rebid was a splinter, showing four-card heart support, at least game-going values and a singleton (or void) in spades. Four clubs was a control bid promising the club ace and expressing slam interest.

South had only eight top tricks: one spade, four hearts, two diamonds and one club. Ruffing spades on the board was dangerous because it risked establishing a trump trick for a defender. Instead, declarer realized that it was better to ruff diamonds in his hand.

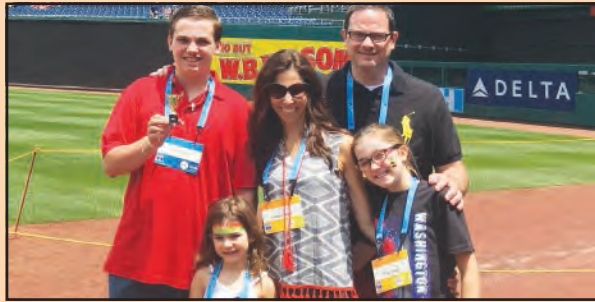

South cashed dummy's diamond ace, ruffed a diamond, played a trump to dummy, ruffed another diamond with the heart ace, drew West's trumps, ran the rest of the diamonds and conceded a club at the end. He took one spade, four hearts, four diamonds, one club and the two ruffs.

Note that with this layout, drawing a round of trumps at trick two would have been fatal.

Monday was the Memorial Day Barbecue at the Washington Nationals Baseball Park. It was a great day that included lots of delicious food and fun activities. We were shuttled over from our hotel to the park. I also got to meet the mascots for the Nationals — depictions of George Washington and Abe Lincoln. I also got to hit baseballs in the Nats batting cages, and do sand art and carnival activities. It was very fun. Tomorrow is the first day of preliminaries!

We also rode the Sky Wheel in the National Harbor today. This is an amazing experience for me.

one objection from a neighborhood resident turned into more.

Ivy Deal, president of the Greenmont Neighborhood Association, spoke against the zoning change during Tuesday's committee of the whole meeting.

The neighbors argued that it has taken years to get multi-unit housing mostly out of single-family neighborhoods like Greenmont and they don't want council to set a precedent of allowing it back in.

"I do feel that the primary character of our neighborhood, that of low-density, older homes, needs to be protected," Deal said. "When R-1A zoning was enacted, that was the neighborhood being steered in a definitive direction."

"No new multi-unit structures have been built, per the zoning and the wishes of our neighborhood," Deal said.

Fletcher said that had planning staff been aware of the growing opposition, it might not have offered a recommendation, opting instead to bring the sides together in an attempt to work out a solution.

Jay Guminey said that he and his brother anticipated that the surrounding community would be pleased that they were going to bring new life to a large, dilapidated property sitting in the neighborhood.

Fletcher cautioned that when considering such requests, the planned use of the parcels isn't to be a determining factor.

"The petitioner's development intentions are extraneous and the commission and city council should consider the requests on their merits as a land-use decision," Fletcher said.

Council moved the matter forward for consideration.

Council also heard and moved forward a request to amend the Sunnyside Up tax increment finance (TIF) district plan to allow an additional phase of improvements totaling about $5 million based on the growth in the district.

3 Mile Island owner threatens to close

Associated Press

HARRISBURG, Pa. — Cheap natural gas could do what the worst commercial nuclear power accident in U.S. history could not: Put Three Mile Island out of business.

Three Mile Island's owner, Exelon Corp., announced Tuesday that the plant that was the site of a terrifying partial meltdown in 1979 will close in 2019 unless Pennsylvania comes to its financial rescue.

Nuclear power plants around the U.S. have been struggling in recent years to compete with generating stations that burn plentiful and inexpensive natural gas to produce electricity.

The Chicago-based energy company's announcement came after what it called more than five years of losses at the single-reactor plant and Three Mile Island's recent failure to be selected as a guaranteed supplier of power to the regional electric grid.

Exelon wants Pennsylvania to give nuclear power the kind of preferential treatment and premium payments that are extended to renewable forms of energy, such as wind and solar. It has not said how much it wants. Pennsylvania Gov. Tom Wolf made no commitment to a bailout. In a statement Tuesday, Wolf said he is concerned about layoffs at Three Mile Island and open to discussions about the future of nuclear power. Exelon employs 675 people at the plant, whose license does not expire until 2034.

Coldplay, Bieber to join Ariana Grande at concert

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Justin Bieber, Coldplay and Katy Perry will join Ariana Grande at a charity concert in Manchester, England, on Sunday.

Grande announced Tuesday that the "One Love Manchester" show will be held at the city's Old Trafford cricket ground just under two weeks after a bomber killed 22 people at the end of the pop singer's concert in Manchester and injured many others.

Other performers will include Pharrell Williams, Miley Cyrus, Usher, Niall Horan and Take That. Proceeds will go to an emergency fund set up by the city of Manchester and the Red Cross.

Tickets go on sale Thursday.

"We will not quit or operate in fear. We won't let this divide us. We won't let hate win," Grande said in a statement. "Our response to this violence must be to come closer together, to help each other, to love more, to sing louder and to live more kindly and generously than we did before."

The singer added: "Music is meant to heal us, to bring us together, to make us happy. So that is what it will continue to do for us."

Virginia man who joined IS faces U.S. trial

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Mohamad Khweis, 27, is scheduled to go on trial Tuesday in federal court for providing material support to a terrorist organization.

While more than 100 Americans have been charged with terror-related offenses connected to the Islamic State, most were charged in sting operations. Khweis is among a small number of Americans who actually made it to the Islamic State, and then fled after realizing they had made a mistake.

Unease about white supremacy grows

PORTLAND, Ore. — Unease about white supremacist activity in Portland deepened after the fatal stabbings of two men who tried to shield young women from an anti-Muslim tirade. Some people worry that the famously tolerant community could see a resurgence of hostilities.

The deaths stunned the city, but also underscored nervousness about recent happenings, including a series of apparent hate crimes.

Transgender student wins his appeal

MADISON, Wis. — A federal appeals court said a transgender student who identifies as a male should be able to use the boys' bathroom at his high school.

Ashton Whitaker, who will graduate from Kenosha's Tremper High School this week, first asked to use the boys' bathroom as a sophomore.

Whitaker's attorney, said though the ruling only applies to Whitaker, it sets precedent that a federal law prohibiting gender discrimination protects transgender people.

Chibok girls begin rehab after release

ABUJA, Nigeria — Officials said the 82 young women released by Boko Haram extremists this month are now joining those already freed in a special rehabilitation program.

The young women will not be returning to rural Chibok, where they were abducted from school in 2014. Officials said they will be placed in other schools in September.

U.N.: Yemen conflict will lead to collapse

UNITED NATIONS — The U.N. humanitarian chief warned Tuesday that civil war is causing Yemen to spiral toward total collapse with the threat of famine increasing and over 55,000 suspected cholera cases since late April.

More than 17 million people desperately need food, including 6.8 million who are "one step away from famine," he said.

He said the country's "spiral downwards towards a total social, economic and institutional collapse" is a direct consequence of actions by fighters loyal to the former president and Shiite Houthi rebels.

Envoy: China is trying to stop N. Korea

UNITED NATIONS — U.S. Ambassador Nikki Haley said Tuesday the Trump administration believes China is using "back channel networking" with North Korea to try and get Kim Jong Un to stop nuclear and ballistic missile testing.

The United States and China are discussing the timing of a new Security Council resolution that would toughen sanctions in response to North Korea's latest missile launches.

Lake warming disrupts water clarity

Associated Press

CRYSTAL BAY, Nev. — Climate change is causing Lake Tahoe to warm sooner in the spring than it has historically, disrupting the normal mixing of shallow and deep water and undercutting gains made in reversing the loss of clarity of the cobalt mountain lake, scientists said.

"Climate change is impacting not only Lake Tahoe's water quality, but also the health of its forests and its recreation-based economy," Joanne Marchetta, executive director of the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency, which regulates the lake covering 191 square miles along the Nevada-California border, said.

Until recently, the climatological cycles affecting Tahoe's clarity had remained fairly constant since 1968, when experts first dropped a white disk into the lake to measure how far down it remained visible. Back then, it was more than 102 feet compared to an average of about 69 feet now.

Dry years resulted in clearer water. Storm-water runoff carrying soils and contaminants during wet years made it worse.

"You didn't need a Ph.D. to understand it," said Geoff Schladow, director of the University of California Davis Tahoe Environmental Research Center.

But the pattern seems to be breaking down, he said.

"What we are learning is that climate change is not just a one-size-fits-all thing," he said.

Average annual clarity for 2016 was about 4 feet worse than the 73 feet recorded in 2015, but better than the worst-recorded average of 64 feet in 1997.

The bodies of climbers who died on Mount Everest on the ground in Kathmandu, Nepal, on Sunday.

Body retrieval raises concerns of climbers

Associated Press

KATHMANDU, Nepal — High-risk expeditions to retrieve bodies of climbers who died while climbing Mount Everest sparked heated debate in the mountaineering community about the morality of risking more lives to retrieve bodies from one of the most unforgiving places on Earth.

Climbers who attempt to scale the world's tallest mountain know they could die from any number of challenges, including low oxygen, frigid temperatures, strong winds and steep falls. Asking others to carry down the bodies — often much heavier because they are frozen and covered in ice — puts more people in danger, they said.

"It is just not worth the risk," said Ang Tshering, of the Nepal Mountaineering Association. "To get one body off of the mountain, they are risking the lives of 10 more people."

About 300 climbers have died since Everest was first conquered in 1953, and at least 100 — maybe 200 — corpses remain on the mountain. Most are hidden in deep crevasses or covered by snow and ice, but some are visible and have become macabre landmarks, earning nicknames for their plastic climbing boots, colorful parkas or final resting poses.

The most difficult bodies to retrieve are near the 29,035-foot peak in a low-oxygen area.

Expedition leader Eric Murphy criticized the retrieval and said he wouldn't want anyone to risk their own life to bring his body down if he died on the mountain.

"It is a sacred place and a good place to rest," Murphy said. "I would really question whether it is appropriate to risk so many to bring down one who is already lost."

Preston sheriff's office wants info on man's location

KINGWOOD — The Preston County Sheriff's Department is seeking information on the whereabouts of Donald Carl Stout, 68. His last known address was Bruce-ton Mills.

Police said Stout may be considered armed and dangerous. He is being sought in regard to the reported sexual assault of two minors. He is a registered sex offender.

Anyone with information about Stout is asked to call Sgt. G.A. Sinclair or Deputy First Class J.C. Farling, at 304-329-1611.

Side-by-side chase leads to arrest, felony charge

KINGWOOD — A Bruce-ton Mills man who police said fled in a side-by-side Tuesday is charged with a felony.

Dylan Gage Livengood, 19, was charged with fleeing with a vehicle from police while DUI. He was freed on $10,000 bond.

According to the criminal complaint by Preston Sheriff's Deputy J.B. Childers: Deputies saw two side-by-sides speeding east on Preston County 73. One nearly went into a ditch, and neither slowed after the officer activated lights and siren.

As one of the vehicles turned north onto Hileman Road, it began skidding, rolled onto the driver's side tires, went sideways and came down on all four tires. The officer nearly hit the side-by-side, which continued until it made a left turn and stopped on the driver's side in a fence.

Livengood failed field sobriety tests and said he'd had about five beers. His breath alcohol level tested at .10. The legal limit to drive is .08.

Newburg mobile home catches fire Monday night

NEWBURG — Three fire departments battled a house fire Monday evening on W.Va. 92, near the intersection with Scotch Hill Road.

No one was home at the time of the fire and there were no injuries, according to Newburg Fire Chief Bill Larew. Newburg, Fellowship and Tunnelton volunteer fire departments answered the 7:43 p.m. call. They were on scene until 10:29 p.m.

Most of the fire was confined to the ceiling, Larew said. The cause was believed to be electrical.

Fairmont woman pleads to one count of mail fraud

A Fairmont woman pleaded guilty Tuesday to one count of mail fraud, Acting U.S. Attorney Betsy Steinfeld Jividen announced.

Robin Stoneking, 56, admitted to participating in a staged vehicle accident, faking injuries from the accident and filing false insurance claims resulting in a $41,000 settlement. The crime happened between May 2013 and October 2013 in Marion County.

Stoneking faces up to 20 years in prison and a $250,000 fine. Under the Federal Sentencing Guidelines, the actual sentence will be based upon the seriousness of the offenses and the criminal history, if any, of the defendant.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Andrew R. Cogar prosecuted the case on behalf of the government. The West Virginia Insurance Commission Office of Inspector General and the United States Postal Inspection Service investigated.

McKinley announces he will seek 5th term in 2018

Rep. David McKinley, R-W.Va., announced Tuesday that he will seek a fifth term in office in 2018. McKinley was first elected in 2010 and took office in January 2011.

In his announcement, he said, "In making a decision about my plans for 2018, the question, 'Where can I be most effective?' has been front and center. Given the seniority and influence I've earned in the House of Representatives, I've concluded that serving in the House would be most effective for the people of West Virginia."

Overdose trial delayed

Accused murderer's court date pushed to August for further evidence review

BY ALEX LANG
The Dominion Post

Accused murderer Gary Richmond had his trial delayed until later this summer as evidence is still being reviewed.

Defense attorney Sean Cook made the request during a Tuesday hearing before Monongalia County Circuit Court Judge Russell Clawges.

Monongalia County Prosecuting Attorney Perri Jo DeChristopher did not object to the request.

As a result, Richmond's trial was delayed from July until August.

In January, a grand jury indicted Richmond, 45, on a charge of felony murder. He faces life in prison if convicted. He was also charged with possession with intent to deliver a controlled substance.

According to his criminal complaint: In October, Richmond gave heroin to Hanna Marie Sovastion, 24, at his Independence Hill residence. She then injected the drugs while in her vehicle.

Sovastion died as a result of the heroin.

Police found an unused bag in her vehicle that matched those found in Richmond's residence. They also found calls and texts on her phone that traced to Richmond.

A person can be charged with felony murder if someone dies during the commission of a crime, in this case the distribution of heroin.

DOH warns of road closure in July

The Dominion Post

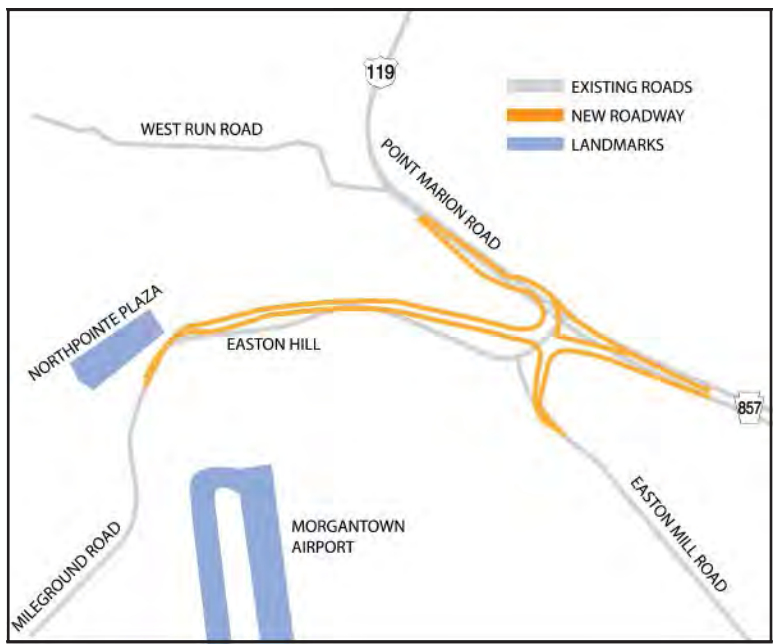

Traffic controls at the intersection of U.S. 119 and Monongalia County 857 at Easton Hill will remain in place until about July 17, according to Jason Nelson, District 4 construction engineer for the state Division of Highways (DOH).

Carrie Jones, a spokeswoman for the DOH, previously told The Dominion Post the realignment work is designed to reduce traffic congestion on Mileground Road, enhance safety and provide easier access to the greater Morgantown area.

Around July 17, Easton Hill will close to traffic traveling both directions for the next phase of construction, which is expected to take about two weeks. According to Nelson, the construction is about preparing as much as possible for the closure.

For drivers traveling toward Pennsylvania from Pierpont Centre, the realignment is moving the road to the left.

For southbound traffic from Point Marion, Pa., Nelson recommended Canyon Road and Stewartstown Road as possible alternatives for motorists.

More details will be released closer to the date of the closure.

Holiday fire claims three pets, home

Relatives say couple was on honeymoon

BY ALEX LANG
The Dominion Post

A morning fire on Memorial Day destroyed the home of a couple who were away on their honeymoon.

The family also lost three pets to the blaze.

At about 2:30 a.m. Monday, fire crews went to a Monongalia County 857 residence for the reported fire. Cheat Lake Volunteer Fire Department Capt. Harvey Coffman said that when he arrived, the second floor was in flames and part of it had collapsed into the lower level.

The structure was a total loss before crews arrived, he said.

Initial reports stated someone was inside, but Coffman said no humans were hurt in the blaze, though two dogs and a rabbit died.

Coffman said those who lived at the house were on vacation. Family members confirmed they were on their honeymoon.

The state's fire marshal investigated and called the cause undetermined because of the extensive damage, Coffman said.

Cheat Lake VFD offered its hall at a nominal cost to friends and family for fundraising efforts, Coffman said.

The Brookhaven, Star City, Granville, Clinton District and Cool Springs volunteer fire departments assisted. Fire crews from Smithfield, Pa., also went to help with the blaze.

Justice issues dissent in Leggett case

BY DAVID BEARD
The Dominion Post

State Supreme Court Justice Robin Davis issued her dissent Tuesday in the Leggett case, in which the majority opened the door for EQT Co. and other natural gas production companies to deduct post-production expenses from royalty checks.

In it, she states that the court was wrong to reconsider the case and has essentially rewritten state law by reversing itself.

The case is called the Leggett case after the Doddridge County plaintiffs who sued EQT in federal court, alleging EQT was wrongly deducting post-production expenses from their royalty checks.

The federal court asked the Supreme Court to answer two certified questions regarding the meaning of the phrase "at the wellhead" in state code.

The Supreme Court decided against EQT last November, but reversed itself and decided in favor of EQT last week, saying "at the wellhead" means the point of sale, not where it left the ground.

One question asks whether a 2006 Supreme Court case called Tawney — which prohibited post-production deductions from mineral owners' 1/8 royalty unless the lease specifically allows it — applies in this case that involves a conversion of an old flat-rate lease to a one-eighth lease based on requirements of a 1892 law.

The second question is whether the 1982 law abrogates all flat-rate leases.

At one time, gas was sold at the actual wellhead. But federal deregulation led to gas being collected, processed and shipped to hubs for sale.

EQT contended that the change allows it to deduct certain expenses from royalty checks. The plaintiffs argue otherwise.

In its November ruling, the Supreme Court concluded that the federal court asked the wrong question because, among other reasons, Tawney and a prior case, Wellman in 2001, don't apply and reformulated it.

The correct question, the Supreme Court said in November, is whether state code prohibits the lease holder — the gas company — from deducting expenses. The court said yes.

It didn't answer the second question because the case doesn't apply old flat-rate wells.

Davis dissent

In last week's opinion, the court justified rehearing the case with this statement: "While an admittedly uncommon occurrence, rehearing exists expressly for the purpose of ensuring that opinions which are not well-founded due to misapprehension of the issues, the law or the facts are rectified."

Davis said in her dissent. "There is and was no legal basis for granting a rehearing." She reviewed the original majority opinion several times and found no legal or factual error.

The November decision, Davis said, indicates that the phrase "at the wellhead" in state code is ambiguous, but the Legislature clearly intended, as language in the 1982 bill makes obvious, to protect mineral owners from unfair and unjust deductions, and to provide them with the maximum possible royalty payments.

"The statute was not intended as a mechanism to reduce royalty payments or to fill the coffers of companies who develop oil and gas interests. This is the intent only of the new majority opinion."

She also comments, "The new majority opinion uses legal sophistry to fool only itself."

She noted that during the recent legislative session, a delegate attempted but failed to change the law to remove "at the wellhead," reflecting the Legislature's understanding of the phrase and unchanged desire to protect mineral owners.

"However," she wrote, "the new majority opinion has done what the Legislature refused to do. The new majority opinion has rewritten the statute to say what it was never intended to say."

Tucker hears motions

Alleged thief has trial moved; man to enter treatment

BY ALEX LANG
The Dominion Post

The trial for a man accused of stabbing another was put on hold so he can enter a substance abuse treatment facility.

Jesse Vance appeared before Monongalia County Circuit Court Judge Susan Tucker on Tuesday to update the status of his case.

Police said that in February, they went to the Dorsey Avenue Circle K for a report of a stabbing. When they arrived, a man said he was with an acquaintance inside a Dorsey Avenue residence when he was stabbed.

The suspect fled the area and the injured man walked to Circle K, where he called for help.

A grand jury indicted Vance for malicious wounding. He faces two to 10 years in prison.

Defense attorney Bill Pennington said there is an open bed in a treatment facility and Vance can enter care. Tucker applauded Vance receiving treatment.

As a result, she agreed to move his trial to August, when the sides can update the court on the case's status.

Thomas Casella also appeared before Tucker on Tuesday to update his case. Defense Attorney Brandon Schumaker asked that his trial be delayed, and the state did not object.

Tucker agreed to move his trial to July, instead of next week.

The grand jury indicted Casella on a charge of first-degree robbery and he faces a minimum of 10 years in prison.

Police said that in January, Casella entered the United Bank on the corner of Fayette and Chestnut streets. The suspect had his face covered and passed a note demanding money. He said he was armed, but no weapon was shown. Casella fled with an undetermined amount of money.

Man sentenced to 10 months for illegal purchase of a gun

The Dominion Post

Cory Jean Gainey, 24, of Reedsville, was sentenced Tuesday to 10 months in prison for unlawfully purchasing a firearm, Acting U.S. Attorney Betsy Steinfield Jividen announced.

Gainey pleaded guilty to one count of making a false statement during the purchase of a firearm in January. He admitted that in October 2015, he provided a false statement to a licensed firearms dealer stating that he was the actual purchaser of the firearm when in fact he was buying it for another individual.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Traci M. Cook prosecuted the case on behalf of the government. The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives; the Monongalia County Sheriff's Department and the Morgantown Police Department investigated. U.S. District Judge Irene M. Keeley presided.

Missile test

The U.S. military will attempt to intercept an incoming intercontinental ballistic missile in a test meant to simulate a North Korean attack against the U.S.

1. Ballistic missile fired from test site in the Marshall Islands.
2. Interceptor launched from Vandenberg AFB, California.
3. Interceptor releases a "kill vehicle" which steers toward the missile, attempting to slam into and destroy it.

Top Trump aide leaving: First shoe to drop?

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A top communications aide to President Donald Trump is exiting the White House as the embattled president considers a broader shake-up amid rising anxiety over investigations into his campaign's contacts with Russia.

Fresh off Trump's first official trip abroad, White House communications director Michael Dubke announced his resignation Tuesday in what many inside and outside the White House see as the first shoe to drop. A wider overhaul is expected, aimed at more aggressively responding to allegations of Russian meddling in the 2016 election and revelations of possible ties between Trump's campaign and Moscow.

Dubke said in a statement it had been an honor to serve Trump and "my dis-ting pleasure to work side by side, day by day with the staff of the communications and press departments."

However, Trump has privately and publicly pinned much of the blame for his administration's woes on the communications effort.

"In terms of messaging, I would give myself a C or a C plus," Trump said in an interview on Fox News Channel early in his term. "In terms of achievement, I think I'd give myself an A. Because I think I've done great things, but I don't think I have — I and my people, I don't think we've explained it well enough to the American public."

Trump has long believed that he is his most effective spokesperson and has groused about supporters and aides not defending him vigorously enough. At the same time, he often undermines his staffers, contradicting their public statements and derailing their efforts to stay on topic with inflammatory tweets.

White House spokesman Sean Spicer pushed back Tuesday on the idea that a broader reorganization was imminent, but he acknowledged the president is frustrated with news stories "that are absolutely false, that are not based in fact. That is troubling."

Spicer said he thinks the president "is very pleased with his team," but he added, "Ultimately the best messenger is the president himself. He's always proven that."

Rumors of impending shake-ups have come and gone in the Trump White House before. People close to the president and his team are expecting further changes this time.

For example, Trump has entertained bringing his former campaign manager, Corey Lewandowski, and former deputy campaign manager, David Bossie, more formally back into the fold. Both Lewandowski and Bossie visited the White House Monday night, according to two people familiar with the meeting, who spoke on condition of anonymity to discuss a private get-together.

It remains unclear whether the president might envision them working inside the White House or in outside roles.

Bossie told "Fox & Friends" that the administration has reached out to him but hasn't offered him a job.

"They have talked to many people, including me," Bossie said. He later added: "It's an ongoing conversation, and that's a fair way to put it."

Hit or miss, test of missile defense is key

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Hit or miss, the Pentagon's attempt on Tuesday to shoot down a mock warhead over the Pacific Ocean marks an important milestone for an oft-criticized defense program that could be what stands between an incoming North Korean strike and the United States.

Even if successful, the $244 million test will not confirm that the U.S. is capable of defending itself against an intercontinental-range missile fired by North Korea. Pyongyang also is understood to be moving closer to the capability of putting a nuclear warhead on such a missile and could have developed decoys sophisticated enough to trick an interceptor into missing the real warhead.

The most recent intercept test, in June 2014, was successful, but the longer track record is spotty. Since the system was declared ready for potential combat use in 2004, only four of nine intercept attempts have been successful.

"This is part of a continuous learning curve," Navy Capt. Jeff Davis, a Pentagon spokesman said.

"We improve and learn from each test, regardless of the outcome. That's the reason we conduct them," he said. "We look forward to understanding the results so we can continue to mature the system and stay ahead of the threat."

The Pentagon is still incorporating engineering upgrades to its missile interceptor, which has yet to be fully tested in realistic conditions. A test failure Tuesday would raise new questions about the defensive system but would be unlikely to compel the Pentagon to abandon plans to expand it.

North Korea said its nuclear and missile programs are a defense against perceived U.S. military threats. Its accelerating missile development has complicated Pentagon calculations, most recently by incorporating solid-fuel technology into its rockets.

AP source: Flynn agrees to provide documents

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Former National Security Adviser Michael Flynn will provide documents to the Senate intelligence committee as part of its probe into Russia's meddling in the 2016 election, The Associated Press learned.

Flynn's decision Tuesday came as President Donald Trump's personal attorney, Michael Cohen, rejected a House intelligence committee request for information, and former White House staffer Boris Epshteyn confirmed he has been contacted for information as part of the House investigation.

Meanwhile, Trump and Russian President Vladimir Putin sounded similar tones as they criticized the ongoing U.S.

scrutiny of Russia's attempts to sway the presidential election.

Flynn's cooperation was the first signal that he and the Senate panel have found common ground. Congressional investigators continue to press for key documents in the ongoing investigation, and the retired lieutenant general is trying to limit damaging disclosures that hostile Democratic lawmakers could use against him.

Flynn previously invoked his Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination in declining an earlier subpoena from the committee, which sought a wide array of documents and information related to his contacts with Russia.

Justices side with police in case of Calif. shooting

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A unanimous Supreme Court on Tuesday sided with sheriff's deputies in a legal dispute stemming from 2010, when an innocent couple was shot while California deputies searched for a wanted man.

The justices overturned an award of $4 million in damages to the couple and ordered a lower court to take another look at whether the deputies should be held liable for the shooting.

Deputies were searching for a parolee when they entered the backyard shack in Lancaster, north of Los Angeles. Seeing an armed man, they fired shots that seriously wounded him and his pregnant girlfriend.

The man wasn't the suspect they were searching for, and it turned out he was carrying a BB gun. A federal appeals court ruled that the deputies were liable because they provoked a violent confrontation by entering the shack without a warrant.

Justice Samuel Alito said such a "provocation rule" is not compatible with excessive force claims under the Fourth Amendment, which prohibits unreasonable searches and seizures. If the officers were reasonable in using force to defend themselves, Alito said, a court should not go back in time to see whether the incident was provoked.

"We hold that the Fourth Amendment provides no basis for such a rule," Alito said. "A different Fourth Amendment violation cannot transform a later, reasonable use of force into an unreasonable seizure."

Robert Bruce Lowe

Robert Bruce Lowe, 72, of Shepherdstown, passed away May 28, 2017, at his beloved home.

Robert Lowe

The youngest son of Bruce J. and Anne R. Lowe, Robert grew up in Grantsville with brothers Fred Lowe, of Jupiter, Fla., and Steve Lowe, of Dothan, Ala.

Robert graduated from Calhoun County High School. He received his bachelor of science in pharmacy from WVU, where he was a Sigma Xi. After working for a year at Saint Mary's Hospital, in Huntington, Robert enrolled at the University of Michigan College of Pharmacy and graduated with a Doctor of Pharmacy degree in 1971. He completed his residency in hospital pharmacy at University Hospital, in Ann Arbor, Mich.

Robert was the first person in West Virginia to receive a Doctor of Pharmacy degree. He brought his expertise home, where he accepted a faculty position at the WVU School of Pharmacy. Robert taught for several years and played a key role in developing pharmacy education in the state.

He practiced hospital pharmacy, working as director of pharmacy at Mon Health Medical Center, the Martinsburg VA Medical Center, Jefferson Memorial Hospital and in pharmacy positions and in administration for Washington County Health System, in Hagerstown, Md. Robert retired in 2010, but continued donning his lab coat to fill in at Shepherdstown Pharmacy and others.

Robert was engaged with many professional and civic organizations. A longtime member of Rotary Club in Morgantown, Martinsburg and Shepherd-stown, Robert was also active in Sons of the American Revolution and was a 32nd degree Mason. He served on professional boards and on the board of Historic Shepherdstown. For many years, he sang in the choirs at First Presbyterian Church, in Morgantown, and Shepherdstown Presbyterian Church.

Above all else, Robert loved his family. He enjoyed music, from Beethoven to Motown, and singing the bass part of hymns. He was a rabid WVU fan and was proud to be a seventh generation West Virginian. Robert was a dapper dresser and loved fine dining, dancing and lemon meringue pie.

He delighted in the stone home he built with his wife and the magnolia blossoms on their trees. Robert's knowledge and curiosity about astronomy and geography was infectious and earned him the title "River Savant" in his family. He could name every river he encountered. Passionate about history, British Royal lineage and family genealogy, Robert was respected and adored for his kindness, intelligence and affable personality.

Robert is survived by his wife of 20 years, Dolores Lowe; his daughter, Elizabeth Lowe Frederick and husband, Bill, of Beverly, Mass.; stepson, Gayle Johnson and wife, Karen, of Shepherdstown; stepdaughter, Meredith Handakas and husband, Greg, of Midlothian, Va.; and grandchildren, Samuel Frederick, Gaylen and Emily Johnson and Grace and Nick Handakas.

A celebration of his life will be held at Trinity Episcopal Church, in Shepherdstown, at 11 a.m. Saturday, June 3.

Those who wish may make memorial contributions to Hospice of the Panhandle.

Nonprofit to host fundraiser Saturday

TO PURCHASE tickets or make a reservation for Night of Dreams, contact Pastor Kevin Turner at 217-248-4646.

BY HOLLIE GREGORY
The Dominion Post

Holy Pursuit's Dream Foundation, a nonprofit organization based in Rowlesburg, will host a Night of Dreams Saturday at Chestnut Mountain Ranch.

The doors will open at 5 p.m. and dinner will start at 6 p.m. The foundation will present its first Braveheart Award to Jordan Beland, 17, of Martinsburg.

There will be activities and live music performed by Bobby Nicholas, a coordinator at WVU Medicine Children's.

Attendees will have a chance to win door prizes and participate in silent and live auctions.

Raffle items include a two-night stay and two rounds of golf at the Summit Inn in Uniontown, Pa., a one-week stay at a private beach house in South Carolina, a basketball signed by Bob Huggins, four tickets to a Pittsburgh Steelers game and handmade baskets and quilts.

Holy Pursuit's Dream Foundation is dedicated to funding hunting and fishing trips for kids with life-threatening illnesses.

"We're very proud to say that 100 percent of all the funds we receive go directly toward providing a hunt to one of these kids," said Pastor Kevin Turner, who founded the program. "The families of these kids have spent all the finances they can muster on their child's health, so they don't have the means to do this."

"We feel that this is an alternative form of medicine that really benefits kids. We want this to be part of their healing process. We want to see them live long, happy, successful lives," Turner said.

The first trip the foundation funded was one for Beland. He had three open-heart surgeries due to a congenital heart defect. Holy Pursuit's Dream Foundation took Beland and his family to Illinois on a hunt in April.

"Accepting this award means a lot to me. It gives kids like us, with medical issues, something to be proud of," Beland said.

Steve Finn, executive director of Chestnut Mountain Ranch, donated the facility for the night of the fundraiser.

Chestnut Mountain Ranch is a nonprofit faith-based school in Morgantown.

MARY GABRIELE

Confessions of a meatball fraud

LAST SATURDAY, I DID THE UNTHINKABLE. How could I use such poor judgment? If my father were alive, he would have said, "Mary Catherine, you know better!" To make matters worse, I looked my friend straight in the eyes, and lied.

You see, my friends, in the 35 years that I have been hosting parties, never, ever, have I run out of food, until last Saturday when we were hosting my son Anthony's high school graduation party. How could my estimates be so off? This is the ultimate embarrassment for an Italian mother. We pride ourselves on doing all the cooking for the big events in our children's lives, and we innately know how much to prepare. If needed, we enlist the help of immediate family members whose food standards are as high as ours. We always have enough food, and then some. Not this night, however!

I grossly underestimated the appetites of 18-year-old boys, and the appetites of the other 125 guests. My family and I worked feverishly to satisfy the masses, but we seriously were running out of food. It would have been much easier to cater this event, but this is just not how the women in my family operate. We find too much joy in cooking for others — and let's be honest, we enjoy being martyred by those who wonder "how we do it." We love being told how delicious everything is, because cooking is our craft.

But this was the wrong night to not have enough food. I worked too hard to make this party special. Italian mommas love it when everyone leaves with full bellies (and doggie bags). You can imagine my embarrassment when the food trays were not overflowing. What would Anthony's friends say?

This was not even the worst thing that happened on this fateful night. No, the worst was having to resort to serving my guests sauce and meatballs that my family did not prepare. Yes, after the 10 pounds of pasta with sauce, 200 homemade meatballs, two large trays of lasagna, four pounds of pasta with pesto, 10 pounds of sausage and pulled pork, and several trays of Italian meats and cheeses ran out, we secretly served meatballs and sauce that were purchased at a local grocery store. Serving someone else's sauce and meatballs at my home is considered a travesty by my "la famiglia." To top it off, I lied to a friend when he questioned me about the authenticity of these meatballs; he was sure they were imposters. I was committing meatball fraud — the ultimate crime. The guilt got to me, so I confessed and asked for forgiveness given the dwindling food supplies early on at the party. I promised never to do it again, if he did not out me to the other guests.

I learned several important lessons this night: (1) you can never have enough meatballs, (2) never underestimate the appetites of high school boys, and (3) my friends and family will keep coming back for my cooking even though I committed meatball fraud. And this makes this Italian momma very happy.

PIC training online

Submitted to The Dominion Post

The 2005 FDA Food Code requires a qualified person-in-charge (PIC) to be present at all times within every food establishment. The Monongalia County Board of Health (MCHD) requires the PIC to complete the PIC training or the manager's training course.

PIC training is now available online. The course costs $50. It takes about four hours to complete and there is a test to be taken at the end of the course.

Information on the course, a preview video and enrollment information can be found at: monongalia-county-hd-training.thinkific.com/courses/person-in-charge-training.

How to make the most of cookout season

MetroCreative photo

When cooking out, go beyond just throwing burgers on the grill.

AMANDA CUSHMAN

The News & Observer (Raleigh, N.C.) (TNS)

There's nothing better than the flavor and presentation of food cooked on a grill.

The slightly smoky flavor and ease of preparation makes grilling one of the top cooking methods any time of the year. Even when there is a chill in the air, stepping outside to grill a meal is quick and easy.

Now that summer is around the corner, many of us are dining al fresco, and that often includes a grilled dish. Almost any food can be grilled, from steak to portobello mushrooms, and occasionally a food that you wouldn't imagine, such as thickly cut Greek cheese (Halloumi), which grills perfectly.

For those who don't have access to an outdoor grill, I've had success with cast-iron indoor grilling pans. Indoor grilling pans, which can be found in any cookware store, add a depth of flavor similar to outdoor gas grilling. I own two square ones that fit over a burner and can accommodate two servings of protein or four pieces of fresh corn or sliced eggplant.

Here are some of my tips to make the most of your grilling.

What to grill?

Most important, you need to

USDA gives meat-safety tips

Submitted to The Dominion Post

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS) reminds consumers to keep safe from foodborne illness by using a food thermometer to ensure meat and poultry is cooked to the correct internal temperature.

Recent research by USDA and the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) found that only 34 percent of the public use a food thermometer when cooking hamburgers. If a burger's internal temperature is not to the necessary degree, pathogens may still be present. When eaten, those hamburgers can make your guests and your family sick.

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that 48 million people suffer from foodborne illness each year, resulting in about 128,000 hospitalizations know which foods are best grilled. Any cut of meat or chicken is ideal for grilling.

For dark-meat chicken, I recommend cooking it first in the oven to get it about three quarters done and then finishing it on the grill to avoid overly dark or blackened skin. Chicken breasts cook quickly — about 3 minutes per side. I recommend you pound the chicken to an even thickness to assure perfect doneness.

Fish is best if you choose steak fish (such as tuna, salmon, swordfish or shark) or whole fish (such as snapper or bass). Shellfish, including shrimp, scallops, clams and lobster, are wonderful on the grill and can be served room temperature or as part of a salad. I tend to avoid thin fish fillets for grilling as they are too delicate for the high heat and difficult to move off the grill.

All kinds of grilled vegetables are wonderful. My personal favorites are asparagus, mushrooms, onions, peppers, zucchini, eggplant, cauliflower, unripe tomatoes and corn. Consider buying a grill basket for smaller veggies to avoid them falling into the grill. For the vegetarians among us, both tofu and tempeh are delicious in their grilled form, especially paired with a flavorful marinade.

Get the grill ready

To prepare the grill, heat is of utmost importance for a guaranteed non-stick surface. If your food is not ready to turn easily, simply leave it another minute to insure the proper sear. If you are grilling something with little to no marinade, be sure to spray the grill lightly with vegetable cooking spray or brush lightly with olive oil.

The marinade

My favorite element in grilling is the marinade. A marinade can be as simple as vinaigrette with a few fresh herbs mixed in, and sauces such as salsas, pestos and reserved boiled marinades add a ton of flavor to just about any grilled food.

Because there's no sauce or fat in the pan, and most grilled foods cook fairly quickly, a marinade not only tenderizes but adds flavor. I usually marinate dishes for at least two hours at room temperature or

Mushrooms showcased in a decadent, tasty tart

LEAH ESKIN

Chicago Tribune (TNS)

Raw is a brilliant state for lettuce, for talent, for truth. Not so much for mushroom.

Uncooked, the mushroom is edible, but barely. It offers a spongy bite of bland. How the naked mushroom sneaked onto the salad plate — and why — remains a mystery.

MEATLESS ON THE MENU

Hunched and humble, the mushroom needs coaxing. Browned in butter, spiked with sherry and cradled in a crisp crust, it reveals its tangle of tastes: Woodsy, wild and worth the wait.

Short Tip

Soften brown sugar

Epicurious.com

If your brown sugar has become rock-hard, revive it with a minute or so in the microwave.

RECIPE BOX

CARIBBEAN ROTI

Yield 2 servings.

3/4 pound boneless, skinless chicken thighs
1/2 pound red or yellow potatoes (about 1 3/4-cup cubes)

2 teaspoons canola oil
1 cup diced onion
1 teaspoon minced garlic
2 tablespoons curry powder
1 tablespoon paprika
1/2 cup canned, rinsed and drained low-sodium chickpeas
1 1/4 cups low-sodium chicken broth
Salt
2 whole wheat thin wraps

Remove visible fat from the chicken and cut into 1/4- to 1/2-inch cubes. Wash potatoes, do not peel and cut into pieces about the same size as the chicken. Set aside. Heat oil a nonstick skillet over medium-high heat and add the chicken, onion and garlic. Saute 3 minutes, stirring to help chicken brown on all sides. Add the curry powder and paprika. Stir to make sure all ingredients are coated with the spices. Add the chickpeas, potatoes and chicken broth. Reduce heat to medium-low, cover with a lid and simmer 15 minutes. Add a little water if the skillet becomes dry. Add salt to taste. Place the two wraps on a counter and fill with the chicken mixture. Roll up and serve with the salad. Or, serve the filling and wraps separately and each person can fill his own.

REVIEW

You can really taste the brown sugar in Pepperidge Farm's new Farmhouse Thin & Crispy Dark Chocolate Chip cookies, and that is a very good thing. As advertised, the cookies are indeed thin and crispy.

What stands out most, other than the brown sugar, is the amount of chocolate chips that go into each one. In fact, chocolate is listed first in the ingredients. How many commercial cookies can make that claim?

and 3,000 deaths. Follow USDA's four easy steps to food safety this summer.

Clean: Make sure to always wash your hands and surfaces with soap and warm water for 20 seconds before cooking and after handling raw meat or poultry. If cooking outside or away from a kitchen, pack clean cloths and moist towelettes for cleaning surfaces and hands.

Separate: When taking food off of the grill, use clean utensils and platters. Don't put cooked food on the same platter that held raw meat or poultry.

Cook: Always use a food thermometer to check the internal temperature of meat and poultry. Place the food thermometer in the thickest part of the food.

■ Hamburgers, sausages and other ground meats should reach 160 degrees.

■ All poultry should reach a minimum temperature of 165 degrees.

■ Whole cuts of pork, lamb, veal and of beef should be cooked to 145 degrees as measured by a food thermometer placed in the thickest part of the meat, and allowed to rest for three minutes before eating. A "rest time" is the amount of time the product remains at the final temperature, after it has been removed from a grill, oven or other heat source. During the three minutes after meat is removed from the heat source, its temperature remains constant or continues to rise, which destroys pathogens.

■ Fish should be cooked to 145 degrees.

■ Meat and poultry cooked on a grill often browns fast on the outside, and by using a food thermometer you can be sure items have reached a safe minimum internal temperature needed to destroy any harmful bacteria that may be present.

Chill: Place leftovers in shallow containers and refrigerate or freeze immediately. Discard food that has been sitting out longer than two hours.

I recommend reserving the leftover marinade and bringing it to a boil in a small saucepan for four or five minutes, to kill any bacteria, along with a little red wine, if desired, and you have an amazing sauce to drizzle over your grilled dish.

There's the rub

Fish is one exception where the marinade can actually cook the fish, so don't marinate fish and shellfish for more than an hour. This is where a spice rub can be the perfect flavor enhancer. I often use spice rubs for tuna, salmon or shrimp.

Simply toast a few of your favorite spices, such as cumin, mustard seeds, peppercorns and coriander. Grind them in a coffee or spice grinder, coat the fish lightly with olive oil, then sprinkle the spices and a pinch of sea salt. You've now elevated your fish to another level.

Grilled bread

I love the taste of grilled bread and often serve it lightly brushed with extra virgin olive oil and rubbed with a cut clove of garlic, as you might enjoy in Tuscany. Grill the bread for three or four minutes on each side and serve with chopped tomatoes, olives, mushrooms. Or, serve it plain, with a few shavings of Parmesan Reggiano. I often make hummus or a spread, such as a white bean puree, to serve guests while they are having a chilled glass of wine.

GRILLED SHRIMP WITH HEIRLOOM TOMATO SALAD

Shrimp is marinated for an hour and then grilled and served on top of a bed of mixed greens. Scallops can be used in place of the shrimp if desired.

Yield: 4 servings.

1 1/2 pounds large shrimp, peeled and deveined

5 tablespoons lime juice

1/4 cup virgin olive oil

2 teaspoons ground cumin

1 small jalapeno, seeded and minced

6 tablespoons cilantro, chopped

1/4 teaspoon salt

Salad

3 large heirloom tomatoes of mixed colors, large dice

1 shallot, minced

1/4 cup basil, chopped

3 tablespoons balsamic vinegar

1/3 cup virgin olive oil

Salt and fresh ground pepper, to taste

4 cups mixed salad greens

1 half of a small ripe papaya, peeled, diced, garnish

Combine the shrimp with the lime, olive oil, cumin, jalapeno, cilantro and salt in a medium bowl. Toss and allow to sit at room temperature for one hour.

Combine the tomatoes, shallot, basil, balsamic, olive oil, salt and pepper in a large bowl. Toss well and set aside.

Turn the grill to high and allow to preheat for 5 minutes. Remove the shrimp from the marinade and place on the grill, discarding the marinade. Lower the heat to medium and cook the shrimp until pink and slightly curled, about 3 to 4 minutes on each side. Transfer to a plate.

Add the mixed greens to the tomatoes. Taste for seasoning.

Divide the greens between four serving plates, top with the shrimp, and garnish each serving with the diced papaya.

GRILLED SKIRT STEAK WITH BALSAMIC, DIJON AND SOY MARINADE

This marinade can be used with lamb chops, pork tenderloin, chicken or salmon. It is best to marinate overnight for steak.

Yield: 6 servings.

1 1/2 pounds skirt, flank or hanger steak, scored

Marinade

3 shallots, minced

1/4 cup balsamic vinegar

1/4 cup soy sauce

4 cloves garlic, minced

1/4 cup olive oil

1 tablespoon Dijon mustard

1 tablespoon fresh rosemary, chopped

Fresh ground black pepper

Sauce

1/2 cup dry red wine

2 scallions, julienne, garnish

Place the steak in a shallow baking dish.

Combine marinade ingredients in a medium bowl. Pour over steak and marinate about 2 hours or overnight, refrigerated.

Half an hour before grilling, remove the steak from the refrigerator. Heat the grill on high for about 5 minutes. Grill the steak for about 7 to 8 minutes on each side for medium-rare meat. Reserve the leftover marinade. Place cooked meat on a cutting board and set aside loosely covered with foil.

Bring the leftover marinade to a boil in a small saucepan with the red wine. Boil for 4 to 5 minutes. Set aside. Meanwhile, slice the meat thinly against the grain. Place on a serving platter and pour the marinade over the meat. Garnish with the julienne scallions and serve.

GRILLED BREAD WITH ROSEMARY-SCENTED WHITE BEAN PUREE

This is a perfect dish to make ahead, as it can be served room temperature. Feel free to substitute chick peas for the white beans and add other herbs such as thyme or Italian parsley.

Yield: Serves 8 to 10 as an appetizer

1/4 cup virgin olive oil

2 medium shallots, minced

2 garlic cloves, minced

3 16 ounce cans Cannellini beans, rinsed, drained

Salt and pepper to taste

1 tablespoon fresh rosemary, chopped

Topping

2 large ripe tomatoes, seeded, chopped

2 tablespoons virgin olive oil

1 garlic clove, minced

1 loaf crusty Tuscan bread, sliced in 1/2-inch slices

Virgin olive oil for brushing

Heat 1/4 cup olive oil in a large skillet over medium high heat and sauté the shallots and garlic for 1 minute. Add the beans and salt, pepper and rosemary, cover the pan and reduce the heat to low and cook for about 7 minutes.

Using a fork, mash up the beans in the skillet to form a rough paste. Add water as needed when the beans become too thick. Set aside.

Combine the tomato with the olive oil and minced garlic in a small bowl. Season with salt and pepper to taste and set aside.

Heat the grill over high heat. Brush the bread with a little olive oil and grill on both sides until toasted and charred slightly, about 4 minutes per side. Remove the bread to a serving platter. Spoon the puree on top of the bread and garnish with the tomato.

Welcome mat out for tolerance

Council on American-Islamic Relations plan for state office will benefit society at large

Not so long ago (back when now-President Trump was promising a “Muslim ban”), the rate of anti-Muslim incidents soared.

That is, in 2016 the number of anti-Muslim incidents jumped 57 percent, from 1,403 in 2015 to 2,213, according to the Council on American-Islamic Relations (CAIR).

The good news is that CAIR had no record of such incidents in West Virginia last year.

So, why would CAIR, a champion of Muslim Americans’ civil rights, feel the need to open a satellite office in the Mountain State?

For a lot of good reasons, including the fact that too many still associate all Muslims with acts of terrorism.

This is despite the fact that organizations such as CAIR routinely condemn terrorism, as do the vast majority of Muslim Americans and others around the world.

In light of the Trump administration’s efforts to implement a “travel ban” twice this year from predominantly Muslim countries, which only served to reinforce such ignorance, there’s room for education here.

CAIR and others work to educate and build coalitions of interfaith communities, which are instrumental in fighting extremist elements on both sides of this coin: Those who claim the war on terror is a war with Islam and those who would attempt to hijack the faith of billions to serve their twisted ideas.

It also is imperative to note that many of our allies in the war on terror are not just Muslim nations, but also on the front lines of this war.

To turn a blind eye on anti-Muslim violence or design a national policy that vilifies that faith can only set back our national efforts to defeat terrorism.

We welcome CAIR’s decision to come to West Virginia and serve not just Muslim Americans but also our society at large. As obvious as the need for promoting interfaith dialogue is CAIR also provides a resource to people who are the targets of anti-Muslim incidents.

Here in Morgantown, Muslim Americans and Muslims from around the world are a familiar sight and, as such, a significant part of our city.

Many of them comprise a large part of our health care community and hospitality business, which are both integral to our local economy, while many others are students at WVU.

Though CAIR has yet to announce a location in West Virginia for its satellite office, it is welcome in Morgantown.

We would be naive to think that incidents of discrimination and racism do not happen here. And even how we pray or to whom — a fundamental right — often finds itself in the cross-hairs of intolerance and hate.

But even more importantly, embracing tolerance and respect for each other reminds us of something more fundamental: We’re all from the same world.

Tribalism vs. multiculturalism

Interracial marriage in a divided country is not looking back

FRANCIS WILKINSON

IN 1958, THREE YEARS BEFORE AN INTERRACIAL UNION produced Barack Obama, 4 percent of Americans told Gallup that they approved of interracial marriage. Like Obama, the U.S. has traveled a long, long way since then. Approval of interracial marriage hit 87 percent in Gallup’s 2013 survey.

A new Pew Research Center survey on interracial marriage released recently shows that attitudes aren’t all that’s changing. One in six American newlyweds is married to someone of a different race or ethnicity. But the demographics and geography of those marriages tell a more complicated story, one that in many respects mimics the irregular landscape of American politics.

Pew found that about half of Democrats and independents who lean Democratic say the increase in intermarriage is a good thing for society. Only 28 percent of Republicans and Republican-leaning independents agree.

Political scientists have long measured racial resentment. But attitudes about interracial marriage ought to be especially unencumbered by other factors. After all, no one is asking that interracial unions be publicly subsidized, or that mixed-race couples benefit from policies to compensate them for the history of social and governmental hostility. There are no distinct policy issues or public funds at stake — just notions about tribalism, racial boundaries and the nature of American society and families.

The map of interracial marriage looks remarkably similar to a map of Hillary Clinton voters. If you reside in a major metropolitan area and have a college education, your chances of marrying someone of another race generally increase. Or you could just live in Southern California. In the Santa Barbara area, 30 percent of newlyweds are mixed-race. Away from the affluent coast, around Riverside and San Bernardino, one quarter of newlyweds are.

Nationally, about 18 percent of those living in a metro area are married to someone of a different race, compared with 11 percent who live outside a metro area. White newlyweds in metro areas are twice as likely — 12 percent versus 6 percent — to be married to someone of a different race or ethnicity as those in non-metro areas.

Rates of intermarriage for men and women of the same race can be starkly different. Asian women are far more likely to intermarry than Asian men; black men are far more likely to do so than black women. From the Pew survey report:

For instance, while 11 percent of all intermarried couples involve a white man and an Asian woman, just 4 percent of couples include a white woman and an Asian man. And while about 7 percent of intermarried couples include a black man and a white woman, only 3 percent include a black woman and a white man.

The disparities may be driven by the resilience of negative racial stereotypes of Asian men and black women. Such stereotypes, and the bigotry that shapes them, are fading but far from gone.

Donald Trump’s 2016 campaign and subsequent election as president confirmed that white racial resentment, and unease over changing demographics, can be channeled to powerful effect. Among whites, 17 percent of Republicans and 8 percent of Democrats admit that they would oppose intermarriage in their own family. Given taboos on acknowledging racial hostility, those percentages could understate the degree of lingering intolerance.

Yet as my Bloomberg View colleague Noah Smith has noted, the trajectory of American society still seems more likely to lead toward a multicultural mashup than to a balkanized future of racial retrenchment. Among Americans ages 65 and older, 21 percent say they would be very or somewhat opposed to an intermarriage in their family. For Americans ages 18 to 29, however, that figure is only 5 percent.

Neither Obama nor Trump was an American anomaly; each represents a powerful strain of the nation’s cultural DNA. But despite the victory of Trump’s tribalism over Obama’s multiculturalism, the future still looks to be on Obama’s side.

We can still move past Trump on climate change

PRESIDENT TRUMP’S SPOKEN THOUGHTS on climate change layer ignorance over irresponsibility. They humiliate thinking Americans and frustrate our friends. The president’s recent refusal in Europe to commit to sticking with the Paris accord for curbing planet-warming gas emissions is the latest national embarrassment.

FROMA HARROP

Trump did say he’d come up with an answer in a week, and if he has by the time you read this, the decision won’t entirely matter. Even if we stay in, few allies trust Trump, given his penchant for cheating.

But though the presidency is powerful, it’s not all-powerful. There are workarounds, and they’re already in motion.

German Chancellor Angela Merkel alluded to the possibilities Sunday, when she called on Europe to basically give up on Trump’s America: “We Europeans must really take our fate into our own hands.”

Team Trump should drop any fantasy that other nations would bear the burden of addressing the climate change crisis while letting Americans belch greenhouse gases willy-nilly. A former French president has already called for slapping U.S. products with a carbon tax if Trump goes AWOL on the Paris agreement.

The sovereign state of California, however, could have a better deal. California has been establishing its own foreign policy on climate. And why wouldn’t it?

Were California a country, its economy would be sixth-largest in the world. Entrepreneurs in this science and tech powerhouse are already making a ton of money finding ways to reduce emissions. Clean energy now employs more people in California than coal employs in all of America.

It is from this seat of power that Gov. Jerry Brown takes obvious delight in taunting Trump and the climate ignoramus around him. “Erasing climate change may take place in Donald Trump’s mind,” Brown quipped, “but nowhere else.”

When Trump vowed in March to loosen national emissions standards for cars and trucks, California’s clean air agency immediately vowed to tighten its standards. Twelve other states have followed California on emissions, resulting in its rules covering over a third of the U.S. market for vehicles.

For historical reasons, California can set its own standards under a federal waiver. Trump could revoke the waiver, as George W. Bush’s administration tried to do, in 2007. California would undoubtedly sue.

California is also leading America — and most other “countries” — in establishing advanced cap-and-trade programs to limit carbon emissions. It recently sent a delegation to China to help it do likewise.

Twelve other states have followed California on emissions, resulting in its rules covering over a third of the U.S. market for vehicles.

California signs climate accords with other countries. There’s the pact with Canada and Mexico, dubbed the NAFTA of climate change. It linked its cap-and-trade market to one in Quebec. Ontario and Mexico may soon come on board, and other Western states talk of joining.

State lawmakers are now devising a far more sophisticated cap-and-trade program that could become a model to the world. California critics continue to insist that this progressive governance is ruining the state’s economy.

That’s funny, considering that California has the highest rate of job growth in the country.

Trump world, meanwhile, pumps out one indignity after another. How pathetic was economic adviser Gary Cohn’s dog-eat-his-homework excuse for Trump’s not having decided on the Paris deal? “The president’s only been in office for a certain period of time,” Cohn explained. Like the grown-ups haven’t been agonizing over this for more than two years.

Washington is clearly becoming flyover country for governments formulating smart environmental policy. But conscientious Americans need not lose hope over the accumulating signs of national decline. They can continue working with one another and with other governments to forestall environmental catastrophe — or at least they can try.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 36, doing very well in business, single and deeply in love with a 58-year-old woman. She has been a neighbor since I was in grade school. She's petite, pretty, intelligent, cheerful and looks my age.

On my 33rd birthday, we had dinner and too much wine and ended up in bed, even though she's often told me to find a younger woman to date.

I'm going crazy trying to convince her I love her. When I told her I've loved her since middle school, she laughed. My parents say I am insane, though they care about her dearly. Am I? Help, please. — IN LOVE IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR IN LOVE: Insane? No. When people are in love, they sometimes think emotionally rather than rationally. The 22-year difference in your ages may be why your parents are calling you insane.

Try to get her to tell you how she feels about what happened the night she cooked you dinner. If it was only because she had too much to drink, she may be embarrassed that things went as far as they did. If it was because the attraction is

Mountaineers' slate made for memories of great match-ups

IN THE YEARS TO come, Jevon Carter and Daxter Miles Jr. will not easily forget their battles against Kansas or their runs through the NCAA tournament.

But, as college years turn into after-college years, it's the individual battles against Buddy Hield or Frank Mason Jr. that will stand out more. This much former WVU standout Alex Ruoff knows.

"You remember the players you went up against more," said Ruoff, who just wrapped up his eighth year of professional play in Europe. "Especially as you see them more and more playing overseas and get to know them a little bit.

"The great players, you brag about going up against them. My sophomore year, we beat UCLA and Russell Westbrook. We played Kentucky with Rajon Rondo during my freshman year. You sort of remember that more."

And here is where we get into next season's schedule for the WVU men's basketball team, which is shaping up to be one of the most interesting lineups in terms of both teams and individual players.

A season-opener in Germany, against Texas A&M and forward Robert Williams, is a possible top 25 match-up. Williams is a potential NBA lottery pick in 2018.

The SEC/Big 12 match-up against Kentucky obviously offers a bundle of NBA potential for the Mountaineers to face.

And even the trip to Orlando, in November, for the Advocare Invitational just got a little more interesting since Missouri signed the nation's No. 1 recruit, Michael Porter Jr., and UCF returned 7-foot-6 center Tacko Fall.

On top of that, there's a home game against Virginia, which could be a top 25 team next season; a road game against rival Pitt, and the Big 12 meetings with Kansas, Baylor, Oklahoma and the rest of the group.

It just may be the best overall schedule WVU has faced since ...

How do you finish that sentence? Quick fact: Since Bob Huggins took over at WVU, the Mountaineers have played at least six top 25 teams each season, maxing out at 14 during the 2014-'15 season.

But there are so many options for which may have been WVU's best men's basketball schedule. Here are a few:

- The 1964-'65 season featured six games against top 25 teams, with all of them ranked in the top 10, including a Kentucky team that featured Louie Dampier and Pat Riley.

- In the 1968-'69 season, WVU faced five top 10 teams, including UCLA with Lew Alcindor (you may have heard of him).

- The 2008-'09 season featured 13 games against top 25 teams, including in New York against Davidson and Stephen Curry (you may have heard of him, too).

- The 1995-'96 season featured games against Georgetown (Allen Iverson), Villanova (Kerry Kittles) and Connecticut (Ray Allen).

The 2004-'05 Elite Eight team faced 14 top 25 teams. The 2009-'10 Final Four team went 7-5 against top 25 teams and beat John Wall and Kentucky.

"The challenge alone of playing so many top 25 teams is motivating enough for most players," Ruoff said.

If that's the case, WVU shouldn't have any problem in that department this season.

Kelly arms MHS with 1-2 punch

Lefty proves tough behind ace Britton

PREP BASEBALL

BY SEAN MANNING
The Dominion Post

Sam Britton became the go-to pitcher for the Morgantown High baseball team this season.

Considered the ace of the staff, Britton has started in every series and tournament the Mohigans have been in this so far year and has lived up to his billing.

Behind him, though, has been an equally important arm for MHS, but an arm that has flown under the radar — the left arm of Conner Kelly.

Kelly, one of 12 seniors on the Mohigans, is the No. 2 starter. While Britton dealt the first punch in the sectional and regional tournaments, Kelly dealt the final blow to help get MHS to its first state tournament appearance in 41 years.

Kelly has played baseball since he was 3 years old and has grown up with the other seniors on the team, so getting to this point has been special to him.

Britton, also a senior, has taken care of business and would likely be all the Mohigans needed in the postseason in past years, but a new format forced teams to find a solid No. 2 starter.

In sectional play, the double-elimination format forces teams to play every day until a winner is crowned. With pitch count rules in place, the ace of the staff can usually only throw three days apart.

In regionals, a best-of-three series was used this year. Britton started game 1 and Kelly went in game 2, against Wheeling Park.

"With the new format, you can't just have one pitcher," Kelly said. "Sam has been incredible for us in game 1 wins, so we could have the upper hand in the series. I've been fortunate to follow up and pitch in clinching situations."

Kelly started one of the most important games for the Mohigans this season during the sectional championship game, against University, on May 16. It was win or go home for both teams.

Kelly went 4 1/3 innings and

Sophomore SS heats up during Big 12 tourney

GRANVILLE — Jimmy Galusky has no memory of the WVU baseball program's last trip to an NCAA regional, in 1996.

That's to be expected, though: He slept through most of it.

The WVU redshirt sophomore shortstop was barely a month old when the Mountaineers went 2-2 at the Clemson, S.C., regional in then-head coach Greg Van Zant's second season at the helm.

"They were playing for a regional right when I was born, pretty much," said Galusky, an Arthurdale native.

WVU occasionally flirted with NCAA bids during Galusky's formative years as a youth baseball player but always came up short.

Gyorko given paternity leave

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — Third baseman Jedd Gyorko was scratched from the St. Louis Cardinals' lineup Tuesday because his wife is having a baby.

Gyorko, a former star at University High and WVU, was originally going to bat cleanup against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Gyorko has twin boys. He and his wife are expecting their first girl. Gyorko is hitting .316 with eight homers and 22 RBIs this season.

How 'redneck' pulled off catfish caper

NHL PLAYOFFS

BY SEAN GENTILE
Pittsburgh Post-Gazette (TNS)

The funniest part of the ongoing "catfish toss" situation — Nashville Predators fan Jake Waddell was ejected and charged with three misdemeanors for the stunt — might be the sheer amount of preparation that it had to take.

It was clear from the start: Waddell had to put a lot of thought into it. On Tuesday, speaking to Middy 180 on Nashville's 104.5 The Zone, he went into full detail. We knew the broad strokes, thanks to the Pittsburgh police report, but there's plenty more.

Waddell — who, in the undersell of the playoffs, called himself a "dumb redneck with a bad idea" — hatched the idea ahead of a Memorial Day trip to his in-laws' home in Boardman, Ohio. He's a Predators fan, and game 1 of the Stanley Cup finals was being played 45 minutes away. It wouldn't take much.

"I thought 'Man, wouldn't it be awesome to get to go to that game?'" he said. "And then, like an ignorant redneck, I thought,

"Wouldn't it be awesome to throw a catfish on the ice at this game?"

That's what he did. Here is a step-by-step guide to his process.

- Acquire supplies. Waddell bought a pair of $350 upper-bowl tickets and an "entirely too big" catfish from a market in Tennessee. He said he had no idea that Wholey's, a seafood market in Pittsburgh's Strip District, had restricted catfish sales. He just "wanted to take a Nashville catfish, because it's more original to throw one of our catfish."

- Garner support. Waddell told the radio station about his

Zidane like a veteran as Madrid's coach

BRIEFS

Only 17 months into his first head-coaching job, Zinedine Zidane is one game from winning his second Champions League title with Real Madrid. It would be an amazing feat for the former France great, who also helped Madrid win its first Spanish league title in five years, as well as the European Super Cup and the Club World Cup. All that in only his second season as a coach.

Zinedine Zidane

"You were the best player in the world, and now you are simply the best coach in the world," Madrid president Florentino Perez told Zidane in a ceremony celebrating the team's first Spanish league title since 2012. Zidane, 44, also helped Madrid win the Champions League as a player, in 2002. "I have the Real Madrid DNA, this is my house," Zidane said. "No matter what happens, I'll always be a Real Madrid fan. It's the club of my life."

■ Former Bundesliga champion 1860

Munich was relegated from Germany's second division in a game that was held up for 15 minutes toward the end because of violence from its angry fans. 1860 lost the second leg of its relegation/promotion playoff, 2-0, at home, to Bavarian rival Jahn Regensburg.

■ Borussia Dortmund fired Thomas Tuchel as coach, three days after he led the club to its first title in five years. The club issued a statement to say Tuchel, 43, was leaving with immediate effect, one year before his contract was due to expire in 2018.

Pro football

Linebacker Christian Kirksey signed a four-year contract extension with the Cleveland Browns. Kirksey led the team in tackles last season and finished third in the league, with 148.

College football

Texas will allow a recruit whose felony drug charge was reduced to a misdemeanor in a plea deal to join the team. Athletic director Mike Perrin said he met with Reese Leitao and his parents and gave the decision to let him play "considerable reflection." Perrin said he found Leitao to be "concrete, sincere and accountable for his actions." The statement from Perrin included no comment from first-year coach Tom Herman.

Baseball

Ex-presidential candidate and former Florida governor Jeb Bush is no longer interested in buying the Miami Marlins and ended his pursuit of the team, two people close to the negotiations said. One of the people said former New York Yankees captain Derek Jeter, who had been part of Bush's group, is still exploring a bid with other investors.

■ The Boston Red Sox placed second baseman Dustin Pedroia on the 10-day disabled list with a sprained wrist and activated third baseman Pablo Sandoval from the DL.

Cycling

The 2019 Tour de France will start in Brussels to celebrate the 50th anniversary of five-time champion Eddy Merckx's maiden win in cycling's biggest race.

Media

ESPN re-signed Heisman Trophy winner Deshaun Watson to a multi-year agreement to continue his role on

"College GameDay."

Law enforcement

Newly acquired Dallas Cowboys cornerback Nolan Carroll was arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated near a club that held a promotional function welcoming him to Dallas. Carroll, 30, was booked into the Dallas County jail and later posted bail. The team issued a statement saying it's aware of his arrest and is "gathering information at this time."

Jurisprudence

The suspended coach of the nation's top high school football program — Bishop Gorman, in Las Vegas — was acquitted of a misdemeanor domestic battery charge stemming from his estranged girlfriend's claim that he punched her last Christmas. Kenneth "Kenny" Sanchez's former girlfriend testified that she fabricated the complaint that the father of their 10-month-old son struck her, pushed her to the ground and pulled out some of her hair extensions. Bishop Gorman didn't immediately say Sanchez has his job back leading the Gaels.

STATE BASEBALL TOURNAMENT BRACKETS

gave up just one run, earning the win and helping to send MHS to its first regional since this senior class has been with the program.

While Kelly's pitching has been crucial, his bat has also been an important factor: Hitting second behind Jordan Page, Kelly has gotten on base for boppers Andrew Berry and Michael DeFelice to drive him in.

In a day that sees a lot of players specialize as a pitcher or a hitter, Kelly enjoys both too much to choose one over the other. "I've always liked hitting," he said. "My father (Scott) taught me how to pitch when I was about 7 or 8, and I've loved it since. I just want to help my team any way possible."

Kelly doesn't know what head coach Mark McCarty plans to do with his pitching staff during the state tournament yet, but whatever it is, he and his teammates will be ready to take on Class AAA No. 1 seed Hurricane.

"Right now, the focus is on Hurricane and hopefully we will be competing for a title on Saturday," he said. MHS's semifinal game with Hurricane will be at 10 a.m. Friday, at Appalachian Power Park, in Charleston. The Class AAA state championship game will follow the Class A title game, which starts at 10 a.m. Saturday.

CATFISH

plans and floated the idea on Twitter. That's why he was wearing the Midday 180 T-shirt. The original idea, though, was his. Also relevant: His wife was "tentatively OK with it."

Secure transportation. Need to move a gigantic, rotting fish one-seventh of the way across the country? Spray it down with Old Spice cologne and throw it in a cooler. That's what Waddell did.

Consolidate. This was where he really started to shine. On game night, he took the fish to his cousin's house, filleted it, cut out half the spine and ran it over with his truck. That made it easier to vacuum-pack and conceal — but not that easy.

"The head was too damn big," Waddell said. "No matter how much I ran it over with my truck, the head was too big."

Choose your placement. Originally, Waddell planned to stash the fish in his boots. The head made that impossible. So, he created a catfish-underwear sandwich. Regular drawers went on first. Then, the catfish. Then, a pair of compression shorts. Then, a pair of baggy pants. Waddell said he was lucky that he's "a bigger guy."

"Skinny jeans would've showed it off, that's for sure," he said.

Test your system. Waddell strapped up, then spent a while talking to his in-laws. "I talked to them for 20 minutes, and they had no idea I had the fish on," he said.

Stake out the area. Waddell said this is where his cousin, a former Army staff sergeant, helped the most. Once they were in the arena, they knew that they wanted to make their move from the upper level during the second period. After a close call in one section, they settled on the aisle between 121 and 122. There, they ran into two other Predators fans who offered to screenshot their e-tickets for that section, then hang out in the concourse while Waddell made his move.

It wasn't necessary. Waddell — with the fish now out of his underwear and wrapped in a giveaway T-shirt — briskly walked down the stairs during a stoppage in play, got close to the glass and boom.

Stay calm. Waddell, wisely, didn't protest much or try to run. Security took him to the top of the section for a few minutes, and that's where a crowd started to gather.

"You can hear the crowd getting restless: 'Hillbilly, redneck,' all this other stuff they're yelling at me. They're calling me stuff I should be called," he said. "If it wasn't 1 vs. 10,000, I wouldn't have been uncomfortable, but I was kind of hoping the security guards would get us on out of there."

Not too calm, though. Once Waddell was in the detention room, the parade of suits began. He said he got in a nice, measured shot. "They're all staring at me, trying to make it real serious. I know nothing is gonna happen here. So the guy's like, 'I hope you're satisfied.' And I said 'Yeah, I do too.' So that really ticked them off."

Lawyer up. By Tuesday morning, Waddell had been charged with disorderly conduct, disrupting a meeting and, best of all, "possessing an instrument of crime." As in, the fish. That, he said, was not the original plan.

"The cop told me, to my face, 'You are being charged with disorderly conduct. You will get a ticket, a citation in the mail.' ... That's what I was told. Now they come out with a couple other trumped-up charges, which are BS. I mean, a catfish isn't an instrument of whatever-the-hell-they're saying-it-was, and I didn't disrupt a meeting. It was an athletic event."

The radio station is going to cover any fines he incurs, and he's got plenty of Nashville-area lawyers willing to help.

"If they want to go down that road, we can go down that road," Waddell said. "I'm pretty sure we'll win that battle. I'm just stubborn enough, as you can probably tell by strapping a catfish to my crotch, to go up there and fight it."

WVU rifle

Rising junior Ginny Thrasher finished second in the women's 50-meter rifle 3 positions Sunday, at the 27th Meeting of the Shooting Hopes junior meet, in Pilsen, Czech Republic.

A 2016 Olympic gold medalist, Thrasher shot

45.1 in the final. She advanced following a fifth-place 581 (194 kneeling, 199 prone, 188 standing) showing in the qualification relay.

Morgan Phillips, a rising sophomore, finished seventh (394.9). The 2017 NCAA smallbore champion finished sixth in the qualification relay, with a 580 (194 kneeling, 195 prone, 191 standing) mark.

The duo opened the competition with the women's 10-meter air rifle, on Friday. Thrasher shot 414.2 (104.5, 103.5, 103.8, 102.4) and placed 12th, while Phillips shot 411.8 (103.8, 102.3, 102.9, 102.8).

Phillips earned her first top-10 finish of the weekend in the women's 50-meter rifle prone on Saturday, shooting 620.5 (103.9, 101.2, 102.8, 103.8, 105.9, 102.9) and placing seventh. Thrasher finished at 613.5 (104.4, 101.0, 101.7, 102.6, 101.4, 102.4).

FSU baseball

Falcons designated hitter Johnny Kesling earned NCAA Division II all-America honorable mention honors from the Conference Commissioners Association.

Johnny Kesling

Kesling, a junior from Fairmont, led the Falcons with a .396 batting average, with eight home runs and 57 RBIs. He also had 12 doubles and a triple and a .628 slugging percentage. Kesling ranked second in the Mountain East Conference in batting average and RBIs and third in on-base percentage and slugging percentage.

Kesling was a first team all-MEC and all-Atlantic Region selection.

Associated Press

NEW YORK — There is no rest for Indianapolis 500 champion Takuma Sato, and that's OK.

Still ecstatic Tuesday at his new place in history as the first Japanese driver to win "The Greatest Spectacle in Racing," Sato posed for photos atop the Empire State Building, rang the Nasdaq opening bell in New York City's Times Square, and continued to bare his soul as he pondered his accomplishment.

"It's a fantastic feeling, not only my personal feeling but the whole team — Andretti Autosport — did a fantastic job," Sato said.

WVU first to offer Hawks' Richardson

THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME.

It's true in the movies, and the same goes when it comes to recruiting.

There is nothing that trumps having the opportunity to pluck high-level college prospects from your own backyard, instead of having to cross state lines in search of talent. And a talented prospect who fits that bill has emerged on the radar for WVU.

That option is University High 2019 safety Amir Richardson, who picked up his first scholarship offer from the Mountaineers and has strong ties to the program. The son of former player Tony, the younger Richardson grew up in the shadow of Mountaineer Field and has been around the football program for as long as he can remember.

Needless to say, he was excited at the news.

"It was my dream school growing up, and they offered me before anybody else. It's a great feeling," Richardson said.

With college-ready size at 6-foot-2 and 200 pounds, Richardson put together a first-team all-state performance at wide receiver and defensive back last season, but it's his talents on the defensive side that caught the eyes of the coaches on the WVU staff.

Defensive coordinator Tony Gibson extended the scholarship offer to Richardson, after stopping by his school during the evaluation period. Gibson envisions him as either a linebacker or safety at the next level.

Richardson has since added an offer from Marshall, and other schools are sniffing around after an impressive performance at the Rivals Three Stripe Camp in Columbus, where he was timed at 4.6 in the 40-yard dash and recorded a 40-inch vertical leap.

Richardson admitted that WVU is always going to have a strong place in his heart due to the family aspect, as well as the fact that the Mountaineers offered first. But for now, time is on his side, and he isn't looking to rush into any decisions about his college future.

"Everybody at school was asking me since I'm from Morgantown and West Virginia offered if I was committing already, but I'm going to take my time and visit schools," he said.

Still, WVU is in a good early spot for just another one of the recent run of talented prospects to come out of the Mountain State, such as 2017 signee Derek Pitts and 2018 legacy prospect Dante Stills, from Fairmont.

There is certainly no place like home.

Jimmy Galusky

GALUSKY

The Mountaineers' 21-year NCAA regional hiatus ended Monday, as WVU received its first at-large bid to the 64-team field.

Second-seeded WVU (34-24) plays third-seeded Maryland (37-21), at 2 p.m. Friday, at David F. Couch Ballpark, in Winston-Salem, N.C.

WVU photos captured Galusky jumping to his feet in the players' lounge at Monongalia County Ballpark as the Mountaineers' name popped up on the television screen during the selection show.

"It's a really big deal," Galusky said. "It's awesome for the program. It hasn't happened in 21 years, so it's taking steps toward the future. It's a good deal for us."

After struggling at the plate for most of the season, the former Preston High star enters his first NCAA regional swinging one of the hottest bats on the team.

He ripped off two three-hit performances in batting .538 (7-for-13) in three Big 12 Conference tourney games.

That boosted Galusky's batting average to .249.

"You say from day one when you're coaching this team that the goal of every season is to play your best baseball at the end," WVU coach Randy Mazey said. "You look at every hitter in our lineup. They all go through a period of time when they're not swinging it great. Sometimes it's in the beginning, sometimes in the middle and sometimes at the end."

"Jimmy is swinging it really good right now, along with a lot of other guys. Most of the guys in our lineup are seeing [the ball] really good right now. I'm super happy with where we're at as a team right now."

Galusky typically bats eighth in the Mountaineers' lineup, and production from that part of the order is critical to WVU's offensive success.

"He wasn't hitting well a few weeks ago," first baseman Jackson Cramer said. "We were getting by. Now, we have other people struggling, and Jimmy is the guy winning games for us."

Galusky credits his coaches and teammates for not letting him get down on himself during his difficult stretches at the plate.

"The guys stuck with me all year and kept positive with me, saying, 'You're going to play your best baseball at the end of the year,' and I think we are," he said.

Left fielder Kyle Davis struck up a friendship with Galusky when they arrived on campus in the fall of 2014.

Davis knows Galusky as well as anybody on the team, and he raves about his work ethic.

"He's a great kid; he works his butt off," Davis said. "He deserves all the success he's getting. He's going to keep going on. We've been good friends since freshman year. I've been able to watch him at his highest and lowest."

"He always keeps that high effort, and it never affects one thing or another. He goes out there with the same mentality every day."

Galusky believes WVU's four-game stint in the Big 12 tournament will benefit the Mountaineers in this weekend's NCAA regional, even though WVU wound up short of its championship goal.

He's eager to get back on the field Friday and face the Terrapins, who beat WVU, 7-6, on April 11, in College Park, Md.

"They threw a pretty good guy at us," Galusky said. "We held our own."

"We took them down to the bottom of the ninth. They ended up coming back. It should be a fun game."

Handshake snub creates a flap

FRENCH OPEN TENNIS

COMPLETE TOURNAMENT results are in the Scoreboard, Page 2-B.

Associated Press

PARIS — As anyone who ever has played or watched tennis — professional or recreational — knows, the post-match handshake at the net is as much a customary part of the sport as a racket, ball or serve.

So when a player who lost at the French Open rebuffed his opponent's attempt at the ritual Tuesday, it became the talk of the tournament.

On a day when No. 1 Andy Murray and No. 3 Stan Wawrinka won, and a couple top-10 players unaccustomed to long stays at Roland Garros — Alexander Zverev in the men's draw, Johanna Konta in the women's — lost, the most buzzworthy development stemmed from a match between one guy who stands 50th in the world and another who is 285th.

After losing to Martin Klizan, of Slovakia, 7-6 (4), 6-3, 4-6, 0-6, 6-4, in the first round at Roland Garros, wild-card entry Laurent Lokoli, of France, skipped the usual sign of sportsmanship. Instead, he went to the sideline to pack up his things.

When Klizan approached, right arm extended, Lokoli dismissively waved him off with the back of a hand, motioning to stay away. Afterward, Lokoli said he wasn't being a sore loser but rather that he didn't want to shake because he thought Klizan was faking an injury during the match and was generally "disrespectful."

"I just have (a) problem with his attitude," Lokoli said, "because he wasn't fair. That's it."

Klizan, who will face Murray in the second round, initially opened his news conference by being confrontational with reporters, repeatedly saying he had no comment and adding: "I don't want you to make a big story about nothing."

Eventually, he spoke about a problem with his left calf that he said forced him to pull out of other recent clay-court tournaments and made him consider withdrawing from the French Open. Later Tuesday, Klizan played in a doubles match that he and Joao Sousa, of Portugal, lost in straight sets.

Lokoli was angered by what he interpreted as gamesmanship, saying Klizan appeared to be dogging it in moments — such as the 6-0 fourth set — hampered by his leg: "I'm wondering if he's going to retire or no, because now he's not running anymore, you know?"

Then, in Lokoli's view, Klizan suddenly would be fine.

"I'm just saying that, you know, there are ways of doing things. If you're injured, for instance, well, you're injured. So what? Call the doctors," Lokoli said. "This is what really bothered me."

He added: "Look at reality. The person just on the other side of the net is doing things that are very weird. Strange things."

Klizan explained the fourth set this way: "He played perfect. No mistake. Serving aces. I was playing bad. At that time, I feel a little bit one pinch in my calf. So I was scared."

As video of their awkward exchange after the final point made the rounds on social media, even Murray took note.

"Obviously I saw a few videos of [Klizan's] match today," Murray said after his 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 6-0 victory over Andrej Kuznetsov. "It was obviously a pretty entertaining match."

Murray, the runner-up in Paris last year, overcame some trouble in the second set, broken in three of four service games during one stretch. But he picked up his game in the last two sets, which the three-time major champion saw as a good sign after struggles this year.

"It was a decent start," Murray said, "considering, obviously, how I played in the buildup."

While 2015 champion Wawrinka, No. 8 Kei Nishikori, No. 18 Nick Kyrgios and No. 29 Juan Martin del Potro were among other winners on Day 3, No. 9 Zverev and No. 27 Sam Querrey were seeded men who exited.

The only seeded woman to lose was Konta, who was a semifinalist at the Australian Open last year but never has won a main-draw match at the French Open.

Zverev, 20, won the Italian Open last week, raising his profile considerably, but he has yet to reach the second week of a Grand Slam tournament.

"You sometimes play bad. It's just: This is our sport. There is no regrets. I mean, what can you do? In Rome, I played fantastic, I won the tournament. Here, I played bad, I lost first round. That's the way it goes," said Zverev, who broke a racket over his leg during his 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2 loss to Fernando Verdasco.

"But," he added, "the world doesn't stop now."

Woods wasn't drunk

Fla. police find no alcohol in system

Associated Press

More disturbing images of Tiger Woods emerged Tuesday in the black-and-white details of police reports, depicting him sound asleep behind the wheel of a car parked awkwardly on the side of a six-lane Florida road with two flat tires, the engine still running and a blinker flashing.

When a police officer woke him, Woods was so disoriented that he initially said he had just returned from playing golf in Los Angeles. Then, he said he didn't know where he was or how far he was from his home in Jupiter Island.

He kept falling asleep. Eventually, he failed a sobriety test so badly that at one point officers moved toward him to ensure he didn't fall over.

There was no evidence of alcohol, however, confirming what Woods said Monday night, when he issued a statement saying he had had an "unexpected reaction" to prescription medicine. Jupiter police said he took a breath test that showed no alcohol in his system. He later agreed to a urine test.

Still to come is potential video evidence from dash-cam footage showing his arrest on suspicion of DUI in the morning darkness of Memorial Day.

An affidavit and an incident report from the four officers at the scene were released a day after Woods spent nearly four hours in the Palm Beach County jail. His mug shot from the jail — showing lifeless eyes and scraggly facial hair — provided a stark illustration of how much Woods' mystique has been shattered since a decade of domination that golf has never seen.

It left players on the PGA Tour hopeful for better times, and not just on the golf course.

"I feel bad for Tiger," Jack Nicklaus said. "Tiger is a friend. He's been great for the game of golf, and I think he needs all our help. And we wish him well. ... I hope he gets out of it and I hope he plays golf again. He needs a lot of support from a lot of people, and I'll be one of them."

Woods remains a favorite among players young and old. When he was an assistant captain at the Ryder Cup last September, the American team presented him a red shirt that read, "Make Tiger Great Again."

"I'm concerned about him," said Steve Stricker, the Presidents Cup captain who chose Woods as one of his assistants. He said he exchanged texts with Woods on Monday and that Woods told him no alcohol was involved.

LeBron soaring into his 7th straight finals

NBA PLAYOFFS

Associated Press

CLEVELAND — LeBron James will one day take his final bow, the brightest spotlight moving on to someone else.

There will come a time when his legs lose some explosiveness and those vicious dunks will be rendered ordinary. Someday, his jumper won't fall as often, and that astonishing court vision, the key to his game, will become cloudy.

James will face the end of his career one day. Just not anytime soon.

On the eve of his seventh straight NBA finals appearance, and 10 years since he debuted on basketball's grand stage, James' reign continues: King of the court.

During a postseason in which he has led the champion Cleveland Cavaliers to a 12-1 record and chased down Michael Jordan as the No. 1 scorer in playoff history, James has not only positioned himself for a fourth title, but also intensified the debate over whether he's the greatest player in NBA history.

By having one of his finest statistical postseasons — 32.5 points per game, 8.0 rebounds, 7.0 assists, 57 percent shooting through 13 games — James is dismissing any argument about the league's true MVP.

Although he'll finish behind Russell Westbrook, James Harden and Kawhi Leonard when the regular-season award is given out next month, James has reminded everyone over the last six weeks that he remains the measuring stick at age 32.

Hewlett Packard

Analysts expect Hewlett Packard Enterprises will report lower earnings and sales in its second quarter. The Palo Alto, California-based technology company warned in February that its profit will be hurt this year by currency effects, rising commodity prices and "near-term execution issues." HPE shares slumped nearly 7 percent after that profit warning, but have recovered since then. HPE reports its latest earnings on Wednesday.

Pending home sales

The National Association of Realtors releases its pending home sales index for April today. Last month the reading slipped 0.8 percent to 111.4, as fewer consumers signed contracts to buy U.S. homes. The association said last week that sales of existing homes slid 2.3 percent in April to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5.57 million.

Michael Kors

Luxury retailer Michael Kors warned in February that its fiscal 2017 profit would be lower than expected, after recording weak sales in the Americas and Europe in the three months to Dec. 31. It forecast earnings between 68 and 72 cents a share for the fourth quarter ending March 31. Find out whether it reached its goal today, when Michael Kors reports its latest quarterly results.

Earnings grow again

The profit recession is clearly over.

For much of the last two years, profits have been falling for big U.S. companies. The plunging price of oil was decimating revenue for energy companies, while the tepid global economy was holding back the rest.

The trend began to turn last year, and it culminated in the most recent earnings reporting season, which has just wrapped up. With 98 percent of companies in the Standard & Poor's 500 index having reported, earnings per share surged 13.9 percent in the last quarter from a year earlier. It's the strongest quarter of growth in nearly six years, since the summer of 2011, according to FactSet.

The mini-recovery in the price of oil has helped, and a barrel was trading at about $50 per barrel at the end of March, up from $38 a year earlier. Profits for companies in the financial, technology and raw materials industries were also particularly strong last quarter.

Investors are relieved to see the surge in earnings. After years where stock prices rose much faster than corporate profits, worries percolated that the market had grown too expensive. Last quarter's strong profit growth could offer some justification for the market's current record highs.

Can profits keep up? Many companies say they're seeing improved optimism among their customers, but signs are mixed about how much that will translate into higher sales.

Earnings boost: Increases in the price of oil and raw materials have helped earnings, which in turn have helped give stock prices room to grow.

Strickland, Harper suspended for brawl

BASEBALL

Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — Giants reliever Hunter Strickland received a six-game suspension Tuesday and Washington's Bryce Harper was penalized four games for their roles in a benches-clearing brawl at AT&T Park a day earlier.

Each also was fined an undisclosed amount. Major League Baseball said both players planned to appeal, so they were eligible to play in Tuesday night's game between the clubs. Baseball Senior Vice President Joe Garagiola Jr. typically hears player appeals.

"You can't really worry about what MLB is going to do because you don't really know," Harper said. "Whatever they say goes and I'm just going to worry about the four games I got and see what I can do."

Strickland hit Harper in the hip with a pitch in the eighth inning and the Washington slugger charged the mound, wildly firing his helmet before trading punches to the head with

Washington's Bryce Harper charges San Francisco's Hunter Strickland.

Strickland during the Nationals' 3-0 win Monday, at San Francisco.

MLB Chief Baseball Officer Joe Torre's explanation of the disciplinary decisions said Strickland intentionally hit Harper with a pitch, inciting the benches-clearing incident and fighting," while Harper's suspension came "for charging the mound, throwing his helmet and fighting."

"I'm obviously not thrilled about it," Strickland said. "It's their call. We'll go from there. Whatever they ultimately decide, I'll own it and take the responsibility."

The bad blood stems from a pair of home runs Harper hit off Strickland in the 2014 playoffs, when the Giants went on to capture their third World Series championship in five years.

"It's just crazy that it even happened yesterday after three years to do that," Harper said. "I don't know. I don't know what was going through his mind or how upset he was the past couple of years. If he did have a problem, he could have talked to me about it."

Diamondbacks 3 Pirates 0

PITTSBURGH — Robbie Ray (5-3) pitched a four-hitter in his first career complete game and Arizona beat Pittsburgh.

Ray struck out 10, had no walks and threw 115 pitches. The left-hander set a career high by winning his third straight start and has pitched 23 2/3 scoreless innings during that run, all on the road, while also beating the San Diego Padres and Milwaukee Brewers.

Chris Owings snapped a scoreless tie with a double in the sixth inning, and the Diamondbacks ended a three-game losing streak.

Ivan Nova (5-4) allowed three runs in seven innings, losing for the just the second time in nine starts. He retired his first 12 batters before Jake Lamb led off the fifth with a single.

Indians 9, Athletics 4

CLEVELAND — Trevor Bauer (5-4) struck out an AL-best 14 in seven innings, and Cleveland beat Oakland.

Bauer's career-best strikeout total was one shy of this season's major league-high of 15, by Washington's Stephen Strasburg, against San Diego, on Saturday.

Bauer recorded his eighth career game of 10 or more strikeouts. He struck out the side in the first, fifth, sixth and seventh innings. The right-hander allowed three runs and seven hits with one walk.

Four Cleveland pitchers combined to strike out 19, tying a franchise record for a nine-inning game.

Blue Jays 6, Reds 4

TORONTO — Kendrys Morales hit a tiebreaking homer in the eighth inning, Josh Donaldson added an upper deck drive and Toronto beat Cincinnati.

All six Toronto runs came on homers. Jose Bautista and Russell Martin also connected for the Blue Jays, who have hit 47 homers in May.

Cincinnati's Zack Cozart hit two solo home runs and Joey Votto had a third.

Morales broke a 4-all tie with a two-run blast off Blake Wood (0-3), his 10th.

Joe Smith (1-0) worked one inning for the win and Roberto Osuna finished for his 10th save. Toronto has won six of eight.

Marlins 7, Phillies 2

MIAMI — Giancarlo Stanton hit his third homer since moving into the No. 2 spot in the batting order, a change that revived Miami, which won its third game in a row by beating Philadelphia.

Marcell Ozuna also homered for the Marlins, whose modest winning streak is their longest since mid-April.

Stanton hit a two-run homer, his 14th, in a five-run third. Since he moved up to the No. 2 spot, Stanton is 12 for 29 (.414) with three homers and seven RBIs in seven games, and the Marlins are 5-2 while outscoring opponents, 48-22.

Yankees 8, Orioles 3

BALTIMORE — Brett Gardner and Matt Holliday each homered twice, Aaron Judge drove in two runs and New York received a solid pitching performance from Luis Severino (4-2) in a win over Baltimore.

Gardner set the tone for the AL East leaders by connecting on the third pitch from Chris Tillman (1-2), who had not allowed a home run in his previous four starts this season.

Holliday went deep in the first inning and again in the third, his 22nd career multihomer game.

Gardner's second solo shot sparked a three-run fourth that made it 8-0.

Severino gave up one run and seven hits over 6 1/3 innings, striking out eight and walking one.

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE is hereby given pursuant to and by virtue of the authority vested in the Substitute Trustee, Pill & Pill, PLLC, by that certain Deed of Trust dated July 21, 2008, executed by the Borrowers, Rebecca L. McBee n/k/a Rebecca L. McCormick and David A. McCormick, to Trevor T. Hyre, the Trustee, of record in the Office of the Clerk of the County Commission of Monongalia County, West Virginia, in Book 1648, at Page 468. At the time of the execution of the Deed of Trust, this property was reported to have a mailing address of 2337 Summers School Rd., Morgantown, WV 26508. Pill & Pill, PLLC was appointed as Substitute Trustee by a Substitution of Trustee dated March 9, 2017, of record in the Clerk's Office in Book 2175, at Page 631. The Borrowers defaulted under the Note and Deed of Trust and the Substitute Trustee has been instructed to foreclose under the Deed of Trust. Accordingly, the Substitute Trustee will sell the following described property to the highest bidder at the front door of the Courthouse of Monongalia County, in Morgantown, West Virginia, on the following date:

More studies are needed on the efficacy of plant extract

DEAR DOCTOR: I've heard that a product called paractin, a plant extract, promotes a healthy inflammatory response. Is this true? How does it work?

DEAR READER: Paractin is an extract from the herb Andrographis paniculata that has been used as a remedy for hundreds of years in Southeast Asian countries for infectious and inflammatory diseases and to relieve symptoms. A. paniculata's main active ingredient is andrographolide, which inhibits the activity of chemicals linked to inflammation, and which may decrease fever and diarrhea by boosting the immune system.

As for its effectiveness, a 2015 review assessed six randomized controlled trials that studied the use of A. paniculata for cough. Combined, the studies compared 333 patients who took the herb to 348 who took a placebo. The studies all showed benefit in decreasing the severity of the cough, but there was much variation.

A 2004 review of seven double-blind studies looked at the use of A. paniculata for upper respiratory infections. All the studies showed improvement of symptoms, with users reporting decreased fever, runny nose, cough and sore throat. Side effects included nausea, vomiting, dizziness and drowsiness, which were reported at higher frequency in some doses.

The anti-inflammatory effect of A. paniculata was also studied against ulcerative colitis. In a 2013 study published in the American Journal of Gastroenterology, researchers randomized 224 patients with ulcerative colitis to receive 1,200 or 1,800 milligrams of A. paniculata or a placebo for eight weeks.

After eight weeks, 45 percent of those who took 1,200 milligrams showed measurable response to the herb's efficacy, while 40 percent of those who took a placebo showed response as well. The results weren't so great at this dose, but at 1,800 milligrams, 60 percent of patients showed some measurable response to the herb. Due to these results, not much can be determined about A. paniculata's effectiveness at this time.
