SERVING MARTIN COUNTY PLUS ADJACENT MINNESOTA & IOWA COUNTIES

The Guy From Just Around the Corner

By Al Batt

My neighbor Crandall stops by.

"How are you doing?" I ask.

"Everything is nearly copacetic.

The local college just announced the results of a scientific study it had performed. Their research found that out of 2,293,618,367 people, 94% are too lazy to actually read that number."

Naturally
I walked while having a heated argument with the temperature and inciting conflict with biting insects. An unseen skunk held me smellbound.

I watched soaring turkey vultures. A vulture's heart rate when soaring is about the same as it is when the bird is sleeping. A half-dozen blackbirds hammered upon a Cooper's hawk. There was no movie on that flight.

Earwigs star in folklore claiming they will crawl into your ear and lay eggs. They don't. Earwigs eat pests like aphids, mites and nematodes. They will chew on ornamental and vegetable plants, particularly dahlias, zinnias, hollyhocks, lettuce, strawberries, potatoes, roses, beans, beets and the silk of sweet corn. They are preyed upon by tachinid flies, centipedes, toads and some birds.

American Eagle: A Visual History of Our National Emblem

Preston Cook of Wabasha donated over 25,000 items, depicting eagles in culture, politics and history, from his collection to the National Eagle Center in Wabasha. How does one get started in collecting things portraying eagles, which have been used to advertise everything from mattresses, underwear, cornflakes and embalming fluid? Preston saw a movie, "A Thousand Clowns," in which Murray Burns, played by Jason Robards, said, "You can never have too many eagles."

Preston took that as a challenge. All proceeds from the sales of Preston's book, "American Eagle: A Visual History of Our National Emblem," will be donated to the National Eagle Center.

"Do lightning bugs continue to flash when a thunderstorm is producing lightning?" They do, fireflies don't fear flashy competition.

Maren Ring of Albert Lea asked if catbirds mate for life. They are essentially monogamous during the breeding season, but pair bonds don't necessarily persist from one year to the next.

"What would puncture eggs in a nest?" There are many suspects: house wren, brown-headed cowbird, house sparrow, red-headed woodpecker, gray catbird and others. There are many animals that eat bird eggs: crows, jays, magpies, grackles, squirrels, humans, snakes, raccoons, weasels, deer, skunks, cats and those dreaded others once again.

Norm Fredin of Albert Lea asked about the nesting habits of house wrens. When it comes time to nest, wrens search out cavities. If you hang several nest boxes, a male will prepare a number of potential nests for a female's consideration, stuffing available cavities with twigs. She chooses one and finishes the nest herself, a cup-shaped depression built atop the twigs, lined with softer material including fine grasses, hair, moss or bits of string and debris. The female lays 3-10 eggs and she alone incubates them. The young hatch in 9-16 days and fledge in 15-17 days. They often have two broods.

Gordy Toenges of Alden asked why we have more vultures than in the past. Edward Abbey wrote of the turkey vulture,

"Let us praise the noble turkey vulture: no one envies him; he harms nobody; and he contemplates our little world from a most serene and noble height." Abbey also penned, "If my decomposing carcass nourishes the roots of a juniper tree or the wings of a vulture — that is immortality enough for me. And as much as anyone deserves."

A friend, Bob Janssen, has visited 1,836 cities, towns and villages in Minnesota while birding and has counted at least 225 bird species in all of Minnesota's 87 counties. His favorite bird is the turkey vulture. Mary Oliver about the turkey vulture in 1932, "was formerly more common in Minnesota" and "still to be seen in fair numbers throughout the state." Increases in human settlement, expanded agriculture, human disturbance and human persecution all likely contributed to this decline. Turkey vultures are seen in every county in Minnesota. The growth in its range and population is attributed to expanded road miles, increased deer populations, openings created by logging activity and warming temperatures. These changes facilitated movement, provided a steady supply of carrion for food and increased survival of vultures.

"How many pines are there in Minnesota?" The native pines are eastern white pine, jack pine, red pine (Norway pine) and porcupine.

Martin County 4-H Animal Science Day Camp

4-H is all about creating opportunities for youth to learn and take ownership of their skill development, and that is just what 4-H members from around the region did on June 17th.

Martin County 4-H hosted Animal Science Day Camp, gave youth the opportunity to learn about their livestock projects. Participants chose to study Beef, Dairy Goat, Poultry, or Sheep. In each species area, youth learned about proper care of animals, various breeds, and how to prepare an animal for the show ring. They also got an in-depth look at biosecurity, courtesy of the University of Minnesota Biosecure Entry Trailer.

Local experts volunteered their time to help our youth learn about their livestock projects. We would like to thank Tom Zehnder, Camden Dressen, Alissa Kallemeyn, Mary Larson, Jeff Kurt, Jake Shoen, Steve Pomeranke, Zeb Skow, and Lori Calkins for sharing their expertise.

Thanks also to Dawn Potthoff, Rachael Mielke, Laurie Quinn, and Lisa Wedel for helping the day run smoothly.

During lunch, youth also learned about swine and participated in a trivia game. Thank you to Martin County Pork Producers, Martin County Corn & Soybean Growers, Martin County American Dairy Association, McDonald's, State Bank of Fairmont, and Tractor Supply Company for your contributions to our lunch and trivia break.

Volunteering and you

By Rob Stauter, CREST Executive Director

With busy lives, it can be hard to find time to volunteer. However, the benefits of volunteering can be enormous. Volunteering offers vital help to people in need, worthwhile causes, and the community, but the benefits can be even greater for you, the volunteer. The right match can help you to find friends, connect with the community, learn new skills, and even advance your career.

This is an opportunity to enliven your well-being. It can reduce stress, combat depression, keep you mentally stimulated, and provide a sense of purpose. While it's true that the more you volunteer, the more benefits you'll experience volunteering doesn't have to involve a long-term commitment or take a huge amount of time out of your busy day. Giving in even simple ways can help those in need and improve your health and happiness.

This is an opportunity to make an impact! Volunteering allows you to connect to your community and make it a better place. Even helping out with the smallest tasks can make a real difference to the lives of people, animals, and organizations in need. And volunteering is a two-way internships that could benefit your career. While learning new skills can be beneficial to many, it's not a requirement for a fulfilling volunteer experience. Bear in mind that the most valuable assets you can bring to any volunteer effort are compassion, an open mind, a willingness to pitch in wherever needed, and a positive attitude.

You will have a richer and more enjoyable volunteering experience if you first take some time to identify your goals and interests. Think about why you want to volunteer. What would you enjoy doing? The opportunities that match both your goals and your interests are most likely to be fun and fulfilling.

Home loan questions

Guest Columnist

Gillian Tunnell, Realtor Century 21 Northland Realty

How much down payment do I need?

Buying a home is an integral part of the American Dream, but for some it seems impossible - the thought of having to come up with 20-25% of the purchase price can be daunting! However, many would-be buyers are unaware that there are loan programs where the down payment can be as low as 3%, or there may be no down payment requirement at all.

What is a debt-to-income ratio?

The loan type that you might qualify for depends on several financial factors, including your current debts and credit history, your credit rating, your income, and debt-to-income ratio.

Your DIR is the total of all monthly debt payments divided by your gross monthly income. This enables your lender to measure your ability to repay your loan. Generally, lenders do not like to go above a 43% debt to income ratio, but there may be exceptions to this rule if there are other positive factors in the buyer's situation. Regardless of whether your loan application is accepted or rejected, your lender must show that it made a good faith determination as to whether you have the financial ability to repay the loan.

What sort of loans are available with little or no down payment?

The good news is that there are several loan programs in this category!

A DVA loan is a 100% mortgage loan guaranteed by Dept of Veterans Affairs, enabling veterans and active service members become home owners without the need of a down payment. The buyer may choose any lender who works with this type of loan, as the government does not actually make the loans, just guarantees the loans made by the lender. There is a funding fee of 1%-3.5% which can be rolled into the loan amount or paid in cash at the time of closing. In certain situations, the funding fee may be waived, please check with your lender for further information.

Rural development loans (USDA loans) are available in many areas outside of big cities. These 100% loans require no down payment because the USDA guarantees the mortgages, protecting the lenders if the buyer should default. There is a guarantee fee which can be rolled into the loan - and this is the only loan type that also allows closing costs to be added to the loan. The USDA does require mortgage insurance.

There are low down payment FHA-insured loans for first time home owners, or those who have not owned a property for three years or more. Basic requirements include a credit score of at least 640, and a 3.5% down payment. Mortgage insurance, which can range up to 1% of the loan amount, is usually required with this type of loan, and there is an income limit in order for a buyer to become eligible.

If you are currently renting, and have a good credit history, your dream of owning your own home may be closer to fulfillment than you think - check out your situation with a lender, you may be pleasantly surprised!

Ask Fairmont Economic Development

Guest Columnist

Linsey Preuss, Economic Development Coordinator

Why do I keep hearing that the City of Fairmont is running businesses out of town?

I am always shocked when I hear that the city is running businesses out of town, because honestly, it's not even possible. If a business wanted to come to Fairmont (or any city) as long as they are following all statutes and codes, there isn't a darn thing anyone could do about it. What the City could do, IF it wanted to, was not offer any incentives. But again, if they are following all city and state rules and regulations - we have no choice but to let a business come to town - yes, even the controversial ones.

On the flip side, there are very few businesses that a community would consider to be something they 'don't want' in their town. I work hard every single day to try to recruit businesses to Fairmont, and to support the businesses we have. I recently attended a national tradeshow called "Indoor Ag Con" where I worked to recruit companies that grow agriculture indoors and those that supply to those who grow agriculture indoors such as light and racking manufacturers. Fairmont has also spent time and money making sure when a business is interested in locating, they here have a place to go. We have a 17 acre shovel ready site readily available and are working on getting a 37 acre parcel ready which is right off of I-90 in an effort to use the visibility and great transportation access of I-90 which is what businesses are looking for.

So to answer the question - no one in the City is running businesses out of town. In fact, quite the opposite is happening as we are actively working to recruit new business. We do this by relationship building, an updated website with information needed to locate a business here, and staying in front of those who might have a project via mail, social media and our website.

So if the City isn't making businesses close, why are they closing?

Unfortunately, retail is changing. Actually, people's buying habits are changing. In the last few years, we have seen the Fairmont retail economy change dramatically. With Sears, JCPenney and now Shopko closed - people are going to change their buying habits even more. Please remember though, these businesses are NOT closing because they were not profitable. There was something bigger happening with all of those businesses. All three of those individual stores were profitable in Fairmont - but the businesses were not strong as a whole. So, what can we do about this? Shop at the small stores you love! If businesses are not profitable, they are not going to stay open. Please - frequent the local businesses you love!

Minnesota to go "Hands-Free" on August 1st

In about two weeks, drivers across the state of Minnesota will need to make sure they change their telephone conversations while driving habit or it will end up costing them.

On August 1st, 2019 the state of Minnesota will have a new law that allows a driver to use their cell phone to make calls, text, listen to music or podcasts and get directions, but only by voice commands or single-touch activation without holding the phone.

The Minnesota Department of Public Safety, along with local, county and state law enforcement are launching campaigns to educate drivers of the new changes that will take place on August 1st. Here are some questions and answers related to the new law:

What can't I do with my phone under the new law?

You may not hold your phone in your hand. Also, a driver may not use their phone at any time for video calling, live-streaming, Snapchat, gaming, looking at video or photos stored on the phone, using non-navigation apps, reading texts or scrolling or typing on the phone.

Will I ever be able to even hold my phone?

Yes. Hand-held phone use is allowed to obtain emergency assistance, if there is an immediate threat to life and safety, or when in an authorized emergency vehicle while performing official duties.

Can I use a GPS navigation device?

Yes. GPS and other systems that can only be used for navigation are exempt from the Hands-Free law. In-car screens and systems are also exempt. In both cases, most of these systems lock when the vehicle is moving.

If a teen is under 18 years old and has a driver's permit or provisional driver's license, can they use their phone in hands-free mode?

The new Hands-Free law does not change anything for teens under 18 with a driver's permit or provisional driver's license: They CAN-

NOT make or answer calls while driving (hand-held or hands-free).

Are there penalties?

Yes. The first ticket is $50 plus court fees and the second and later tickets are $275 plus court fees.

Will this make the roads safer?

Yes, in two ways. In 12 of 15 states with hands-free laws, traffic fatalities have decreased by an average of 15 percent. (Source: National Safety Council and Insurance Federation based on National Highway Traffic Safety Administration data). This law will also help law enforcement keep Minnesotans safe. Because drivers aren't allowed to have a phone in their hand, it'll be easier for law enforcement to see violations and take more effective action.

Through public awareness and education, the goal is for Minnesotans to comply with the new law without enforcement action.

Remember, hands-free is not necessarily distraction-free.

A recipe for BLTs???

I thought I knew how to make BLTs, one of my summer favorites with those garden fresh tomatoes but there is always room for improvement. I discovered when I found a recipe for a BLT. So see what you think!

BLT Sandwiches:

- 1 # smoked bacon
- 1/2 cup Hellmann's mayonnaise
- 8 slices thick cut bread (your preference)
- 1/2 herb mayo (recipe follows)
- 8 leaves of lettuce
- tomato, sliced
- salt and freshly ground pepper

Preheat the oven to 400 degrees.

Arrange the bacon slices on one or two baking sheets. Bake until desired crispness is reached, about 20 minutes, drain on paper towels.

Spread a small amount of plain mayonnaise on both sides of each slice of bread. Heat skillet over medium heat and toast the bread on both sides until crispy and brown, 1-2 minutes per side.

Lay out four slices of toast and spread each with one tablespoon of the herb mayo, layer lettuce, bacon and tomato slices on top and season to taste with salt and pepper. Spread each of the remaining 4 slices of toast with the 1 tablespoon of the herb mayo and place mayo-side down on the toppings to form four BLT's. Slice each in half and serve.

Herb Mayo

- 1 cup Hellmann's mayonnaise
- 1 small garlic clove
- 1/2 tsp. kosher salt
- 2 Tablespoons minced fresh chives
- 1 Tablespoon minced fresh flat leaf parsley
- 1 Tablespoon minced fresh dill
- 1 1/2 tsp. fresh lemon juice
- 1/2 tsp. paprika
- 1/2 tsp. white pepper

Place the mayonnaise in a medium bowl. Mince the garlic on a cutting board, then add a couple pinches of salt to it. Tilt the knife at an angle, and scrape it over the mixture several times to work it into a paste. Add it to the mayonnaise along with the remaining salt, chives, parsley, dill, lemon juice, paprika and white pepper. Stir until well combined. Cover and refrigerate for 2 hours before serving.

Stay cool and have a good week!

I sat in no sittings, heckled no speaker, broke not a window, few students were meeker. I'm forced to admit with some hesitation, all I got out of school was a good education.

Jeff's Jottings

Even though last Saturday was a warm one, Karis and I had our nephew Chase and his friend Braeden stay with us for the weekend and they wanted to give some of my John Deeres "some exercise". As anyone who owns older machinery knows, there is a lot of work keeping everything in running order, but I was able to get my 1965 110 mower and my 1971 3020 diesel tractor going so we could take them for a spin and later when the rest of the Harder "clan" showed up, they both got lots of exercise that day (and I got my "John Deere fix").

"What is it?" answered!

Our "What is it?" item had a number of correct answers last week. Bob Sorensen of Fairmont was the first to identify it as an old tractor/buggy multi-wrench. Joe Griese also identified it as the same. Ted Kittleson of rural Ceylon went into even more detail, identifying it as a wrench for a horsedrawn cultivator. He said it came with the cultivator and was heavy enough to be used to not only loosen or tighten square nuts, but also to drive in the shear pins in the cultivator shovels, like a hammer. It is a forge created tool. So, congrats to our three gentlemen who identified our "What is it?" item this week! For our item this time around we are going to revisit a piece that was brought in a couple months ago, but was never identified. So we will try it again. It is made of metal and measures approximately 4 feet in height, however the height is also adjustable. The top portion has what looks like an upside down wire basket attached and the bottom is a 3-legged stand that the steel pipe slides into. So, what is it? Call me at 507-238-9456 or drop me an email: jeff@fairmontphotopress.com - or you can stop in to the Photo Press with your guess. Lawrence Ternes of Ledyard brought me in a number of items this week to be used for future columns, so keep an eye out for new things to be posted.

Sherburn Civic and Commerce (C&C) update

The Civic and Commerce (C and C) has been an ongoing committee for many years in Sherburn consisting of not only business people but concerned citizens working for the betterment of the community.

There are many organizations in Sherburn that also do fundraisers, including the Sherburn Lions Club, local churches and other groups, and they all work together for the same things.

Currently the Sherburn C and C is working on beautifying the downtown by helping business owners/ or operators with paint, new signage and awnings.

The first year consisted of making plans, getting bids, applying for grants and having some fundraisers. The second year, we purchased four new benches and hired professional painters to paint doors, windows, trim, brick and sided a vacant store front.

The Sherburn EDA purchased a vacant building and helped decorate the front windows for better curb appeal. This year Sherburn C and C replaced the old planters on Main Street with new ones and purchased flowers for them. The City has neared completion on installing new downtown lights and banners.

In the past, the C and C has donated money towards many things, including the security systems at the school as well as the digital sign. They, along with many other organizations, contributed to the Sherburn's Centennial Park (the South park) which was updated a few years ago with new playground equipment. The updates really enhanced the park and many more people are using the park now.

The rehabilitation of the Sherburn Theatre was an entire community supported project that many organizations and private individuals donated towards updating the projector equipment and the theatre itself. The C and C updated the downstairs community hall kitchen with new cabinets, replaced the appliances and purchased utensils. Smaller contributions are made throughout the year.

Sherburn C and C holds a number of fundraisers during the year, including a membership drive, white elephant auctions, cow pie/chicken bingo at the Sherburn Holiday Festival, mystery dinners, newlywed game, wine tasting events, black tie affair formal dinner, and vendor shows.

If you would like to join the Sherburn C and C, you are always welcome to learn more about the organization by attending one of their meetings. They meet the second Tuesday of each month at Temperance Lake Ridge Senior Living at 6:00 p.m.

"When in Rome"

There's an old saying; When in Rome, Do as the Romans. It makes sense on all levels. Just the other day I was reminded, that phrase, or, concept, applies to all countries. I have not been to Rome, but I have been to Canada many times and really enjoy it there.

In Canada and the United States, some things are exactly the same: We both drive on the righthand side of the road, and slow traffic should stay in the right lane except to pass. Other things are similar, but a little different.

Americans and Canadians like doughnuts: in the US, we have Dunkin Donuts, in Canada it's Tim Horton's. In the US you can buy almost anything at Walmart; in Canada, Canadian Tire has it all.

In Canada an orange and black barrel or cone, indicates a construction zone, where American construction barrels and cones are orange and white. On either side of the border, the big yellow M, referred to as golden arches, is always a McDonald's and the lady with long hair and a crown inside the green circle will always be Starbucks coffee.

There are also many differences in our countries. To be bilingual in American usually means you speak English, with Spanish as a second language. In parts of Canada, being bilingual, means you speak French with English as a second language - but that is most common around Quebec.

It's easy for an American to travel through Canada, you just have to be aware of certain things. For example, in the States, OPP is a rap song performed by a group called Naughty by Nature. It means Other People's Property. In Canada, OPP is the Ontario Provincial Police, who will come after you if you have OPP in your possession! But the OPP does more than just chase robbers.

The OPP also handles traffic enforcements. Much like our state highway patrol officers, they are pretty nice people, so long as you are on the right side of the law. One thing I have learned is a heavy foot in America, is also a heavy foot in Canada and both law enforcements agencies are on the lookout for speeders.

...without proper papers I was in no position to argue... I was sent to see an Immigration officer.

USDA extends deadline for reporting MN spring planted crops

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is extending the deadline to file crop acreage reports for agricultural producers in Minnesota impacted by flooding and heavy moisture. The new July 22nd deadline applies to reporting spring-seeded crops to USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) county offices and federal crop insurance agents.

"Agriculture operations throughout the state have been hit hard by heavy rains and flooding that have affected their operations," said Joe Martin, FSA State Executive Director in Minnesota. "The deadline extension provides more flexibility for producers who experienced planting and field work delays."

Filing a timely crop acreage report is important to maintaining eligibility for USDA conservation, disaster assistance, safety net, crop insurance and farm loan programs. A crop acreage report documents all crops and their intended uses and is an important part of record-keeping for your farm or ranch.

Producers filing reports with FSA county offices are encouraged to set up an appointment before visiting the office. Acreage reports from producers in Minnesota who set up appointments before the

Mayo Clinic Health System offers heatstroke prevention tips

Parade and festival season in Minnesota is such a fun time of year, drawing people to the outdoors for fun in the sun.

But numerous factors at these events can lead to heat exhaustion or heatstroke, which is why Mayo Clinic Health System is reminding people of some easy preventive steps to stay cool.

"Heatstroke is usually due to prolonged exposure to high temperatures or physical exertion in high temperatures," said Dr. Brian Bartlett, vice-chair of clinical practice, hospital specialties, at Mayo Clinic Health System. "Heatstroke occurs when the body reaches a temperature of 104 degrees or higher, and symptoms can include confusion, altered speech, nausea or vomiting, rapid breathing and a racing heartbeat, among other symptoms."

The good news is that heatstroke is often predictable and preventable. Take these steps to prevent heatstroke during hot weather:

- Wear loose fitting, lightweight clothing. Wearing excess clothing or clothing that fits tightly won't allow your body to cool properly.

- Protect against sunburn. Sunburn affects your body's ability to cool itself, so protect yourself outdoors with a wide-brimmed hat and sunglasses and use a broad-spectrum sunscreen with an SPF of at least 15. Apply sunscreen generously, and reapply every two hours — or more often if you're swimming or sweating.

- Drink plenty of fluids. Staying hydrated will help your body sweat and maintain a normal body temperature.

- Take extra precautions with certain medications. Be on the lookout for heat-related problems if you take medications that can affect your body's ability to stay hydrated and dissipate heat.

- Never leave anyone in a parked car. This is a common cause of heat-related deaths in children. When parked in the sun, the temperature in your car can rise 20 degrees F (more than 6.7 C) in 10 minutes. It's not safe to leave a person in a parked car in warm or hot weather, even if the windows are cracked or the car is in shade. When your car is parked, keep it locked to prevent a child from getting inside.

- Take it easy during the hottest parts of the day. If you can't avoid strenuous activity in hot weather, drink fluids and rest frequently in a cool spot. Try to schedule exercise or physical labor for cooler parts of the day, such as early morning or evening.

- Get acclimated. Limit time spent working or exercising in heat until you're conditioned to it. People who are not used to hot weather are especially susceptible to heat-related illness. It can take several weeks for your body to adjust to hot weather.

- Be cautious if you're at increased risk. If you take medications or have a condition that increases your risk of heat-related problems, avoid the heat and act quickly if you notice symptoms of overheating. If you participate in a strenuous sporting event or activity in hot weather, make sure there are medical services available in case of a heat emergency.

If heatstroke does occur, the condition requires emergency treatment. Untreated heatstroke can quickly damage your brain, heart, kidneys and muscles.

The damage worsens the longer treatment is delayed, increasing your risk of serious complications or death.

Seek medical treatment immediately if you experience these symptoms:

- High body temperature.

- Altered mental state or behavior. Confusion, agitation, slurred speech, irritability, delirium, seizures and coma can all result from heatstroke.

- Alteration in sweating. In heatstroke brought on by hot weather, your skin will feel hot and dry to the touch. However, in heatstroke brought on by strenuous exercise, your skin may feel dry or slightly moist.

- Nausea and vomiting. You may feel sick to your stomach or vomit.

- Flushed skin. Your skin may turn red as your body temperature increases.

- Rapid breathing. Your breathing may become rapid and shallow.

- Racing heart rate. Your pulse may significantly increase because heat stress places a tremendous burden on your heart to help cool your body.

- Headache. Your head may throb.

Call 507-238-8500 to schedule an appointment at Mayo Clinic Health System in Fairmont, and visit mayoclinichealthsystem.org for more information.

Governor of Kiwanis Division 22 from 1998 to 1999. Joe was a member of the Human Rights Commission, was a hospital and clinic escort, Chairman of the Fairmont "Ghost Tours", Fairmont Mentors, Venture Travels Tour Guide, head of The Walking Bus and Safe Routes to School, was a County Park Board Member, and head of the City Bike Trails for Fairmont 1590. Joe was proud to have the bike trail officially named the "Joe Burns Trail" and was the recipient of the 2010 Golden Deeds Award.

During his free time, Joe enjoyed woodworking and carving as well as traveling and camping. He was an avid bike rider, runner, and card player. Joe and Pat were members of their 500 Card Club for over forty years. He was proud of his Irish heritage and always met everyone with a smile and would brighten their day with his humor. He had a knack for telling stories.

Left to cherish his memory includes his wife, Pat Burns of Fairmont; his daughter, Amy Burns (Trent) Seaman of St. Louis Park, MN, grandchildren Jonathon "JT", Caitlin, and Brianna Seaman, his son Joe (Kris) Burns of Minneapolis, grandchildren Hallie and Joey Burns, his son Dan (Kathy) Burns of Winter Park, FL, grandchildren Patrick, Emily, and Thomas Burns, and daughter Kate (Michael) Jacobsen of Lawrenceburg, IN, grandchildren Erin and

John H. Jeffries, 87

Funeral service for John H. Jeffries, 87, of Inver Grove Heights, MN, formerly of Granada will be 11:00 a.m. Monday, July 22nd, 2019, at Lakeview

Funeral Home Chapel in Fairmont with visitation one hour prior to the service at the funeral home. Interment will be in Center Creek Cemetery in Granada, with military honors by Lee C. Prentice American Legion Post 36 and Martin County Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1222. John passed away on Monday, July 8th, 2019, at the Minneapolis VA Health Care System. Lakeview Funeral Home in Fairmont is assisting the family with arrangements.

John Henry Jeffries was born December 16th, 1931, to James "Jim" Jr. and Constance "Gusty" (Nowak) Jeffries at the Gamble farm in rural Martin County. He attended school in Winnebago and Huntley before later graduating from Granada High School in 1950.

On August 4th, 1959, John was united in marriage to Bernadette Koehler in Guckeen, MN. The couple resided in a small one-bedroom house on an acreage in rural Granada. This union was blessed with four children, Jim, Nancy, Jerry, and Joe. John and Bernadette shared nearly sixty years together.

John had a career that was always related to chickens and other farm animals, but he had an affinity for poultry.

While still in high school, he was superintendent of the poultry show at the Martin County Fair. He showed his "fancy chickens" at numerous county and state fairs and judged or ran numerous poultry shows. In the spring, shortly after graduation, he started his own custom goose and duck hatching business for the people of Martin and Faribault counties.

In the fall, he would purchase the market geese for a poultry processor in South Dakota. John's career was put on hold when he was drafted into the Army November 29th, 1954, where he was stationed at Fort Leonard Wood, MO and Fort Bliss, TX. While in the Army he participated as a judge for a poultry show near where he was stationed in El Paso, TX. After receiving his honorable discharge September 9th, 1956, he returned to Martin County and started working with his father in the livestock business, and then later on his own. John continued buying and selling cattle eventually becoming one of the largest buyers at the South St. Paul Stockyards where he bought baby calves and young cattle on consignment for farmers and feedlots in northern Iowa.

After his marriage to Bernadette they began to collect "fancy" chickens that they, along with children Jim and Nancy, entered into competitions at regional and state fairs across Minnesota, Missouri, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, New Mexico and California.

In 1990 John and Bernadette, along with children Jerry and Joseph, started the Jeffries Chicken Farm in Inver Grove Heights where he created an ethnic market where people could purchase their own live animals, perform ceremonies and butcher the animals themselves like they did in their native countries. He continued to run the Jeffries Chicken Farm for 29 years up until the time of his death.

Survivors include his wife, Bernadette Jeffries of Woodbury, MN; children, Jim Jeffries (Monica) of Eagan, MN, Nancy Lein-Jeffries (Clark) of Gordon, WI, Joseph Jeffries (Chelsie) of Woodbury, MN, and Jerry Jeffries of North Mankato; ten grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; sisters, Dorothy Jeffries (Larry Bilek) of Osceola, WI, and Mary Beaver (Paul) of Durango and Silverton, CO; brother-in-law, Bob Murphy of Guckeen; nieces, nephews, cousins, other relatives and friends.

Along with his parents, John was preceded in death by his sister, Margaret Murphy.

Investment strategy can be your 'GPS' as you travel toward goals

Summer is here at last. For many people, it's time to get the car ready for a long road trip. And with GPS-enabled smartphones, it's now a lot easier to navigate these drives without getting lost. During your life, you may take many journeys - one of which is the long road you'll travel toward your financial goals. But even on this path you can benefit from a "GPS" in the form of your goal-oriented, personalized strategy.

Your investment strategy can function this way by helping answer these questions:

- How far do I have to go? Your smartphone's GPS can quickly tell you how many miles you need to travel to arrive at your destination. And a well-constructed investment strategy can inform you of when you might reach a goal, such as having a desired amount of money when you retire, given your current age, earnings, sources of retirement income, and so on.

- What route should I follow? Your GPS will plot out your route, showing what turns you should take along the way. Similarly, to reach your desired financial outcome, your investment strategy helps guide the investment decisions you make, such as investing adequate amounts in the appropriate vehicles, including your 401(k) and IRA.

- What problems await me? When your smartphone's GPS shows red on the route you're following, you know that heavy traffic lies ahead. And your investment strategy can also help you manage bumps in the road, particularly if it's a strategy you've designed with a financial professional, who has the knowledge and technology to create various scenarios and hypothetical illustrations to account for potential difficulties - i.e., a rate of return that's less than expected, a lower income base than you had anticipated, greater college costs than you bargained for, and so on.

- When should I take an alternate route? For whatever reason, you may deviate from the course plotted by your GPS - which will then helpfully re-route you. While following your investment strategy, if you make a wrong turn, so to speak - perhaps by putting insufficient funds in a retirement account or by assembling an investment mix that has become unsuitable for your risk tolerance - you may need to get back on track.

As we've seen, some analogies exist between your smartphone's GPS and your investment strategy. And yet, there's also a big difference in terms of complexity. It's simple to program your smartphone to give you the directions you need. But crafting a personalized investment strategy takes time and effort. You need to consider all your goals - college for your children, a comfortable retirement, the ability to leave the legacy you want - along with your time horizon, risk tolerance and other factors. And your investment strategy may well need to change over the years, in response to changes in your family situation, employment and even your objectives - for example, you may decide you want to retire earlier (or later) than you had originally planned.

In any case, like your GPS, your investment strategy can help guide you - so make good use of it.
