unless you're taught how.

2008 Annual Report

“At Christel House the teachers believe in me; they have hope and faith that I will grow and be successful. I believe in Christel House because it has always given me support and the tools to be a good person.”

Christel House Transforms Lives

Emily was only 15 when she graduated from Christel House Venezuela in 2006 and enrolled in the Simon Bolivar University. Now 18, she is studying chemistry and will graduate in 2012. To earn money, she tutors classmates in chemistry. She plans to specialize in petrochemicals and secure employment in Venezuela’s oil industry.

A dedicated student, Emily attends class from 7:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and then goes to the library until 5:00 p.m. when she catches the bus to return to her home in La Vega. For two hours each week she volunteers at Christel House, teaching chemistry to 9th and 10th graders needing additional help.

She shares some words of wisdom for younger students. “I want the students of Christel House to understand the importance of math as a key for their success at university. There is a big difference between studying at high school and at university; they will find a radical change. They should have good study habits because it is impossible to study the day before the exam. Every single day should be a study day, and this is what I do at the library and at home every day.

Christel House has taught me the most important values of my life: Responsibility and Integrity. I take responsibility for every goal I set and every subject I take. I promise to complete everything I start. I value integrity because without this no other values matter.”

“Overcoming poverty is not a gesture of charity. It is an act of justice. It is the protection of a fundamental human right, the right to dignity and a decent life.”

— Nelson Mandela

Envisioning the Future

Dear Friends of Christel House,

Preparing our young people for the 21st Century has never been more important. Today we are confronted with a worldwide economic crisis, increased competition for jobs, and greater demand for natural resources in a global economy. Resolving these complex issues requires leaders who are well-educated, highly principled and committed to giving back to country and community. Much is at stake, and we all have a vested interest in making certain the next generation is equipped to address these challenges.

Today's world demands that we maximize the potential of every individual. We know that well-to-do parents give their children many opportunities—good education, attentive health care, balanced nutrition, exposure to the arts, culture and athletic competition—but families living in poverty can never hope to open these doors. Only if external forces intervene will impoverished children have access to opportunities that will help them build a better life. These are the opportunities that Christel House makes possible.

Breaking the cycle of poverty is difficult work, but its benefits are exponential. Transforming a life of poverty into one of dignity and productivity creates economic and personal empowerment and improves quality of life. It allows parents to give their children those opportunities that will allow them to succeed, creating a multiplier effect that is felt for many generations. It empowers individuals to make valuable contributions to society, rather than burdening its resources. Ultimately, it enables communities and countries to advance and better provide for their citizens.

We hope that in this 2008 Annual Report, you will find compelling evidence that the Christel House methodology works to break the cycle of poverty and transform lives. We are enormously proud of our students' accomplishments. Not only are they well-educated, articulate and self-confident, but also they are fine, upstanding young citizens who care about their fellow man and want to make a difference in the world. They will be well-equipped to become their countries' leaders of tomorrow.

We are extremely grateful for the support of our individual, corporate and foundation donors in helping to transform more than 3000 young lives. By working together we can make the world a better place.

Sincerely,

Christel DeHaan

Christel House Who We Are

Christel DeHaan with Christel House Venezuela's 2008 graduating class.

Our Children

No child chooses to be born into poverty. Hardship, violence and despair often rob children of their potential while destroying their self-confidence and hope for a better life.

Christel House students live in harsh environments, but their hopes and dreams are flourishing. For them, Christel House is a beacon of light, providing education and health care, love and encouragement...a place that nourishes their bodies and spirits, fosters their talents and gives them opportunities to achieve their potential.

Mission and Vision

Christel House helps children around the world break the cycle of poverty, realize their hopes and dreams and become self-sufficient, contributing members of society. It transforms their lives by providing education, nutrition, health care and a nurturing environment, and by empowering their families and communities through outreach services.

Values

RESPECT, RESPONSIBILITY, INDEPENDENCE and INTEGRITY are organizational values that guide the work of Christel House. By embracing these values, our children will become responsible citizens and productive members of society.

Growth

Christel House opened five learning centers in less than four years—in India, Mexico, South Africa, Venezuela and the United States, and implemented an after-school program in Serbia. Since that time, our programs have grown to serve more than 3000 students, their families and communities. More than 280 dedicated professionals educate, mentor and guide our children, helping them to optimize their human potential.

Christel House What We Do

Christel House South Africa students

Academics

High expectations inspire students to excel. Since language arts, reading and math are the foundation for further learning, we stress mastery of these core subjects. Christel House students learn to appreciate literature, solve complex problems, express artistic abilities, participate in sports, work on cooperative projects, and be competitive in spirit.

Textbooks, school supplies, uniforms and shoes are provided for every child at the international centers. Computer labs complement instruction, helping students strengthen core subject competency and learn valuable technology skills.

Except for students in the United States, most Christel House children do not speak English as their first language. India and South Africa use English as the medium of instruction. Mexico and Venezuela teach English for two hours daily. Our students at Christel House Academy in the United States study Spanish daily, beginning in kindergarten.

Health and Wellness

Physical, mental and emotional health is a prerequisite to learning and quality of life. We serve two nutritious meals daily, and provide yearly medical and dental checkups, hearing and vision screenings, and immunizations in accordance with World Health Organization standards. Health issues are addressed throughout the year, and children suffering from trauma and loss receive counseling from mental health practitioners.

Work–Study Program

High school graduation begins the next phase of growth for Christel House students. We provide career counseling and facilitate apprenticeships and internships to help graduates enter the workplace. We assist in university selections and help secure scholarships for students who want to pursue university studies. As long as these young adults meet defined expectations, they receive ongoing services from Christel House including financial support to cover the cost of textbooks, transportation and one meal a day. Once graduates complete the Work – Study Program and become alumni, we will continue to involve them with Christel House as mentors, volunteers and donors.

Core Values and Self-Esteem

Christel House children know that they are valued and loved. Educational achievement is just one component of human development; so are dignity, self-esteem, and good citizenship. Character development, a positive self-image and a commitment to caring for others complement the academic instructions. Four core values guide the work of Christel House: RESPECT, RESPONSIBILITY, INDEPENDENCE and INTEGRITY. These values are modeled daily by our staff; they are embedded into our curriculum and our students are expected to make them a part of their daily lives.

Community Outreach Programs

Christel Houses are non-residential facilities. We believe students will be better able to change their lives and make a positive impact if they remain connected with families and neighborhoods. Christel House builds bridges between school, home and community. Workshops on topics such as: conflict resolution; nutrition and hygiene; substance abuse; family planning; parenting skills; and HIV/AIDS awareness and prevention are offered to parents and community members, while “train the trainer” courses for parents further expand the reach of these programs. Christel House social workers help families cope with personal difficulties, and refer them to appropriate agencies or professionals for additional assistance.

Strong bonds exist among parents, community members and Christel House. We celebrate their successes and those of their children with them. The spirit of hope and optimism is high, as each Christel House child aspires to a bright and exciting future.

“Christel House is doing extraordinary work in Venezuela that goes beyond formal education. It provides apprenticeships and job placement for the most disadvantaged students. Its graduates have strong values and a commitment to helping others. A Christel House alumnus is employed at our law firm and we can confirm that she has great capacity and is well-prepared.”

“I want to be an engineer.”

Third grader, Pavithra, enthusiastically speaks of Christel House India. “I love being at Christel House, I just love it. I like every thing here—the school, the campus, the teachers who are so loving and kind, the food that is served and my friends. I am sure that I can also be like the children who live in the house where my mother works as a housemaid. When I grow up, I want to be an engineer.”

“I want to be a physics mathematician.”

Israel is 12 years old and in seventh grade at Christel House. He has big dreams for the future. “Christel House gives me breakfast and lunch, books and a uniform. We have a nurse and the best teachers. You do not get this at other schools.

I have achievements at Christel House. I now speak English, when before I could not even say ‘hello.’ I have learned computer science, understand math, and have improved my reading and writing. Do you want to know how I did it? I was never ashamed of not knowing—just the opposite; I realized that I could learn more. I love math; I want to be a physics mathematician.”

Christel House Scholars

The Christel House Scholars Program provides after-school tutoring in the core curriculum areas of reading, writing and math for refugee children in Kragujevac, Serbia. Christel House Europe oversees the Scholars Program that started in 2003. In addition to receiving remedial help, children participate in special workshops to learn computer skills, folk dancing, drama and sports. A vocational program teaching hair styling prepares some graduates to enter the service sector. Children live with their families at the Collective Centers for displaced individuals, attend public school and receive one free meal daily from the International Red Cross. With their basic needs of food and shelter met, the students turn to the Christel House Scholars Program for support, recreation and hope.

“These students have really improved academically this year. They began with an average score of 3.34 in Language, and ended the year with a 3.48 average. In math we saw an even greater jump—from 3.04 to 3.29. The Christel House Scholars program makes an important difference in their lives”

Donor Profile

Thanks to the generosity and foresight of donors Denny and Suzanne Ware and Wayne Zink, Christel House was able to increase its support by 13% during a time of unprecedented financial challenge.

The Wares' $200,000 dollar-for-dollar matching grant helped attract many of our 520 new donors. Denny and Suzanne have been supporters of Christel House since we inaugurated our first learning center in Mexico in 1998. They returned last year with their son, Mark, to help celebrate our 10th anniversary. After that trip, Denny commented, "Christel House is one of our favorite organizations. Its long-term impact on future generations is what makes me so passionate about supporting it, and encouraging others to do likewise. I feel like this is an investment where our return is measured in human capital—and the results are very gratifying."

Wayne Zink's Back Home Again Foundation focused on matching new or increased gifts at the $1000 level and above. This multi-year $100,000 matching grant was so well received that more than twice the 2008 goal was raised and the average gift to the annual fund increased by 25%. Visiting Christel House Mexico, Wayne reflected on the commitment of our staff. "When you involve yourself in the life of a child, you must step in with your heart, lead with your soul, and guard with your life, the love necessary to truly work with that child." Wayne's unconditional support for the children of Christel House started in 2002 and now he is among our greatest champions.

Why support Christel House?

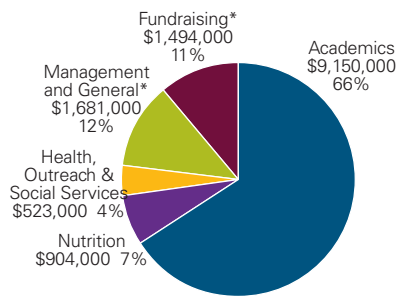

Transparency and Accountability

Christel House International is a registered 501 (c)(3) public charity; Christel House learning centers are registered not-for-profit entities in their local countries. We ascribe to rigorous business practices, high measures of accountability and absolute transparency.

Our children give
YOU CAN TOO!

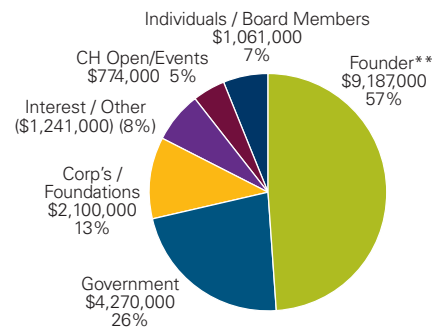

Your entire donation directly benefits the children of Christel House and none of your contribution will be used to fund overhead or administrative costs.

2008 Combined Operating Expenses
$13,752,000

*Funds provided by Founder

2008 Combined Revenue*
$16,151,000

* Excluding $9,170,000 of advance funding by the Founder of general and administrative expenses.

 Including $3,600,000 capital funding by the Founder of the new Christel House South Africa facility.

Christel House Works

The accomplishments in this annual report speak of high aspirations and achievements. Christel House works. It is a permanent solution to poverty that maximizes human potential. Transforming lives is a monumental undertaking, but by working together we can uplift children, parents, communities and build a better world.

Pathway to Future Success

A Summary of our Five-Year Global Strategic Plan

Strategy #1

GRADUATES WILL BECOME SUCCESSFUL, SELF-SUFFICIENT MEMBERS OF THEIR SOCIETIES.

By tracking and monitoring improvement in standardized test scores, annual graduation rates, graduates' participation in the Work-Study Program, and their process of transitioning to self-sufficiency, Christel House will give evidence that lives are truly transformed.

Strategy #2

PROGRAM COSTS WILL BE FULLY SUPPORTED BY EXTERNAL DONATIONS, THEREBY PRESERVING FOUNDER CONTRIBUTIONS TO FUND GENERAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES IN PERPETUITY.

By continually growing fundraising revenues, increasing fundraising efficiency, and identifying opportunities for fully funded collaborations, Christel House will diversify its base of support and expand its reach.

Strategy #3

"CHRISTEL HOUSE" WILL BE RECOGNIZED AS A GLOBAL BRAND KNOWN FOR TRANSFORMING LIVES AND OPERATIONAL EXCELLENCE.

By ensuring careful adherence to defined policies and high expectations, Christel House will deliver excellence and consistency in its programs which benefit students and families, and bring recognition as an example of innovative best practices in poverty alleviation.

"Give a man a fish and you feed him for a day. Teach a man to fish and you feed him for a lifetime."

— Maimonides, 12th Century Philosopher
